Call Issued For New Student Government

A group of students has called on the student body to elect fifteen students to a student government. They will be held Tuesday, March 23.

The selection of a permanent Dean of the Faculty, the recent ruffling on the grounds that neither the faculty nor the administration will include the student body in the decision making processes unless they are forced to do so.

The Call for the student government founding convention will be distributed and returned through campus mail.

The students who called for the convention said that if less than one-third of the student body votes, we will assume that sufficient support does not exist for an effective student government at Trinity. The Senate passed a resolution that the future of student government at the College would be decided by an executive committee elected by at least 400 students at an unspecified time. The Senate conferred the Senate's responsibilities including running elections, handling senate finances and recognizing to the Student Senate last year.

The student Senate dissolved itself last year after only 20% of the students voted in an election for the Senate's executive committee. Boston "Pops" Soon at Bushnell

By popular demand, Leroy Anderson will conduct the Hartford Symphony "Pops" in its third series program on Saturday, March 12 at 8:15 p.m., at the Bushnell Memorial.

Mr. Anderson, composer and conductor, encouraged Anderson by giving many of his compositions their first performance, and since his style had immediate appeal, his career was launched.

Anderson has appeared as guest conductor of many orchestras in the United States and expanded his activities to include the musical theatre by composing music for Broadway productions.

On contemporary rock music, he says, "I like the old music more than the new. They don't realize it's not meant for them. It's for the younger people." Much of it is bad, but the same can be said for any other period of music. It's just that only the good works survive the test of time, and the clunkers of the past are forgotten. Many of the most beloved songs will be just as much as Gershwin's music has, he said.

Mr. Anderson has included in this most diversified program, a work to be premiered in Hartford especially for this "Pops" concert.

Ike and Tina and Creedence

By John Speziale

"Born to be wild" is one organ solo. But all the new additions have been carefully calculated to highlight Fogerty's greatest voice.

Rolling Stone recently stated that John "came up with a hit, gutsy singing that he'd never heard before. Ike and Tina are as exciting as his voice (and like his voice, they're never contrived - not even the rhythm and blues, but controlled.). As the song progresses, the rhythm section, which includes drums and bass provide the pounding rock rhythm which serves as the foundation from which Fogerty takes off both instrumentally and vocally.

It's a real rock and roll album, demonstrating all of the major types of good rock. "Chameleon" is pure soul, "Hey Tonight" sounds like the Beatles, and "Revival" could have been written back in the fifties.

The lyrics are all pretty tolerable, and I think that of all the new songs, there isn't any profound poetry. Unlike Ike and Tina, I don't think that they're social satirists or honest questioners or humorous satirists, and don't seem as deliberately aimed at the working-class, blue-collar group.

The only objection I have to Pendulum is the inclusion of a song titled "Rude Awakening", which is the last cut on the album. Asigel "Chameleon" is pure soul, "Hey Tonight" sounds like the Beatles, and "Revival" could have been written back in the fifties. The Devils’ to Begin Its Run Here Tonight

The Theatre Arts Department’s Third Major Production of the year, THE DEVILS, will take the stage this week at the Goodwin Theatre. The play is under the direction of John Worthington.

THE DEVILS was first presented in England in 1961, and it is based on THE MIDSUMMER SOUL OF LOUDOUN, by Aldous Huxley. Both the book and the play are based upon actual events that took place in the town of Loudoun, France between 1623 and 1634. However, in the play, some of the characters have been formed from combinations of the real people involved and some of the relationships have been altered slightly for dramatic effect. The main characters, Father Grandier and Sister Jeanne, and their actions have been presented as being within the historical dramatic structure.

Grandier is a man in search of meaning. His faith is founded primarily on intellectual grounds, but this is not enough for him. Hubris leads him to attempt to turn his political influence, his status in the community, and his love affairs against himself. He pushes at the boundaries of society, challenging the individuality within its rigid structure. He hopes that the society will turn against him and destroy him. But until he has found meaning does the society take his actions seriously. When Grandier becomes afraid that all he has found will be lost in the torture planned for him, Doubt and fear assail him. All he lias found will be lost in the torture planned for him, but this is not enough for him.

The main characters, Father Grandier, Phillippe Bontemps, Louise Claire, and the laity who disapprove his luxury, and for Cardinal Richelieu, who has found meaning in the world of politics.

Tickets for the production, which runs March 11-13, 28-31, 1971, will be available at the Austin Center. The price is $1.00 for Trinitonian students with an I.D. and $2.00 for non-students.

Reconsider, I

It can be said with all honesty that not too many people miss the old student senate. That assembly got too involved in too many things that really weren't important. The impetus for its dissolution really came from within.

Hopefully the call for a constitutional convention will result in a more effective student government than the senate could provide. Events over the past few years have indicated that some system of organizing and expressing a unified student opinion is necessary. The new body was described by students because those on high had decided that he was in the running all the time anyway.

For all these reasons, a student government is needed. The form can be as imaginative and creative as those who design it. The difficulties met by the late Senate in maintaining its own legitimacy and excluding extraneous issues must be the first questions for consideration.

This paper has been a consistent advocate of collegiality in government, that is, government based on consultation and approval by all three constituencies. The only consideration of a January semester is that there is not enough time. But in half the cost.

"If two Nazi Stormtroopers were killing your grandmother, would you resort to deadly force to repel them?" Every day across the country, applicants for the conscientious objector classification are being asked this, or a similar question.

Such a question would only be amusing were it not the source of some very real problems. In many cases, the local board members asking the questions actually believe it is pivotal: if the young man is willing to kill the Stormtrooper, he cannot qualify for the exemption. Many young men also believe the question is significant since it is asked so often. Those young men may decide not to apply for the C.O. exemption because they are willing to kill the Stormtrooper. Or they may quietly accept a I-A classification. Or they may be tempted to compromise their convictions and allow their grandmothers to die.

In fact, however, whether a young man would actually kill the Nazi or not has no legal bearing on his qualifications for the conscientious objector classification. The courts have repeatedly and uniformly distinguished between a willingness to use force and a willingness to participate in war. We would not expect an atlitute toward war. We would not expect a full-fledged conscientious objector to classify. The manner in which a conscientious objector does not speak of willingness to kill the Stormtrooper. Or they may quietly accept a I-A classification. Or they may be tempted to compromise their convictions and allow their grandmothers to die.

In light of court decisions such as this one, why do local boards still continue to import the Stormtrooper into the local board hearing? This reporter asked Draft Director by Curtis Tarr. He responded: "Now, if I were a member of a local board, I would ask many questions that registrants thought would get them out of the draft. I want the real registrant to come out. It's just like when I'm teaching a class. I try to ask all kinds of provocative questions. You've read Plato. You know what Socrates did. You ask any question that you think will provoke the person to say what he really believes. So you ask all kinds of leading questions. You see, I don't make up my mind that he's not a conscientious objector just because he says, 'Sure, I'd defend my grandmother.' But I might begin to get some information by which I can begin to examine what that guy really thinks."

Using provocative questions to determine a registrant's sincerity is legitimate. Sincerity is one of the requirements for the C.O. exemption. The manner in which a registrant answers a question is a legitimate consideration in determining his sincerity. Local boards, therefore, often ask difficult questions which may force a registrant to reveal that he has not thought about war and killing very much.

For example, boards often ask C.O. applicants whether they are willing to pay taxes and thereby participate in the purchase of war machines which will eventually be used to kill people. Of course, the C.O. exemption is not restricted to tax resisters. However, registrants who have not thought about such questions often become confused and contradictory. Such responses provide a basis for denying the exemption since they reflect adversely upon the registrant's sincerity.

Therefore, any young man seeking the C.O. exemption should prepare himself for questions which may not relate directly to his qualifications for exemption. Though not directly relevant to his case, these questions are important in determining a registrant's sincerity.

The rules outlined above have resulted from a number of court cases over the past few years. Undoubtedly, some local board members by now have some idea of how they can effectively use the Stormtrooper question. They still feel that a registrant who is willing to kill the Stormtrooper cannot qualify for the exemption. If a board member used this reasoning in order to deny the C.O. exemption, he would be acting improperly. Any registrant who feels his board has acted improperly and who is ordered for induction should not delay in consulting an attorney. He will not only be helping himself, he will also help the young men who will confront his board in the future.

We welcome your questions and comments. Please send them to "Mastering the Draft," Suite 1202, 60 East 42nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Breslin . . .

The state of Georgia is trying out a new English curriculum, which was set up, in part, by a curriculum committee from the state department of Education. Breslin stated that the next college generation would be one “without fingers.”

Breslin said that the main problem in the country is “slippery words for the Vietnam conflict, which he said is covering the country with ‘a slime of miseries it purportedly brings to its stars.”

Breslin touched briefly on the recent Ali-Frazier fight, saying that he was not the black-white tension. He also had harsh words for the Vietnam conflict, which he said is covering the country with “a slime of miseries it purportedly brings to its stars.”

Breslin decided to run for the mayor's post. Breslin decided to run for the city. Informed that only one of them could run for the office at a time, they decided that Mailer should try for the mayor's post. Breslin decided to run for the “other thing,” which I didn't even know the name of at the time.” (President of the City Council)

The two men joined Owen Thomas, a linguist from Indiana University and the state department of Education in creating an English curriculum that begins with pre-school children and extends to graduation in twelfth grade.

“Composition is the center of all this,” said Mailer, who is in charge of the curriculum project. He said it stresses pre-schoolers “to give the warning, why he is teasing someone else, how severe he is for he has not done so far, he said.

Smith explained that the structuring of the curriculum is based on the transformational grammar of Noam Chomsky and others.

The next two years of school, the student works on an independent study project, for which he or she receives no credit.

Trinity Club of New Haven Honors Bantam Gridders

The Trinity Club of New Haven honored the 1970 Trinity College football team and the coaching staff Friday night at the Ferris Athletic Center.

James Hallin of New Haven, Class of 1912, and club president, headed a delegation of alumni, including former varsity team captains. Plaques were presented commemorating the achievements of the season, which included selection of Trinity as New England College Division Champion, regional coach of the year honors to head coach Dot Miller and all-East honors to the nation’s leading rusher, Dave Kawasaki.

Jack O’Brion of Wallingford, class of 1936, presented co-captain Jon Miller and Mike James a team plaque for selection as New England Champions and their 7-1 record. Trinity was 6-4 in New England last fall and 7-1 overall, leading only in the University of Rochester, Jack McGowan of Branford, and a 1956 graduate, honored Dave Kawasaki with a plaque commemorating his selection as Division 11 Player of the Year by the Eastern College Athletic Association and for his per game average of 17.8 yards gained which led the nation’s rushers.

Other members of the coaching staff receiving awards and those presenting them were: assistant coach David Burnum from Howie Wrozek of West Haven and the captain of the 1960 eleven; assistant coach Jack Dunham from John Kennedy of Bradford and captain of the 1958 football team; assistant coach William Sferro from Jack Burten of Orange and captain of the 1955 track team; trainer Robert Slaughter from Judge Vincent Brunel of North Branford; and a tackle on the undefeated teams of 1924 and 1955.

Greenblatt Paces Cagers; Skaters Led by McFeeley

The final statistics are in and, as expected, captain Howie Greenblatt finished as the Bantam’s leading scorer this past season. Greenblatt, whose 1,006th career point earlier in the year was a main highlight of the Bantam season finished with 406 points and an average of 20.8 points per game to pace the Trinity attack.

Following Greenblatt in the scoring column was sophomore Nat Wnams with 340 points and an average of 18.2, Williams, who did a fine job for the Bantams in his first varsity season, also finished as the team’s second leading scorer. At 1,151 in 25 games, the only Bantam to go over the 100 mark, for an average of 11.8.

Greenblatt’s counterpart on the hockey team was co-captain Cliff McFeeley. McFeeley, a right wing, finished with 14 goals and 11 assists for a total of 35 points. Jack Frank, the team’s second leading scorer with 19 points led the Bantams in assists with 33 points. McFeeley’s 14 goals served as the passenger in that department.

Trinity’s leading goalie this past season, was Carl Norris. Norris, who played in all but one of the Bantams’ 15 games, gave up a total of 16 goals for an average of 2.5 per game. And this year’s winner of the Teddy Green Award for most penalties? None other than Al Landry who had 52 penalties for a total of 64 minutes spent in the penalty box. Runner-up in the contest was John Milliken who had only 11 infractions.

What you should know about diamonds when you know it’s for keeps

You’ve dreamed about your diamond engagement ring a thousand times. But how do you know when it’s time to stop dreaming and start learning about diamonds and their value?

Because no two diamonds are alike, you’ll want to have adopted existing standards to determine their value of each and every diamond in the world. These standards include a diamond’s weight (care weight), color, and clarity.

COLOR: Fine white diamonds are quite rare and are found in other shapes in relative order of their worth arc: tone: yellow brown and black.

A cut of a diamond—the facets placed on it by a trained cutter—brings out the gem’s luster and brilliance. A diamond that has less than correct cut reduces beauty, brilliance, and fire.

CLARITY: Determined by the absence of small impurities. A perfect diamond is impurities. A diamond examined under 10-power magnification by a trained eye.

CARAT: A diamond’s size is measured in carats. A diamond increases in size, its price will increase even more. The apparent size of a diamond is quite constant. But larger diamonds of inferior quality may appear less than smaller, perfect diamonds.

How to plan your engagement and wedding...your guide from pre-engagement to rings. Plus full color folders and 11 pg. Bride’s book gift offer all for only 25 cents. 8x11.

Frazier Reigns Supreme After “Fight of the Century”

by Shawn O’Donnell

He was the one and only. For the last decade, Muhammad Ali was a boxer of the old school, the warrior, the champion, the man who fought to the bitter end. He won by decision over Joe Frazier, 9-5-1. Though he didn't say it, it is significant that the three judges saw the fight as a draw.

After "Fight of the Century"

LAFAYETTE, Colorado, July 17 - Muhammad Ali, the great heavyweight boxer, knocked out by lightning at the age of 36.

The news was confirmed by Ali's manager, Lonnie Ali, who confirmed that the boxer, who was the reigning world champion, had been struck by a lightning bolt on the way to a training session in Colorado. Ali had been preparing for his next fight, which was scheduled for September 2.

"We are deeply saddened by the loss of our great champion," said Lonnie Ali. "Muhammad Ali was a true inspiration to all of us, and his legacy will live on forever."

The boxing community was stunned by the news and offered its condolences to the Ali family. "This is a tragic loss," said boxing promoter Bob Arum. "Muhammad Ali was more than just a boxer. He was a symbol of hope and inspiration to people all over the world."

Muhammad Ali was born in Louisville, Kentucky, on January 17, 1942. He began boxing at age 12 and went on to win a gold medal at the 1960 Summer Olympics. He turned professional in 1962 and went on to become one of the greatest boxers of all time, winning the world heavyweight championship three times.

He was known for his incredible speed, his ability to move around the ring, and his ability to land powerful punches. He was also known for his philanthropy and his commitment to social justice.

In 1967, Ali refused to be drafted into the military, citing his religious beliefs. He was stripped of his championship and was stripped of his freedom. But he fought on, and in 1970, he was able to win back his championship.

In the years since then, Ali had embarked on a new career as a motivational speaker and humanitarian. He had worked closely with many non-profit organizations, including the Special Olympics and the United Nations.

"Muhammad Ali was a true champion," said Bob Arum. "He fought for what he believed in, and he inspired others to do the same. His legacy will live on for generations to come."
