Trinity College’s 150th Anniversary Goals were announced at a dinner for alumni, parents and friends on May 26.

In announcing the ten-year program in which the College will seek to raise $24,900,000, Dr. Jacobs said that $6,000,000 will be for faculty salaries; $4,000,000 for scholarship endowment; $1,000,000 for library endowment; and approximately $5,900,000 for additions to the physical plant.

The President also said that of the remaining $8,000,000 not included in the capital gifts program the College expects $5,000,000 for general endowment will be added from bequests over the next decade and that $3,000,000 needed for dormitory construction will be in the form of loans.

Henry S. Beers ’18, chairman (retired) of the Ætna Life Affiliated Companies will be the National Campaign Chairman, and G. Keith Funston ’32, Hon. ’62, will serve as Honorary Chairman.

Under the proposed program the College plans an increase in enrollment by 25 per cent to 1,250 undergraduates, an increase in faculty of 20 per cent and an increase in faculty salaries of 75 per cent. By 1973 the College expects its financial aid program will increase from its present $350,000 to $800,000 a year, and the Library will add 100,000 volumes to its present collection of 429,000 volumes.

A Life Sciences Center for biology and psychology will be constructed as part of the building program, and a library addition for independent study is planned. A gymnasium to replace the 77-year-old Alumni Hall is also high on the priority list of additions in physical plant.

In keeping with the forward-looking nature of the 150th Anniversary program, Dr. Jacobs announced that the College will further its aims to inculcate in its students “a curiosity of mind, a responsiveness of spirit, an obligation to society, and a strength of body.” New methods of independent study and honors work will become an integral part of the academic program, and the opportunity to earn the Bachelor’s degree in three years, or both the Bachelor’s and Master’s degrees in four years, will be encouraged.

Trinity’s plans for the next decade are many, its resolution to realize these plans strong, its commitment firm. The College will seek financial support from every philanthropic resource: capital gifts, deferred gifts, special gifts and grants. It especially will seek challenge gifts of the kind that inspire new and greater support to help the College realize the goals it has set for its 150th Anniversary.
Arts Center Named for A. Everett Austin Jr.

One of the most illustrious names in the history of American art will be given to Trinity's rising Arts Center. It will be named the Austin Arts Center in memory of the late A. Everett Austin Jr.

Mr. Austin was the founder of Trinity's Department of Fine Arts and for more than two decades was a leading force in avant-garde art in America. President Jacobs, in announcing the name for the Center, said, "Mr. Austin made significant contributions to art, music and drama and it is eminently fitting that the Arts Center, which will house the College's offerings in these three fields, be named for him. The naming of the Arts Center for Mr. Austin also symbolizes the College's intention to make the Center both a source of appreciation for great works of the past as well as a stimulus to seek out and encourage the vast contemporary work in art, music and drama."

The association of Mr. Austin with the Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford was an important one, for his unique gift to sense the best in artistic expression is still felt and seen around the world. He was director of the Atheneum from 1927 to 1945 and as a leading exponent of contemporary art brought the first surrealist art to America, showing the works of Salvador Dali. Mr. Austin planned the Atheneum's Avery Memorial Wing and Auditorium, which he opened in 1934 with the first retrospective of Picasso and the world premiere of the Virgil Thomson-Gertrude Stein opera, "Four Saints in Three Acts."

Interested in all the art forms, Mr. Austin is credited with bringing to America George Balanchine, director of the New York City Ballet. Mr. Austin also acquired the famous Diaghilev-Lifar collection of ballet designs.

Mr. Austin was director of the Ringling Museum in Sarasota, Florida, from 1946 until his death in 1957. While there he acquired a complete 18th-century Baroque theater from Italy and re-erected it on the grounds of the museum.

The Austin Arts Center at Trinity is being constructed at a cost of $2,000,000 and will house the Department of the Arts – drama, fine arts and music. The three-story Center will feature a theater designed for plays, concerts and lectures. Professor George Izenour of Yale University, world-famous designer of theaters, was a consultant for the Trinity theater.

The Center will also include classrooms, offices, rehearsal rooms, exhibition galleries, projection and listening rooms, and studios for the College's academic offerings in the arts. The building was designed by the architectural firm of O'Connor and Kilham of New York and is being constructed by Standard Builders of Hartford. Completion is planned by late November.

Trinity awarded Mr. Austin an honorary Master of Arts Degree in 1930.
Dean of Students

President Jacobs has announced the appointment of Dr. Roy Heath as Dean of Students. Dr. O. W. Lacy, Dean of Students since 1958 and also associate professor of psychology, asked to be relieved of his administrative duties to devote his full time to academic work. In announcing Dr. Lacy’s resignation, Dr. Jacobs said, “I wish at this time to pay tribute to Dean Lacy for the fine service he has rendered Trinity in this most difficult and sensitive position. We are very grateful.”

Dr. Heath received an A.B. degree from Princeton University in 1939 and his M.A. degree in clinical psychology and his Ph.D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania. From 1950 to 1954 Dr. Heath was an instructor in psychology at Princeton and from 1954 to 1956 he was associate professor of psychology and student counselor at Knox College. His previous work in psychology had been at The Training School in Vineyard, New Jersey, as a Research Fellow in the Psychological Clinic Laboratories and with the Ground Forces in World War II as an Army psychologist.

Director of the Counseling Center at the University of Pittsburgh since 1956, Dr. Heath has been on leave during the current academic year as visiting professor of psychology and student counselor at Amherst.

Dr. Heath is the author of The Reasonable Adventure, a study of the growth of a group of students he had counseled at Princeton.

In announcing the appointment of Dr. Heath, President Jacobs said, “We are indeed fortunate to have a person of his stature for the important position of Dean of Students.”

Department of the Arts

Dr. Charles H. Morgan, Mead Professor of Fine Arts at Amherst College, was appointed Visiting Professor and Chairman of the Department of the Arts on a part-time basis. Dr. Morgan, who is Chairman of the American Friends of Greece, will continue his duties at Amherst, which include the directorship of the Mead Art Gallery there.

A native of Worcester, Mass., Dr. Morgan is a graduate of Hotchkiss School and of Harvard University, where he received his B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees. He joined the Amherst faculty in 1930 and has been closely associated with the American School of Classical Studies at Athens. Dr. Morgan studied and taught there and was a member and chairman of the Managing Committee. Director of the School from 1936 to 1938, he was made an honorary citizen of Athens and received the Grand Cross of the Order of the Phoenix.

Dr. Morgan is also a member of the Managing Committee of the American Academy in Rome, a trustee of the American Farm School of Salonika and is a member of the Archaeological Institute of America. He has published three editions of the “Guide to the Corinth Museum” and in 1960, “The Life of Michelangelo,” in addition to contributing many articles to professional journals.

Deferred Gifts Programs

The post of Director of the Deferred Gifts Programs has been assumed by W. Howard Spencer of West Hartford, Connecticut. Mr. Spencer is the former treasurer of Cushman Industries, Inc., of Hartford, is a member of the Board of Directors of the Greater Hartford Community Chest and is a director of the National Association of Accountants.

Mr. Spencer is a graduate of Kingswood School, West Hartford, and of Yale’s Sheffield Scientific School, where he was graduated in 1936 with distinction in Industrial Administration and Engineering. He served four years with the U.S. Navy during World War II, including two years as instructor in Marine Engineering at Annapolis.

At Trinity Mr. Spencer will be responsible for increasing gifts to the College through bequests, living trusts, insurance trusts and other forms of deferred giving.
Reunion - Commencement 1964

Alumni from near and far, from the classes of 1899 to 1963, responded to the annual urge to return to Alma Mater. Some had official missions as trustees, as alumni officers, as reunion chairmen or as panelists. Others had the desire to see anew the campus and to learn of the College's progress or to stretch their minds at the various seminars. Many were honored by the College or the Alumni Association. All, however, came to reminisce with classmates, faculty and friends. They wandered from seminar to seminar; from reunion headquarters to Mather Hall; from dedication ceremonies of McCook Math-Physics Center and Krieble Auditorium to the annual alumni luncheon; and from the tennis match back to headquarters and to reunion dinners.

In spite of a slight Saturday drizzle, the Alumni Parade was a success and the traditional band was drowned out by the "mercenary" Band of the Class of 1939 which, because of its spirit, vitality, imagination and over-all contribution to the College's welfare, was easily the winner of the Board of Fellows Bowl. The indomitable Class of 1934 was everywhere in white chefs' smocks worn by classmates, wives and children. It was the Class of '14, with 41% returning, however, that won the Jerome Kohn award.

Elsewhere on these pages you will find more details and a brief pictorial sketch of the events of the 1964 Reunion.

Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises were blessed with an almost perfect day, permitting the proud parents to photograph their progeny as they "Touched the Book" and received their diplomas from President Jacobs.

The awarding of diplomas came to an embarrassing and puzzling halt until President Jacobs realized that the salutatorian, second member of the class to receive his diploma, had in his excitement clutched both The Book and his diploma as he returned to his seat. Dean Vogel came to the rescue, retrieving The Book so that the other graduates could fulfill the time-honored tradition of touching The Book as they passed across the stage. The college camera unwittingly caught the culprit in the act and you will find evidence of this deed pictured for posterity.

Commencement Address

... Science and the humanities alike require an atmosphere of freedom. And each of us, learning the value of freedom at such great institutions as this, must consider himself a private soldier conscripted for life in its defense against all enemies, foreign and domestic...

With what most of us hope will be prompt passage of a comprehensive Federal Civil Rights statute, covering many of the points of recent controversies, the problem of insuring equal rights for our Negro fellow citizens should soon move out of the turmoil of recent years into a new, more harmonious phase. Disinterested citizens will have many opportunities to contribute to further progress. Most of us recognize both a legal duty and a moral obligation to help to insure these rights, stemming both from the Constitution and even more broadly from the teachings of Jesus. ... True equality of opportunity must be provided and there must be no limits to the aspiration and accomplishment of those with the qualities necessary to scale the heights....

And if we are to help our fellow citizens make the great leap to freedom in the mainstream of American life, we must remember ... Robert Frost's great definition, "Freedom is to be easy in your harness."...

Dr. Whitney North Seymour

Baccalaureate Sermon

... What an unfinished product man is! He begins as the most helpless of all infants, merely at incarnate hunger. If at any stage in his life he hardens and stops learning, he is done for. A man who knows everything, be he an insufferable teenager or a supercilious university graduate or an arrogant business man of fifty, is something less than human....

... The Christian is concerned for truth. A college with a Christian foundation must be passionate in its devotion to truth. It is one of our axioms, so basic that if a man tells us that he is irrevocably convinced that Christianity is not true, our only answer is that he must then reject Christianity merely as a bulwark of society or a useful myth.

Reason is and must be respected here. A Christian foundation is no excuse for not using our brains. Your education is a failure unless you leave here committed to the life of reason and to the patient service of truth....

What is it that Christianity claims to be unique? ... It is a belief that God was at work in the history of a people - Israel - and supremely in the life of one Man - his incarnate Son - for the salvation of the world.

... Our encounter with the great world religions has taught us something. If Jesus Christ be the truth, we should have realized long ago that His truth is not the kind that needs an Inquisition or a heresy trial to be maintained. It is a truth that shines more brightly when Christians walk in respect and free loving encounter with those who cannot yet be Christian, who look as if they never will be Christian.

... I believe that when the history of this second half of the twentieth century is written, it will be revealed as a time when again the kingdom and the power and the glory of God was revealed. ...

The Most Reverend Howard Hewlett Clark, d.d.

The Dedication of Krieble Auditorium

in honor of Vernon K. Krieble

... Dr. Krieble brought great honor and high distinction to the College he served for so many years with such dedicated loyalty and faithful devotion, with such consummate skill and constructive ability. ...

... It is altogether fitting that we pay honor where honor is due. The College has for twenty-eight years richly enjoyed this splendid auditorium and has been able to do so solely because of Dr. Krieble's wisdom and foresight.

As the final plans for the Chemistry Laboratory were being drawn, Dr. Krieble dreamed of this amazingly useful facility. By careful revision and by the most skilled planning he was able to include it without increasing the cost of the building itself. This auditorium, therefore, is truly a direct gift from our late esteemed colleague to the College to which he contributed so generously.

President Albert C. Jacobs

The Dedication of McCook Mathematics-Physics Center in honor of the McCook Family

We are gathered this afternoon on an occasion most meaningful to Trinity. We are here to pay tribute to a family whose members for five score and three years have been the architects of this College; to a family whose members in their lives have been outstanding exemplars of our time-honored motto, Pro ecclesia et patria, for Church and Country. ....

Trinity can never repay the debt she owes to this illustrious family - a family that has combined intense activity with the highest standards of quality and excellence, dedicated and devoted service with firm conviction and forthrightness of purpose, absolute integrity and honesty with remarkable common sense, greatness with humility; a family whose dedication to college, church and country stands unparalleled. ....

President Albert C. Jacobs
The Crisis in Civil Rights

Two pertinent issues were the topics of this year's Alumni Reading Program seminars. "The Crisis in Civil Rights," conducted by Dr. C. Freeman Sleeper, assistant professor of religion, centered on one of the nation's most critical problems. Dr. Sleeper stated, "Segregation is a religious issue." He quoted a letter, which was written following the 1956 school integration demonstrations, in which the writer said that God is for segregation. Later, in the discussion period, he noted that there is in the Bible "no justification for the idea that God is a God of segregation."

He spoke of the "new Negro," who emerged at the time of the Nashville demonstrations. "His patience, obedience and fear are gone." Martin Luther King's arrest, for example, was "more indication of the perpetual drive for more opportunities" by this "new Negro."

"Our goal, the American dream, is a whole society." His definition of whole was in a biblical sense a covenant. Covenant is expressed by Martin Luther King when he says, "To the degree that I harm my brother, to that degree I hurt myself."

Dr. Sleeper discussed the Civil Rights Bill in its entirety and as a piece of legislation guaranteeing human rights. Opposition to the bill, he felt "appeals to the rights of the 'have' group over the rights of the 'have nots.'"

Modern Physics

"Modern Physics - Its Implications to Business and Education" was the title of the alumni panel conducted during Reunion Weekend. Participants were Dr. Robert Lindsay, associate professor of physics at the College, chairman; Howard D. Doolittle '31, technical director, Machlett Laboratories, Springdale, Conn.; Albert J. Howard Jr., assistant professor of physics at Trinity; and Charles W. Walker Jr. '47, teacher, Hartford Public High School.

Dr. Lindsay suggested that "for better or for worse, we are living in a culture committed to the search for and the utilization of scientific truths in achieving its goals." He also noted that as a consequence of the effective implementation of new teaching programs in the high schools there had been a significant increase in the background of incoming college students in physical sciences.

Mr. Walker in discussing science education in high schools stated, "The primary purpose of the high school physics course is not to prepare physicists but to make better citizens. . . We try to teach students to think problems through."

Dr. Doolittle directed attention to some of the problems which industry faces as a consequence of the rapid pace of technological development. He pointed out the need for technical personnel in industry to have a broad enough background of scientific knowledge so they can adapt themselves readily when new approaches to problems are necessary.

The New Mathematics

"The New Mathematics," presented by Robert C. Stewart, associate professor of mathematics, was the second of the seminars. Mr. Stewart felt that too much emphasis has been placed on "the drier and dustier aspects of mathematics." The new approach to mathematics is certainly a step in the direction of change.

He showed, in the course of the seminar, the role of the new math at each of the educational levels. The 1964 Trinity freshman has a better understanding of the concept of mathematics than did the 1954 Trinity graduate, and this includes some of those who majored in the subject.

The changes which have come about represent "a leap forward from the seventeenth century to the nineteenth. Before this revived interest in math, nothing new since 1640 was being taught." The changes encompass content, approach, method and teacher preparation. There is a "definite improvement in curriculum reform."

Today the "unity of the new math is being emphasized rather than the diversities which had been emphasized."

The new math program attempts to develop a curiosity about mathematics, which everyone has to some degree, even the least inclined.

Preparation of a Watercolor

"Preparation of a Watercolor," a talk and demonstration, was given by Mitchel N. Pappas, associate professor of art. "Watercolor painting, a technique or an insight into nature?" was his query.

"Naturally," as Mr. Pappas explained in his introduction, "the characteristics of the medium are such that a thorough understanding and control of brush and wash are most necessary. However, more important is what the artist sees in nature - how he transfers the image in nature, through his aesthetic and through the limitations and advantages of the medium. Watercolor lends itself to speed of accomplishment only when the artist makes the transfer from the obvious appearances in nature forms to symbolic, yet pictorial equivalents.

"The greatest fault in the watercolor medium is caused by literal approach on the part of the artist. Even to the most 'photographic' of the artists, like Andrew Wyeth, selection is paramount. In the past the greatest of masters did their finished paintings from sketches done beforehand."

In order to prove this point, Mr. Pappas executed a watercolor, done from a small sketch. In this painting, which was done with a one-inch brush, the artist tried to capture a personal view of a typical waterfront scene, reminiscent of the Cape. What was achieved was an obvious facility in handling, yet a spirit of the fishing shack amidst rocks and sandbar was eventually created. Mr. Pappas stressed the idea that nature was a point of departure, and that technique was an important means, but that the final result was achieved by the nature of the artist's sensitivity and his interpretation of the subject.

SAMUEL HARRISON BOCKIUS, 1958

Samuel H. Bockius died June 2 in New York City's Memorial Hospital. He leaves his wife, the former Miss Ellen Marion Kelly; two sons, Samuel Jr., and David; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis V. Bockius.

Born August 29, 1936, in Canton, Ohio, a son of Louis V. and Agnes H. Bockius, he prepared for college at Lake-township High School, Hartville, Ohio. As an undergraduate he was a member of the Triod; Le Cercle Francois; the Junior Prom Committee; and the lacrosse team, being captain of the latter his senior year. His fraternity was the Epsilon Chapter of Delta Psi.

After receiving his master's degree from Yale in 1959, he joined the history department of the North Shore Country Day School in Winnetka, Ill. This past year he taught American history at International Secondary School, University of Ibadan, Ibadan, Nigeria.

It is still very hard to believe Sam is gone. He is one member of the Class I only got to know toward the end of our years at Trin, but then we saw one another many times at Yale in '58-59. I was particularly interested in his teaching in Nigeria and had looked forward to hearing from him about it. He certainly will be missed. – B.W.P.

Alumni Association Reports

To Trinity College Alumni:

For the second and last time, it is my pleasure to report to my fellow Alumni on the conduct of the activities of your Alumni Association during the year 1963 – 1964. The progress that an association of this type makes is due in large measure to the interest of its many members. To the extent that we have progressed, it is a result that can and should be credited to each and every one of you.

Elsewhere in this issue you will find the magnificent report by Harry K. Knapp ’50, Vice President for the Alumni Fund. Harry has worked tirelessly this past year to make our fund-raising efforts bear the splendid results that his report indicates.

Also in this issue are contained the excellent reports of Donald R. Reynolds ’51, Vice President for Public Relations and Publicity, and Gerald J. Hansen, Jr. ’51, Vice President for Admissions, Interviewing and Recruiting. The reports of Don and Gerry certainly bear testimony to the extent of their personal activities in your behalf and the activities of all Alumni working with and for them.

Campus activities again this past year were highly successful under the leadership of Ethan F. (Mike) Bassford ’39 as Vice President. We thank Mike and his various Events Chairmen in the person of Barclay Shaw ’35, Chairman of the Fall Campus Conference; Andrew Brown ’29, Chairman of Homecoming; and John T. Wilcox ’39, Reunion Chairman. The Campus Conference had a particularly interesting innovation in that we invited to participate in our discussions representatives of four sister colleges. Their contributions to our program were outstanding.

The expansion of our Area Associations has continued to occupy our time this past year under the leadership of William H. Gorman II ’39 as Vice President for Area Association activities. Two new clubs, Minneapolis and St. Louis, have been organized and Rochester has been reactivated. We are most appreciative of the help of all those Alumni who participated in this project.

Your President and Alumni at large continue to be indebted to John A. Mason ’34 in his capacity as Alumni Secretary. John works tirelessly and eats, sleeps, and dreams of the affairs of our Alumni Association.

It has been a tremendous personal pleasure to have served as the President of your Association for the past two years. In the person of Seymour E. Smith ’34, the Alumni Association gains for the future an individual of tremendous capacity and interest as its President. I commend to all of you your closest cooperation with him in the next two years.

Herman R. Bland, ’40, President

Alumni Interviewing Report

In the academic year 1963 – 64, the Alumni Interviewers played a strong part in the selection of the Class of 1968. This class, which will number about 275, was selected from 1578 applicants. The Admissions Office requested that roughly 550 of these candidates be interviewed, and the alumni returned 372 reports.

There are about 450 alumni on the Alumni Interviewing rolls. Of these 450, 193 were actively engaged this year in completing interviews. While not all of the interviewers were able to participate actively in the interviewing phase of the program (because many alumni live in areas that did not have candidates applying), a good number of these interviewers were active in the recruiting end of the business.

I should like to refer particularly to the work of John Bloodgood ’54 in Hartford, Robert Tansil ’50 in Illinois, Barry Plotts ’56 in Washington, D.C., Kingston Howard ’51 in Boston, and Wilson Haight ’37 and his sub-chairmen in the Greater New York area. These areas in particular were extremely well covered by the interviewers and a very high percentage of the requested interviews were completed. In addition there was a most satisfactory increase in the intensity of the alumni’s “search for talent” efforts. I know that in other instances excellent work was done, too, and certainly among the many independent interviewers much praise could be sung. I wish this report could be lengthy enough to include the names of all the individuals who put heart and soul into one candidate or another.

In the fall of 1963, the College, in close cooperation with the alumni, sponsored dinners in two cities, Philadelphia and Baltimore, for leading secondary school officials. These meetings were held to bring these important educators up to date on recent developments at Trinity and were extremely well attended and enthusiastically enjoyed by everyone.

The Alumni Interviewing Program appears to be performing well. We must work even harder on the recruiting phase, however. We have seen some fine examples this year of instances where boys were initially interested in Trinity by alumni, and who, although receiving bids from other excellent colleges, eventually decided in favor of Trinity because of continued alumni interest.

This report completes my first year as Vice President of the Alumni Association in charge of Admissions Interviewing. I have enjoyed it, and along with running the Philadelphia interviewing group, I have been kept more than a little busy. Personally I want to thank you all for your cooperation and interest. I know for a fact that the Admissions Office has relied heavily upon your work in their success for the College.

By the way, it may be of interest to note that in midsummer the Admissions Office will send a complete class roster to all interviewers so that they will be accurately informed of the names of boys coming to Trinity from their particular areas.

Gerald J. Hansen, Jr. '51

Public Relations Report

A large measure of the success of this year's public relations program for the Alumni Association is due to the support of the officers of the association and the interest of many individual alumni as well as members of the college administration.

At the outset it was apparent we were starting from scratch, in that a program had to be created and implemented for the association in line with the overall objectives established by the Officers and Executive Council.

The program finally presented to the Officers and Executive Council last fall and approved by them was designed to accomplish these broad objectives:

1. Improve the communications flow between the college and its alumni;
2. Increase alumni interest;
3. Increase alumni participation;
4. Provide a channel for alumni support of the college public relations department.

To convert these goals into a tangible program, these specific projects were inaugurated:

A Survey of Alumni Attitudes

While many good ideas and suggestions for a public relations program were available, it was felt the program should be keyed to the major interests and needs of alumni. To find out just what these were, a major survey of Trinity alumni was approved by the Executive Council. Conducted at the beginning of the year, the survey included some 7,400 alumni from the years 1895 to 1965. We received a 19 percent response which is considered in professional circles as excellent. Many of the 1,400 cards returned had long letters attached expanding on the comments registered.

Among our findings, we learned the Alumni Magazine is regarded as the best source of information. Twice as many alumni are interested in either college or alumni news as those who are interested primarily in sports news. We also became aware of a strong feeling among alumni that they wanted more news of the college as it was happening, and on a regular basis. The survey proved to be a valuable aid in planning the program for the past year and we expect it will provide information for future activities of the association. A more detailed account of the survey will be available in the fall.

Alumni Newsletter

Shortly after the 4th of July the first issue of "Along the Walk," the new alumni newsletter, will be mailed. As noted earlier, while we felt this was needed, the survey confirmed our hunch. With facts in hand we were able to proceed with the determination of format, content and publication schedule. Budget and manpower permitting, we hope to publish "Along the Walk" in those months the Alumni Magazine does not appear. It will be necessarily brief, leaving details and in-depth treatments for the Alumni Magazine. We welcome your comments on "Along the Walk."

Alumni Calendar

This project was conceived as a way of keeping Trinity foremost in the alumnus' awareness 365 days a year, as well as providing an attractive way of showing your family and friends where you attended college. While there was a tremendous amount of enthusiasm for this project, we were again faced with a budget problem. This has been solved by making it a joint effort between the college Development Office and the Alumni Association. Planning and design is underway and we intend to have it ready for distribution by the end of the year.

Annual Report to Alumni

This project is still in the conceptual stage and has aroused considerable interest among those alumni I have had an opportunity to discuss it with. There is a need, I believe, for a short, fact-filled report on the College comparable to the reports issued annually by corporations. Organized and styled like a corporate report, it would contain a financial section showing income and expense figures, charts reflecting increases and decreases in expenses, revenue, endowment, enrollment, etc. There would also be a final accounting of the alumni fund.

The forward part of the report would contain brief sections describing the year's activity in departments such as Life Sciences, Chemistry, Economics, English, Music, Physical Education, etc., and reports from the President, the Dean, the Librarian, Placement Director and Chaplain, for example.

I would be interested in any comments alumni have on this idea, and others relating to alumni association public relations activity. These should be channeled through either the President of the Association, Seymour Smith '34, or John Mason '34, Alumni Secretary.

In closing, I would again like to express my appreciation for the support and assistance received from the Officers and Executive Council, the Alumni, Development and Public Relations Offices and particularly to the alumni who have taken the time to call or write expressing an opinion or an offer to help.

The spring meeting of the Albany Alumni Association took place May 21 at the Albany Country Club. Donald B. Engley, college librarian, gave a most entertaining and informative talk.

The new officers are: William T. Robinson '50, president; Paul A. Goodwin '40, vice president; Frederick J. Gleason '58, treasurer; and Kenneth J. Lyons '60, secretary.

CINCINNATI

The Cincinnati Alumni Association met May 19 at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant of the Van Cleve Hotel, Dayton. Doug Frost '59, assistant director of development, gave an up-to-date picture of the changing Trinity's administrative changes and news at the Hilltop.

FAIRFIELD

President Michael Mitchell '51 reports that the Fairfield Alumni Association realized some $500 net from the benefit motion picture performance May 15 of John Biddle's (Class of 1950) film "Sail the Seven Seasons" at the Norwalk High School. The money has been set aside for an area scholarship fund.

Thanks go especially to Bill Dobbs '51, Dwight Mayer '54 and Matt Birmingham '42 for their hard work on this project.

HARTFORD

The Trinity Club of Hartford will hold its annual meeting October 22 at Mather Hall on campus. Dean Robert M. Vogel will be the speaker.

Under the leadership of Ray Thomsen '41, arrangements are being made to continue the Club's monthly luncheons at the Bond Hotel the first Tuesday of each month, starting in October.

New Trustees

Seymour E. Smith '34 of Wethersfield, Conn., was elected a Life Trustee of the College by the Board of Trustees at their annual June meeting. Mr. Smith is vice president and actuary of Travelers Insurance Company. He has served the company since 1934, except during the war years when he was granted a military leave of absence. In January of 1963 Mr. Smith was named to head a newly combined casualty-fire underwriting department.

Mr. Smith is vice chairman of the American Insurance Association and a fellow of the Casualty Insurance Society.

An active Trinity alumnus, he has served his Alma Mater as a Junior Fellow from 1950 to 1957, including two years as secretary of the board, was vice president of the National Alumni Association in 1962 and 1963, and was elected president of the Association at its annual meeting this past June 13.

Dr. Theodore D. Lockwood '48 was elected an Alumni Trustee by the National Alumni Association of the College at their annual meeting.

A native of Hanover, New Hampshire, Dr. Lockwood was graduated from Trinity as valedictorian of his class, following service with the Army in World War II. He received his Ph.D. from Princeton in 1952 and then taught history at Dartmouth, Juniata College and M.I.T.

He was a Fellow of the Belgian-American Educational Foundation for research and study in Belgium in 1959, then became Associate Dean of the Faculty at Concord College in Athens, West Virginia. At the present time Dr. Lockwood is Dean of Union College, Schenectady, New York.

He has served Trinity as an alumni interviewer, a Junior Fellow and is a member of the Development Council.

NEW HAVEN

Plans are being made for an alumni picnic at Ray Montgomery's '25 home in August, and the usual get-together for the area freshmen also will be held at Ray's shortly after Labor Day.

NEW YORK

The annual dinner meeting will be held at the Columbia Club Tuesday, November 17. Please hold the date. Details later.

The annual Spring Frolic at "Dan" Webster's June 6 was well attended and a most successful, pleasant occasion. Our thanks go again to our gracious hosts, Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Webster '10.

PHILADELPHIA

From varied reports we learn that the informal dance at The Barn, Eddington Farms, May 15, was a jolly occasion.

PROVIDENCE

The Rhode Island alumni met May 13 at Johnson's Hummocks in Providence and heard short talks by Professor Michel Pappas and John Mason '34, alumni secretary.

The new officers are: James J. Rheinberger '45, president; Jacques V. Hopkins '52, secretary; and Richard A. Bentfield '54, treasurer.

WASHINGTON

As we go to press President Bob Scharf '58 is planning an alumni cocktail party at his home, 3809 Blackthorn St., Chevy Chase, Md., Sunday, July 26, from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m. All area alumni are cordially welcome.

WESTERN CONNECTICUT

President Walt Shannon '57 is planning an alumni picnic on August 15.

Alumni Secretary John Mason '34 reports Parents Day is NOT October 31 as reported in "Along the Walk," but has been changed to October 24, 1964.
THE PARENTS FUND

The amount by which the Trinity Parents Fund exceeded its goal is eloquent testimony of the deep feeling of respect and gratitude that Trinity parents have for the job that Trinity is doing for their sons. The regional chairmen and their crops of volunteer workers, as well as the donors, deserve all the praise and thanks.

1963-64 ALUMNI FUND REPORT

"Living Endowment" is a term that describes the effect of annual gifts support from Parents and Alumni. The $200,000 provided for Trinity this year through the Parents Fund and Alumni Fund represents the income on a principal of $5,000,000. In effect the College's endowment was increased from a market value of some $26,000,000 to $31,000,000.

It is not easy to adequately express the gratitude of Trinity College. Let me simply say that we are deeply appreciative, that we cannot thank you enough. The achievements this year are most impressive.

THE ALUMNI FUND

Some 300 alumni gave for the first time ... approximately one-third of all the contributors increased their gifts ... 31 alumni contributed one thousand dollars or more ... more than 250 alumni worked on the campaign: for all these reasons the Alumni Fund's ambitious goals were exceeded in record time.

Trinity alumni should be proud of the performance of the Fund. In recent years it has been recognized nationally by the American Alumni Council and the U.S. Steel Foundation as one of the strongest alumni funds in the country.

Thanks, givers. Thanks, workers.
