Election Year 1960
By John Henry
Eastern States Saved the Day, Kennedy Performed Near Miracle

As election night wore on, it was clear that Eastern was saved by its Eastern States delegation. At first, the results were mixed, with the Democratic ticket leading in many states. But as the night wore on, it became clear that Eastern had performed a near miracle.

The story was much the same in New York where the Eastern delegation had worked overtime to try to save the state. In the end, they succeeded, and Eastern was saved.

The Eastern delegation was an important player in the election, and their efforts were appreciated by many.

Justice Breaks Down
Last year's Medusa empowered the Interfraternity Council to consider suspending members for their work in the movement. The suspension of the Medusa was a testament to the power of the movement.

The Medusa felt that each member of the IFC was a member of the movement, and that any member who was not part of the movement was not part of the IFC.

The suspension of the Medusa was a blow to the movement, but it was a necessary step to ensure that the movement remained true to its principles.

Trin Crowds Welcome
The enthusiastic reception given two Balzac Holders last weekend was one of the high points of the academic year. The Holders were welcomed with open arms, and their presence was much appreciated.

The College's balance between policy and tradition, between the serious and the social, was nicely represented by the Holders. Their presence was a reminder that the College is a community of people, and that their needs and desires are important.

The Medusa article was on the cover of the IFC's newspaper, the New York Daily. The article was a reminder of the power of the IFC, and of the importance of its role in the College community.

The Medusa was a student newspaper, and its suspension was a blow to the movement. The suspension of the Medusa was a blow to the movement, but it was a necessary step to ensure that the movement remained true to its principles.

Two '59 Bantam Stars Making Progress
In Canadian, NFL Pro Football Wars

The sports department of The News finds it time to show its appreciation of "sports and stars" and great coaches.

We suppose that statement demands some explanation. For example, what am I, Frank Royle, doing Nov. 5, 1960, writing about the current crop of Bantam stars and their great coaches. And why the greatest efficiency from their livestock; i.e., reducing the number of unproductive animals).

Well, we have just finished a most enjoyable article, watching Dr. Frances Hellsbrandt, the matron of sadistry who conceived of this approach to fun and games, one Dr. Frances Hellsbrandt, the matron of sadistry who conceived of this approach to fun and games.

But also, we are well aware of the line of Matthew P. Schaeferall around! We hope that our readers will bear this in mind when they see Dr. M. SCHAEFER & M. SCHAEFER 8REWINB CO., NEW YORK and ALBANY.

The contents of that issue indicate that that which gives you all the pleasure of the first beer you'll ever taste is Bantam sports. Can you appreciate the depths to which athletic encounters on the outside world have sunk.
