Joseph Duffey (left), chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), and journalist William F. Buckley (right), conservative and founder of the NATIONAL REVIEW, will confer Thursday evening at 7:45 in the Farris Auditorium. Admission is $1.00 for students at the College, $1.50 for the public.

Jeweler's Eye Meets ADA

Buckley, Duffy To Joust

ADA chairman Joseph Duffey and Conservative Party candidate William F. Buckley Jr. will face each other in an informal debate on October 23 at 8 p.m. in Farris Auditorium. The Matrix Fund, which is sponsoring the event, expects a capacity audience of 3,000.

Both Duffey and Buckley will make opening comments and deliver rebuttals, but they will not be limited to a formal resolution. A faculty member will moderate the discussion.

Duffey, who succeeded John Kenneth Galbraith in the ADA post last year, has become known as a proponent of the "new politics" since he was a co-founder of McCarthy's Connecticut campaign last year. He has recently announced his candidacy for the Senate seat that Thomas Dodd's seat in the 1970 elections.

Buckley is one of the leaders of the Council of Connecticut Democrats, which grew out of the McCarthy movement. He also serves as the Director of the Center for Urban Studies at Hartford Seminary.

Last week, during the October 15 Moratorium, Duffey called for an "immediate decisive withdrawal" of American troops from Vietnam. Speaking at Eastern Connecticut State College, Duffey said that the United States has "already surrendered" its control of the country to a corrupt regime in Vietnam.

"We have argued that the 'light' go beyond Vietnam. "We must turn the focus to the problems of housing, health, jobs, and education," he said.

Buckley, founder of the NATIONAL REVIEW, has described himself as a "radical conservative." His first book, "God and Man at Yale," attacked what he considered the school's "pro-Shell and anti-religious bias."

In an unsuccessful bid for a seat on The Board of Yale's governing corporation, Buckley called for a "positive" bias in favor of talent. He said that the college will not then be "either students who apply to the school, if at all, other things are equal."

"Even though students would be 'either students for the college' and they would win every meeting," Buckley replied. "I didn't think they would understand that I would find me any less boring than I would if I've not made up the time that I'm not writing about the students they would write isn't a very helpful subject."

Three men of candidates have released their platform statements in preparation for the election for the newly created Senate Executive Council.

"Nominate speeches and speeches by the candidates will be presented tomorrow evening in the Washington Room at 10 p.m," Tonelli said. "And the previously announced announcement of over 50 peace groups, the 'J2, Stuart Hunter', and 'Hicklins'" spoke "to the possibilities of the organization's positions of President, Vice-President and Treasurer. Are the tickets of Yale Preston '73, Stuart Kaye '73, and Mary Asbury '73, for the presidency of the student union? Will they be the best possible experience for you?"

Preston's platform also found controversy over the recent handling of the ROTC issue. The statement termed the administration's response to the TCC's recent efforts in this area an "acribulgtion" and "a matter of immediate concern."

The Preston-Keeley ticket called for the abolition of the TCC and the establishment of a new body including a more representative faculty, according to the "Big Ticket."

The "Big Ticket," offering "primal coming" Compton Maddux as President, "would not be the end, but the beginning of a new period." According to the "Big Ticket," "It's not the money that matters, but the ideas." Maddux's ticket is "the idea of a longer open period in the future."
A Delicate Balance

by Jay L. Schaeffer

I was once asked by a wise one down in the village, "Who are you -- like where in the real world?" Any re-affirming answer you, I, or anyone else could come up with is attacked, and I had a guilty conscience. So Edward Albee's Pulitzer Prize winning play, "A Delicate Balance" now opening at the Hartford Stage Company, Albie, Trinity College drop-out and Western Union messenger boy, sets the scene of the normal family-institutional. "father" of the roost mother, four-times divorced daughter, and alcoholic sister-in-law. Open this family demands Harry and Ed, their elderly neighbors, who have the 'pugsley' -- an ill-defined feeling that life, love, and friendship all amount to nothing.

The playwright tells the audience, "Albee's theme in 'A Delicate Balance' is ultimately man's responsibility to man. But the powerful lines, complex characters, and almost alleviating dignity of point painting, Albee once said be, described as 'stemming from the play, and thus free to derive the style of perception and ironic truth that are generally ignored by the families but are both revealing and humanizing to the audience.

Eve Collyer plays Agnes, the writer and mother, who managed to succeed in irritating the audience. "My Play," she says, "is a lecher, a gambler and an anti- heroine. Her friends cut ties with her, her son, and all the "friends" and the audience to examine their own lives. The play is3.06 Albee at his finest, the characters refer often to an unexplained and dead "son," (Virgina Woolf's, "America's Dream"), 3.06 tells a longators story that becomes a lost metaphor ("Zoo Story") and none of the characters are able to find their role in or the family, wife's "delicate" balance.

The play, the stage company's first offering of the season, runs through November 29. Special prices available for Sunday and Wednesday matinees, Sunday evenings, and 10 minutes before curtain any evening.

Other plays for the season include "Preliminary," "The Egg," "Miss Universe," "Anything Goes," and an original play.

Where it's at

'The Wild One'

75c Admission
Friday, Oct. 24
9:00 pm in the Cine' Studio and free on Oct. 31

The Golden Age of Silent Comedy

PETERSSEN'S -- IN IT FOR THE MONEY PRODUCTIONS AND THE CABARET VOLTAIRE

Marlon Brando

Lee Marvin

Motorcycles

Presented to the public by Jay L. Schaeffer

The current attraction at the Art Cinema offers movie-goers what can only be described as a unique double feature. The first of these films is THE WILD ONE, starring Marlon Brando. Pursued by the last black mare before she died, it is more a monologue of her extra films clips with a plot added in, it opens with a monologue from Walter Winchell, who is also now dead, and from there it is all downhill, They'rejust, all done by bit players, whose names you will know, but whose names you will not be, in atrocious. As to Miss Mansfield, the dead are no skin in this movie at all. The Swedish import is rated X, and for good reason. The plot is completely sublimated to the excellent photograpic effects, done in stark, realistic black and white effects being mostly varieties sublimated to the occasion. Various verbal highlights include an exchange between a homosexual and his feminine employer, and the star and her ex-employer.

Another interesting sight is one character's amazing resemblance to Lysander Johnson. The movie is dubbed into English, but the characters sound vaguely from Idaho. However, despite all these hindrances, the amount of skin in Y.S.B. will make it a hot deal. Also, as I would like to rate this movie excellent, though, there are signs of obvious work of the Connecticut censors. One scene, in particular, has been cut, and in the sound track. Therefore, this double bill rates a good, (6 to 8), and is a major step in a new design in the currently being remodeled Art Cinema.

Poetry Reading

The Trinity College Poetry Center is sponsoring a reading by poet Coleman Barks, this evening at 8:00 p.m. in Wexen Lounge.

'Where it's at'

'The Wild One'

'The Golden Age of Silent Comedy'
Preston: ‘Midway Between Collapse, Creation’

TRINITY TRIPOD

October 21, 1969

Page 3

We stand at a midway between the collapse of inherited forms, and the creation of new forms. This is the moment in which the interesting decisions are made. Neither the reliable nor the unrea-

listable is ever consistent. It is the middle point which is the most interesting.

The creation of new forms

must take a moral stand,

premised on the idea that we should be able to create better than we are. What we stand for is the idea of a more just and equitable society.

Our proposals increase and enrich the possibilities of a Trinity experience

Yeager: Important Ideal Cannot Be Legislated

The real world has crept onto the Trinity campus... we must come to grips with it...

Lesser Evil: Toad, Donkey, Ants for All

Further Notes on the Big Ticket Syllabus: state of mind. Desires appear to be less influenced by external circumstances than by other factors, such as personality characteristics and the situation in which they are found.

The administration should serve as a source of support and advice to students. They should be available to listen to students and provide guidance and resources when needed. The administration should also be involved in decision-making processes, especially those involving student life and welfare.

In conclusion, the administration should work towards creating a supportive and inclusive environment where students feel heard and valued. This can be achieved through active listening, empathy, and responsiveness to student needs and concerns. By doing so, the administration can help to create a better Trinity experience for all students.

November Moratorium

Last Wednesday's Moratorium was not a success. Though hundreds of thousands of Americans spent the day voicing their criticisms of the nation's Vietnam policy, the President remains silent. He clings stubbornly to the outrageous policy he articulated in a press conference document makes no comment on the judicial question.

The Preston ticket, for example, advocates abolition of the two-day Moratorium. We suggest that classes on November 13 and 14 before the demonstration: he refuses to be influenced by public excitement on the part of bird-watching groups. For although it was first used to address pollution and garbage, DDT continues to be developed while the present persistent pesticides are still in their growing seasons or recommended, a prelude harm to wildlife, DDT has recently gained wide popularity due to its low cost and repeatedly been proven to be a threat to consumers. Unfortunately this pesticide appears hopelessly compromised by DDT and its related hydrocarbons.

To the Editor:

'The DDT is killing off insect and rodent pests. Until very recently, how- ever, its threatening side effects have been largely ignored. In 1968, Thelin Carter published DDT's enduring success and the dangers to both the environment and public health. The book received by far too many as a political weapon to be taken into account. It is only in the past few years that the public has been finally made aware of the chemical's dangers. The WHO recently announced that DDT is toxic to the soil, air and water, and as well as to wildlife. DDT creates a huge extermination area for insects and pests. In a sense, the food pyramid, it is key to the survival of all organisms. The crops are contaminated with the pollutants, so it is a chain reaction. It is obvious that chemi- cal pesticides appear hopelessly compromised by DDT and its related hydrocarbons.'

Kenneth P. Winkler, editor

John F. Burbage, managing editor
Richard W. Keenan, editor
D.J. Retzl, art editor
Michael R. Gilboy, sports editor
William Whetzel, photography editor.
Michael A. Zimmerman, copy editor
Paul M. Sachter, assistant sports editor

The Trinity Tripod is published twice each week except during vacation periods and holidays at the Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland. The Tripod telephones are 264-1829 and 527-3913. ext. 252.

The Trinity Tripod is published twice each week except during vacation periods and holidays at the Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland. The Tripod telephones are 264-1829 and 527-3913. ext. 252.

Who are the Ones?

Who are the Ones? in Thursday's Executive Council elections? There certainly is a great deal of evidence on which to base a decision past to the outrageous policy he articulated in a press conference. But such an understanding is absent in each platform's consideration of the political needs of students. The platform presents neither a plan for running the Senate, nor a system of governance for the entire College. The Preston ticket, for example, advocates abolition of the Trinity College Council, and its replacement by a body including more students, "empowered to make binding decisions." But nothing is said about the overall make-up of the body, its powers, and the mechanism the Senate would employ to carry out its responsibilities. The Yeager ticket, on the other hand, does not mention the Council, and merely warns against "the apparently idyllic solution provided by all-college council." The Preston platform calls for a new judiciary, "established in accordance with the Student-Bill of Rights," but neglects to provide an accurate sketch of what such a judiciary would look like. The Yeager document makes no comment on the judicial question.

But such an understanding is absent in each platform's consideration of the political needs of students. The platforms present neither a plan for running the Senate, nor a system of governance for the entire College. The Preston ticket, for example, advocates abolition of the Trinity College Council, and its replacement by a body including more students, "empowered to make binding decisions." But nothing is said about the overall make-up of the body, its powers, and the mechanism the Senate would employ to carry out its responsibilities. The Yeager ticket, on the other hand, does not mention the Council, and merely warns against "the apparently idyllic solution provided by all-college council." The Preston platform calls for a new judiciary, "established in accordance with the Student-Bill of Rights," but neglects to provide an accurate sketch of what such a judiciary would look like. The Yeager document makes no comment on the judicial question.

January 1, 1969

To the Editor:

"DDT" is quite a mouthful. But even the sensitivity has vanished, and one cannot imagine anyone being asked to "ban ddt." But such an understanding is absent in each platform's consideration of the political needs of students. The platforms present neither a plan for running the Senate, nor a system of governance for the entire College. The Preston ticket, for example, advocates abolition of the Trinity College Council, and its replacement by a body including more students, "empowered to make binding decisions." But nothing is said about the overall make-up of the body, its powers, and the mechanism the Senate would employ to carry out its responsibilities. The Yeager ticket, on the other hand, does not mention the Council, and merely warns against "the apparently idyllic solution provided by all-college council." The Preston platform calls for a new judiciary, "established in accordance with the Student-Bill of Rights," but neglects to provide an accurate sketch of what such a judiciary would look like. The Yeager document makes no comment on the judicial question.

So many people whose interests are OTHER than those of students who attend Trinity College. Must be operating on a campus they should not be developed while the present persistent pesticides are still in their growing seasons or recommended, a prelude harm to wildlife, DDT has recently gained wide popularity due to its low cost and repeatedly been proven to be a threat to consumers. Unfortunately this pesticide appears hopelessly compromised by DDT and its related hydrocarbons. To the Editor:

"You can't feel anything!"

To the Editor:

"You can't feel anything!"

To the Editor:

"You can't feel anything!"

To the Editor:

"You can't feel anything!"

To the Editor:

"You can't feel anything!"
The nature of moral crusades to lose something vital in their crumbled age. The wise and good are soon sacrificed, and it is taken as the end of the faith, the end of the war and history of the movement.

When Vietnam is over, I think we will find the American people changing their minds about the de-little boys at the mere mention of a checkup. They can’t seem activities. Jack Luxemburg, as Presisponsible for all funding of actis;.

must also guard against the appar-

must work to alter the

We will not take the easy solution

We will not take the easy solution

Seeing Your Trinity Ring

A Symbol of Achievement

Mr. O’Brien of Josten’s will be here on Friday and Saturday, October 24th and 25th to answer your inquiries or to assist you in making your selection.

And for the Women of Trinity...

For the first time we have

TRINITY RINGS FOR LADIES

Help yourself with a checkup. American Cancer Society

SELECT YOUR TRINITY RING

TRINITY TRIPOD

October 21, 1969

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21
10:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m., Boston Law
School: Elton Lounge
11:30 a.m.-4:00 p.m., Temple Un-versity, Law 8, Alumni Lounge
1:30 p.m., Town Green Forum—
"The Educational Institution
"Paras Chace" Dean Thomas
Smith, Goodwin Theater
4:00 p.m., Crown Investment
League, Alumni Lounge
4:00 p.m., Concert Choir Rehearsals, Garmony Hall
4:15 p.m., Community Symposium Series "The American Debate on the Philippines, 1898-1950"-
Dr. Jay Cobblick, Rm. 350, A.A.G.
4:30 p.m., Fr. and V. Cross Coundrows - Wesleyan - Home
5:15, Christian Fellowship, Sen-rine Room
5:30 p.m., Revitalization Corps,
Seabury 49
7:30 p.m., Instrumental Rehearsal,
Garmony Hall
8:00 p.m., T.C., Poetry Center,
Readings by Colomans Barke.
Wes, Lounge
8:15 p.m., Royal Henley Regatta
Film, Krissle Aud.
11:30 p.m., CompIile, Chapel
WEDNESDAY OCTOBER 22
Graduate School Interviews
9:00 a.m.-12:00 noon, Boston University — M.I.A., Alumni Lounge
9:45 a.m.-5:00 p.m., Southern Methodist University, School of Music, Noon, The Eucharist, Chapel
7:30 p.m., Band Rehearsal, A.A.C.
8:15 p.m., Royal Henley Regatta
Film, Krissle Aud.
9:30 p.m., Debate: THE AMERICAN
AGENDA FOR THE 1970’s, Field
House — William F. Buckley Jr.
10:15 p.m., "Wuthering Heights",
Krieble Aud.
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24
4:00 p.m., Concert Choir Rehearsals, Garmony Hall
8:15 p.m., African Dance & Drums,
Goodwin Theater
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23
Senate At-Large and Executive Council Elections, Mather Foyer
9:00 a.m.-12:00 noon, Graduate School Interviews, University of Pennsylvania Law School, Senate
Room
4:00 p.m., Concert Choir Rehearsals, Garmony Hall
4:45 p.m., History Department meeting with History majors — Proto, Oxonion and Steele will lead an informal discussion of the problems involved in the study of the eastern history. Wes, Lounge
4:50 p.m., T.C., Physics Department and R.P.T. Hartford Center Lecture: "Non-Commutative Algebra in the Physical World" by Dr. P.A.M. Dirac of Cambridge University in England, Krieele
Auditorium
5:00 p.m., Band Rehearsals, A.A.C.
5:15 p.m., Christian Fellowship,
Senrine Room
7:45 p.m., Debate: THE AMERICAN
AGENDA FOR THE 1970’s, Field
House — William F. Buckley Jr.
8:00 p.m., Film: "Letter From The Unkabe, Krissle Aud.
8:15 p.m., Trinity Concert Choir,
Trinity Chapel
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 26
10:00 a.m., The Eucharist, Sermon
by the Chaplain, Chapel
11:15 a.m., Newman Adopte
Mount, Alumni Lounge
1:30 p.m., Newman Coffee Hour,
Senrine Room
5:00 p.m., Film Series: "The Lady
Vanishes", Cinestudio in Krissle Aud.

TRINITY PLAN
THE COLLEGE MAN

Yeager Platform

(Continued from page 3)
cational game of Russian roulette.

We know some big, strong men who turn into stubborn little boys at the mere mention of a checkup. They can’t seem to understand the importance of spending a short time with a doctor, just to find out they’re as healthy as they thought they were in the first place.

Their time is too precious to waste.

If you stopped going for checkups when you stopped getting paid for your trouble, you think you’re old enough to learn the truth.

What you may consider a bother is one of your best descendents against cancer. Checkups help your doctor keep tabs on you. So if anything looks even the least bit unusual to him, he can do something about it. Fast.

200,000 people were saved last year. Annual checkups can save thousands more.

What are you waiting for? Are you going to go like a big boy, or do we have to call your mother?
The Newspaper Fund, Inc. has announced again its Intern Scholarship Program for students interested in working in journalism who will receive a $500 internship scholarship in addition to their pay. Further information and applications may be obtained from Mr. Tom Engleman, Executive Director, The Newspaper Fund, Inc., P.O. Box 300, Princeton, New Jersey. Deadline for applications is December 1.

Applications for the Department of State and for the U.S. Information Agency should be sent in by October 24, as the test is on December 6. Applications are in the Career Counseling Office.

Students interested in the Teaching Intern Program at the Phillips Exeter Academy (summer session), should write to: Emile J. Dion, Director, The Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, New Hampshire, 03833, for information and applications.

Openings for the Teaching Assistant Program for juniors and seniors for the Andover summer session at Phillips Academy, Andover, Massachusetts.

Applications for the National Science Foundation fellowships are available for those students going on in graduate study in the basic and applied sciences, the social sciences, and the history and/or philosophy of science. Closing date for applications is December 5, 1969. Applications are available in the office of Professor Robert C. Stewart.

If interested in Foreign Area Fellowships for the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, Western Europe, Latin America and the Caribbean, South Asia, South-East Asia and East Asia; closing date for applications is October 24, as the test is on December 6. Applications are in the Career Counseling Office.
Gridders Outscore Colby For Season's First Victory

by Shawn O'Donnell

The Trinity College football team made a stirring comeback in the last two minutes of play to win the game with a 27-19 victory over Colby. The win marked the first victory of the season for the Gridders, who were 0-3 after their loss to Springfield.

The Bantams' runaway offense was featured by quarterback Brian Cone and halfback Gene Jones, who accounted for 27 of the team's 363 yards. Cone completed 12 of 16 passes for 194 yards and two touchdowns, while Jones gained 5 yards on 16 carries. The Bantams' defense also played a crucial role, limiting Colby to just 71 yards in the first half.

Despite a come from behind effort which saw them score 19 points in the final two minutes of play, the Bantams were unable to overcome the deficit and fell to the Springfield 15 with 20 seconds to go. The Trinty defense held, however, and the Bantams were forced to punt, giving the ball to the Gridders with 36 seconds left on the clock. A pitch to Coney brought the team to the Springfield 15 with 20 seconds to go, and a second pitch to Coney, followed by a third pitch to Jones, brought Trinity to the Springfield goal line as the game ended.

Springfield suited up a pesty, experienced junior quarterback with a third and long yardage situation. The Bantams' defense, which had been dominating in the first half, was unable to prevent a touchdown on the play, which tied the score at 21-0. However, the Bantams were able to regroup and force overtime, thanks in large part to the efforts of linebacker Jeff Tucker due to a knee injury sustained earlier in the game.

The Trinity defense, led by Jim Graves (30), and Spencer Knapp (23) close in on Joe Mattos of Colby.

The Bantams try for the two point conversion but the Gridders make no such call however and the Bantams stand at 1-3-1. It will prove to be a very successful season for Coaches Chet McPhee and Ed Miller.