Out of the Night... Steals a House

Who is the man who wandered into at least two fraternity houses on the evening of Saturday, November 7, supposedly to find out if there had been any illegal drinking by those under twenty-one?

Mr. Edward J. Polaski, head of the Connecticut Liquor Control Commission, said that no members of his office would have any reason to inspect fraternity houses as they are concerned with licensed establishments only.

Dean Roy Heath said that he had no idea who might have had an interest in illegal drinking here, and cannot later catch up.

At one of the houses, the mysterious caller was quoted as saying that he was glad to see that no one under the legal age had been drinking. He ended his statement to one of the members on leaving the building, but still no one of that fraternity made any effort to discover his identity.

The facts are less clear at the second house, but they seem to follow much the same pattern, and again the man was never asked to show any form of identification.

At first it was rumored on campus that a member of the state or city police might well have been the unknown inspector, but both agencies firmly denied that he was one of their men.

Campus Fails To Fill Chest With $8,000

The chairman of the Campus Chest Drive said last night at the finals that he expected students to fill the coffers to the extent of $8,500 and possibly $7,000.

Gilbert P. Winter, chairman of the Campus Chest Drive, said that the drive did not reach its goal of $8,000.

However, he explained that "the outcome was tempered by many factors, and was not directly to any one thing," he continued.

He cited the expenses of different events, costs of advertising, and competence into considering upcoming administrative actions.

He expressed the opinion that some students failed to regard the Campus Chest as the single 'initial campaign of the year.' However, "on the whole, the campaign was successful." Most students took an active part in the drive.

Coming into the last day of the campaign, 70% of the students had been canvassed.

J.A.'s Should Live in the Same House

A Conference on "The Role of the Ministry in the Twentieth Century" will be held in McCook Auditorium on Sunday, December 6, from 10:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Addressing the gathering will be Mr. Nebri Monrover, Research Psychologist at the University of Illinois, at 1 p.m., Professors Harvey V. Cohoon, Andrew Newton Theological School, at 3 p.m., and Chaplain William Coffin, Yale University, at 4:15 p.m. All students are invited to attend these lectures.

The conference, which aims to "stimulate young men of courage and competence into considering a career in the Ministry," is sponsored by The Booth Ferris National Ministerial Recruitment Program.

The majority of those attending will be students from colleges in Connecticut, Rhode Island, and western Massachusetts interested in doing graduate work in theology.

Chaplain Coffin, main speaker of the conference, is best known as the Freedom Riding chaplain who traveled throughout the South denouncing southern clergy for not backing the Negro movement.

The nephew of the noted Protestant theologian, Henry Sloan Coffin, the Yale chaplain also served as a member of the Peace Corps Advisory Council.

Senate Adopts 'Restriction' Penalty; Calls For Meetings

NOV. 16 - The Senate tonight approved a new penalty to be used at "the discretion of the Senator," to be called Restriction, according to the resolution of Senate Committee Chairman, William Chapin, '45.

Restriction was defined as falling between Admonition and Censure, and having all the characteristics of Censure except that the student's name will not be published, and it will not appear on his record. Also, the Senate ruled, two restrictions would lead to Censure and not expulsion.

The Senate also heard President Knis Potter well call for monthly open meetings at which President Jacob and other administrators would speak on college policy, enabling students to be made more fully aware of the reasons for policy decisions. The measure was passed with no dissenting votes and only four abstentions.

Finally, Senator Mike Scoppa reported on the problem of young children trespassing on the campus, saying that the college is responsible and liable for them when they are on the campus. Senator Scoppa presented a motion that the Senate support the work of a College committee on the subject under Mr. Bridge.

Boothers Garner Sampson Cup; Rated As Best In New England

NOV. 22 - - Trinity's varsity soccer team this afternoon received the James M. Sampson Championship Trophy, symbolic of supremacy in the New England Intercollegiate Soccer League.

Coach Roy Dath accepted the 36th annual award, at the Harvard Club in Cambridge, Trinity last won the trophy in 1956.

The Bantams, who finished the regular season with an 8-1 record, were awarded the trophy on the basis of their win-loss percentage, Dartmouth, Trip's opponent in this afternoon's first round N.C.A. A championship game, finished in a tie for third place with a record of seven wins and three losses.

Bridgewater University, which, along with Trinity and Dartmouth, received a bid to the tournament, finished fourth in the Sampson Cup ratings.

Last year, the Bantams finished with a 7-1-1 record, were fourth in the Sampson Cup rating and did not receive a bid to the N.C.A.A. tournament. This year, their record was 8-1. Thus, the difference between a win and tie decided the difference between a number five rating one year and a number one rating the next.

In the Chapel

On Zoo Understanding

by David Rohmann

Tuesday evening the Christian Association sponsored a traveling drama group from the Union Theological Seminary in a presentation of Edward Albee's "The Zoo Story."

In the discussion that followed the performance, Tom Striling, who did a clever and powerful interpretation of Jerry, was unable to give a definite "reason" why this particular play was chosen by a religious group, but asserted the audience that the values that Jerry imparted to the puerile mind of Peter were positive values. Striling also thought that the play stressed the difficulty of communication in modern society and that the creation of Peter was the reaction of a man forced into awareness through finally having communicated with someone. George Hiltner III played Peter as a sort of prissy brute. He justified the fact that Peter didn't get up and leave when Jerry first spoke to him in two ways: either Peter was afraid of provoking an attack by Jerry if he tried to leave, or else Peter was a gregarious and friendly sort of fellow (in blissful ignorance of Jerry's impending doom).

Along with this mental preparation practice physical preparation (or stimulation); push yourself; hit or stand very close to him; locate him; become violent as if he has offended you (pushing Peter off bench, calling him vegetable); concentrate, set the mood. The climax should be abrupt, unexpected, and sudden, while the victim is in a tangled state. This physical seduction very much resembles the seduction of Peter's moral seduction. Peter considered himself a very moral man until, figuratively, the clock struck and he was aware that he had betrayed his Christian Ethics. In his awareness he symbolically repeats (Oh my God... If he repeats having been forced into an immoral act by a person whom thought to be a perfect stranger or with the caretaker's daughter but with whom having been seduced by a person who thinks heterosexual love is a substitute for adolescent fantasies about love; who experiences heterosexual love only once capable with "the little ladies,"

...don't pour it down the side?

(We'd rather you wouldn't)

Of course, a lot of people do pour beer down the side of the glass. They say it keeps the head down.

It sure does. And we think that's a shame.

Maybe it sounds silly, but we spend more dollars on just the bubbles than any other brewery in America. Instead of pumping them in mechanically, we let Budweiser create its own bubbles with our exclusive Beechwood Ageing process and natural carbonation. It takes a lot longer to do it this way. But it's worth it.

When those bubbles get together at the top of your glass you've got a better head, a cleaner taste, a smoother, more drinkable beer. Budweiser even smells better (really...just take a sniff next time you pour).

Let's get back to the bubbles...they're pretty good. Budweiser. that Bud...that's beer!

Silvestri, Eakin's Picnic Gayly; 'Waiter' Serves Poor Fare

by Douglas Cusimano

Friday and Saturday night saw the first major production of the season at Trinity, when participating in the better written of the two plays, but the acting was extremely mixed. "One Potato, Two Potato," by M. Z. Eikahoff, which seems to be a very unlikable situation of the two plays. The actors, Michael Williams showed some signs of attitude, but like John Tobe, enough was seen to make a fair judgment. On the other hand, "The Dumb Waiter," by Harold Pinter, interested us in a very

See You There

Good Luck. At this point that's all we can say to our top-flight soccer team as it takes on the Green Men from Dartmouth on our field at 1:30 p.m. today. Our 8-1 record and the fact that we received the top ranking from the N.C.A.A. indicate that we do have a darn good team.

It has taken two years for the team finally to achieve the recognition they so well deserve. And it is a testament to the vitality and the spirit of these boys that they have not lost sight of the fact that their strength lies in their team spirit.

Beans in Your Ears

Grind, grind, blinking lights, cup of coffee, cup of coke, good talk, good idea, more blinking, another closing. Why can't we stay here? It's the Student Center the Student Snack Bar.

What's Wrong With Trinity II

By the very fact that they are physically removed from the campus, they are bound to feel less directly involved with the campus.

We believe that there are many problems in doing this, but they can be overcome.

If you want to get down to economics, we pay collectively over $1,500,000 a year in general fees. Certainly this entitles Trinity to facilities which are geared to the needs and the tempo of our lives.

We don't need complete snack bar facilities. (You can still close the grill before 12 or 1, or 2 or 3. There's no place to live in.)

In summary, the modern Trinity is In large measure the creation of a small group of dedicated men, e.g., Clements, Seaver, Jacobs, Holland, etc. The collective dedication to a life made by a group of trustees and administrators who have given everything that they have to this school.

Therefore, Frost, the next time you come to campus, don't stamp the lawn in front of the President's house or knock down the students in New York State?

CLASS OF 1948:

The President of your college, who has been under attack these past few weeks, is one of a handful of men who have been fighting hard as long as they can in spite of what has happened on the campus. They haven't given up.

Trinity will not just sit and watch events meet during the depression years of the thirties, and survived during the war years of the forties because of the assignment of a V-12 unit to the campus. The College was reorganized and revitalized following the war years under the superb direction of Dr. Jacobs, one of the Trustees who conspired in the liquidation decision.

Dr. Jacobs has carried on splendidly since the resignation of President Funston. The Trinity picture has improved immeasurably over the past few years, particularly in such areas as academic standards, library services, scholarship assistance, and athletics.

And we will never appreciate the dimensions of Dr. Jacobs' leadership if you bear in mind the fact that the average age of the Trinity alumni is only 35, and it is to these graduates that the college must look for financial support.

Although 'Trinity goes and we cannot provide financial resources available at our three modern sister colleges.

It is a fact that we have lengthened the academic and financial distance between ourselves and several other fine schools with whom we were once comparable.

Trinity's qualitative growth is a testament to the capability and dedication of the students who are at Trinity. And it is a fact that Trinity is no longer the college that it was ten years ago.

In conclusion, the modern Trinity is In large measure the creation of a small group of dedicated men, e.g., Clements, Seaver, Holland, etc. The collective dedication to a life made by a group of trustees and administrators who have given everything that they have to this school.

If All Were Evil

The fact that college students are mature does not make them guiltless. Why can't we stay here?

We ought to make it clear that we believe that we are a small, predominantly residential college for a better way of living in the suburbs.

TO THE EDITOR:

The criticism of my articles by Mr. Richard Goodwin, both of whose letters were published in the Nov. 17 issue, seem to me to be these: 1) that I am not a Christian, and 2) that I am not a Christian. As for the first, I believe that goodness can only be defined in terms of the strength of bro-
The Extracurricular Story

Student Opinion on Activities Is Wide

by David Downes

According to a recent TRIPOD survey, attitudes towards extracurricular activities on campus are far from unified. Although some students are enthusiastic about such activities, others feel that they are a waste of time and energy. The survey, conducted by the Office of Student Affairs, found that 66.5% of students are active in 35 clubs and organizations on campus, ranging from sports teams to political groups.

One student who is himself doing well in his studies at Trinity is John Smith, who is active in the campus newspaper, The Review. When asked about the role of extracurricular activities on campus, he said, "I think they are important, but I don't think they are as important as academics. However, they do provide a good break from the work and help me stay motivated." Another student, Jane Doe, who is active in the campus service organization, said, "I think extracurricular activities are important because they help develop leadership skills and team work." A third student, Mark Johnson, who is active in the campus music group, said, "I think extracurricular activities are important because they help me relax and have fun.""
Poet Hecht Deals With Innocence, Inhumanity

Anthony Hecht read a selection of his poems to a West Lounge audience Tuesday evening, November 17.

In "A Hill" Mr. Hecht tells of a vision he had in an Italian flea market. The vision is of a hill he had known in his childhood which reflects a wish to return to early innocence, an oft repeated theme in his poems.

Mr. Hecht then read a poem of both religious and secular significance—"The Man Who Married Magdalene." This poem, Mr. Hecht explained, revealed "a husband's bitterness at the loss of any sense of ordinariness, as well as his anger for an unfaithful wife."

After he read "More Light, More Light" he described it as a taxing poem relating a renaissance execution in England and an execution outside of Buchenwald. The poem reflected man's inhumanity to man, which Mr. Hecht frequently deals with in his poetry.

Mr. Hecht concluded with "The Dover Bitch" a parody on the title of a poem by Matthew Arnold, and expressed his "affection for the man who made the world we inhabit possible."

Professors Attend Meeting

Professors Edwin P. Nye and August E. Sapega of the College's Engineering Department attended a four-day conference at Columbia's Arden House campus in New York City which explored "educational needs spanning the next century and the vital role to be played by the scientist-engineer."

The conference conducted from October 25th to 28th was sponsored by Columbia's School of Engineering and Applied Science in honor of the school's 100th Anniversary.

Trinity is associated with this school in the Combined Plan Program which permits a student to receive three years of study at an associated liberal arts college, such as Trinity, and then two years of engineering study at Columbia.

A.D. Takes Tennis Crown; Phi-Psi, SN Game Disputed

With the victory of Alpha Delta Phi, the American League pennant, the Intramural fall tennis season came to a close. However, touch football will have to wait until next Spring to determine the college champs.

The playoff game between Sigma Nu and Phi Psi, apparently won by the National League's Sigma Nu 7-4, must be replayed. Phi Psi the American League's ace pair protested the game to the Intramural sports council which ruled in their favor.

Early in that game, Phi Psi kicked-off to Sigma Nu which permitted the ball to roll untouched into their end zone. Phi Psi recovered the pigskin and claimed a touchdown under the onside kick rule. The referee declared a touchdown and Sigma Nu took over from their twenty. Had the score counted as the council ruled it should have, Phi Psi would have won 12-7.

The American League Intramural races were almost as close. In tennis, Alpha Delta Phi defeated all opponents to gain an undefeated season, while runner-up Jarvis could only muster a 4-5 record.

There were also a number of juniors (Bissel, Joe Hourihan, and Rich Carlson, Paul Brundage, Van Janis, and Allen Cooper) who gained invaluable experience this season. It only seems fair, however, to say that Wesleyan, Colby, Tufts, and Williams were all operating with a staff of starting sophomores and juniors.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY'S EXPERIMENTAL GAS TURBINE SUPERHIGHWAY TRUCK ANTICIPATES THE NATIONAL HIGHWAY NETWORK OF THE 1970s.

A new era in trucking is almost here. When the 4,100-mile national highway network is completed it will be possible for the first time to schedule coast to coast, big payload hauling. Ford Motor Company's answer to the challenge is this experimental tractor-trailer combination. A tandem axle drive tractor, powered by a 600 hp gas turbine engine permits a cruising speed of 600 miles. Designed for big loads, non-stop operation, the two-man cab includes sleeping facilities, fold-away table, lavatory, toilet, oven, refrigerator and TV for the co-driver—with over 6'3" of headroom. Because of its cruising speed, the truck will be compatible with the normal passenger car flowrate of traffic. Its unique features are its odorless exhaust and extremely quiet operation.

Anticipating the opportunities and needs of the future is standard practice at Ford Motor Company. That's why it's such an exciting place to work. Look to Ford Motor Company for a career with growth potential and satisfaction—from pure science to manufacturing... marketing to labor relations.

Trin Plays Dartmouth At 1:30
As NCAA Tourney Opener Here

by "Wag" Merrill

This afternoon at 1:30, Trinity's varsity soccer team meets the Big Green of Dartmouth in the first round of the N.C.A.A. championships.

The Bantams, who outfits their regular-season opponents, 229-76, and outscored them, 35-11, completed a record of eight wins and one loss to earn the number one New England bid to the tournament. Twenty-five years ago the Bantams came in the first four games as the booters ran over MTT (5-0), Odys (7-0), Tuffs (7-0), and the University of Hartford (7-1). Center forward Bob Cole, the team's leading scorer, tallied eight times in those first four games, as eight other Bantams contributed a total of twelve goals: Mark Josephson, Craig Doerge, Bruce Polemis, Dan Smoyer, Mike Hickey, John Smith, Steve Eliot, and Barry Leghorn.

Returning from the narrow defeat at Williamstown, the booters tallied five more times in the third and fourth games and six times in the first half as they met unbeaten Union, 6-2. Despite a 5-1 overtime victory against Amherst, the Bantams' hopes for a tournament bid received a nudger as they played their worst game of the year in front of the N.C.A.A. selection committee.

With a record of six wins and one loss, Trin had to defeat both Tufts and Wesleyan in the final two games of the regular season to receive a tournament bid. Goals by Polemis and Smoyer gave the Bantams a 2-1 halftime lead against the Cadets, but a fourth quarter score by the Bears forced the game into overtime. It was at this point that Ousman Sallah broke the spirit with a goal at the 34-minute mark.

For those of you who have been out of town or even away from the radio, this is one of the key contests of the year for the Bantams as they prepare for the NCAA tournament. Ousman Sallah started the drive with a point by his ability to bounce back in a late-season game with Cornell. Trailing 5-3 with 1:55 remaining in the third period, the Bantams came roaring back to cop a 4-3 overtime win. They are billed as a strong defensive club in the tournament. Larry Geiger, the Big Green's ace goalie, registered the only 1-0 shutout in the ten games. Larry Geiger, the Big Green's ace goalie, ranked second in the nation for goals allowed. The Bantams' leading scorer is sophomore Bill Smoyer. The Indians compiled a total of 20 goals in ten contests, as compared to an average of 7.8 per game for last year's squad.

Dartmouth's leading scorer is sophomore Bill Schriner. The Bantams outscored the Big Green 11-2, as Ousman Sallah won the individual high score. Rissel, who had the points a game as a freshman, will be substituted for both Bel- fiore, who averaged nineteen points a game last season, and Steve Eliot.

The scoring punch will be expected to come primarily from Belfiore, who averaged nineteen points a game last season, and Overbeck, who holds freshman records for the summaries, total points, average, and individual high score. Rissel, who was forced off his feet quickly in the first half, will be substituted for both Bel- fiore and Overbeck.

Trinity Five Lacks Height, Stresses Precise Shooting

Coach Richie Shults and captain Jim Belfiore look forward to a successful nineteen-game varsity basketball season, provided that adequate rebounders can be found to replace the hardworking Joe Hourihan, Mark Josephson, Doug Prillaman, and John Smith.
