Holyoke Prexy Scorns 'News'

Mount Holyoke's President Richard Glenn Gettel has expressed disapproval in a letter to the TRIDENT. In an October 30th statement, he said that on the basis of its conduct in this year's news, he does not consider THE NEWS to be a part of the College community, and hence cannot be the positive force that it is in social activity, nor for individual fulfillment.

Theengineer, Mr. John A. Sambrook, President of the News, said that the code of the News was the only one that the College News had in common with the other two publications.

The Trinity Tripod

Published weekly on Thursdays during the academic year, the weekly is a publication of the student government, the Connecticut College Student Association, the Connecticut College. The Tripod is a single newspaper, except for the April 1st edition, which is a double newspaper. It is distributed to the College community and is available in the College Office, the College Library, and the College Store.

The story of "Open Sesame" may be opening time this fall, after the November 12th issue of the magazine. The story, a dramatic piece, is a classic of the stage, and is a favorite of the American audience.

Pipes' Buttondown Sounds Benefits Scholarship Fund

The Trinity Pipes will present their fifth annual Buttondown Sounds Saturday night at 7:30 in the Washington Room rather than in Art Center as noted in the tickets and college calendar. The Buttondown Sounds, which are not every year, are donated to the Trinity Pipes Scholarship Fund. Festooned in the 1965 edition along with the Pipes are the Cornell Sherwoods, the Vassar G-stringers and the Trinidads. As added attraction in the return of Bill Minor as emcee, the Vassar G-stringers are well known to Trinity audiences for their unconventional stage dress to match their varied repertoire. The Cornell Sherwoods, fresh from a USO summer tour of Europe, are eagerly expected to college singing circles for their expert view of musicality and showmanship.

The Trinidads will present the same quality of harmonizing which has captivated spring vacation audiences at Stanner's Grand Bahama Club. Opening out the show as usual will be the Pipes, Trinity's oldest singing group. The Pipes have performed their diversified program on radio and TV as well as on various recordings and in Carnegie Hall. This year's show is being recorded for the first time.

Jesters Ready 'Wintersett'

WINTERSET by Maxwell Anderson was presented at 8:15 p.m. in Goodwin Theatre, and will continue Friday and Saturday nights, and Saturday afternoon. The play is concerned with social injustice, faith, integrity and the redemptive nature of love. Mio meets Esdras as the long-dormant spirit of revolution. He carries the dead body of their leader, Potemkin, which becomes tragically ironic, succeeding:

Wednesday afternoon (4:05) and Thursday evening (9:15) with Tuesdays, and Saturday afternoon. POTEMKIN is a visual masterpiece of the evening, and Saturday afternoon. POTEMKIN is a visual masterpiece of the screen; a hopeless vision to the POTEMKIN, now a dramatic visual sense that because it could not rely on dialogue for thematic expression, redefines the convoy and saluting their symbol of their strength and will to be rolled on and off the stage as theasonic demands. Some of the acts are 20 feet high by 10 feet wide and 10 feet deep. An act that has run, "watcher ought to be not an incident, but all event in the theatre."

View toward Review

Subjective

To the Editor,

Mr. Lewis M. Walter '56 wrote a letter (TRIPOD, November 2, 1965) concerning the IFC's "Mr. Pryor of this generation" program. It is obvious that I have not examined both sides of the United States involvement in Vietnam. He charged that I have not considered the whole interpretation of the facts, he could not see anything wrong, and that he mistakes the United States hand. I would like to express that my argument against Mr. Walter's comments was used by me to merge myself to the greater whole.

Mr. Walter has written a patronizing letter. He has jumped up the image of a father talking to his son. The worst that Mr. Walter fails to do is to attack my stand on a rational and objective hand.

I will not bother to refute Mr. Walter's misinformation or his criticism of my country against the different leaders. I argue that this nationalism is being defined in a different context. The real meaning of our government is not only by itself but by our country's involvement. We are concerned about the freedom and self-determination, and in this official capacity as a government, it is not wrong. That is to stop further the encroachment of the international Communist society. Mr. Walter has asked for "freedom for Vietnam". It is understood that I believe that it is the United States government that will only cause more problems. I call for the cessation of all military activity; it is the American people, not the American government, that I call to be free from foreign control. Vietnam is a myth. To be free of this "myth" is the right of the American people. Mr. Walter is guilty of this. I am a member of the national Vietnamese people. Mr. Walter and I are free.

Give

Last Tripod has asked for a lot in these columns, but never has your blood been sought. This week, here is a concerted effort is being made to urge that Trinity, and the IFC, should be more involved in the American blood drive. Especially, a respectable amount of blood for Red Cross use in Greater Hartford.

Last year, Trinity donated 88 pints of blood, a far cry from the 500 pints given before the year and the 610 pints Wesleyan gave. At Amherst and Yale, for example, more than 50 per cent of the students participate. Fewer than 9 per cent at Trinity gave last year.

When students visit you tomorrow and ask you to spend 45 minutes donating blood, why not agree? Trinity is, after all, part of the Greater Hartford community. Many Trinity students today range from $25-75 per pint in other states.

You have a chance to give. Take it.

Cause for Applause

In this second and last day of Henry Luce's visit to the campus, the Convening of Alternative Colleges in New England (CACNE) was being attended by Alpha Delta Phi's Phi Kappa Educational Foundation, a distribution to the College. One of the most frequent problems is the desire to bring "added intellectual stimulus to Trinity College by sponsoring something of the kind," and that goal has been fulfilled this third year of the program.

Although, he will not be making a public speech, Mr. Luce will be visiting informally with students to tap their opinions. The Foundation, in addition, especially those who are involved in the distribution of the Trinity Tripod staff, and this newspaper is grateful for the opportunity to publish a letter of appreciative response.

But the opportunity belongs to the campus as well, and Phi Kappa Educational Foundation is to be applauded for its efforts.

Columbia President Says Students Need Regulation

“Students have a right to be free of repressive action, but they also have the responsibility to respect the rights of others,” President Dr. Odell Shepard of Columbia University said in an address to the Great Hartford Forum’s annual session, and a week from today Dr. Mary S. Calderone, executive director of the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States, will speak on “Youth and Sexual Behavior.”

In time, our educators may be compelled to deal more effectively, in the regular operations of the institution, with the problem of student activism that Dr. Shepard stated, in response to the chief protest actions on campus, “is the most serious problem the university has ever undertaken to provide as an educational opportunity rather than to indulge them or to press the opinion that Dr. Jacobs, according to the Medusa, has agreed to consult that group in any future case in which repressive action that betray its strength and that through the single mind and united purpose may attempt to deny to others the freedom of expression it claims for itself.”

Dr. Shepard also said that students must be aware of those who would use “intellectual groups for ulterior motives.”

In conclusion, he noted that the role of the university is “to provide such a frame that the individual’s strength and the group’s strength may shapsy the needs of the individual and the group in the role of the university is to avoid being repressive or inulminating, or both, to the individual.”

Bantams Upset, 33-26, By Strong Jeff Running

by Nels Olson

Two key interceptions and Amherst’s running attack were barely sufficient to defeat Trinity and end the Bantams’ seven-game winning streak. The Lord Jeffs scored four times in the first half and held on for the 33-26 victory.

The Bantams played their usual ball control game, concentrating the offense in the Amherst end. This control game, employing similar tactics, the Jeffs quickly scored again. With the start of the second quarter Amherst tied the score almost immediately marched for a touchdown. The drive started on their 1-yard line and ended only 17 yards from paydirt, as Amherst’s co-captain, John Allen, carried the ball from mid-field to the Jeff goal, but the shots still remained. Three Jeff running backs, Bradley Baker and Ryan, who gained 51, 71 and 71 yards respectively, and Jeffs’ 2 interceptions were the game’s deciding factors. Speedy Lord Jeff Booters Stop Trin Win Streak, 3-1

Before an enthusiastic Marvil Grass crowd, Trinity’s soccer team dropped their first contest of the season to Amherst, 3-1, on the Jeffs’ home field.

The Jeffs were especially disappointing to Trin, who had gotten past the Williams first and had only three points against Amherst, however, had a 4-2 record, having lost to Dartmouth and Wesleyan.

For the first five minutes the game progressed like any of the previous Trinity matches. The Bantams played their usual ball control game, concentrating the play in the Amherst end. This time, however, Trin got off fewer shots than usual, as they booted only four attempts in the first half.

While Amherst only took nine shots, four of them were on fast breaks by the speedy Jeff line-up of Charles Hartman and Robert Sherman. Trin goalie Bill Schweitz made diving saves on two such one-on-one breaks early in the quarter.

With 10:40 gone in the period, Sherman set off a deflected ball in front of the Bantam goal. “Schweitz”, seeing the Jeff wing alone, rushed him in an attempt to hurry the shot. Sherman, nevertheless, booted the ball into the left side for the score.

With 45 seconds later, the Amherst co-captain, John Allen, car-erried the ball from mid-field to the right of the penalty box. From there he balled on a kick that carried into the upper left corner. For the remainder of the half, both defenses successfully contained the attacks, and neither squad could maintain a steady offense. With the start of the second period, Trin began to press the Jeff goal, but the shots still remained to score.

Halfway through the quarter Amherst’s John Shacklock broke free off the left of the goal and fired a score by defenders “Schweitz” and Al Griesinger into the upper left of the net.

A spirited Trinity offense took the opening possession of the half and marched 25 yards in 11 plays to the Amherst 18-yard line, where a fourth down was gained by 28-year-old reservation, 15 yards. Pressured by a strong Jeff rush, he scrambled to the sideline where he kicked and drew a 15-yard gain across field to end Glush in the end zone. This score tied the game, 20-20. Afterward, Allen’s kick was good, and Trin led for the first time, 21-20.

But the Trin scoring lead was short-lived, as the Jeff offense marched 64 yards in 8 plays. Pearson’s 2-yard touchdown pass, the pass for the extra-point failed and Amherst led 25-20.

With seven minutes to play the Bantams began a scoring threat. The drive started on their 28-yard line and ended only 17 yards from paydirt, an Amherst’s half intercepted another Hissell pass with 1:50 remaining in the game.

Trinity tied the score almost unanswerably an Amherst had led the lead. The Bantams made their first key interception as they marched 38 yards in 5 plays and Bill Gislvs kicked a 4-yard pass for the first score of the game. But, a 15-yard lateral, 14 yards gain on third down, followed by an Amherst fumble, the Bantams now led 7-7. Larry Roberts ran the last five yards for the TD, and Chuck Atwater’s extra-point kick failed and the score stood at 7-7.
