obtained and determined that the College policy was incorrect with that of the State.

The statute in question, Section 30-35 of the Connecticut Liquor Control Act, states that "A temporary permit shall allow the sale of beer...and...alcoholic liquor at any...social gathering conducted by a bona fide noncommercial organization. No such organization shall be granted more than four such permits a year."

Section 35-100 of the same code states "The sale...of alcoholic liquors without a permit...by any club, association, social or fraternal society or organization shall be unlawful."

Newspaper reports stated that the policy was to be examined by the Greek leaders largely by word of mouth. The Dean of Students Office was supposed to send letters to all fraternity presidents, but all the letters never reached their destinations.

Of Friday evening, only two fraternities, Pi Kappa Alpha and Psi Upsilon, had received notice of the policy change and a meet-and-greet were scheduled for last night to discuss the question.

All the fraternity presidents met Saturday night, with the exception of Sigma Nu, Alpha Chi Rho President Tom Schaefer said the meeting was called to abuse the fraternity to the policy change and to formulate a strategy for the meeting Monday.

"We want to get everyone together so we can start collecting our thoughts. I didn't know what the problem was," said Schaefer, and neither did seven other fraternity presidents.

The Interfraternity Council met the next night. The representatives, like their presidential cohorts, met to formulate a game plan for dealing with the new policy.

The administration has also been abashed about downplaying the importance of the change. There's really no need to overhype it," said Smith. "I don't think this should be a very big thing."

"I don't know if this is going to be a big deal or not," Winer said at the meeting Monday night.

The fraternities disagreed strongly. Ed Trauno '90, President of Phi Upsilon, said at the meeting last night "You can't say the situation is very serious."

"It isn't. We're not limiting you to four parties a year. Only four parties where you can charge for alcohol. The nationals are wondering why we haven't instituted a change. We have to be reasonable with the states."

"It's not a supportive of non-alcoholic functions," said Smith. "The thing we disagree with is that the parties are a money making effort. I don't think we will make it a dent in the weekend parties."

"Let's assume the new policy has an effect that there are no other organizations to get in. I'm not convinced that there isn't such an integral part of the social scene," said Winer.

"The fraternities like Delta Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Nu, and certainly the Pi Kappa Gamma and Delta Delta Delta won't be effected at all," said Peters. "They don't have those weekly functions. The Pi Delt, they have the weekly functions, this may effect them."

"The fraternities of Pi Kappa Alpha, Alpha Chi Rho, and possibly other Greek organizations have been contacted in the past by their national boards informing them of the practice of charging a donation for alcohol was illegal. An unidentified Pike brother said that they had followed the school policy rather than the national.

Winer has also been contacted by alumni and national chapters of fraternities who expressed concern that the donation policy was in breach of the Con-

Problems Facing Gerety

Welcome to Trinity Mr. Gerety, and good luck. Trinity is a college with pressing problems, and the campus community should not allow racism in any way, shape, or form. The administration has already taken a highly visible step towards bolstering its policy against racism, and for this they should be applauded. The measures taken last semester after the Hallden incident are encouraging, as are the programs provided for incoming freshmen.

It is the president's job to come down hard on racism by permanently expelling any students who violate the new racial harassment policy. Dipline at Trinity has been slack, and Mr. Gerety must demonstrate firm, fair leadership as the school confronts its racial problems. Between the administration's success in the near future, however, on his ability to distinguish between leadership and oppression. Recent policy decisions may imply a change from administration to regime, and could alienate the student body from the new president.

Trinity needs hands on leadership, not Big Brother.

Assumptions of Minority Student Orientation Are Often Misguided

By Kirk Peters

Asst. Dean of Student Support, Trust are the goals, not Separation

The New Students of Color Orientation addressed both of these issues. I hope all of the Trinity community will support, trust, and love those two paintings for his first senior art opening were taken from their studio. Since then, I have spent a good amount of time wondering what could have been through the thief's head; I have come to the sorrowful conclusion that he or she cared nothing about the great work of art that he or she perpetrated.

This person probably cared nothing about the work of his or her own self-respect.

The opinions expressed in these letters do not necessarily reflect the views, thoughts, opinions, or beliefs of the Tripod as a whole or in part.
After two weeks in full operation, students, RA's, and Director of the Office of Residential Services Kristina Dow have declared The Jones Project a success. Dow said that "residential staff report that the occupants of Jones are happy to be surrounded by their classmates, and are generally pleased with the overall quality of life offered in their dormitory."

The Jones Project refers to Jones Hall, which has been converted to an all-Freshman dorm. There are approximately 107 freshmen living in Jones along with 7 Resident Assistants, 1 Resident Coordinator, and one RA Program Assistant Liaison.

Dow noted that, "in order to meet our project goals, the numbers of residential staff in Jones have been increased." Dow added, "more than ever, the residential staff associated with this dormitory will be role models for acceptable in-dorm behavior."

There is a new classroom area in the basement of Jones where two Freshman Seminars are being taught. All students assigned to two Freshman Seminars are being taught by Dr. David Winer.

In Convocation Speech

Gerety Attacks Prejudice in Conversation Speech

Calling for an end to racial and sexual prejudices, President Tom Gerety addressed the Trinity Community during convocation last Wednesday in Goodwin Theater. Gerety announced a series of steps, including the College's new racial harrassment policy, which will be instituted this year. "We must be quick to act against (racial) violations and we must be severe in our judgments when violations occur," said Gerety.

Determined to alleviate racial disparity on campus, Gerety mentioned the addition of four African-Americans, and one Asian-American to the President's advisory council, or cabinet. Gerety also announced the appointment of Dean Gail Woldu to the newly created position of President's advisor on diversity. "Who will dare to go over the bridge, over the tracks, across the line that separates whites from blacks," said Gerety, "quoting folk singer Tracy Chapman. The President added, "We must never have a line at Trinity which separates whites from blacks, or from latinos, or from asians, or anyone."

Gerety made two formal recommendations which, if accepted, would result in two new requirements. "I encourage the (General Education) Council and faculty as a whole to consider as a requirement, at least one course for each undergraduate which probes racial and sexual differences and a hostility towards these differences."

The second recommendation was for the faculty to consider a proposal to obligate each student to participate in community service.

Response to the first suggestion was overwhelmingly positive, as evidenced by the crowd's applause, which forced Gerety to pause. On the other hand, many students appear to the misapplication to a possible Community Service Requirement. Those students interviewed concurred that the idea was good one, however, they were concerned about another time commitment, and that a requirement would change the tone of volunteerism.

"Theoretically it sounds like a great idea, but in practice it probably wouldn't be very good. People will begin to say I have to instead of I want to," said Malcolm MacDonald '92.

Gerety ended his speech with a reference to the community which he would like to cultivate. "A unity that celebrates our differences, including our racial and sexual differences."
Best Hired by IDP Program

HARTFORD, CT. - Denise T. Best of Hartford has been named assistant director of the Individualized Degree Program (IDP) at Trinity.

The IDP allows students to combine independent study with traditional classroom-centered courses. Students may take up to 10 years to complete the requirements of this program, making it a viable option for adult learners and traditional-age college students who want to work as well as pursue a bachelor's degree.

Best has a bachelor degree in education from Lesley College in Cambridge, Mass. Before joining the Trinity staff, Best was director of economic development and employment for the Urban League of Greater Hartford Inc. Prior to that, she was director of the After School Program of the Connecticut Valley Girl Scout Council, as well as coordinator of the 1983 Day of Pride at the University of Connecticut.

An advocate of educational equity, she and her daughter, Neima, are plaintiffs in the Shef vs. O'Neill suit for voluntary school desegregation.

Best is trustee of the Hartford Alliance and a member of the Urban League of Greater Hartford, the training and Employment Task force of Hartford, and the New England Training and Employment Council Inc., the Connecticut Valley Girl Scouts, the Delta Sigma Theta sorority, and the Performing Ensemble.

From 1981 to 1986 she was a member of the Connecticut Adult Education Staff Development Curriculum Committee.
Rosenstock Named Associate Dean of Students

By Mark Russell
News Editor

Mary Rosenstock was hired in July as associate dean of students in place of outgoing dean Paula Chi-Richardson. Rosenstock brings six years of administrative experience to the job along with a vision of her role in shaping the college.

Rosenstock assumed the role of associate dean of students after serving six years in various administrative positions at Stanford University. She received her undergraduate degree from Bryn Mawr and her master's at Princeton University in classics.

After gaining her degrees, Rosenstock moved out west to teach the classics first at the University of California at Santa Cruz. From there, she moved to Stanford to be an administrator in the Western Culture Program as well as a Residence Fellow and a freshman advisor.

She describes the Western Culture Program as being one where students can "grow up" on campus but rather put in their proper perspective for their own lives. "It cannot be confined to the classroom," she says. "The perspective for their own lives is that we cannot be confined to the classroom, but rather put in their proper perspective for their own lives."

As the newest member of the dean's office, Rosenstock’s goal for the first few weeks is "to obviously meet everyone and to gain a better understanding of the Trinity community."

"The main goal also has long range goals for her role in the college’s future," she says. "I feel that the most pressing concerns at the college are racism, sexism, and anti-intellectualism. My ultimate vision is that we can somehow make inroads into solving these problems."

She would also love to see students link what they learn in the classroom to how they choose to live their life," she said.

Rosenstock came to Trinity because she felt that her vision could have a greater impact. She remarked that in her previous jobs, she found that "at smaller schools like Trinity, students get better attention from professors and have more access to more advice from faculty, administrators, and staff.

She also expressed her own desire to help out the students. One of the goals she has for her first year is to get to know the Trinity community. She said, "I get to know all the students," which includes meeting students in their dorms and "just sitting down and chatting with them." She would love to "get to know each student." But rather put in their proper perspective for their own lives.

New Meal Plan at Marriott Unveiled

By Tom Mullen
News Writer

A new option has been offered by Marriott this semester to give students on the meal plan greater convenience and more variety. This option is the transfer plan and it allows the students to use their meal cards in the Cave and the Vernon Street Snack Bar, as well as the Vernon Street Snack Bar.

For an extra thirty-five dollars, students can receive credit for a lunch valued up to $2.75, weekdays in the Cave from 3:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. The students can then use the credit in the Cave and the Vernon Street Snack Bar, as well as the Vernon Street Snack Bar.

The new plan is being offered by Marriott to give students more choices when it comes to their meal plans. Students can choose to use their meal cards in the Cave and the Vernon Street Snack Bar, as well as the Vernon Street Snack Bar, to get the most out of their meal plan.

Parking Crunch Continues

By Nicole Moretti

For many students, parking at Trinity is not the only problem. The problem is illustrated by the fact that although there are only 976 parking spaces on campus, last year 1900 vehicles were registered. Last year, instead of being crowded, the lot was relatively empty, with very little traffic.

This year the dilemma has been slightly alleviated by the administration's decision to allow freshmen, sophomores, and juniors to use thetractive plan in the Vernon Street Snack Bar. However, according to last year's records, freshmen and sophomores registered cars at Trinity only accounted for approximately 136 spaces.

Although the elimination of freshmen automobiles on campus meant that the students of the New Jim Crow could have a greater impact. Glemp Showed Insensitivity Towards Jews

When we had about 17, I had an after-school job working as a stock boy at the local A&P store. I grew up in the segregated South of the '50s and '60s, and the blacks we white kids came into contact with— if we came into contact with them at all— were largely housemaids and school custodians. Prior to 1964 our town was strictly segregated along racial lines: we had separate public water fountains marked "White" and "Colored," black folks went to the back doors of downtown restaurants if they wanted a bite to eat, and yellow school buses transported black kids past white schools and churches.

But the A&P store had a largely black clientele, due in large part to the fact that a sort of community shopping center was beginning to take root downtown. Several black-owned businesses would open that were mostly white police force and the mostly white police force and the.

Eventually Chestler and Glemp were reconciled; sort of, through the efforts of their fathers, both Christian clergymen. The authorities overreacted. The crowds admittedly were the Virginia Beach riots. A Firsthand View

This past Labor Day week- end I witnessed the annual na- tional black fraternity Labor Day Greek Festival. The festi- val was held, as it is every year, at Virginia Beach, Virginia. The media was very prompt to in- terpret these particular students, it was necessary to strike out.

What was intended to be a peaceful protest was turned into a full-blown incident of police brutality and harassment. Large crowds of mostly black college students were treated as objects to be pushed, shoved, and verbally abused. An esti- mated 100,000 young people were present, and there was strong tension between the mostly white police force and the crowd from the very beginning of the weekend.

The crowds admitted were large, but the actions of the police were uncalled for. For example, when the demonstration became so large and congested to walk through, I along with a few hundred other young black people began to walk along the edge of the street curb at a safe distance. However just as I could turn my head to see over 700,000 mostly white people going on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw- ing, people went on a wild raging outbreak of rock and bottle throw-

WE ALWAYS NEED LEADERS

The Air Force is looking for pilots ... navigators ... marines ... engineers ... managers ... and more! Our positions are important, you can get one through Air Force ROTC. As an Air Force ROTC student, you'll be trained in leadership and management practices. You may also apply for our scholarship program that helps pay college expenses, plus $100 per academic month, tax free. Also, after graduation, you'll be able to secure prestige and responsibility of an Air Force officer. You'll discover a new world where you'll be challenged to excel ... and rewarded for your success. Let us give you the details today.

A Modest Proposal '89

A new year is upon us and we are faced with yet another "New Alcohol Policy." In the past several years, every Dean with a chip on his shoulder has put forth strict new policies to prevent the Trinity student population from going so far as to enjoy itself. I don't think this latest one is anything special. If there were any justice in this campus, the following alcohol policy would be put into effect.

THE EARN AS YOU DRINK RESPONSIBLY POLICY:

First of all, students would be divided into two categories—those who can drink responsibly and those whose idea of a good evening is power vomiting. This could be done at a faculty-sponsored party. Each advisor would be responsible to monitor and grade their student's ability to hold his/her alcohol. Those students who politely pass out on the floor will be deemed responsible. (With extra points awarded to anyone who can find their way home.)

Those who break out into shouting chants such as "Yar, Dude!" or "I love this R.E.S.G. guy!" will be shot by Trinity Security. The responsible drinkers will be given a sticker on their ID card in much the same way the various universities issue their "trade-a-meal" program. A red sticker will indicate that you are a responsible drinker. Now, since even the most responsible drinkers are prone to occasional lapses there is, in this policy, a safeguard which will insure continued responsibility.

At each party, students (carrying proper ID with red sticker) will be required to donate $10 which will be held in trust by the responsible partythrower. If the student behaves in a civilized manner and does not become obnoxious or cause damage, they will get their money cheerfully refunded. (Though they may tip the gracious partythrower if so inclined.)

If the student becomes unruly, they will be penalized according to the following schedule:

- HITTING ON GIRLS FOUR YEARS YOUNGER THAN YOURSELF $2.
- HITTING ON GUYS FOUR YEARS OLDER THAN YOURSELF $2.
- REPEATING "I'M SO WASTED!" MORE THAN ONCE $3 per time.
- CRANKING STEVE MILLER BAND AFTER 2 A.M. $5.
- BARFING ANYWHERE BUT TOILET $6.
- KNOCKING ON A MILLION DOORS IN A DORM LOOKING FOR A FRIEND $9.
- HEAD BUTTING $10.

The money raised from these fines would be divided among the responsible drinkers, with a 15% responsibility.

Dean's office draft this legislation at once. And if there are any problems the officials seem to think we have. I suggest that the Dean's office draft this legislation at once. And if there are any more obscure rules they would like to put into effect, just let us know. We're Features. We're here to help.

Bests, Worsts & Otherwise

Our Humble Opinion of the Summer of '89

BEST FILM OF THE SUMMER: When Harry Met Sally.

BEST SCENE IN A FILM: When Harry met Sally: The diner scene. (Followed by a scene the next morning, which was so funny the audience was relieved the actor had already gotten his own wish fulfilled.)

WORST FILM: Rude Awakening.

BEST SEQUEL: Lethal Weapon 2.

WORST SEQUEL: Ghostbusters 2.

MOST OVERRATED, OVERHYPED FILM: Batman. (LOGO: The Movie!)

SEE IT WITH SOMEONE YOU LOVE, OR WANT: sex, lies and videotape.

BIGGEST TRAGEDY: The end of Bloom County.

SECOND BIGGEST TRAGEDY: Ringo Starr on tour.

BEST CONCERT: The Who, Sullivan Stadium. (The Friday night show, not the Wednesday.)

WE CAN REST EASY NOW THAT: Hooch mated before he was shot.

WORST NEW COLOR ANALYST: Ronald "Gee, I think that one might be going out there, too" Reagan

TIME TO STOP: Woodstock reminiscing. We had Live Aid, and made money for a cause (even if most of us didn't exactly know what the cause was.) In twenty years will we be making pilgrimages to R.F.K. and Wembley Stadiums? Woodstock happened before the majority of the Trinity population was born. Shut up already.

FARCES OF THE SUMMER: The A.L. East, Leona Helmsley, The T.V. version of Married To The Mob, Exxon.

BEST PARTY GAME: Pass the Ayatollah.

BEST NEW TOUR PACKAGE: Sex, lies and videotape.

BEST NEW PHOBIA: Jim Bakker is discovered cowering under a courtroom desk, screaming that animals are attacking him. (Taminyfearphobia)

JUST WHEN YOU THOUGHT THINGS COULDN'T POSSIBLY GET WORSE: Bert Convy quits as host of Win, Lose or Draw. Is replaced by Rob Weller.

TOP TEN EXCUSES FOR DRIVING TO ENDANGER:

1. "I'll have what she's having." (When Harry Met Sally.)
2. "I'm so wasted!"
3. "I'm so drunk!"
4. "I'm so stoned!"
5. "I'm so high!"
6. "I'm so buzzed!"
7. "I'm so jacked!"
8. "I'm so doped!"
9. "I'm so drugged!"
10. "I'm so stoned!"

THE TRIPOD APPLAUDS: President Gerety for having the good common sense to build the fence around his house. If it were us, we would have electrified the thing.

BEST NEW PHONE SERVICE: The Alyssa Milano 1-900 Hotline

WORST NEW PHONE SERVICE: To build the fence around his house. If it were us, we would have electrified the thing.

BEST NEW KINDLING: Jim Bakker is discovered cowering under a courtroom desk, screaming that animals are attacking him. (Taminyfearphobia)

BEST NEW KINDLING: Idaho

WORST NEW KINDLING: Oregon

BUT IS IT COLDER THAN A RADCLIFFE GIRL? records temperatures of 400 degrees below zero on Triton. Is coldest place yet discovered.

BEST NEW TOUR PACKAGE (AND THIS IS NO JOKE...): For a nominal fee, tourists is Beijing, China can fire off a round from a soldier's gun. For slightly more, they can take target practice with a tank.

WORST NEW KINDLING: Idaho

BEST NEW KINDLING: Idaho

JUST WHEN YOU THOUGHT THINGS COULDN'T POSSIBLY GET WORSE: Bert Convy quits as host of Win, Lose or Draw. Is replaced by Rob Weller.

BOX SEATS

By Patrick Keane

This is the first Tripod of the year and we are happy to instill some new blood to this thankless institution. We are tired of our integrity being questioned, as we are not the lethargic bums that you (some obvious readers) have made us out to be.

When I was a child, a veritable young youngster if you will, the happiest day of my life (at least I thought it would be) came when my dad took me to a Phillies game. In previous years I could only sit back and watch my heroes work their magic on the diamond from my living room.

One evening my father came home from a hard day at the salt mines and told me that he had somehow acquired two choice tickets to Saturday’s Phillies vs. Pittsburgh matchup. That night I went to bed with my Phillie Phanatic doll (ourested Phillie mascot) as I always do and dreamed beautiful dreams of baseball glory.

The next morning I woke up bright and early, threw on my Phillies hat, grooped my glove, and waited in the Country Square for Dad. I even polished the imitation wood on the side of that taxi so we were pretty much riding in style. Of course it was only 8:00AM and Dad wasn’t going to be ready to leave for another four hours, but I wanted to be ready anyway.

When we arrived at Veterans Stadium, my mirth became sorrow when I saw a half-naked man who was talking to his elbow and standing in a pool of his own vomit. When I ran to my seat in fear, only to have to watch the back of some hillbilly’s head for the remainder of the game.

I was still optimistic even though I had witnessed a facet of nightmare that I wouldn’t wish on any mortal. The most interesting part of the trip occurred on my excursion to the bathroom, which is pretty much a game in itself. First of all, there is a line of about four hundred people waiting to use three urinals. (Hoping not to offend anyone) When I finally got my turn, I was horrified to witness the actual bathroom “world.”

In the corner there was an old man curled up in a ball swilling a bottle of Wild Irish Rose. Next to him was a half-naked man who was talking to his elbow and standing in a pool of his own vomit. When I washed through the scragg, vomit, blood, piss, etc. to the sink, I found another reptacle for boot and slime. What a sight for a young and naive youngster like myself.

I ran back to my seat in fear, only to have to watch the back of some hillbilly’s head for the remainder of the game.

My disappointing outing at the Phillies game is the kind of thing we could get for the big game. Those seats were too high up that we had to repeal down the wall to get to the nearest stairs. But I guess they were a little better then last year’s seats behind the fanavision.

Runners Face High Hurdles

By John Claud and Mark Russell - Sports Writers

The cross country team faces an uphill climb this season, facing new problems under a new coach. But the season could easily be a very successful one for Trinity’s Mercurial runners, despite these problems.

Dave run under Alex (Magoun, the previous coach who left the program to further his graduate level education), I don’t think there will be a problem with having a new coach,” said Joyce.

The most interesting part of the trip occurred on my excursion to the bathroom, which is pretty much a game in itself. First of all, there is a line of about four hundred people waiting to use three urinals. (Hoping not to offend anyone) When I finally got my turn, I was horrified to witness the actual bathroom “world.”

The team lacks the depth it had last year. Only ten runners comprise the Men’s team, and twelve on the Women’s side.

Caroline Bailey ’90, and Laura Kerney ’90 are the captains of the women’s team. Claire Summers ’92 is the only other returning runner on a team that will draw its strength from its new members.

The women runners boast a lineup of six freshmen runners who give the team far more depth.

The team lacks the depth it had last year, when only five competitors competed in the races.

Men’s co-captain Bruce Corbet ’90 said “What the men’s team lacks in depth is made up for in grit.”

Returning runners Corbet, Joyce, Kevin Hall ’92, Mark Russell ‘91, Tito Loli ’90, Mike Fagan ’90, and Dave Payne ’92 anchor a team that is complimented by newcomers John Iver ’93 and John Chaud ’91.

Last year’s team finished at the .500 mark, but Joyce expects a better record this season.

“Injuries could hurt us, but if we stay healthy we should be better than last year. The returning runners are faster, but the schedule will also be a lot tougher,” said Joyce.

The team will not be competing in the Connecticut state meet, but has two races at Amherst, a course noted for its arduous topography.

Trinity’s course was also revamped this summer due to the construction of the new academic building. The five mile course winds through campus, incorporating four loops. The start/finish line has been placed on the main quad directly across from the chapel.

The first meet is Saturday at the Vassar Invitational. Trinity is the defending champion of this meet.

Coach Don Miller is entering his 23rd season with the Bantams.

The special teams will be returning last season’s punter Mike Pawlascik and kicker Tim Jensen. The success of this year’s squad depends largely on the leadership of the Tri-captains, as well as the play of Levine at quarterback. The great depth of returning players coupled with the senior leadership should make for another fine Bantam winning season.

Men's Soccer Talented

The Men’s Varsity Soccer Team converged on the Trinity campus two weeks ago to prepare for another emotionally and physically demanding season in the NESCAC conference. The team is hoping to improve on last year’s 8-6 record, the first Bantam winning season in 14 years.

The squad is relying on the experience and leadership of captain Mike Murphy as well as the senior leadership of assistant captains Peter Demetriou and Nick Formisano. Murphy, an all-NESCAC Division III selection last season was the third leading tackier on the team. Demetriou and Formisano should provide the much needed stability to the midfield and back lines. This stability will be very important in a Trinity team that was essentially utilizing students from the junior to senior level.

The defense is led Senior Tri-captain Rob Sicking. Sicking is an All-New England selection and defensive end last season was the second leading tackler on the team last season. As the leader end will be Senior Jeff Buzzi who was the third leading tackler on the team last season. The interior could feature a host of different players, which includes Sophomore John Monaco and John Nairad and Junior Dave Grant and Dave Moran.

The only returning starter at line-backer will be Senior Anthony Martin. Senior Tri-captain Darwin Toth, an All-New England selection last season at safety returns to lead the secondary. Toth was also chosen a Pre-season All-American for his kick returning skills. The cornerback positions are up for grabs with Seniors Rob Conklin and Mike Vandal vying for spots.

The offense features a mam-mouth offensive line with Tri-captain and Pre-season All-American Tom Schaefer at right guard, and Chuck Gill and Rich Manchini at the outside tackles. Filling a big hole at quarterback will be senior Todd Levine, who saw limited action last season in replacing Kevin Griffin. The back-field will showcase Sophomore fullback Kevin Kucanski who ran for a team high 380 yards and three touchdowns last season, and halfback Steve Redgate. Redgate carried the ball 71 times for 293 yards last season. At Split End will be another pre-season All-American, senior Terry McNamara. McNamara caught 50 passes for 683 yards, good enough for ninth in the nation among Division III receivers. Another instrument in the passing attack will be Junior tight end Rocco DeMaio who caught 8 passes for 142 yards last season.

The defense is led Senior Tri-captain Rob Sicking. Sicking is an All-New England selection and defensive end last season was the second leading tackler on the team last season. As the leader end will be Senior Jeff Buzzi who was the third leading tackler on the team last season. The interior could feature a host of different players, which includes Sophomore John Monaco and John Nairad and Juniors Dave Grant and Dave Moran. The only returning starter at line-backer will be Senior Anthony Martin. Senior Tri-captain Darwin Toth, an All-New England selection last season at safety returns to lead the secondary. Toth was also chosen a Pre-season All-American for his kick returning skills. The cornerback positions are up for grabs with Seniors Rob Conklin and Mike Vandal vying for spots.

Varsity Football '89

- 36 Returning Letter Winners
- 9 Offensive Starters Returning
- 7 Defensive Starters Returning
- Punter & Kicker Returning
- Three pre-season All-Americans

Coach Miller's 23-season winning season. The Bantams, looking for their tenth consecutive NESCAC title, include nine returning starters on offense and seven on defense.

Field Hockey Looks Strong

The traditionally powerful Women's Field Hockey expects to continue their winning ways as they enter the '89 season. Seniors Robin Silver and Mary Beth Madison will captain the talented ladies squad this fall.

"Our individual talent is probably better than last year, but we'll have to work hard," said Senior Louise Van Der Does, a second team All-American in goal, should lead the defense. The team will return the majority of the summer playing for an all-college team which traveled to California.

Although the team will miss

The play of last year's senior second team All-American Gretchen Bullard, the incoming Fresman have displayed more skill than anticipated and could help to fill this gap.

Coeirene Stinson, Margo Ring, Tinseltah Passaro, and Courtney GeerPe should contribute immensely to the program. With such a tremendous caliber of players, a strong showing could be expected from almost anyone. It will be difficult to match last year's superior play, which culminated in a top seed for the team in the Trinity hosted NAIA tournament. The team was over- come in the semi-final round, but this year may differ.

The quest for the tournament begins on Saturday, as the Lady Bants host Bowdoin at noon.
