For the Bantams of Trinity the 1960-61 basketball season has finally drawn to a close. The season was by most accounts a disappointment, as the Bantams failed to win the Yankee Conference crown. It was the first conference loss in the Yale-Bryant rivalry in four years.

COLLECTORS CONFERENCE
Students are invited to submit questions for the "Ask the Collectors" column. See Donald B. Easley, captain of the Bantam Baseball team, on the campus around the middle of March for details.

The first three games were played at home, and the Bantams managed a pair of wins, running over Dartmouth and Brandeis. In both cases, the victories were accompanied by equally easy losses for Trinity.

The first time midway through the season, with the Bantams down by three points, the Bantams regained the lead, 80-70. With four minutes to go, Trinity was ahead by 26 points, but the game still was not over until the clock ran down to zero.

Trinity's recovery was based on six minutes remaining. That night they received quite a jolt last Saturday. That night they received a jolt last Saturday. The press was applied hard to the Cardinals’ board, and the Bantams were able to walk off with a win, 83-82. The decision was won by a reasonable margin, as the Cardinals packed their bags when the Bantams took the lead, 83-82.
