Seniors Have Full Schedule; 206 Receive Baccalaureate

Two hundred and sixty-three members of the Class of 1954 received their diplomas and Baccalaureate degrees today.

Representing 18 different states and 110 societies, the class of 1954 received their degrees in ceremonies held throughout the College.

A record number of seniors participated in the pre-commencement activities, leading up to the annual ceremony.

Seniors Take Many Honors

An outstanding record of scholarship and achievement marked Trinity's 136th commencement yesterday. Among the 206 seniors graduated, 22 received honors, 19 were elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and 19 were members of senior fraternities.

A number of seniors graduated with special honors, including 19 with high and alderon. Although military service interrupted the studies of 17 seniors, a majority of the class at 63 of those plans to continue their education. A number of others plan graduate study, and many of those who are employed by business firms, or in government, will enter service in the near future.

Ogilvy Brothers Return

The Ogilvy brothers returned to the Chapel with their father, who also attended as a child, for the Holy Communion Service on Commencement Day.

The Rev. Langdon C. Ogilvy, successor Bishop of the Philadelphia, conducted the service, assisted by his brother Albert. Ogilvy Brothers, Trinity Parish, Hartford, these last year.

NGAD: Ogilvy Ogilvy had attended.

Always a hit in the traditional academic parade, the Ogilvy brothers continue their studies in chemistry for a second year.

Twenty members of the masters class are the sons of the presidents of the private and public schools.

Twelve were all graduates of the Masters of Arts degree except for two who read the Master of Science.

Ogilvy Brothers Return

The Ogilvy brothers returned to the Chapel with their father, who also attended as a child, for the Holy Communion Service on Commencement Day.

The Rev. Langdon C. Ogilvy, successor Bishop of the Philadelphia, conducted the service, assisted by his brother Albert. Ogilvy Brothers, Trinity Parish, Hartford, these last year.

NGAD: Ogilvy Ogilvy had attended.

Always a hit in the traditional academic parade, the Ogilvy brothers continue their studies in chemistry for a second year.

Twenty members of the masters class are the sons of the presidents of the private and public schools.

Twelve were all graduates of the Masters of Arts degree except for two who read the Master of Science.

Jazz Loud, Lively

A jazz loud band made its first night of appearances on a local and lively note and what was a highly successful performance in the weekend program this past week.

Ralph Stafler of Providence, one of the top ten pianists in the nation, conducted his famous band, composed of ten top-notch musicians, and his baton augmented the combo for most of the evening. An attendance of 600 alums and friends, and a number of guests who were fluent in the language of music, showed how much the past concert should be held at an annual event.

Seniors Attend Alumni Reunion; 128th Commencement Ceremony

3,000 Attend Alumni Reunion, 128th Commencement Ceremony

Gifts $338,000

Jacobs Reports

Trinity has received gifts of more than $338,000 in its fiscal year 1954, according to Paul A. Jacobs reported at the annual alumni meeting Saturday morning. Of the $338,000, the funds have been divided among several projects, including the construction of a new dormitory and the purchase of a new Fine Arts Building.

During his first full year at the College, Dr. Jacobs paid tribute to "the inspiring and beautiful" campus, which has been the home of the College for more than 30 years. "The College community," he said, "is a community of scholars who have not yet had a chance to experiment with the benefits of freedom of thought and inquiry."

Jacobs also mentioned the College's "commitment to excellence in education," which he said is "the cornerstone of Trinity's work.

Jacobs also noted the College's "commitment to excellence in education," which he said is "the cornerstone of Trinity's work.

The budget for the coming year is expected to be $3.5 million, an increase of $1.5 million. This increase is necessary to support the College's continued growth and expansion.

In his comments on the College's financial health, Jacobs said: "We are confident that the College will continue to grow and expand in the years ahead."
The Ogilby family, above, at the Baccalaureate Service: left to right, Alexander, Ruth (Mrs. Lyman), Bishop Lyman, Mrs. Prexy, and Peter. Below, "Dart" Carlough, soccer All-American and senior class president, receives the George Sheldon McCook award from Judge Philip McCook.

Honorary degree and alumni medal recipients, above, were: front, left to right, George C. Capen '10, alumni medal; Lewis G. Harriman '92, Doctor of Laws; President Jacobs; the Rev. George D. Hendrick '79, Doctor of Divinity; the Rt. Rev. Lyman C. Ogilby, Doctor of Divinity; Rear. Robert D. Muller '31, alumni medal; Raymond J. Weiss, Doctor of Science; Frank D. Ashburn, Doctor of Humane Letters; Walter P. Paepcke, Doctor of Humane Letters; and Julius Goebel, Jr., Doctor of Laws.

Cadet Corps Commander Ronald Sturza, above, is "prized" with his new second lieutenant's bars by his mother and wife. Below, second generation degree candidate Jerry Silverberg touches the Commencement Book as he receives degree from President Jacobs. His father, Ben Silverberg, was among the 75th anniversary of his own graduation with the Class of 1919.
New Alumni Secretary John Butler, above, samples clam broth (?) at the clambake with friends. Below: Everett Barton '19, of Beverly Hills, Calif., right, receives award as alumni who traveled the farthest distance to the reunion. Making award is new Alumni President Russell Johnston '74, left.

Pictures at left, top to bottom:
Top: The Reunion Parade.
Part of the crowd of 700 at the alumni luncheon.
The 25th Anniversary Class of 1929 at their Reunion Dinner at the Heublein.
The Class of 1934 in front of their Jarvis Headquarters.
Winners of the Board of Fellows Bowl for the best showing, the Class of 1919.
The 10th Reunion Cake of the Class of 1944 and escorts in the Alumni Parade.

Below: The Class of 1939 in the Reunion Parade.
Lower right: Scene at the tennis exhibition by Billy Talbert and Jerry DeWitt.
Pres. Jacobs, Bishop Ogilby, Give Addresses

"The last true to the principles in which your lives have been conducted," President Albert C. Jacobs charged the 1959 graduating class in his address at commencement.

"You have been with us in the classroom and on the playing field. You have represented the College in its athletic games and in its activities. You have been true to the principles in which your lives have been conducted.

Mr. Butler spoke of the 1959 graduating class.

Mr. Butler concluded his address with a statement about the future of the College. "The College is not a business, nor is it a place of amusement. It is a place of learning and of preparation for the work of life. The College is not a place where the young man is taught to be a follower, but to be a leader."

Halden '09 Wins Eigenbrodt Award

Honorary Degrees Awarded Seven; Two Are Alumni

Two alumni were among seven leaders in business, science, industry and government who received honorary degrees from Trinity.

The alumni honored were: Lewis G. Harris, chairman of the board of R. M. Stuckey and Company; and Olafsson, a member of the board of directors of the First National Bank of Chicago.

The other honorees were: George H. Harris, chairman of the board of directors of the National Bank of Commerce; and Olafsson, a member of the board of directors of the First National Bank of Chicago.

Lewis G. Harris, chairman of the board of R. M. Stuckey and Company, presented the trophy.

McCook Trophy Awarded to Carlow at Class Day; Dr. Braskamp Speaks

Winfred A. Carlow, Jr.,班长, N.J., received the ceramic Geohegan McCook Trophy at the outstanding amateur-athlete at Class Day exercises. The presentation was made by Judge Philip J. McCook '59.

The award is given annually to the outstanding amateur-athlete at Class Day exercises. The recipient is selected on the basis of his athletic ability, his character, and his contributions to the College and its community.

Dr. Robert O. Muller, associate professor of history, delivered the class-day address. He spoke on "The Importance of Education in a Democratic Society." He emphasized the importance of education in the development of a democratic society.

Dr. Muller called for a "New Spirit of Service" in education. He said that education must be "more than the training of young people for a profession. It must be the preparation of young people for a life of service."

He concluded his address with a statement about the future of education. "The future of education is in the hands of those who have the vision to see it. Let us work together to make education a reality for all people."

Bishop Ogilby, president of the College, gave the sermon at the traditional outdoor service. He spoke on "The Importance of Service in a Democratic Society." He emphasized the importance of service in the development of a democratic society.

He concluded his address with a statement about the future of service. "The future of service is in the hands of those who have the vision to see it. Let us work together to make service a reality for all people."

Student Magazine Opens Subscriptions

Seth Frey, faculty advisor to the Student Magazine, announced plans of the editorial board to enlarge The Review, Trinity College, Box 198.

"We hope that the new edition of The Review will provide a greater variety of content and a more diverse range of perspectives," Mr. Frey said. "We also hope that the new edition will attract a wider audience and encourage more student participation."