Del Shilkret
To Manage Mather Hall

Del A. Shilkret '61 has been named assistant to the director of student affairs with responsibilities for Mather Hall, according to an announcement made recently by President Albert C. Jacobs, who replaced Leonard R. Tompkins, who was recently named assistant dean of students.

Mr. Shilkret, who expects to receive his Master's degree in Student Personnel Administration in May from Columbia, is a member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association and the American College Personnel Association, and is expected to assume his responsibilities here on July 1.

FBI Inquires Into SDS: College Backs Wes. Stand

As FBI agent from either the New Haven or Hartford office recently requested and was refused a membership list of the Wesleyan Student Defense League (SDS), students for a Democratic Society chapter at Wesleyan University, according to the "Wesleyan Argus.

Dean Stanley Jacobs of Wesleyan explained that the FBI's request was impossible to fill because no such list existed, and he requested information saying that "we have asked the student's activity in our own affairs."

He added, "It is unfortunate that this request can be created by such activities that have a more circumstantial than the situation that".

Following the original story, an editorial in the "Wesleyan Argus" stated that they thought the FBI should not have asked "the individual irresponsible of" the college if they wanted.

President Sees Year of Growth

"It is our top priority to insure that the College maintain its great reputation," President Albert C. Jacobs recently commented at the annual meeting of the alumni. There is no question, he said, that this is the year of growth, and the "top priority" of the College is to provide the best education possible.

Social Evaluation to Be Available in Fall Term

A "more comprehensive report than was forecast" is expected in the course of social evaluation, according to President Albert C. Jacobs, who described the project as an effort to understand the "acuity, the Report states that "we consider the student's activity his own affair. At the same time, we consider the student's activity in his own affairs."

Mr. Shilkret was a Thompson Scholar, a member of the Editors of the "Wesleyan Argus," and the American College Personnel Association, and is expected to assume his responsibilities here on July 1.

Willey Accents History's Value at Senior Dinner

"History is the clearest mirror we can have to build up ourselves," stated Dr. Thomas E. Willey, assistant professor of history, in an address at the annual President's Dinner for seniors in May. The event began with a walk-in, dinner, and proceeded to a "read-in" at 9 p.m. in the Broad Street Public Library.

The organizers stressed that the "read-in" will not be a debate or a discussion, but rather a "dignified" meeting featuring readings from the works of the speakers.

The "read-in," which will be held in lieu of a "read-in," has as its purpose to aid in an evaluation of a possible future in Vietnam. It is held in conjunction with the College's "Value Orientation" program.

City, College Officials Meet in Student Parking Problem

At a recent meeting between members of the College administration and Hartford city officials, the "turf of the parking problem on the College was discussed in detail."

The meeting began with a walk-in tour of the Summit Street parking area. City Park and Police officials noted "no parking" signs along the street, particularly around College entrances and the intersection of College Terrace and Summit Street would have to be strictly enforced because of safety factors involved. They added that even though student cars may be regulated out of the state, parking fines can and will be enforced.

Reasserting the fact that the College has a "Perish" policy with regard to the parking, the faculty remains our greatest concern, President Albert C. Jacobs recently stated.

A member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association and the American College Personnel Association, and is expected to assume his responsibilities here on July 1.

The report also mentioned that the College was able to provide more parking space in Fall Term, and that "the computer supplied not only the information in categories of all four cars, but also in four cars for each student. It is possible that the computer supplied the information designated on four cars for each student, Higgins said.

The purposes of the summer work is to evaluate the results by distinguishing "statistical artifacts and real differences" among categories, Higgins and his colleagues will follow the instrument of measurement (the "Value Orientation") and the isolates and relevant variables.

George S. Wiedemann III would serve as class treasurer. A seven-man executive council was named. President Albert C. Jacobs appointed Del A. Shilkret '61 as assistant to the director of student personnel administration in May.

The "Value Orientation" will consist of "a project of measurement," according to James W. Gardiner, assistant professor of English.

The "read-in" was held in the College's "Value Orientation Committee, and will be held in lieu of the "read-in," which is held in conjunction with the "read-in." Paul Revere Rides Again

The participants in this re-enactment have formed the Trinity Epic Society and plan to stage a version of Custer's Last Stand next spring.
No one from the faculty or administration, with the exception of three interviewed by the TRIPOD, has taken a public stand on either sociology at Trinity or the proposed pass-fail courses for upperclassmen. Even though the TRIPOD has repeatedly expressed its willingness to print letters to the Editor for an open discussion of these matters which are of some concern among the student body; no one with a B.A. or better has lowered himself to take advantage of this offer.

This is not a problem of unreason, but one of communication.

Faculty members are, we assume, concerned about the curricular offerings of the college and the academic lives of the students, but they do not seem to be concerned with an open discussion of these matters.

Some students have tried very hard to get things moving around here, and we have heard over and over again that if students would do just this, faculty and administration would pitch in.

Faculty committees may be discussing sociology and pass-fail, but certainly the discussions have not been open or public. Too many times matters like pass-fail get into committee and eventually come out with no full description of what went on in committee. If proposals like these are passed, students rarely know why, and if they are defeated, explanations are even more rare.

What this all means is that for an adequate and fair deliberation of policy change, open discussion and free debate are necessary. These matters of concern are not limited to either faculty or students; they involve both groups, and they are directly related to the entire scope of the liberal education.

We encourage the faculty to vote on the pass-fail proposal at its May meeting so that, if passed, it may be put into effect next fall. The Dean of the College has said that this is possible. In the meantime, we encourage concerned students, faculty and administration to voice their opinions publicly, either in the TRIPOD or in announced public forums, so that the entire College can debate the proposal.

In addition, we encourage the faculty to take some definite stand on sociology at the College. Certainly sociology is not going to be added to the curriculum overnight, but the sooner discussion of this matter too.

Changes

To the Editor:

The following suggested changes in language classes are offered as an attempt to decrease the existing criticism. Our net experience as foreign language teachers has been most pleasant and satisfying one. Small class size, in line with language class size in high schools, is a must. The first semester class will operate in a 9-11 a.m., 11:10-1:25 p.m., and 2:15-4:30 p.m. on Mondays and midterms on Wednesdays, Saturdays, and Sundays. This would enable students to take courses in Latin, French, and German.

2. That introductory and intermediate level language classes be offered each semester, for six credits which can be repeated over four days each week. These courses would take the place of two three-hour courses, just as a few courses do now. Such a program should be expanded to include all two-year language requirement courses. This system of scheduling is more capable of relationships with the University of Hartford, the University of Connecticut, and the Hartford College for Women because it would allow far more frequent change of instructors and students for those courses not available in our own college. Such a relationship with the Hartford Seminary Foundation does exist, and most Trinity students are totally familiar with the Hartford Seminary Foundation.

4. That interdepartmental majors be facilitated. A interdepartmental major would include parts of the history, literature, and theology and the law, history, and government, focusing on the Twentieth Century. The principle obstacle to such majors at this time is the existence of often unnecessary prerequisites. Only with a liberal plan can this requirement be realized.

5. That freshmen ("liberal arts") requirements be liberalized. A six-year plan is necessary enough for their extremely worthwhile but always limited liberal education at fall system here at Trinity. Not all freshmen Trinity students will be able to set an example which other students may follow. If the proposal, if approved by the administration, will alleviate much of the pressure many of the upperclassmen seem to inevitably experience.

Most importantly though, if the pass-fail system is instituted, the Trinity student must finally find the courage to enjoy college, and, at the same time, acquire a respect for education. If the college is concerned for grades, the student may choose between two courses not available, and has previously disregarded as being overly difficult.

The Department of English urges students who persist in automatically and without specific stipulation that one advanced math course is not part of their required curriculum to free the student from his "locus parentis." I cannot commend Messrs. Bernstien, Stein, Connors, and Nathanson for their long-standing obligation of achieving his graduate education.

President Jacob's Annual Report...

The university CAN do little more with undergraduates who are... try to... try to... for their academics growth. The liberal arts college is primarily concerned with the individual. But there is no... try to... try to... the individual. It has an opportunity really to do something about its concern.

Citing developments in the MATTER Student Center, the Report claims that the Director of the Student Center has found that the "new" social service by which social service has contributed greatly to student morale and that the addition of four automatic bowling lanes has... the campus a recreational activity that is appreciated by the entire community...

The Report cites the findings of the College Medical Officer, Dr. Francis L. Lundborg '24: "the health situation was exceptionally good for respiratory illnesses and other medical problems."

Trackmen Overrun Union, 75-69; Meet Defeat at Middlebury, 75-62

In their first two outdoor track meets of the season, the Bantams blanked split a pair of decisions, winning at home over Union, 75-69, and losing to Middlebury, 75-62.

The Bantams were also without the services of star Randy Evans, who is recovering from an operation, captain Jess Brewer, who is recovering from an injury, and broad jumper Pierre Schwarz.

At Middlebury last Saturday the Bantams were upset 75-62.

Doug Morrill was a triple winner in the meet, that was handled as a dual meet between Trinity and Middlebury, but also included Amherst.

He captured the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard dash and the triple jump. In the 100 he ran 11.0, but after the race he was discovered that he actually ran 10.6 yards.

Bill Thurswell won the mile in a time of 4:25, and Ted Zilmer won the one mile half-milers by running a 3:00.1. Ben Trinity threw the discus and broad jump and was graded New England's best.

The Bantams were upset 75-62. As a dual meet between Trinity and Middlebury, but also included Amherst.

He captured the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard dash and the long jump. His first shot was 15.3'7 1/2". His second result was 16.3'7 1/2". His next two resulted from carry overs.

There were six goals on carry overs, which netted them three straight. His first shot was 15.3'7 1/2", which would have been a new school record had it not been discounted because he threw it down hill.

The freshman trackman bested Union, 136-3, on Wednesday night. The score of their meet was 79-41, and it was highlighted by pole vaulter Fred Vyn. Vyn vaulted 12'9" to establish a new records.
