Rev. Hutchens To Deliver Baccalaureate Sermon

The Rt. Rev. Joseph Warren Hutchens, Suffragan Bishop of Connecticut, will deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon Sunday June 20, at an open air service on the campus. The service, at 5:30, will precede the 130th Commencement Exercises scheduled for 2:30 on the same day at the Towers along the Long Walk.

Last November, Bishop Hutchens was consecrated Second Suffragan Bishop by the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut, the first to serve the Diocese here as sec-ond suffragan. The Right Reverend John Henry Esquiruj, S.T.D., is also Suffragan Bishop of Connecticut. Bishop Hutchens was born in Elizabeth, Indiana, 1919, the son of the Reverend Dore L. L. Hutchens. The Bishop's father served for forty-nine years as a member of the Indiana Conference of the Methodist Church.

After three years at Indiana University and after a brief period in the business world, the Bishop entered Evansville College from which institution he was graduated with the Bachelor of Arts degree in 1933. While a graduate student at Northwestern University and the Garrett Biblical Institute, Bishop Hutchens entered the Episcopal Church and was admitted to candidacy for Holy Orders by the Bishop of Chicago. He was graduated from the General Theological Seminary in New York and the United Theology degree in 1937 and was ordained Deacon and Priest in the same year.

For two years Bishop Hutchens served as Curate and Director of Christian Education at St. Luke's Preparatory, Evanston, Illinois. In 1939, he became assistant bishop of the Diocese of Illinois, Bishop Leather, and was made Rector of that parish in 1940. After twenty-one years as Rector of St. John's Bishop Hutchens entered fulltime work in the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut on September 15, 1961.

During his rectorate at St. John's, he was for five years a member of the Connecticut Committee and was president of that body in 1963-64. In 1963, he was appointed a Canon of Christ Church, a member of the Connecticut Commission on Ministry, and in 1964, was appointed a Canon of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut. He was elected as the Bishop of Connecticut's representative to the Executive Council in 1959 and 1961, a member of the Board of Trustees of Berkeley Divinity School at Yale, and the Bishop of Connecticut's representative to the Episcopal General Convention in 1959 and 1961. In 1962, he was one of a group which organized and the Rev. Paul Woodbridge, chairman of the Committee on Theology and Social Action of the Diocese of Connecticut, of which Bishop Hutchens is a member. The Bishop's study of American religion includes a survey of the religious and cultural development of the United States and its people.

The need for a liberal education and the ability to read is great. A man who has read, who has seen the world, is a better person. We break ground for this building because of the great importance of the building to the Trinity administration. Dr. Jacobs emphasized the importance of the building to the effective operation of the college, its ability to provide facilities for those who have contributed funds to the building.

The groundbreaking ceremonies were attended by a number of students who have contributed funds to the building.

MAY 19 — Indian nationalism threatens a revival of the long dormant religious antagonisms in India, says Dr. Richard Morris, chairman of the Department of Religion and Director of the Indian Studies program in 1958 and 1961, a member of the Board of Corporators of the Burroughs Home on whose staff he has been for more than thirty years, and a member of the Board of Corporators of the Burroughs Home which serves more than three thousand pupils. Cites Man's, World's Basic Needs

MAY 11—Dr. I. M. Curtis Langhorne answered the question "What are the Basic Needs of Mankind?" by de- claring that if there is anything to be worth having, man must be aware of and try to satisfy the needs of the world and its people.

He dismissed the question of whether the United States or the world is ahead in the technological war as very difficult to answer. "We got by two wars by the fact that a smaller margin, I hope we would have in the future, that a smaller margin, I hope we would have a smaller margin, I hope we would have a smaller margin, I hope we would have a smaller margin." The basic needs of man and the world are, Dr. Langhorne, liberal education, enlightenment, creativity, and a "philosophy of life based upon a set of religious values.

A small group of postgraduate students from the United States was an example of what they have done and not what they should be doing, Langhorne said. He questioned the attitude of Trinity students in helping one another grow up and become individu-als. "We break ground for this building because of the great importance of the building to the Trinity administration. Dr. Jacobs emphasized the importance of the building to the effective operation of the college, its ability to provide facilities for those who have contributed funds to the building."

Richard Wilbur's Poetry

THE ARTS COUNCIL
EDITED BY ALFRED C. BURFURD

MAY 13 — This modest young man who stood behind the lectern in Weisk Lounge tonight is a professor of English at Wesleyan University. He came to Trinity through the invitation of the Poetry Series jointly sponsored by the Hartford Jewish Community Center and Trinity College. His name is Richard Wilbur.

He read modern poetry that is poetry.

Were anyone to conjecture what a "modern poet" should look like, it does not seem probable that one would put him to a batting champ. And learn how the pitchers put him to a test last spring.

He journeys into a reality that only a perceptive person may find.

Death Breeding

Through his poetry, though, his experiences become ours. "The Parson," for example, creates the truly haunting image of a dog returning in a dream to his master, with "death breeding in his lively eyes."

Richard Wilbur is a poet of contrasts. "Epistomology," "Two Voices in a Meadow," and "The Aspen and the Stream," are illustrative of the way in which he leads us to a reality through conflict.

Besides writing original poems, Mr. Wilbur translates the works of others, particularly Moliere. "Tartuffe" was read in part, with ludicrously effective rhyming. His lyric for "Candide," an ill-fated and short-lived musical, lightly philosophizing on the mysteries of venereal disease, is a highly amusing and tactful work. Unfortunately, it was taken from the score of the show after its first playing in that best of all possible worlds, Boston.

Richard Wilbur can combine the intellectual capacities of a well-educated man with subject matter that would intrigue a neo-Beat, and come up with poetry that is highly deserving of a critic's praise. —ACB

THE TWO COLLEGE (Trinity and Connecticut College for Women) art show introduced Vernon Street to new forms of color and excitement last Saturday (May 11). The Arts Council's first outdoor art exhibit could hardly have had a better reception, and, to those interested in comparing Trinity's work with another college's, could hardly have proven more valuable. The girls from Conn. College almost to the one were more avant garde than the Trinity entrants. Special recognition and top honors must be awarded to a Conn. senior whose work was signed "A.S. Mullin." Whereas her style varied to an unbelievable degree, the sincerity of her work was uniform in its excellence. —Richard Tuttle enough time, India will "build a democratic, competitive, industrialized civilization."

A modern "renaissance in Indian scholarship, particularly in history and archaeology," has been breaking away from the domination of European scholars. Dr. Morris said. Many new discoveries have been made which establish a basis for further study of the origins of the Indian people.

The Historical Dimension

The role of South Indian, particularly the Dravidian, civilizations is becoming increasingly more important as the influence of the ancient Indo-European invasion diminishes. That invasion, Dr. Morris went on, might have been little more than "a slow infiltration of a rural people into an older, established urban civilization."

Quoting Ralph Linton, Professor Morris said that if the racial strains of the present population could be traced, India would become "the world's best field for studying the dynamics of human evolution."

Dr. Morris studied Indian culture extensively last summer as a member of the Institute in Indian Civilization, centered at Osmania University in Hyderabad, India.
MAY 12—The Trinity nine captured their most coveted victory of the season, dispatching defending national champs Wesleyan 5-4 in ten innings.

Trinity's victory, however, was not without its challenges. With the game tied at 4-4 in the tenth, Wesleyan threatened to take the lead. However, Peter Leddy's home run in the bottom of the inning secured the win for Trinity.

LANDERMAN WINS FOURTH IN RELIEF; TRIN RECORD NOW 8-4

For the first three innings, Pitman had the upper hand, but MacDougall beat the toss. But Wesleyan proved they could adjust, and MacDougall went ahead to score when Tom Calabrese was put out on a muff. But MacDougall's run was not in vain, as he collected a home run of his own in the fifth.

The race was a battle for the lead, with Georgetown and Marietta neck-and-neck throughout. But in the end, it was Marietta's consistency that proved the deciding factor. The Bantam J.V.'s and freshmen scored a victory of the year here today, with a trip to Philadelphia on the horizon.
