Israeli Scores Soviet Attitude

By MATT KATZ

The diplomatic community, responding to the official visit by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to the United States, praised the papers published in the Daily Worker on the topic of Soviet policy.

"These papers are a welcome addition to the debate on Soviet policies," said a diplomat, who requested anonymity. "They provide a valuable perspective on the current situation in the Soviet Union.

The diplomat also noted that the papers were critical of the Soviet government's policies, particularly its treatment of minorities. "The papers highlight the plight of the Jewish community in the Soviet Union," the diplomat said. "They call for greater freedom and equality for all citizens of the Soviet Union, regardless of their ethnicity.

The diplomat concluded by saying that the papers serve as an important reminder of the ongoing struggles for human rights in the Soviet Union. "It is important that we continue to support the efforts of those working to bring about positive change in the Soviet Union," he said.

Shepheard Derides Analytics

By BRUCE FRIER

The Senate will consider legislation next Monday that would require federal agencies to provide a comprehensive review of the effectiveness of their programs.

The legislation, known as the Comprehensive Review Act, is sponsored by Senator John Kerry, a Democrat from Massachusetts, and Representative John Delaney, a Democrat from Maryland.

The act would require federal agencies to conduct reviews of their programs every two years, with the goal of evaluating their effectiveness and identifying areas for improvement.

Supporters of the legislation say it would help ensure that federal programs are focused on meeting the needs of the American people. "We need to make sure that the federal government is spending taxpayers' money wisely and effectively," said Senator Kerry.

Critics of the legislation say it would add a significant burden on federal agencies. "This is just another example of Washington bureaucracy trying to micromanage the efforts of dedicated public servants," said Representative Delaney.

The Senate will consider the legislation next Monday.

Benjamin's Ethiopian Contest Continues

By MATT KATZ

The Ethiopian community is continuing its fight for recognition and rights in the United States. "We are determined to ensure that our voices are heard and our demands are met," said a community leader.

The community has been advocating for several years for greater recognition of their culture and history. "We are proud of our heritage and want to see it celebrated," said the leader.

The community has faced challenges in its efforts to gain recognition, including discrimination and lack of support from government agencies. "We are not finished yet," said the leader. "We will continue to fight for what is right and just."
Soviet . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

"In 1945, however, Stalin became suspicious that Jews, who had so many relatives in the West, were trying to entice them back, such as Israel and the United States. He started to persecute the Jews. When he closed the schools and allied several hundred cities of the Jewish population to one, etc., without leaders, any community will fall apart," Elia added.

"TODAY, KRUSCHEV'S regime has managed to wipe away the terrible Stalin terror; it hasn't, however, managed to wipe away of Jewish national life," he said.

"The Soviet regime is totalitarian, including the periphery. There exist against all churches, Christ Church, Protestantism, and any others, but as the Jewish religion is weak, without having a pope, patriarch, or bishop, it can only go two or three times a year. After the East, it receives the worst treatment," he added.

"IN THE SMALL towns, synagogues are belittled, but thousands of formerly, there are only older people. Those that are left include the 'conservatives' of Moscow, Kiev, Legipal, Leningrad, and a few others," Elia asserted.

"As a result of these policies," he said, "the young generations are losing contact with the deceased, and the tsarist system is no longer. About news consists largely of what the government has told them, and since they want to go to the synagogues test their future religion, they only go two or three times a year when they can be lost in the crowd, and not noticed the former ambassador."

PLEAS . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

with love. This is the basis of the Non-Violent Philosophy. They want and will not carry anybody's burdens, even the burden of guilt, because I have many friends here with whom I love very deeply.

The white man in the south said, "If we take an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, we'll start a race war." I think that the non-violent philosophy is the only way to stop this, and I believe that it will work. This is my idea of a world where people are equal, where there is peace and love, and where we can live together in harmony.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell insisted, "We are all Americans, and we should be working together to make this country a better place for all people."

Mills say they want to hire the best people, he observed, but the American is not the best people. It is the people of the world who are the best people, he said. Here we are threatened by Black Muslims and the Black Nationalist Movement, asserted Campbell.

"In an American," he emphasized, "we should want to go to America, but I don't know anything about Africa. I don't want a state for myself."

"The Negro people are not asking for anything. We want to be free and be citizens."

"If we do not want to be prisoners, we must fight. But we do need special attention. The Danville Mills are not the only ones. We have the right to be heard, and we have a rehabilitation program.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell insisted that the Negro community is being pitifully small, launched a newspaper, (George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi Party) and so do we have a media, (we should have a media) that would send me to the state prison, and we have a rehabilitation program.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell said that he is disturbed about areas like New York City, Philadelphia, and many others. "People who will not hold to the non-violent philosophy. They want to start back, Negroes thought the South was hell, so they thought what does the South have to gain? But we will get to heaven; they found it seek only to be real, to know that this is what we are doing, and to have a life with passion before I die."

If I were wrong, I am not wrong by doing this. I do not want to do evil, I do not want to see it this way, I do not want to be judged this way.

And have there been "wrongs," as the Supreme Court has held, a wrong of some kind has been made. "As a result of these policies," he said, "the young generations are losing contact with the deceased, and the tsarist system is no longer. About news consists largely of what the government has told them, and since they want to go to the synagogues test their future religion, they only go two or three times a year when they can be lost in the crowd, and not noticed the former ambassador."

"But I do not believe that Mr. Elia is the only one who is suffering by this, Let me speak in 'white' language."

I am not a "savior," I do not want and will not carry anybody's burdens, even the burden of guilt, because I have many friends here with whom I love very deeply...

"The white man in the south said, "If we take an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, we'll start a race war." I think that the non-violent philosophy is the only way to stop this, and I believe that it will work. This is my idea of a world where people are equal, where there is peace and love, and where we can live together in harmony.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell insisted, "We are all Americans, and we should be working together to make this country a better place for all people."

Mills say they want to hire the best people, he observed, but the American is not the best people. It is the people of the world who are the best people, he said. Here we are threatened by Black Muslims and the Black Nationalist Movement, asserted Campbell.

"In an American," he emphasized, "we should want to go to America, but I don't know anything about Africa. I don't want a state for myself."

"The Negro people are not asking for anything. We want to be free and be citizens."

"If we do not want to be prisoners, we must fight. But we do need special attention. The Danville Mills are not the only ones. We have the right to be heard, and we have a rehabilitation program.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell insisted that the Negro community is being pitifully small, launched a newspaper, (George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi Party) and so do we have a media, (we should have a media) that would send me to the state prison, and we have a rehabilitation program.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell said that he is disturbed about areas like New York City, Philadelphia, and many others. "People who will not hold to the non-violent philosophy. They want to start back, Negroes thought the South was hell, so they thought what does the South have to gain? But we will get to heaven; they found it
Jesters Sustain ‘Caligula’

by NICK CANTOR

OCT, 31 - All of the emotional impact and dramatic tension of Albert Camus' masterwork is present in the American Shakespeare Festival's production of ‘Caligula.’

The plot of Caligula is a tale of horror, despair, and death, with the main concern in Caligula's fall which actually takes place before the curtain rises. Until the death of Caligula's beloved sister Drusilla, Caligula was a perfect emperor, poet, and idealist. After Drusilla's death, Caligula disappears for three days.

When we find Caligula wandering back to the palace, we learn that he has discovered two truths during his wandering: that he is emperor, he, possess the moon, make the impossible possible not only the possible, but the actual.

Caligula sees nothing around him but shame and deluded people; nothing but hypocrisy and despicable behavior. Since he is emperor, he, Caligula, will impose the truth on him but shame and deluded people; nothing but hypocrisy and despicable people.

'Caligula' is a play for all time. It is a warning against futile exaltation of the false. With the discovery of the hypocrisy of the patricians, the futile idealism of Scipio on the one hand, and the fanatical extremism of Caligula on the other. We must not become complacent like the patricians if we expect to survive. The last words of the dying murdered, madman, and leader of men were, "I am still alive!."

The plot of Caligula is a tale of horror, despair, and death. The main concern in Caligula's fall which actually takes place before the curtain rises. Until the death of Caligula's beloved sister Drusilla, Caligula was a perfect emperor, poet, and idealist. After Drusilla's death, Caligula disappears for three days.

When we find Caligula wandering back to the palace, we learn that he has discovered two truths during his wandering: that he is emperor, he, possess the moon, make the impossible possible not only the possible, but the actual.

Caligula sees nothing around him but shame and deluded people; nothing but hypocrisy and despicable people. Since he is emperor, he, Caligula, will impose the truth on him but shame and deluded people; nothing but hypocrisy and despicable people. According to what he calls logic, Caligula will cleanse him of the patricians and Rome; will "free" them as he, himself, is free.

In the bloodbath that follows, Caligula works out the practical application of his theory by confiscating possessions, humiliating the patricians, impersonating Venus in a burlesque religious ceremony and above all, by always torturing and condemning to death. But his policy is a fatal one, not only for the unfortunate Romans who are his victims, but for Caligula as well. The tragedy lies within Caligula's realization that he had made the wrong choice: "Neither this world nor the next has a place for me. I have come to nothing, I have taken the wrong path."

BRUCE JAY portrays Caligula with a true understanding of the complexities that form this unique personality. Caligula would be classified a madman, but he is, satisfactorily accurate in his observations of the shams that surround him and sarcastically lucid in his analysis of people. Caligula can be tender or vicious, happy or melancholy, ridiculous or tragic.

Jay has taken this ever changing entity and changed accordingly with it. He has faithfully rendered each personal aspect of Caligula and given his life. The success of this presentation of Caligula owes much to the presence of Mr. Jay.

Johanna Wærmecke as Caesona, the official mistress of Caligula, was also a great asset to Caligula. Miss Wærmecke has a marvelous sense of dramatic timing and becomes a most convincing and often very touching Caesona.

In supporting roles, John Westney as Helicon and Richard Howell as Cherea both adequately satisfy the demands of their respective roles. Peter Melton is an unconvincing Scipio, perhaps this is partially due to the lack of depth which Camus has given to this rather inconspicuous character, but Mr. Melton's portrayal would lead one to believe Scipio was not an idealist, poet and lover of nature, but an idiot, instead. William Eakins as the idealistic, romantic patrician, Meroia, and Wilbur Hawthorne as the other "darling", Patricius, both give masterpieces in caricature. The remaining members of the cast, including other patricians, the poets, guards, servants and women, all add a note of comedy to the play, most of which was not intended.
Booter trample Union 6-2; Face Lord Jeffs Next, Nov. 9

OCT. 30—Despite a high wind and some spotty play, the Trinity booters scored a hard-fought 6-2 victory over a game but badly outmatched Union club.

"They just looked awful that first half," declared Coach Roy Dath after the game. But it was apparent from the outset that no amount of poor play would allow a victory to elude the grasp of the Bantams. The first Trinity goal was scored by the right outside as he was attempting to clear the ball from in front of his goal. The high wind carried the ball over his head and into the net scored by the Union right half, to elude the grasp of the Dathan. "The only bright spot for the Bantams was the failure to rise to the challenge of a strong Williams club, this game points out that there are chinks in the Bantam armor. Coach Dathan got right to the heart of the matter when he stated that the spirit and hustle are in need of improvement.

Amherst. Trinity's next opponent, is sporting a 1-4 record but, as coach Dathan pointed out, "you can throw the book out the window when we meet Amherst." The Lord Jeffs have beaten the same Tufts team (1-0) which was edged out by Trinity. They will be playing in front of a partisan crowd with nothing to lose and everything to gain if they upset the undefeated Dathan. The team which competed against Union in the first half of Wednesday's contest would surely fail before a determined Amherst assault.

Should they get by Amherst, the team will still have to contend with a Coast Guard club which has already beaten a rugged M.I.T. contour. Bantams travel to New London to meet the Cadets on Saturday.

Jesseemen Seek to Derail Unbeaten Cadet Express

With five down and three to go, the Bantams travel to New London tomorrow with hopes of destroying the Cadets — the holders of the remaining undefeated teams in the Eastern College Athletic Conference. The defending champs, the Coast Guard Academy only once while Otto Graham has been head coach, that was in 1958. Since the overall series between the two clubs is 12-6-1, in favor of Trinity.

Last year the Cadets apothecated a 14-7 victory on the road to tie despite a freezing rain that prevailed throughout the game. With sixteen returning lettermen, Coast Guard will start many of the men that faced Trinity last year, and overall Graham is probably in the most advantageous position he has seen in his five years at the Academy.

Returning will be the Cadets entire backfield with the exception of quarterback Steve Ratey. At fullback will be Bob Dudley, 6-1, 195 pounds, who was one of this year's co-captains for the Elites and White. The backfield will probably be Larry Epple, 5-9, 170, and junior Gerry Zanolli, although Zanolli will probably alternate with Walt Vigealmente, also a junior. At quarterback will be sophomore Ed Barrett, 6-1, 197, who last week threw two touchdown passes in the Cadets 12-7 win over Worcester.

The line, which averages 185 lbs., is made up of several veterans including co-captain Bill Thompson at center. Thompson is understudied by junior Cecil Allison, 6-4, 170, who has through his place kicking become almost as great a scoring threat as either Dudley or Hyde. Allison has personally accounted for five of the Cadets' victories over the past two years.

The end will be Bob Christianian, 6-6, 185 pound junior tackle and Tom McCarty, 6-1, 170, although senior lettermen Bill Watkins and Bill McDonald will also see action. Harold last week scored three times, twice on aerts from Barrett, and once on an interception.

The Cadets interior linemen include senior Jim Sharpe, 5-11, 180, and Andy Roseney, 6-1, 180, at the guards. At tackle will be junior Tom Omrl, 6-1, 220, and Pete Fouldon, 6-1, 215, will work from the opposite side of the line.

The Cadets, who were 5-1-1 last year, have an adequate travel: Norwich, Wesleyan, Amherst (7-0) and Worcester, bringing their undefeated status to nine since the middle of the 1962 season.

With the exception of Dee Roewe, the Bantams are at full strength once again and are expected to go to the air in their offensive attack. In 1961 Coast Guard ended Trinity's bid for an undefeated season. The Bantams' intentions seem clear enough.

Swami's Prediction:

Coast Guard—17
Trinity—14

Harriers Chilled by CC, 22-33; Shine in Loss

OCT. 30—Trinity's cross country team was cooled by the weather today, as the harriers dropped to last place in Central Connecticut College. The loss was their second in three outings. The only bright spot for the Bantams was the continued excellence of George Sommar, Captain Alden Gardner, and "The Three." Senior captain Mark broke the tape a full 33 seconds ahead of Artie Orloff, while "The Three" ran in personal course records.

On Friday, the Harriers travel to Boston to compete in the Eastern Cross Country Championship. Schools from all over the eastern seaboard will be represented, and the entries will include some of the best runners in the country.

Best barley malt

Premium-priced barley malt—the best money can buy—is one of the keys to that satisfying Budweiser taste. One more of the seven special things we do to make your enjoyment of Budweiser even greater!

KING OF BEERS • ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC. • ST. LOUIS • NEWARK • LOS ANGELES • TAMPA