Trinity Adopts Honor Code
For Summer
by KEVIN SWEENEY

A few weeks ago, the Student Senate, upon the request of Professor Howard G. Scott, met to discuss the functions of the current honor code and to propose a more efficacious one for the summer. Although the Senate had a large majority who favored the idea, they needed to appeal to the student body for approval. After a third referendum since in the spring, a draft honor code was passed. Section 1 reads:

Section 1: The honor system is defined as a system of student self-government under which every student is responsible both for his own academic honesty and the honesty of his peers.

Section 2: Every student shall pledge both to abide by the honor system and to report any violation of the system.

Mr. Edwards, director of the Student Senate, stated that the Council is appointed rather than elected, and that the Senate is a reflection of the various honor code committees dating back to 1959. They were also looking into the possibility of an honor code for graduate students. The new code includes a clause making it a violation of the system to receive unacknowledged aid on any written work. The code also contains a clause making it a violation of the system to use unacknowledged aid and shall be honor bound to report any violation of the system.

Vilakaza Scores Rhoodie's Apartheid Definition, Cites South African Denial of Negro's Freedom
by KEVIN SWEENEY

Apartheid is not just a South African issue. Apartheid is not just a South African government; it is the policy of the United States and other countries.

Apartheid means self-determination. It is not, as various people have said, about Christ. It is not about being black or white. It is about the right to live and work as you please.

The Bantu Education Act, the Mines and Works Act, the Native Urban Areas Act, and the THE BANTU EDUCATION Act, Vilakaza affirmed, "is a fraud," said Vilakaza, who added, "It is not, as various people have said, about Christ. It is not about being black or white. It is about the right to live and work as you please."

"It's a fraud," said Vilakaza, who added, "It is not, as various people have said, about Christ. It is not about being black or white. It is about the right to live and work as you please."

Vogel Predicts Problems: New Curriculum and Code
by MAL. CARTER

What are the planned administrative changes for the coming Trinity College? Dr. Vogel, Dean of Graduate Studies and Director of the Summer School, was recently interviewed by the TRINITY COLLEGE BULLETIN.

"The problem with the new curriculum is that it is not as good as the old one," said Dr. Vogel. "The new curriculum is more expensive and more demanding, and relatively more time is spent on abstract, and less on concrete, learning.

"The new curriculum is also more expensive and more demanding, and relatively more time is spent on abstract, and less on concrete, learning."

The Bushnell Symphony Series recently announced five evenings of outstanding musical entertainment as part of their thirty-fourth season. As in the past, the series will bring five professional symphony orchestras to Hartford for several weeks. Although concert dates have not been announced, the series is expected to be as successful as in previous years. The concerts will be held at the Bushnell Symphony Hall.

The symphony performances will feature the following orchestras:

1. The Boston Symphony, directed by Seiji Ozawa, will perform on March 11.
3. The Philadelphia Orchestra, directed by Eugene Ormandy, will perform on March 26.
4. The Chicago Symphony Orchestra, directed by Sir Georg Solti, will perform on April 3.
5. The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, directed by Jeanne Baxtresser, will perform on April 10.

PAGE THREE
Death of a Spirit

"I do not believe that there is a country in the world where, in proportion to the population, there are so few ignorant and at the same time so many individuals.

"In America there are but few wealthy persons; nearly all Americans have to take a profession. Now, every profession requires an apprenticeship. The American desire to be in general education only the early years of life. At fifteen they enter upon their calling, and thus their education generally ends when ours begins. If it continued beyond that point, it seems only to be specialized and profitable; one must take up a business; and one takes up only those applications whose immediate practicality is recognized."

Alexis de Toqueville, Democracy in America

Alexis de Toqueville wrote that passage 150 years ago. While Americans today emerge at a later age into society, do we not de Toqueville's remarks on advancement studies still hold?

In essence this spirit of practicality is what the purveyors of an liberal arts tradition must mend. We have that Trinity, a school which was characterized as being very businesslike in 1939, is regarded by the many, if not the majority, as only a stepping stone into a well-paying job.

A more enlightened policy should be made to nurture the embryonic inquisitive nature of the student before the abortive theses. One can not avoid the fact that after a traditionally a new program, a college-wide conduction of the better professors of each department to capture the spirit of the incoming freshmen.

We all know this spirit of pragmatic and practical pervades the classroom.

One professor said in effect: Over the many years, I have spent much time in improving and rearranging my courses to provoke curiosity in my students. But every time I wind up giving them what they think they should have. Sidesteps behind the facts, and he becomes disenchanted, causing the professor to become more discouraged, and remodel and redesign. Only rarely does someone latch on to the brass ring. Who is at fault? Really no one. It is a mutual condemnation, the enlightened tradition, with everyone running away when charged with the crime.

Chances in attitude cannot be legislated. They must be created. Ideals and goals must be formed. Direction must be given. But all of these pleas have been made before. Everyone is aware that they should be implemented.

But how?

We have the hunch that so much depends on the first few weeks here. The eager young freshman comes to Trinity. He is full of mixed motivations, ideas, worries, and prospects. What happens? He may be solicited with only one combination of professors, or he hears of the numerous derogatory remarks towards other dormitories. So is there is there to take only what might seem of practical value. By mid-November he is on a rut and within the first three and half years digging himself. Sometimes they wind up not digging him out but burying the corpse of what might have been a thinking man.

Mindful that freshmen week is being reviewed, we suggest a possible extension of the week of the lectur and give the College's better professors a chance to speak. The Senate lecture series has the keynote speakers and listeners to provocative lectures. Let the freshmen with top notch speakers and seminars. Have the Senate give them their support. Cut down the time spent in Chapel. (Condense the time given to briefings of the student body.)

It should be a concerted effort. We cannot stress the fact that students should be shown rather than told. As at the very beginning. It could be the start of a new attitude. And that will no doubt make better humans instead of purveyors.

A Complaint

For the benefit of those students as yet unfamiliar, there has been a change in school policy regarding the drawing of rooms. Whereas in the past rising seniors have been allowed to recognize their junior-year rooms, if they so wished, from henceforth they will no longer be allowed to do so. This decision was made by "someone" above the office of the treasurer acting on complaints of room switching and various other evils inherent in the present system.

We, the undersigned, would like to bring to the attention of the office of the treasurer and to the student body in general; the accepted existing policy was changed with no notice given whatsoever. The surreptitious and covert manner in which this change has been made works a financial hardship on those of us who have made considerable investments in the improvement of our present rooms on the assumption that we would be occupying them for two years. In all fairness, such a change of policy should have been made with some notice given one year prior to the effects of such a change. In essence, we do not object that the form nor do we contest the right of the administration to make it. We do object, however, to the way in which the reform was made and to the complete disregard of the students' time and expense.

The new policy is obviously an attempt to circumvent those involving the long-term tenure of rooms by certain organizations, organizations, granting or not granting the last end. It also, however, penalizes those students that have improved upon dink block and concrete and would like to enjoy these surroundings for one more year.

We feel justifiably in asking for a year's grace but whether or not we are granted one more year, it is too much to ask that the student be informed in advance of policy changes that will affect him!

A Mistake

I would like to correct once again an article that the Tripod continues to make and which has caused several people to reach the wrong conclusion. I have no time given my views on South African apartheid policy by group at this college. The talk which I delivered in November was an exposition of the views of the white South African government as related to me as a deputy of the Minister of Justice at that country.

A Thank You

I thank you very much for devoting a whole page of your recent issue to the students' new dormitory to be erected on the South Campus, I am glad that such a complete story could be given to the College community. A very important ingredient in the planning of this dormitory was the advice and counsel received from many students. Last year a senate committee gave a great deal of time to this project, and if other students individually offered comment and criticism, it is largely because of this that we have arrived at a plan that in my opinion fulfills the needs of privacy and small group living. This, I think, will make an outstanding dormitory.

Pipes Win $300 In Contest; To Appear in Folk Concert

The Pipes, fresh from winning $300 in the First Annual Silver Bowl, sponsored by the Elks of Northampton, Massachusetts will lead five folk music groups in a concert Saturday, May 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the Washington Room, The College student group took second place in the April 25 contest. First prize was awarded to the Dartmouth Engineer's. The Pipes will donate their $300 winnings to the College.

The Pipes are the host of the popular "Fusion Down Sounds" program each fall. Their appearance in the May 2 concert will mark the last campus appearance this season.

The other performers at the concert will offer a variety of folk music entertainment, The Rolling Stones, consisting of three members of the Pipes and a Harvard student, have appeared with the Highwaymen and The Phoenix Singers during the past year.

Tickets for the program, priced at $1.25 per person for Trinity students and their dates and at $1.50 for others, are on sale at Meader Hall.

Senate Decides to Ask Room Reconsideration

The Senate last night passed 10-10-1 a motion recommending that the administration postpone their recent decision regarding the prorogation of juniors to retain their rooms for the senior year.

Senator Dan Geenham '65, proposed that the College delay any intended change in rooming policy until the spring of 1965.

Former Senate president Michael R. Anderson '64, cited several instances in which juniors had expressed "considerable" effort in furnishing their rooms. Anderson urged the Senators to note the financial loss to be incurred by these students under the recent ruling.

After the meeting was adjourned, President Rice Potterveld '65, asked that all visitors leave the Senate floor for additional closed proceedings.

that on his honor the student had neither given nor received unrecognized aid on the paper.

Section 5: Examinations and tests will not be proctored, but an instructor may be present in the examination room at his option. Students are required to write examinations and tests in the appointed room and at the appointed time.

Article III

Section 1: The Honor System shall be administered by the Senior Class Council consisting of eight members of the student body, four to be selected by the Director of the Summer Session prior to the opening of Term I and four to be elected by the appointed four members during the first week of Term I.

Section 2: The Council shall have sole authority to consider all apparent violations, to summon the accused person(s) and witnesses, and to conduct an appropriate and formal investigation of all charges.

Section 3: Should the Council by a vote of three-fourths of the members present find that a student has broken his honor pledge, it shall suspend the guilty person(s) from the College. If the guilty student is: 1) a regular Trinity undergraduate, his suspension shall last for one year; 2) a student enrolled in other college or school, a full report of his suspension from Trinity shall be sent to the original college or school.

The Director of the Summer Session shall have the power to review a case if 1) new information becomes available; 2) it appears procedural errors have occurred.

College Annuls Room Policy

The college administration has decided to annul the fall retention of rising seniors to keep their present rooms again next year if they so desire.

No date was listed on the room selection information sheet for the usual senior privilege.

According to administrative sources, under ten rooms were retained by former occupants last fall. The same sources protested the "non-retention" of "non-moving" in some of the better rooms on campus for several years, despite the efforts of seniors of any chance to occupy these rooms.

One administrator commented that the ruling as it stood was "proving to be a means of breaking the 'natural process' of room selection.

The main student complaint is that the ruling, combined with the intention of two-year occupancy, will now have to be abandoned. A letter expressing such a complaint appears in today's TIPPOD.

Assignment of dormitory rooms for next year will begin on May 4. Priority for selection will be determined by lot on April 29 for each class. Rising seniors will begin choosing their rooms on May 4; rising juniors, on May 11 and 12; and rising sophomores, on May 18.

war, the academic has improved "enormously," while proper attention has not been given to students' activities outside the college.

Bride, he explained, will be concerned with the students' environment, its improvement a step toward "administrative efficiency," said Vogel. It is part of a trend, he remarked, toward unifying elements in the College.

Bride hoped that with the creation of the Director of Student Affairs, the College would be able to "give more attention to the growth and development of the students' environment." He added, "I'm going to learn more about students," he declared. As a consequence of the new, we will have better records on students, what they are interested, what they do extravagantly.

He does, stressed Bride, wish to determine how the College will move as it grows.

Any changes that are made, he will continue to be of any evolutionary nature; and all offices under his supervision will continue functioning.

The Deans of Students' position should actually be "strengthened and not contained," remarked Bride.

Speaking about some of the problems that will face him, Bride said he was "trying to get at the heart of the academic problem." He added, "I'm not so sure that there is a problem; we have tried on a per se or whether people think there is just a problem this year, whether there is a problem at all.

About automobiles, he mentioned that "the students themselves will pay even greater attention" to their responsibility.

FORD MUSTANG

A car as American as its name. And one that aptly fits the dictionary definition: small, hardy and half-wild. Conceived as a nimble, sporty car, the Mustang offers distinctive styling in two tasty packages—Convertible and Hardtop. Both are 2-door, 4-passenger vehicles. The price? Sporty going never came more economically.

It took a lot of hard work and many people with creativity, imagination and drive to get the "grrrr" to town. All kinds of skills were involved: styling, research, manufacturing, marketing, product planning and many others were needed and will be needed in the future. For the Mustang is merely the latest expression of Ford Motor Company's ability to anticipate modern tastes in driving.

In Ford Motor Company's search to find better ways to do the unexpected, there is the constant competition, people with a flair for the future. This year, approximately 1,000 college graduates in all areas of study and with all kinds of majors can enjoy the challenge of creating new automotive marketing and manufacturing concepts. If you're interested in joining a leader in a growing industry, check with your Placement Office or write us. Maybe you can help "tame" the next Mustang.

THERE'S A FUTURE FOR YOU WITH FORD
Morality, Maturity

complimented by the hypocrisy seen in the exemplar society of their parents. The embryo student believes consistent with our actions and to view their consequences soberly is a noble one. Dr. Rule points out, yet few do well, especially with respect to their behavior.

Dr. Rule begins his article as follows:

The arguments for and against greater permissiveness take many forms — the discussion of the right to freedom and privacy on the part of students, and of the duty to prevent immorality, limit tempers, and protect the college's reputation on the part of the administrators. Nevertheless, the psychic, moral, and physical consequences of intercourse are the real issues. We have devoted the first part of this article to a consideration of some of these factors, motivations, motivating factors, and to the individual and his society.

Professor Langhorne noted that the college life of the student is the years of self-realization, years in which he must come to his chief potential. A sexual relationship in some instances then, rather than serving as a "haven of permissiveness," might foster guilt feelings, its implications phase him, and prevent him from retaining his self-image. Maturity involves "a judgment in terms of future potential. A sexual relationship in some cases may prevent self-realization, and so longer is a loss of self-respect for a woman who has experienced it. Nevertheless, this is not to imply that the maintenance of virginity is no longer important to a woman. It remains a "major problem in the midst of concurrent search for personal identity."

Sadly a decision not to yield must be made again and again, and, to yield is irrevocable. Dr. Lee feels that the Trinity student does not regard pre-marital sex relations as "bad" if accompanied by close contact and the proper affection: children should not play with sex. We find a similar re-echoed by Dr. Rule:

The general rationalization, if that is what it is, is that sexual relations are aesthetically acceptable if the two are "in love, that is immediately some abuse of this concept of "love," its meanings and implications vary with the individual and his society. It is not absolute. Worse yet, these instances of abuse receive the greatest attention. No one can fail to notice surprising instances of cruelty and immorality on Vermont Street, the Field House, or the Washington Room.

But we must not subvert ourselves into developing these cases as a general rule, an axiom. Professor Langhorne emphasized specifically.

By then coming to this awareness of the willingness offered to serve Bud at 40°. And this is a fact: chilling beer to near-freezing temperatures hides both taste and aroma. 40° is just right.

To make it easy for you, we've asked all the bartenders to serve Bud at 40°. Also, every refrigerator is designed to cool Bud at 40°.

Of course, if you're on a picnic or something and the Bud is on ice and nobody brought a thermometer... oh, well, Things can't always be perfect.
Springfield Scrubs Bantams 15-0; McNeil Washed Out

by BILL LIND

Springfield, Mass., April 21 - Those fall clouds which hung so bleakly over the Connecticut Valley during the early part of this week receded for a few hours this afternoon, at precisely the wrong time for the Bantams. Promptly at three o'clock, Dan Janes's charges slunk onto the field at Springfield College. By 3:40 the clouds were back, but the Bantams had already been quite thoroughly washed down the drain by the Gymnasts, losing by 15-0.

The sloppy track didn't bother Springfield southpaw Bruce MacDougall, who scored five times in the sixth inning. The powerful Gymnasts scored five times in the sixth and added four more in both the seventh and eighth, Bob Scheffer and Andy Wilkins each scoring three hits for the winners; the latter's collection Included a home run.

The Bantams' offense was strictly nonexistent. Bruce MacDougall and Joe Hourihan were the only Bantams to garner even a single hit against the Gymnasts, who struck out 11 and allowed no one to pass second base.

The victory evened Springfield's record at 2-1. The Bantams, now 1-3-5, face faceless rivals, the Lord Jeffs of Amherst, at home tomorrow afternoon, if it doesn't rain...

THE ABOVE SHOT is one of 53 which the vaunted Trinity offense threw at the goalies to defenders per minute in Saturday's game against Worcester Polytech. The barrage produced 8 goals, 5 unassisted and 3 assisted, as the Bantams scored their final two runs, Kingswood 1-3, face their nemesis, the Lord Jeffs of Amherst, only to see Chris Dunham, Bantam pitching, and we hope that he does not accept defeat TOO gracefully, but always with the realization that he is just one facet of his life at Trinity. This is the mark of a mature individual, a factor which makes the athlete at Trinity deserving of the "jock" which does not contribute to life is his athletic worth.

FURTHERMORE, if we assume that it would be necessary to make a radical change in the policies of the school in order to substantially bolster the athletic program, I would ask how many of us would be willing to accept the consequences of such a move. Most of us are here for one of two reasons. Either a particular athletic team is our number one concern, or we support the school as a whole. Both situations result from the overall policy of the administration.

Despite limited funds, the prestige and academic level of Trinity have been greatly enhanced in the past ten years. Now the only ways we are going to expand the university's athletic program is by lowering the standards for both academics, or both. The scholar-athlete who comes to Trinity knows that the skills of college ballplayer will not be to run faster or hit a ball farther than anyone else might take a reputation for Trinity College, is it the kind of reputation an athlete wants for four-year school? Moreover, the consequences of such a move. Either a particular athletic team is our number one concern, or we support the school as a whole. Both situations result from the overall policy of the administration.
