No June Exams Set for Seniors; Finals, 2 Hours

At its last meeting in June the faculty voted to significantly change the academic calendar in several resolutions which included the elimination from the final exams at the end of the Trinity Term.

According to the official minutes of the meeting, general assessments now will be held on the two days of the first week of the Trinity Term examination schedule. In addition, the review period before examinations each term will be extended from two to three days.

In another resolution the faculty voted to cut the length of all final exams from five days to three, allowing three exams a day (9 a.m., 11 a.m., 1 p.m.) over a six-day exam period.

Also, it was decided that "during the review-day members of the faculty be available to students for consultations and questions."

A final resolution was set by the faculty to extend the period during which students were allowed to park on campus three days. All will be "in and out of the garage on Monday before Review Days."

The faculty voted to require that all intramural activities be scheduled during the examination period, notwithstanding the review period for the following term.

The calendar changes were made, according to the minutes, in order to alleviate the end-of-semester pressure placed on faculty and students alike, especially seniors who, in the past, have had threes, term papers, finals, and comprehensives all at the end of the Trinity Term.

Five Summer Appointments Brings New Faculty to 14

Five men have been appointed to the faculty during the summer. Two in the department of psychology, and one each in the departments of mathematics, mathematics, and religion. Together with the nine appointees announced last spring, the university has added a number of new faculty or junior faculty.

Air Force Major Robert F. Bokh, holder of the distinguished flying cross earned in the Korean conflict, has been named professor of aerospace studies and commander of the ROTC program at the college.

Also appointed to the faculty is the aerospace studies department is Capt. Roy C. Hulick, an Air Force pilot since 1956. He will have most recently been stationed in West Germany and Korea. A former research associate at the Institute of Living, David Wald has been appointed assistant professor of psychology. He received his B.A. in 1953 from the University of Vermont and his M.A. from the University of Connecticut in 1961. He expects to receive his Ph.D. from UConn next June.

Another, who has specialized in sensation and perception, has published several articles in publications of the American Foundation for the Blind and the C.W. Shilling Auditory Research Center.

He received the National Institute of Mental Health pre-doctoral fellowship in 1964-65. He is a member of the American Psychological Association, the New England Psychological Association, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

A 1956 graduate of Wesleyan University, Gettier taught at the Gilford School in Baltimore for two years before going on to Yale Divinity School where he received his B.D. in 1961. Since then he has been working on his Ph.D. at Union Theological Seminary in New York.

Robert A. Conover, a 1964 graduate of Wellesley College, has been named an instructor in mathematics, where he was a Woodrow Wilson Fellow.

The appointments of the following men were announced in May: Martin A. Dieker, assistant professor of education; Edward F. Fisher, assistant professor of psychology; Anthony G. Netting, assistant professor of history; Bradley W. Ferris, assistant professor of physical education; Francois R. Gerard, assistant professor of French; and H. Kellison, assistant professor of English.

Tests, Games, Beanties

Enliven Freshman Week

Freshman Week has already begun with a series of language, history and mathematics lectures, the Frosh Picnic on the Quad, and meetings with Junior Advisors yesterday. The Traditional Freshman Week rituals, upperclassmen enlisting the aid of freshmen to carry furnishing and castigating Frosh without their beaters, have also started.

Freshmen not taking exemption tests today will be carrying more furniture, receiving more grief from more upperclassmen, and generally having around and trying to hide from the "big, ugly upperclassmen" trying to attack them.

Activities Night tonight will give the members of the new class an opportunity to meet informally with the leaders of extracurricular activities in Masten Hall and the Austin Arts Center. The programs begin at 9 p.m. with the following groups in Masten Hall:

- Alumni (Oldeke), fry (sorority), Triloyd, Crown Investment League, International Students' Organization, Hispa, Theatrical Corps, Senate and Medusa, Madea Hall Creative Society, and Students for a Democratic Society.

In the Arts Center will be the Little Red Room, Chamber Players, Band, Glee Club, Archive (archival club), Winer, el viera, fraternity, and New College.

WRTC/WM will also participate in Activities Night in its studio in the basement of Cook B. The station will hold open house today from 4-7 p.m. and tomorrow from 3-7 p.m.

Members of the Senate and Medusa will be in West Lounge to speak to freshmen about the role of extracurricular activities. Refreshments will be served in the Lounge with entertainment by the Pipes, Travelers, and Trinitarians.

The first official meeting of the Freshmen will be tomorrow at 1 p.m. in Godwin Theater, where Robert M. Vogel, dean of the college, will give the class the clans of the required Freshman Convocation Programs. Freshmen will wear their beaters and carry furniture during the morning.

Another required meeting of freshmen and sophomore trans- feres will be held tomorrow at

Fraternity Rush

To Last 4 Days

Rushing for fraternities will begin tomorrow morning when each house will invite their prospective pledges to meals during the week. The first rush meal will be Monday night.

Rush week will continue through Saturday with each of the eleven houses and the sophomore who are being rushed trying to decide who will go where.

Final bids, or bids locking on the fraternity spot next, will be issued during rush. When rushing hours will be extended until 10 o'clock, during each day of rush week communication between fraternity men and rushers is limited to the time between 8:30 a.m. and 9:30 p.m.

All final bids having been issued by 10 p.m., communication is cut off until 5 p.m. Sunday during which time rushers make their choices.

Between 8 a.m. and noon on Sunday, each prospective pledge has the opportunity to vote for the fraternity to which he wishes to belong.

Early Edition

This "early" issue of the Triodip is intended primarily to welcome President to the campus, but we hope the entire student body will find something of interest in many of the articles. Upperclassmen are requested to notice that many of the stories contain pieces of information which seem to them general knowledge. Most of this is intended to better acquaint Freshmen with campus life.

Improved Security

We are pleased to see that the College has taken an initial step toward improved campus security. The appointment of Mr. Caroffolo indicates that something is being done to upgrade the quality of guard service; however, it should be understood that this is not the beginning of a campus "police" force. His primary duty is the protection of members, buildings, and property of the College. Student discipline is still entirely in the hands of the Monitor, Administrative Committee, however uncertain the arrangements between the two may be.

Dean's List

At the end of the Christmas Term last year the Triodip published the Dean's List. This week we publish the List next week.

However, we have long been aware that the College never bothers to notify the parents of a Dean's List student of the honor their son has won. This seems to indicate that being on the List is not so much an honor which is to be recognized, but merely another item for the record card. Although an increasingly large number of the student body bothers to notify the parents of a Dean's List student of the honor their son has won. This seems to indicate that being on the List is not so much an honor which is to be recognized, but merely another item for the record card.

Departments in Directors Appointed in Security, Medical, Development Offices

Four administrative appointments were announced this summer by President Jacobson. Smith joined the faculty in 1958 and was named assistant professor in 1960.

Dr. Mark Izard has been appointed medical director of the College, according to an announcement made by President Jacobson in early August. He will succeed Dr. Francis L. Lundborg, who has been associated with the College's medical services since 1934 and has been director of medical services since 1954 and has been associate medical director since 1962.

Dr. Lundborg's appointment will become effective with the completion of the new Life Sciences Center.

Letters

Letters to the Editor are welcome. Letters should be addressed to the Editor and be no more than 500 words long. They should be typed, double-spaced, and signed, although the editors will occasionally print anonymous letters. Letters should be submitted by the Friday before publication.

Also South End Study

New Science Center Begins

During the summer construction began on the Life Sciences Center. The Center is to replace the old Olds Hall. Both projects are located on the northeast of the present MacCracken Mathematics Physics building and the South Campus Dormitory.

According to Robert M., Dean of the College, the center should be finished in the immediate future.

Early in June, engineers for the Waterman and May Company of Hartford, contractors for the $3 million Science building, put in the building's foundation. They were followed by heavy equipment which removed the foundations. The building will measure 39 feet by 378 feet, and is scheduled for completion by the fall of 1968.

As the center is tentatively scheduled for the fall of 1968.

Handbook Lists Many Vital Changes

The first major change in this year's Handbook is the section "Assistant Dean of Student Affairs," formerly called "Dean of Freshmen." Two new study areas are listed in the Handbook — South Campus Lounge and the senior crypt in the Chapel. Mahler Hall will now be open until 1 a.m. every night. Dining hall hours have been shifted slightly, but the primary change is that now the hall will be open from 7 a.m. until midnight on weekdays. Upperclassmen, as announced last spring, will now be able to dine in Mahler Hall on weekends from 6 p.m. to 6:15 a.m. Another noticeable change is that selling arrangements in that college and in some units has risen to as high as 45 or 50 percent.

Certainly this reflects a great deal of "candor" on the admission of the college. He asked how much of this change in policy was due to the increased enrollment? The admission of students during the next year will reflect this. In other words, the college has no plans to open another dormitory for the immediate future, but it may be necessary to do so if the enrollment continues to increase.

In order to keep the college in balance, the admission of students may have to be cut back slightly. This will be necessary in order to meet the requirements of upcoming class sizes. Of course, the college will continue to enroll students for the next year.

As for the student body, the Handbook lists many changes in terms of the admission to medical schools. The Handbook says that the percentage of students going to medical schools is generally 20 percent in the United States. However, the percentage of students going to medical schools has risen to as high as 45 or 50 percent in some cases.

The Handbook also lists several changes in the admission to graduate schools. The percentage of students going to graduate schools is generally 25 percent. However, the percentage of students going to graduate schools has risen to as high as 40 or 50 percent in some cases.

The Handbook also lists several changes in the admission to professional schools. The percentage of students going to professional schools is generally 10 percent. However, the percentage of students going to professional schools has risen to as high as 20 or 30 percent in some cases.

The Handbook also lists several changes in the admission to military service. The percentage of students going to military service is generally 10 percent. However, the percentage of students going to military service has risen to as high as 25 or 30 percent in some cases.

The Handbook also lists several changes in the admission to foreign countries. The percentage of students going to foreign countries is generally 5 percent. However, the percentage of students going to foreign countries has risen to as high as 10 or 15 percent in some cases.

The Handbook also lists several changes in the admission to temporary work. The percentage of students going to temporary work is generally 5 percent. However, the percentage of students going to temporary work has risen to as high as 10 or 15 percent in some cases.

The Handbook also lists several changes in the admission to volunteer service. The percentage of students going to volunteer service is generally 5 percent. However, the percentage of students going to volunteer service has risen to as high as 10 or 15 percent in some cases.

The Handbook also lists several changes in the admission to international organizations. The percentage of students going to international organizations is generally 5 percent. However, the percentage of students going to international organizations has risen to as high as 10 or 15 percent in some cases.

Finally, the Handbook lists several changes in the admission to business schools. The percentage of students going to business schools is generally 10 percent. However, the percentage of students going to business schools has risen to as high as 20 or 30 percent in some cases.

been revised to eliminate the little phrase previously tucked onto the line about telephones in student rooms which read, "Students must first have specific permission from the Office of Buildings and Grounds before arranging installation with the local telephone company."

Another interesting revision under "Rules Concerning Fraternity Houses," reads, "Women are permitted in fraternity social areas from 11 a.m. on Saturday to 1 a.m. on Sunday." In dormitories too, women are now allowed to visit between noon Saturday and 1 a.m. Sunday. A trial period before spring vacation last year evidently worked out to the satisfaction of the administration.

Applications for party permits must now be made at least one week in advance of the party, instead of five days in advance, as was previously the policy.

The manual-existed Nields Hall parking lot has been replaced by the "East Side of the Field House Lot." No parking is permitted between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. on weekdays or 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. on weekends, except for residents, as was previously the policy.

As was previously the policy, no religious affiliations are required for a student to be a member of a fraternity or sorority. Each fraternity and sorority is self-governing.

The percentage of Bs has also risen between 11:00 and 3:00, Appointments of officers are listed on College bulletin boards.
