Black's Occupy Four Buildings at Amherst

Over 200 black students occupied four buildings at Amherst College Wednesday to demand black control of the national draft call and an increased awareness of black presence on campus.

Miss Heschel and Mancini join the tripod editorial board, business offices, and urged other students to boycott classes in unoccupied buildings.

Selective Service Notes

Reclassification Process

A student with a high draft lottery number may not relinquish his or her number, unless he gives the selective service his consent to be called for the selective service is a perfect example of "faculty myth." In reality, the faculty has no power over the students and has structured the system to keep power away from students, "Mason said.

Senate Elections Delayed

By Surprise Announcement

Schaefer to Seek Reappointment

Elections for both all-black sen-

A student with a high draft lottery number may not relinquish his or her number, unless he gives the selective service his consent to be called for the selective service is a perfect example of "faculty myth." In reality, the faculty has no power over the students and has structured the system to keep power away from students, "Mason said.

Schaefer to Seek Reappointment

Elections for both all-black sen-
Shun the Fruminous Bandsnatch

Pulitzer Prize Nomination

d by David Sarason

Callist looking for a violent band the other night to join... music to play Haydn, Mozart, and Tchaikovsky... Contact Sue Heschel Box 1240

February 20, 1970

TRINITY TRIPOD

LETTERS to the editor

'alan

To the Editor:

An open letter to Alan Marchisotto, '71

I will try to make this a kind letter. You seem to overflow with malice and are sorely in need of an "unworkable proposal." Under the leadership of the new executive council, the Senate put its own house in order. The Senate's strict adherence to the Student Bill of Rights, as yet unacknowledged by the other constituent bodies of the College, has made the Senate's record position in College governance both credible and consistent.

Mr. Mason's and Mr. Keeney's decision not to run is regrettable, for much of the Senate's financial and decision-making power has been strengthened and significantly changed if it is to represent the community. Only when the community is capable of formulating a position and representing it coherently will the Senate be able to carry out its duties.

Capable leadership and representation of each constituency is essential to community representation before the sources of power at the College. The Senate has made real progress toward this type of leadership and should not risk losing what has been gained so far.

Saxophone, '73, '73, Welshimer '73, Kenneth P. Winkler '71, Charles Wright '70, Richard C. Hartlord, Connecticut 06106.

February 20, 1970

TRINITY TRIPOD

EDITORIAL SECTION

Senator Elections

Since the student Senate acquired its new structure in October, it has overcome the obstacles that previously threatened to make a laughing stock of student government at the College. In so doing, however, it has also laid bare the real causes of frustration and stagnation at the College.

As Mr. Mason and Mr. Kenney point out in their withdrawal statement, the Senate's performance far exceeded everyone's expectations. No longer can the College’s problems be blamed on badly run meetings, misplaced emphasis on "unworkable proposals." Under the leadership of the new executive council, the Senate has put its own house in order. The Senate's strict adherence to the Student Bill of Rights, as yet unacknowledged by the other constituent bodies of the College, has made the Senate's record position in College governance both credible and consistent.

Mr. Mason's and Mr. Kenney's decision not to run is regrettable, for much of the Senate's financial and decision-making power has been strengthened and significantly changed if it is to represent the community. Only when the community is capable of formulating a position and representing it coherently will the Senate be able to carry out its duties.

Capable leadership and representation of each constituency is essential to community representation before the sources of power at the College. The Senate has made real progress toward this type of leadership and should not risk losing what has been gained so far.

Saxophone, '73, '73, Welshimer '73, Kenneth P. Winkler '71, Charles Wright '70, Richard C. Hartlord, Connecticut 06106.

February 20, 1970

TRINITY TRIPOD

EDITORIAL SECTION

ALAN

To the Editor:

An open letter to Alan Marchisotto, '71

I will try to make this a kind letter. You seem to overflow with malice and are sorely in need of an "unworkable proposal." Under the leadership of the new executive council, the Senate put its own house in order. The Senate's strict adherence to the Student Bill of Rights, as yet unacknowledged by the other constituent bodies of the College, has made the Senate's record position in College governance both credible and consistent.

Mr. Mason's and Mr. Kenney's decision not to run is regrettable, for much of the Senate's financial and decision-making power has been strengthened and significantly changed if it is to represent the community. Only when the community is capable of formulating a position and representing it coherently will the Senate be able to carry out its duties.

Capable leadership and representation of each constituency is essential to community representation before the sources of power at the College. The Senate has made real progress toward this type of leadership and should not risk losing what has been gained so far.

Saxophone, '73, '73, Welshimer '73, Kenneth P. Winkler '71, Charles Wright '70, Richard C. Hartlord, Connecticut 06106.

February 20, 1970

TRINITY TRIPOD

EDITORIAL SECTION

ALAN

To the Editor:

An open letter to Alan Marchisotto, '71

I will try to make this a kind letter. You seem to overflow with malice and are sorely in need of an "unworkable proposal." Under the leadership of the new executive council, the Senate put its own house in order. The Senate's strict adherence to the Student Bill...
Shaw's Farce Regenerates Spring Lust

by Jay Schaefer

It was an informal dress rehearsal at the Hartford Stage Company, with director Michael Weatherly, managing director of the Hartford Stage Company, sitting near the center of the circular stage to speak to the audience, his hand clasped in front of him as if he was about to lead the audience in a cheer. The audience consisted of students from Trinity College, many of whom had never seen a live performance before. Despite the small size of the theater, the sound of the audience's breathing was audible, and it was evident that this was a special occasion, one that would be remembered for years to come. "The play, written in 1910, was reviewed in the NATIONAL AMERICAN REVIEW, and as a masterwork of eloquent unqualified assertion, it could be felt at the time. Indeed, as the Senate became, increasingly as a kind of buck-passing shell game, we both enjoyed playing chess but not to the extent of or amount demanded by our offices. Both of us had considerably declined in our academic positions-and by that we meant not so much grades but the very concept of improvement. Indeed, the students were at a peak of interest in this area. In order to provide the time which is necessary to accomplish such a goal. It is necessary that a new policy be formulated and adopted, not only to provide a more efficient procedure for the budgeting of student funds (which has been a sucker for pouting mouths). The Hartford Stage production recently returned from the International Opera Studio in Zurich, where it had received critical acclaim, but SCAFFOLD was "delightful," MISALLIANCE is a comedy--a comedy about love and conventions, and all sorts of other things that have become trite."

The Hartford Stage

by Lee Kalcheim

The Hartford Stage

by Lee Kalcheim

The Hartford Stage

by Lee Kalcheim

Talk About Love

Mother (Dartby Blair) and daughter (Katherine Houghton) talk about sex and the frustrates girl in G. B. Shaw's MISALLIANCE opening tonight at the Hartford Stage. The production is directed by Tom Grunenwald.

Mason and Keeney on Governance

'Ve have very reluctantly decided not to run for re-election to the offices we have held. To those of you to whom this letter comes as a disappointment, our replies are: 'We don't go out of our way to seek trouble. As a matter of fact, we do not have to suffer similar disappointments. We have avoided many 'reasons' that have determined the decision of others, and since you must at this very moment come to some judgment as to precisely what sort of 'controversy' there is, we have agreed that we owe you an explanation of what this is, and how, as we see it, they fit together. Trinity is a rational, dogmatic and consequently static auditory and visual system, whether or not - that is by your rules.'

Schaefer to Seek Reelection; Devote Senate to Semester of Interest

TRINITY COLLEGE THEATRE ARTS

the premiere of an original play

by Lee Kalcheim

WHO WANTS TO BE THE LONE RANGER?

Thursday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday

Goodwin Theatre, March 5, 7, 8 and 9

General admission

For tickets call 875-8602

Amst Art Center

All seats reserved

Concerts: 8:15 p.m.

When I originally decided to run for the position of Senate Treasurer, I was not able to work the social and cultural events of the campus. For lack of time and commitment, I failed and should not be the job of a Treasurer. I was also hoping that I would be able to organize and institute a new and better program for Student Senate. However, I must admit that it has taken me, as the Senate has, to become thoroughly acquainted with the intricacies of the present sys-
Bantams Defeated by W.P.I
Pantalone Outscored, Blocked

by Chuck Wright

Led by the 6'4" Jim Henderson, the Engineers of W.P.I. destroyed Trinity off the boards and went on to beat the Bantams 45-13 before the smallest crowd of the year. The Bantams never got going in the contest.

Henderson completely dominated Joe Pantalone, outscoring him 15-0, outrebounding him 1-0, and blocking several of the frustrated Pantalone's shots.

After W.P.I. caught Trinity in "slow motion" starting out the game and took a 3-lead, Bowie Greenblatt briefly rejuvenated the Bantams with long jump shots. But later from Tom MacIner and Ron Cretar, Trinity tired the Engineers by just one point at the half, 40-30.

Desiring the most aggresive rebounding abilities of any squad Trinity has met this year, W.P.I. almost overpowered the initialed Bantams in the second half. Henderson, supported by Red Cunningham who pulled down 11 rebounds while adding 16 points, dominated Trinity from the bench in the second half to score the biggest win of the year for Trinity.

Part of the reason so many points were scored was the incredible quantity of waste effort required in "normal procedure" and Senate-Administration and Senate-Faculty communication. Often communication was incomplete and without sufficient information for a decision to be made. The Executive Council was contacted to bring a Senate-proposed proposition before the Senate calling for the Senate to take over the dry cleaner-operation under Cook. We declined to do so until we had received information not passed on to us in the original proposal.

Laurel Laundry went bankrupt before we were able, after many attempts, to get all the information on the proposal from the Administration. More time was wasted by the repeated reciprocation for either of us to continue in the light of lasting returns.

The Frosh

Playing by far their worst game of the season last Tuesday, the freshman basketball team was routed by Worcester Tech, 96-54, (though they went down, of course) as much as we were able to read and think or write or be private. Being required nearly constantly to think, read and write in methods inevitably diminished academic proficiency, among the results were not only lower grades but also lower level relations with faculty simply could not do anything right; the Bantams never got going in the contest.

The Bantams, playing a very lethargic and slow-moving game, simply could not do anything right; they were out-rebounded, out-shot, out-touched, and just plain outplayed. The frosh at times almost apologized for playing in the contest, settling up their opponents for a number of pretty loops, Tech.

Super Sub:

Al Floyd of Trinity pushes a jumper against a pair of Worcester defenders in Tuesday's 85-73 loss to the Engineers. Floyd's fine outside shooting and defensive play has been a chief asset to the Shultsmen in recent contests.

Heartbreaker

The Trinity fencers dropped their tough match of the season Wednesday when the swordsmen were nipped by Brandeis, 14-13. The loss pegs the team's season mark at 4-6 heading into tomor-row's Important match against M.I.T. here at 2 p.m.

The Brandeis encounter was a real heartbreaker for Trinity, which was playing without two of its regular starters. The host Bantams at times almost played. The frosh at times almost apologized for playing in the contest, settling up their opponents for a number of pretty loops, Tech.

In full the team wound up with a 4-6 overall mark. The lambs had just won 2-1, with Paul Mellowend and freshman Phil Daley at 1-2.

Bee was the most successful phase of the match for Trinity, and their efforts almost pulled out a victory. They finished the day 6-3 against a very strong Brandeis epee squad. Jack Luxemburg defeated a freshman New England champion, 3-0, to lead the way, while Frank Anderson was 2-2 and John Gasto, 1-0.

The match saw good fencing on both teams, and had Trinity been at full strength, the outcome might have been reversed.

In all competition Trinity was 5-6 overall, Marshall Garrison led the scribes, going 4-1, with Kevin O'Day finishing at 1-2. Third scribe Paul Cullen was win-less at 0-3.

New York To London
Summer Vacation Tours

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Tour</th>
<th>Price</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Round Trip</td>
<td>$160</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New Filling</td>
<td>Small</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deposit and Payments</td>
<td>Free</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Benefit Fee Details</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Kent Cleaners
Corner of Park and Elm St.
Shirts 25, Suits 80
Sports Jackets .80
Laundry 12 cents
a pound
Pick up and Deliver Laundry
At All Fraternities

Monday and Tuesdays

ALBUMS- CHEAP
All Labels
$4.88 albums for $3.20
$5.98 albums for $3.80
call anytime:
Bob Dombroff 242-0152
Erich Herch 247-0682

Mason, Keeny...

(From P. 3)

Helfit
Free Weekly delivery
All Labels

WANT A BIGGER FUTURE?

During our 60 years experience, we have successfully placed thou-sands of teachers in public and private schools and colleges throughout the United States. Write or phone us for more infor-mation about our confidential professional placement service.

Cary Teachers of Hartford
482 Trumbull Street, Hartford, Conn.
Phone (303) 615-5113