President Ogilby Discusses New Navy Program

The assignment to Trinity College of a V-12 unit under the Navy College Training Program not only gives us an opportunity to make a concrete contribution to the war effort but also gives us a chance to do so at our best. The Navy asks us to use our own faculty and to plan our own courses, selecting text-books and giving examinations according to our own standards. We shall, of course, give special attention to Mathematics, Physics and Engineering Drawing, but beyond that the desire of the naval authorities is that we should strive to give the young men committed to our charge as much as we can of the heritage distinctive of the liberal arts colleges. This is a task we are eager to assume, for it partakes of the nature of a tribute.

The expression, "The Navy is going to take over the college," is specifically repudiated by high ranking naval officers. The college is not to be transformed into a "little Annapolis:" it will remain Trinity College. Our trainees will be apprentice seamen, in uniform and subject to the authority of officers of the United States Navy assigned here, and will receive certain instruction to prepare them for service; but their course of study follows so closely our collegiate pattern that the Faculty stand ready to grant academic credit to such of the seamen as achieve satisfactory grades.

In addition to our naval contingent we shall have a number of regular students, men not subject to the draft or deferred under special categories. The naval authorities are ready to allow any such to attend classes with the apprentice seamen. We are enrolling a Freshman class to start work on or about July 1st. To conform with the schedule required by the Navy, the college will operate for the duration on a basis of three terms a year of sixteen weeks each: the Michelmas term starting July 1st, the Christmas term November 1st, and the Trinity term March 1st.

After careful and thorough discussion of fraternity problems by the Board of Fellows and representatives from all our houses, an agreement was reached by which there will be no rushing, pledging or initiation after May 16, 1943, until an interfraternity alumni council shall cancel the agreement. This seems a wise move. We have no guarantee that any of the men coming to us will stay long enough to be indoctrinated with the traditions of any particular fraternity.

Upon the conclusion of the war, a burden of heavy responsibility will be laid upon our alumni to aid the administration of the college when we return to a peace basis. This was a real problem in 1919 and 1920, but it can be handled better next time because of the present efficiency of the Board of Fellows and our other alumni units. The leaders of the Class of 1943 before they graduated saw to it that all student organizations put their affairs in order, with all bills paid and the cash balances deposited with the Comptroller of the College. It should be the responsibility of the Alumni by an occasional visit to the campus to see that the sacred fires are kept alive, so that when the lights come on again they may be again blown into flame. We all must be alert to adjust ourselves and our college to new conditions: we should not expect simply to reconstruct what has been. The new day will make new demands, to be met in terms of the eternal ideal that has guided Trinity College for one and a quarter centuries.

R. B. OGILBY

At the request of the Comptroller of the College, Mr. Roger R. Eastman, we are including a biographical form in each copy of this issue of the Alumni Magazine. The biographical record is for the official college file. It would be a help to this office if alumni, after filling out the forms, would return them to:

Alumni Secretary
Trinity College
Hartford, Conn.

This will enable us to check our own files before passing the biographical forms on to Mr. Eastman.
Members of graduating class smoke their corncobs at Class Day Exercises. This year the graduating class was unable to procure the usual clay pipes for the occasion.

Commencement Week-end

The three-day Commencement activities took place this year in warm weather beneath the fresh green leaves of the elms. The more than one hundred graduates who returned for the exercises enjoyed a good spring week-end. The activities were officially inaugurated at the Alumni-Faculty dinner on Friday at 6:30 p.m. held in the Dining Hall, where forty-four guests were welcomed by Dean Arthur Hughes. At seven-thirty in the evening Eliot Ward, '13, president of the Association, and Allan Cook, '13, went on the air for half an hour over WTHT, reminiscing about college days.

Saturday morning’s program started with Holy Communion at eight o’clock, the Rev. E. C. Thomas, '03, celebrating. This service was followed at nine o’clock by Morning Prayer. The Rev. Joseph N. Barnett, '13, took the service. Lispenard B. Phister of the class of 1918 was the speaker at Class Day exercises. He told the members of the graduating class that it was their duty after the war to pull together in renewing their contacts with Trinity and in helping to maintain the College’s fine traditions. Col. Anson T. McCook, '02, presented the McCook Trophy to Arthur T. Heubner in recognition of outstanding leadership. The 1935 Football Trophy was also presented to Heubner. James D. Cosgrove, '35, made the presentation.

At the annual meeting of the Alumni Association, Eliot Ward presiding, there were reports by President Ogilby, by Tom Flanagan for the Trustees, by various representatives of the local alumni associations, and by Bard McNulty, '38, Acting Alumni Secretary. The Eigenbrodt Trophy was presented to J. H. K. Davis, '99, by George C. Capen, '10, Dr. Ogilby, who had just returned from a meeting of Navy authorities and educators in New York, threw some light on the new Naval program to be adopted by the College beginning July 1st. The President told the alumni that the Navy wished to make it very clear that Trinity was not being “taken over” by the Navy, but that the Apprentice Seamen were going to take advantage of the excellent educational facilities which Trinity, together with a number of other colleges, has to offer. Trinity will not become a "little Annapolis," the President quoted Naval authorities as saying.

One very interesting bit of information which Dr. Ogilby passed on to the alumni was that the long-anonymous donor of the money for the Chemistry building and for the new dormitory at Summit and Vernon Streets was the late Walter P. Murphy, who in 1933 had been given an honorary Master of Arts degree by the College.

The following names were presented by the Nominating Committee and the men were promptly voted into office:

Junior Fellows:
- Ronald E. Kinney, '15 — renominated for a term of three years
- Russell Z. Johnston, '16, for a term of three years

Executive Committee:
- (Each for a term of two years)
  - William G. Oliver, '10
  - Morton S. Crehore, Jr., '14
  - Ernest L. Simonds, '00

Alumni Fund Council:
- (Each for a term of three years)
  - John R. Cook, '10
  - Harrison D. Schofield, '26

Athletic Advisory Council:
- William F. Even, '28, renominated for a term of three years.

Nominating Committee for nomination of Alumni Trustee (one year term)
- Harold N. Chandler, '09. Chairman
- S. D. Pinney, '18
- Leonard N. Dibble, '09
- L. L. Scaife, '31
- Harry Wessels, '12

War Alternates:
- Executive Committee — Louis Jefferson, '15
- Alumni Fund Council — Henry Beers, '18
- Athletic Advisory Council — Henry S. Marlor, '10

Nominating Committee for nomination of Alumni Trustee, A. P. R. Wadlund, '17

A new feature of the Alumni Meeting was the presentation of reports from the individual alumni associations. These reports gave a good panoramic review of the activities of Trinity alumni in all parts of the country.

Following the Alumni Luncheon the two alumni baseball teams, the Connecticut Yankees and the New York Giants, fought it out under the elms while the spectators looked on from a distance.
vantage point made doubly attractive by beer and shade. The result of the game was Connecticut Yankees 14 and New York Giants 12. After the president's reception from 5-6:30 in the afternoon, the alumni went down town for reunion dinners. The 1823 dinner was held at the University Club, twenty-two alumni attending. The classes of 1913 and 1918 held their reunions at the Heublein. Dr. Ogilby dropped in at the various meetings and talked over with the alumni the various problems facing the College as it goes over on to a military footing.

Sunday morning Holy Communion was celebrated at 9:30 by the Rev. Clarence Ball. The 11 o'clock service was dedicated to Trinity men in uniform. The congregation listened to a reading of the list of men who had lost their lives in the present war and participated in singing hymns for the men in the services.

Despite difficulties of transportation, and despite the fact that the graduating class was only sixty strong, the Chapel was packed for the 117th Commencement which took place at 4:30 in the afternoon. Col. Robert Cutler, A.U.S., gave the Commencement address in which he told the members of the graduating class that love for one's country, not hate for one's foes, should provide the dynamic force for those who fight to maintain democracy.
J. H. Kelso Davis, '99
Wins Eigenbrodt Trophy

Long before John Henry Kelso Davis, '99, was presented the Eigenbrodt Trophy, he had been recognized as one of Trinity's foremost alumni. The presentation of the Eigenbrodt cup at the annual Alumni Meeting on Saturday, May 15th, was a reaffirmation of the trust and admiration in which Col. Davis has for many years been held by his college.

In 1923 he was granted an honorary Master of Arts degree. That year, as chairman of the drive for a million dollars in connection with the Centennial celebration of the College, he successfully raised the million. In 1927, after serving a term as Alumni Trustee, he was elected permanent trustee of the College. The 1940 Ivy was dedicated to him. The presentation of the Eigenbrodt Trophy came, then, as the most recent statement of Trinity's faith in, and gratitude to, Col. Davis.

When George Cleveland Capen, '10, made the presentation before the assembled alumni, Col. Davis gave expressions of surprise and pleasure, while his fellow alumni showed their approval of the award by coming to their feet and clapping enthusiastically.

Since 1912, Col. Davis has been with the Case, Lockwood & Brainard Company, where he is now vice president and treasurer. His activities in Hartford civic life include the directorship of the Family Aid Society and activity in Community Chest work.

A member of the Beta Beta Chapter of Psi Upsilon, where he is chairman of the Colt Trust Fund, Col. Davis is a familiar figure on the campus. As an undergraduate he was captain of the Trinity baseball team and he remains an enthusiastic baseball fan. All alumni of Trinity College will be pleased that to the distinguished roster of Eigenbrodt Trophy holders has been added the name of Col. John Henry Kelso Davis.

Former holders of the Eigenbrodt Trophy are:
1935 William G. Mather, '77
1936 Hon. Joseph Buffington, '75
1937 Martin W. Clement, '01
1938 Hon. Philip J. McCook, '95
1939 (No award)
1940 Hon. Lawson Purdy, '84
1941 Richardson L. Wright, '10
1942 Charles G. Woodward, '98

Trinity Awards
Six Honorary Degrees

The following are condensed and free translations of the Latin citations used in the awarding of six honorary degrees at Commencement, May 16, 1943.

CARLOS BLANCHARD CLARK,
Master of Arts

Distinguished president, this man, our much loved alumnus, came, saw and was conquered by the charms of our Muses. And little wonder. From his boyhood he was fired with love of the liberal arts, so that now it is fitting that he should be enrolled honoris causa, among our alumni. Therefore, this man, a citizen of Detroit, who, because of his outstanding ability in industry, accounting, and business, has been designated lecturer and consulting advisor of the Harvard Business School; a collector of objects of art and classical writings, and a follower of Isaac Walton, I present to you — Carlos Blanchard Clark.

WILLIAM FRENCH COLLINS,
Master of Arts

Distinguished president, this man, who these days has been singing "Gaudeamus Igitur" together with his comrades, is an outstanding example of the man educated in our halls, who has by his own labors brought honors not only upon himself but upon his Alma Mater. He gained fame for himself by writing clear accounts of the first world war in the daily "New York Sun." Later, he became interested in primary and secondary education and performed with distinction many tasks on behalf of the schools of New York. This good alumnus, well suited to lead our young men to the higher things in life, I present to you — William French Collins.

WALTER SAYER PAINE,
Master of Science

Distinguished president, what is more honorable, laudable and memorable than to see father and son honored at one and the same time? This man now feels the same joy as you did when you were honored that day with the purple of Hamilton College. For neither of you can I ask more than that fortune may always smile upon you. This man, an alumnus of Syracuse University, is warmly devoted to our college. The father of two Trinity boys, manager of the Engineering and Inspection Department of the Aetna Insurance Company, has done much to make mechanical work safe for mankind. He has worked for the Young Men's Christian Association. His skill has improved the acoustics of this very Chapel. I present to you Walter Sayer Paine.

ROBERT CUTLER,

Doctor of Laws

Distinguished president, this man, an alumnus of Harvard University, a prominent citizen of Boston, lawyer and one-time Corporation Counsel of his city, one who, because of his love and constancy, has served his city faithfully and wisely as Treasurer of the Peter Brigham Hospital, thrice president of the Community Chest and Councils of America, laden with honors, devoted to Christ and our Church and now an officer of our Army; I present to you — Colonel Robert Cutler.

CHARLES EDWARD WILSON,

Doctor of Laws

Distinguished president, I hesitate to elaborate in words the worth of this man — his fortunes and achievements. But lest I leave him unmentioned, our guest is a character such as might be found in the stories of Horatio Alger. A boy of the people, promoted with amazing speed, he arose to the apogee of honor and was named president of his company. Because of his patriotism, he left in forty seconds the position he had labored forty years to attain and dared to enter the labyrinth of Washington where one almost needs the thread of Ariadne to retrace his footsteps and to escape to the upper air. His untiring efforts, his genius in production and his firm resolve to second our nation's welfare make us rejoice at his being honored. This architect of victory I present to you so that he may deservedly be numbered among our honored doctors — Charles Edward Wilson.

WARREN SEYMOUR ARCHIBALD,

Doctor of Divinity

Distinguished president, this reverend gentleman, your comrade in Harvard and the pastor of a famous church in this city, is known as a firm guardian of God's law, preaching to men the divine message of Heaven. He is a biographer of Thomas Hooker and other fathers of the church; an excellent speaker; devoted to our Chapel and deeply imbued with the majesty and beauty and the spirit of this place. I present to you — Warren Seymour Archibald.

It is impossible to say in this column anything which can add to the renown of the Honorable Joseph Buffington or to say anything about his connection with Trinity College which has not already been placed more clearly before our alumni at other times and in other places.

Judge Buffington was admitted to the bar fifty-four years ago in 1889 and about three years afterward, he was appointed by President Harrison to be a federal district judge. President Theodore Roosevelt commissioned him to circuit judge in 1906. In 1914 he became senior circuit judge and in 1938 he retired. His long career has been heaped with honors. Foreign nations have joined with his fellow countrymen in giving tokens of the esteem in which they held him. He holds the title of Commander of the Crown of Italy and he belongs to the order of the White Lion of Czechoslovakia.

The portrait which appears above, though it was painted more than twenty years ago by Leopold Seyffert, was recently brought back into prominence when it was presented in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the third circuit on February 19th of this year. Mr. Seyffert, one of America's leading portrait painters, painted two identical portraits of Judge Buffington. One hangs in the Dining Hall at Trinity College and the other in the Circuit Court of Appeals mentioned above. Senator Claude Pepper, who in 1918 received an honorary D.C.L. degree from Trinity College, made an address when the portrait was presented to the Court. Mr. Pepper said that this portrait “is a delineation of a man of deep religious feeling.”

This most distinguished alumnus of Trinity College was graduated in the year 1875. He is a member of the Beta Beta Chapter of Psi Upsilon. His son, Joseph Buffington, Jr., received the degree of B.S. in 1920.

Glover Johnson graduated from Trinity School in New York City in 1919 and entered Trinity College's class of 1923. He graduated with the class of 1922, having earned a B.A. degree. From this one might assume that he gave all his time to books and very little to extracurricular activities, but such was not the case. During his busy three years, Glover Johnson found time to serve as manager of baseball and tennis, to participate in the Political Science Club, the Sophomore Dining Club and to help in the publication of the 1923 Ivy. A member of D.K.E., he served on the Interfraternity Council and, by way of relaxation from these duties, he helped to organize during his stay the Freshman Banquet, the Sophomore Entertainment Committee, and Junior Prom.

Three years later, in 1925, he held an LL.B. from the New York Law School.

Mr. Johnson has been a member of the College's Board of Fellows and the Secretary of the Alumni Association. He has served as a member of the D.K.E. National Council. The father of two daughters, Margaret Murray and Dorothy Patricia, he now lives at Brookside, Wilmot Road, New Rochelle, New York. He is a member of the Wall Street firm of White and Case. His connections in the legal world include the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the New York State Bar, the Westchester County Bar Association and the American Bar Association.

Mr. Johnson’s clubs include the Down Town Association in New York City, the Apawamis Golf Club in Rye, New York, and the Larchmont Yacht Club, where he is trustee and secretary. Though Mr. Johnson has never sought political office, he participated some time ago with Thomas Dewey, now governor of New York, in establishing the Young Republican Club of New York and throughout the country.
Report on Athletics by Professor Oosting

Due to the early date for final examinations, it was possible to play only a very limited intercollegiate schedule this past spring. The track and tennis schedules were dropped entirely, but seven games were planned in baseball and, in spite of the unusually rainy spring, five of the seven games were played. The team enjoyed a very successful season, winning four games: two from Wesleyan, one from a strong Springfield College nine, and the other from Worcester Tech. The last defeat was by Yale. Cahill, the Yale ace, let Trinity win three hits to avenge the one to nothing victory Trinity scored last year in the long-to-be-remembered Commencement Day game. A few days before the Trinity game, Cahill pitched a five hit exhibition against Brooklyn, Yale losing by a two to one score. The Trinity nine showed real promise and it was unfortunate that it could not play the usual schedule of games.

The short baseball season may be the last intercollegiate competition for Trinity teams for the duration, although the Athletic Department is hopeful of working out some sort of intercollegiate competition with the Navy V-12 students plus the few regular Trinity students who may be available. Both groups are scheduled to report July 1st. The only information available at this time is a short statement by certain Navy officials that the students will be allowed to participate, providing such participation does not interfere with the students' academic work.

All V-12 students will be required to take one hour of physical education each day in a program similar to the strenuous one our own students have had during this past year. It is believed that the students who can qualify for intercollegiate teams may substitute varsity practice for physical education, providing they have passed certain physical efficiency standards, including swimming.

The usual seven game football schedule has been arranged for next fall, since football schedules are made up several years in advance. However, of the seven opponents listed, four have notified Trinity that they will be unable to play. The remaining games still listed are with Wesleyan, Coast Guard Academy, and Worcester Tech. If it becomes possible for Trinity to use the V-12 students for intercollegiate athletics, two or three more games with nearby opponents may be arranged.

Whether or not intercollegiate football is played, it looks like a very interesting and busy athletic year with the main emphasis on a thorough toughening-up program to prepare the men physically for whatever the next few years have in store.

As this magazine goes to press, the Alumni Fund stands at $6,321.50. This falls below the final figure for last year's Alumni Fund, $6,499.50. We hope those alumni who have been meaning to contribute but who have not got around to doing so for one reason or another will take the earliest opportunity of sending in their contributions. There will come a day when Trinity will need to refurbish a good deal of its old equipment and to buy new materials for the years of peace. When this day comes, nothing could stand the College in better stead than a sound and substantial fund built up through the contribution of its alumni.
The death of Dr. Harold Clarence Jaquith, 1911, deprived Trinity of a loyal alumnus and a most helpful friend and advisor. At the time of his death, April 20th, Dr. Jaquith was on leave from his post as Provost and Dean of Freshmen at the College. He was engaged as Educational Director for the State Office of Price Administration.

Dr. Jaquith's career was an interesting and important one. After graduation from Trinity in 1911, he received a Bachelor of Divinity degree in 1914 from the Union Theological Seminary and in the same year obtained a Master of Arts degree from Columbia University. In 1917 he was appointed Assistant Secretary of Near East Relief and subsequently became its Managing Director. He was on the staff of the American Mission of Poland and of the American Mission to negotiate peace in 1919. In 21921, after the Greco-Turkish war, he was engaged in administering relief to war orphans in the Constantinople-Athens area. In 1933 he became President of Illinois College and remained there until 1937. He received his appointment at Trinity College in 1938.

This office has had a unique opportunity to see the manifestations of genuine grief which Dr. Jaquiths' death has brought to many a Trinity man. A great number of alumni have written expressing sorrow at the passing of a beloved personal advisor and friend.
Above is a recent photograph of Thomas S. Wadow, '33, who has been granted a leave of absence from his duties as Trinity Alumni Secretary to take up arms in defense of his country. It will come as no surprise to alumni to hear that Tom is doing splendidly in the Navy.

Letters From Alumni

From Walter Mugford, '42

somewhere in New Guinea

"New Guinea is not so bad, outside of the heat, mosquitoes, ants, and other insects. Usually it cools off enough in the early hours of the morning so that we can get some sleep. The first night I kept awake most of the time waiting for Tojo to come over but was very much disappointed (?) by him. The Air Corps keep him busy defending himself these days so that he does not have so much time to bother us. Tojo loves the full moon as much as two lovers do and usually makes the most of it, but he seems to have missed this month. Better knock on wood though. One good thing about the Combat Zone is that everything is informal and it is a good thing as one needs all one's energy for work — and there is plenty of it. We used to think that it rained in Louisiana, but here the sky just weeps by the barrel-full. Then the sun just dries everything up in a few hours and we eat dust again."

From Capt. John Wilcox, '39

somewhere in the South Pacific

"One evening, just at sundown, we were attacked by eight enemy torpedo planes. At the time I was Troop Gunnery Officer and fortunately had a bird's eye view of the whole affair. Some of the men in my company were on the troop anti-aircraft guns at the time. It was an excellent opportunity for the men because it gave them confidence in our fine weapons. Cheers went up from all men every time a plane burst into flames and plunged into the sea. After a good forty minutes of 'mixing it up,' five planes had been bagged and the other three were chased away. One of my men was officially given credit for bringing down one of the planes, which made me feel mighty proud. It was our first taste and did much to ease the initial shock.

"At the present time we are located on a small tropical island somewhat nearer the Equator than before. There isn't much to see except endless rows of cocoanut trees and thick jungle. The wild parrots are really beautiful and keep up a continuous jabber all night long. However, when we have an air raid warning, they understand and shut right up. Lizards come in all sizes; from three inches up to three feet. Unfortunately we can't do much swimming because the coral is tough on the feet.

"We all have slit trenches close by our beds and although we have frequent air raid warnings, nothing further has resulted. Our biggest concern is falling cocoanuts. The other day one of the men took off his helmet to wipe his brow. He had been working hard on his slit trench. Just at this moment a fresh cocoanut fell from a nearby tree and hit him squarely on top of his head. He stumbled around dazed for a few seconds, then picked up the cocoanut and much to his surprise, the cocoanut was cracked and dripping fresh milk. He shrugged his shoulders and threw the cocoanut away in disgust."

From Lt. Eric S. Purdon, USNR, '35

"I got through the Submarine Chaser Training Center in Miami early in January and reported for the construction and fitting out of this ship in Houston. Mouse came down to Miami and on to Houston, but when the ship was built she went back to New York. Harry is now 16 lbs. and about to produce a tooth, I hear. They are in Garrison — where they're about to move into a house they've rented with Julia Haskell. Joe Haskell is in London now.

"Both Hoff and Ham Benjamin are in North Africa.

"We've had pretty good sailing so far. These ships are small and buck around quite a bit. So far I haven't succumbed but our crew practically to a man have thrown up their hands hopefully for death a few times. But they've stood up well and will soon be all right. At one time in the mid-watch I've had to steer as well while my duty section has relieved itself over the side!

"I'm hoping naturally that the Commander in Chief will wake up one morning with the brilliant idea to order us to New York, but that of course...

USNR Midshipmen's School, N.Y.C.

"I am enjoying every minute of my schooling here. It is extremely novel and that makes it interesting. As apprentice seamen we cannot go north of 122nd Street, south of 110th, east of Morningside, or west of Riverside. It gives us a fairly large field of operations."

From 1st Lt. F. J. Eigenbaurn, '35

French N.W. Africa

"I never expected to spend a winter's 'vacation' on the 'dark continent' " but here I am. My only previous conception of Africa had been via movieland, as portrayed by our good friend Frank (Bring 'em Back Alive) Buck, and that tree top troubador, Tarzan. I was quite surprised to find it so modern. For example, I'm working on the Chemins de Fer du Morac, and part of the system is electrified. M. W.'s 'narrow gauge line' hasn't anything better to offer. The buildings and homes are very nice too. I've been invited out by various families, and have been amazed at the furnishings of their abodes. Right up to snuff, in fact, in some cases way ahead of us.
“When I first arrived I had to work with the French who are still operating the railroad system. I had quite a time. As you know, I didn’t exactly breeze thru my French courses, or maybe I did, but if it hadn’t been for a bit of the old sign language I picked up while in New York I’m afraid I would have been lost. You can tell Louis Naylor that I’m really cooking with gas now.”

From Harold Gleason, ’45 — Camp Haan, California

“The colorful panorama which heads this stationery gives an excellent idea of what I am doing now. We are in the midst of the desert, practicing and maneuvering ad nauseam for coast artillery combat. Life in the desert is hardy, but good: for the first time in my life I am prepared to sneer at Ray Oosting’s obstacle course as a strictly 4-F service! There are drawbacks, of course, such as all manner of creeping things that “will get you if you don’t watch out,” primitive “conveniences,” and a terrific, perpetual barrage of dust and sand, which pervade one’s equipment, clothes without stint. But the men are splendid, spirited, religious people, and living with them is hardly a duty, but a priceless privilege of American democracy.

From E. W. Spingarn, former member of Faculty — somewhere in India

“It’s rather hard giving you much news about myself. The censorship is terribly strict. However, I can tell you that I’m somewhere in India. I’ve been out of the States almost a year now, and out here almost as long. So by American standards, I’m almost an old-timer! At first I started out with troops, as second-in-command of a Signal Depot Co. We actually reached the Depot—after all sorts of delays and adventures—but after about a month at the Depot, I got transferred up here; and now I’m one of those chaps who has a ‘soft job’ at Headquarters.

“I had lunch with Bob Barlow (Trin. ’38, I believe) the other day. When I said I’d had a letter from you, he asked me to be sure to send you his best regards. We’re both avid for news of Trinity and the war effort.”

From Jim Bailey, ’45 — Camp Barkeley, Tex.

“If there was one course I regretted cutting at Trin, it was Gym. My hardest job was getting physically fit for this Army grind.”
