$350,000 Sought

In Annual Gifts

To Meet Needs

A goal of $350,000 has been set for the 1970-71 Annual Giving Program that will kick off nationally November 9. The goal represents an amount included in the College budget as anticipated income to help meet the expenses of the academic program for the current year.

Emphasizing the importance of the Annual Giving Program, President Lockwood stated that these gifts "are the crucial margin of difference in Trinity's effort to preserve the high quality of its academic program.

The $350,000 figure includes separate goals for alumni, parents and other groups where support will be sought. The identity and integrity of gifts in each category will be respected and all gifts will be appropriately credited toward the achievement of each goal. These goals are:

Alumni Fund: $200,000

Business & Industry: $75,000

Friends of Trinity: $15,000

Foundations: $10,000

Unique to this year's Annual Giving Program is the opportunity for a donor of $500 or more to become a sponsor of a program or activity at the College in which he has a special interest.

Foundation Gift

To Aid Faculty

The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation has awarded Trinity a $120,000 faculty support grant.

Charles S. Hamilton Jr., president of the New York City based foundation said in announcing the grant that "the funds may not be used for faculty support, including such matters as salary increases, additions to faculty and paid release time, as the college shall determine," and that the funds should be expended over a period of not less than three years.

It was specifically stated in the grant that the funds may not be used for endowment and the foundation requested "support be given primarily, although not exclusively, to the humanities programs" at the college.

The award was one of 15 similar grants made by the foundation to private liberal arts colleges throughout the country. Each received the same amount. Bates College, Trinity and Wheaton were the only New England Colleges awarded grants.

"This grant," said President Lockwood, "will significantly strengthen the continuing effort of the college to enhance the high quality of its academic program and to maintain an excellent teaching faculty."

John Butler

Dead At 60

John F. Butler, 60, director of placement and career counseling at Trinity for 23 years, died October 11 in Hartford Hospital after a long illness.

A native of Hartford, he attended Hartford High School and was graduated from Trinity in 1933 with a major in history and economics. He was a member of the Alpha Chi Rho fraternity and was secretary of his class.

Mr. Butler returned to the College in 1947 where he established the Placement Office, one of the first of its type at a small college. In addition to career counseling, he had assumed other duties at the College from time to time, including heading the alumni fund in 1948, acting as alumni secretary in 1955 and, since 1960, he had served as an admissions counselor.

Upon learning of Mr. Butler's passing, President Lockwood issued the following statement:

John Butler served innumerable Trinity people during the 23 years he was here. Not only did he help seniors find jobs but he also counseled them through many years as they established themselves in their various careers.

It was a continuing tribute to his extraordinary service that, whenever an alumnus returned, he visited John. It was quite appropriate that Mr. Butler recommended the change in title from Placement to Career Counseling, for he transformed the task into a personal concern that won him the lasting admiration of all who worked with him and who profited from his wise, friendly, and, not infrequently, humorous advice.

What some may not know was his knowledge. Trinity College is a better place because of his efforts.

And he knew Trinity College well. We shall sorely miss his understanding and his knowledge. Trinity College is a better place for having had the good fortune of his services.

I join with countless others in expressing our sorrow and in extending our deepest sympathy to his family and friends.

Temperature, Busy Program Combine

To Make Fall Reunion 'Hot' Affair

Several hundred alumni were on the Campus for the college's first fall reunion which turned out to be a real "hot" affair.

Even the reunion committee and its chairman Bernard Wilbur '50, checking last minute details, couldn't alter the mercury which shot into the 90's Friday and Saturday, September 25-26.

The heat may have delayed the arrival of some grads Friday afternoon as only 25 ventured into the air conditioned Life Sciences Center where a panel of students and Robert W. Barrows '50 discussed "Student Involvement in Campus Activities and the Community."

Edward Opowicz Jr. '71, a political science major from New Britain, Conn., who related his experiences working in the Big Brother program of Greater Hartford, said "I decided to help one boy instead of going on protest marches and screaming about what is wrong with a whole lot of things."

Clinton A. Vince '71, a political science major from Garden City, N.Y., reported on a seminar which involved him in the community and said he felt "I learned more than I could have in any other course." He is active with the Community Corporation in the North End of Hartford which tries to improve housing, employment and social services.

John Gaston '71, a chemical engineering major from Alton, Ill., in response to a member of the class of 1920 who asked why the Black students formed a coalition on campus, asked, "How many Blacks were at Trinity in 1920?" "None," said the alumnus. "There are 71 now," said Gaston, "and the coalition was formed to work together on common problems. The coalition assists the Admissions Office and is working on a Black Studies Program. It is not a separation from the rest of the campus - it is an act of coalition."

Letters To the Editor

A Vote for the Magazine

I have now received three issues of the Trinity Reporter, and frankly I find it very unexciting. In fact, I don't think much of the concept behind it.

My interest in campus affairs remains keen, both out of nostalgia, and in ratio to the amenable times that society, and the campus live in, however the Reporter fails to achieve satisfaction in either of these areas. It falls between two schools. Now it is rather a very current weekly journal of campus activities as they happen, nor is it a more thoughtful recollection of the event. It is the format, not time (a la Time magazine). And frankly, I'm really not interested in the current affairs of Trinity's campus.

Another negative factor, in my view, is that the Reporter is not as attractive as the Alumni Magazine was. The format is reasonably nice, but the paper stock is cheap and tears easily in the mail, and picks up dirt.

On balance, I did much prefer the old Alumni Magazine — it was printed well, the format was imaginative and the editorial content interesting. It came to my house in good shape, and I can't help but think that some alumni, like myself, gleaned a certain prestige value in this good looking, interesting publication — that was done handsomely with its Williams or Yale counterparts.

Press Comments on Lockwood Letter

A Plea For Understanding

(Original which appeared in Hartford Courant, Dec. 11, 1970)

The pertinent part of Trinity's President Theodore D. Lockwood's reply to President Nixon's request for his comments on the report of the Scranton Commission on Campus Unrest bears repeating.

This is a thoughtful endorsement of one part of what is, in spite of Vice President Agnew's truculent and reasonable report. The Scranton Commission's exposition of the problems confronting academic institutions, administrators, law enforcement officials and, not the least important, those who have physical involvement in campus unrest. It is controversial, as President Nixon predicted it would be before he left for Europe. It does not, as some thoughtless commentators attempt to make the President a "scapegoat" for our campus problems.

No more does the report give support to permissiveness on the campus, as some of its instant critics have suggested. It makes the point that violence cannot be permitted clearly and boldly: "Students who bomb and burn are criminals. There can be no more sympathy, no more rocking, no more bombing by protesters...Criminal acts by the students must be treated as such wherever they occur and whatever their purpose...Faculty members who engage in or lend disruptive campaign have no place in the university community."

"The thrust of the Scranton Commission's report is that of President Lockwood's comment on it was expressed long ago and in another collection by the late Justice Robert Jackson: The choice facing the campus is not between liberty with order and both are on firm ground.

Bravo President Lockwood

WNHC-TV (Channel 8) in New Haven said this week, "President Lockwood's letter talks of a lack of compassion and understanding at the highest levels of government, heightening the chances of further disorder. He suggests to the President that high-level government people, including Vice-President Agnew, limit the degree to which campus unrest is made a political issue."

This Editorial Board heartily endorses the suggestion, in line with what we urged last week: this state and this nation are two and one point quoted by Justice Jackson: "Every citizen to read it, and draw his own conclusions.

In any event, however, in this campaign let's not have cheap political strategy for the fires of further discontent. We need positive programs for problem-solving—not fanning the flames of hatred. Incidentally, in his letter, Trinity's President Lockwood makes it abundantly clear that excesses of campus disorder and violence have no place in problem deliberations.

Bravo to you, President Lockwood.

Sound Advice

The Hartford Times under the headline "Mr. Nixon Should De-Fuse the 'Campus Unrest' Issue," editorially commented on the commission's report and at one point quoted this to the effect...

The Leftists try to destroy the university, according to the chancellor, while extremists on the other side, by their denunciations, withdrawals of support, and advocacy of repression are also, through steps unwittingly, trying to destroy the university.

That is a point underscored by other campus presidents, among them President Theodore Lockwood of Trinity College here in Hartford. His response to President Nixon included this advice: "I hope that you will assist us by trying to limit the degree to which campus unrest is made a political issue."

That is sound advice, indeed. It is time that the nation heard a full statement on this issue from the President himself.

Respectfully yours,

Theodore Lockwood

Lockwood Writes Nixon

President Lockwood has written President Nixon, urging him to support the recommendations of the Commission on Campus Unrest and sought Mr. Nixon's assistance in "addressing the degree to which campus unrest is a made political issue." President Lockwood's letter stressed that "a lack of compassion and understanding at the highest levels of government heightens the chances of further disorder." And he assured President Nixon that Trinity has taken steps to meet any display of violence with "immediate, firm and fair responses."

Complete text of President Lockwood's letter to President Nixon:

Dear President Nixon:

You have earnestly requested that college and university presidents respond to your recent suggestions on educational matters. I am pleased to do so and, because your Commission on Campus Unrest has released its report, may I also comment on the condemned version which appeared in the press.

It seems to me that the Scranton Commission comes close to identifying the sources of unrest. Our problems have arisen for many reasons, both on and off campuses; but I feel that we would do you a disservice if we did not repeat what many of us said last week: this state and this nation are two and one point quoted by Justice Jackson: "Every citizen to read it, and draw his own conclusions.

CAMPUS NOTES

WILLIAM V. SIEELER, teacher, college administrator and poet, read from his new book of verse, "Green Water for a Granite Valley," in Alumni Lounge on September 24. The affair was sponsored by the Modern Languages Department and the Poetry Center. Mr. Sieeler is Director of Artistic Seniors and Chairman of the Modern Languages Department at Northwestern Community College.

JANET NIGHTINGALE will take over his work in "Sleep State" this fall. Dr. Katz came to Trinity in 1970 under a Fulbright Fellowship and has published an M.S. from the London Contemporary Dance Company and the Trinity Dance group. Mrs. Nightingale has been a member of the Martha Graham Dance Company, the Merry-Go-Rounders, the Tidal Dance group and the Paul Taylor group.

JEFFREY W. CHAMPLIN has been appointed visiting assistant professor of physics. He received his B.A. from Swarthmore in 1963, an M.S. from Yale in 1964 and is expecting a Ph.D. in 1971.

The first round of Campus Notes has been incorporated into our educational program in the University of the East. In addition to the economics department in Quezon City, the program also associated with the Philippine Industries Export Corporation, Inc., the Aguila Glass Company, Jalwindor Manufacturers, Inc. and the Transport Rubber and Plastics Corporation.

A student and faculty exchange program has been inaugurated between Trinity College and its namesake in Quezon City, The Philippines. The first participants in the program include a faculty member from the Quezon City campus to the Hartford campus and two Trinity (Hartford) judges to Quezon City.

Bienvenido A. Delantar, chairman of the economics department in Quezon City, will be working on a master's degree in economics as well as acting as assistant to the economics department. Mr. Delantar was graduated from the University of the Philippines and has attended Graduate School of Business of the University of the East. In his academic experience, he has been associated with the Philippine Industries Export Corporation, Inc., the Aguila Glass Company, Jalwindor Manufacturers, Inc. and the Lafayette Manufacturers.

Griesinger Elected Head
Of Parents Association

Frank K. Griesinger of Gates Mills, Ohio, was elected president of the Parents Association at the association's annual meeting held on the campus Parents Weekend (Oct. 2-4).

Mr. Griesinger, who is president of Frank K. Griesinger and Associates Inc., Cleveleand, Ohio, and an official of Free Europe Inc., was elected secretary-treasurer and Alfred Rees Jr., of Yardley, Pa. and Piankoe Aircraft, Philadelphia, was named Funds Parent Chairman.

Some 70 parents heard six students and a visitor from the Philippines illustrate from personal experience the meaning of various programs that have literally opened up a whole new world to today's Trinity student.

The discussion came at a panel Parents Weekend on "Educational Opportunities: Trinity is Only Home Base." After a general explanation of various programs away from Trinity which are available to students, the panelists described what particular programs have meant to them.

Charles Yeager '72, a religion major from Alexandria, La., was one of the participants in a group "Open Semester" last spring when 10 young men spent two months in Vermont with a faculty member and his family studying "Religious Philosophy of Being." Each student also worked on separate projects. "I've never worked or played harder in my life," said Yeager.

Peter Bennett '71, a government major from Cape Elizabeth, Me., spent a year studying the operation of municipal government in Costa Rica under the auspices of the Associated Colleges of the Midwest. He was on leave of absence from Trinity but received some transfer credits for his work. "I received invaluable practical experience in my major," he said.

George Graves '72, an English major from Norfolk, Va., said "I enjoyed a different environment socially and academically" in summing up his year at Smith College under the provisions of the Twelve College Exchange Program of which Trinity is associated with 11 other colleges and universities.

Adlene Forsythe '71, a biochemistry major from Springfield, Mass., spent six weeks this summer at the Trinity campus in Rome. "It was an unusual opportunity to be at the 'home' of the art, architecture and historical places that we were studying."

Norma Schreiber '71, a music major from New Britain, Conn., is studying under a special co-operative program with the Hartt College of Music, University of Hartford. "I love music and the opportunity to study at Hartt, but I also want to be in a liberal arts environment like Trinity. This program allows me to do both."

Prof. Bienvenido Delantaro, chairman of the Economics Department at Trinity College, Quezon City, Philippines, is doing advanced study on the campus and assisting the economics department here.

He said he was grateful for his opportunity at Trinity, Hartford, and hoped that people on this managing so complex an organization as a college."

The response to the College's 17th Annual Parents' Weekend reached new levels in participation and interest. Some 800 parents were on the campus for the weekend and over 600 attended a Friday night dinner in the Hilton Hotel. The dinner had been moved to the downtown hotel because of the large response from parents and because the College dining facilities have been pressed this fall to feed a record number of undergraduates.

President Lockwood in addressing the parents cited "four mores" of college life: "impatient, amiable, plaintive and serene."

He said "the tempestuous the public season..." and "...this wins the headlines and comes "most often from an understandable impatience with academic policy..." and "...a reaction...irrelevant in the academic community."

"Of the amiable," he said this is "the music of nostrums for sense..." physically, morally and intellectually enough it is very evident."

And he added, ""If we are to find good and reasonable solution and the problems before an society today, we improve our chances of success if we hang on to what we know and treat it with respect for others so perilously strained."

The "plaintive mood," he said "seems to characterize so many campuses discussions." And he said, administrators need to remember that "concern for the individual is far more important than an impressive procedural guideline; that faculty must realize that "listening to students does not diminish our reputation as sources of knowledge," and students must recognize "the difficulty of Park.

"Trinity is Only Home Base"

"Is Political Activism Ebbing?"

The strong tide of political activism that swept the campus last spring following the Cambodian invasion has ebbed, at least temporarily. This was the consensus of five students who participated in a Parents Weekend panel discussion of "Student Political Activism: On and Off the Campus." But the participants differed sharply over why political involvement was waning.

Leif Parr '71, a Non-Western Studies major from Tolin, Ohio, suggested many students were emotionally exhausted by their efforts during the strike last spring and disillusioned because those efforts failed to produce tangible changes in national policies.

Alan Marchiotta '71, a history major from Baldwin, N.Y., argued that student interest in politics had proved short-lived and was based more on "emotionalism than intellectual conviction."

David Green '71, a history major from New York City, contended that student discontent stemmed not only from specific issues like Vietnam but from a deepening dissatisfaction with prevailing social values and mores.

"If I were campus and in his country "would grow in understanding" as one of the results of the exchange between the two colleges.

Describing this phenomenon as "cultural despair," Green argued that students increasingly realized that it could not be dealt with simply by political means.

Nancy Lipp '71, an American Studies major from West Saratoga, Me., attributed the ephemeral quality of much student activism to the fact that American culture conditions people to expect instant gratification of their desires. When students find they cannot solve political problems "just by pushing a button," Miss Lipp continued, "they become quickly frustrated and withdraw from the scene."

Andrew Lipp '71, a math major from Swampscott, Mass., said that in the near future students may redirect their political energies away from national politics and focus instead on such problems as housing and faculty hiring policies. He called upon parents to take a greater interest in both, arguing that they have far more leverage with college authorities than do the students.

During a question period following the discussion, one parent appealed to students to remain active in politics, "...I expect a great deal of you," he said, "on the way they spend sufficient time to point up problems and to energize their elders into taking meaningful actions. This sentiment drew applause from many in the audience.
rejection as a State Representative from the 13th District (West Hartford), he felt participation in politics by people of all ages is "necessary to the vitality of the nation." And he said, "Student involvement must be given credit for highlighting many of the problems facing the nation."

On Friday evening, with the temperature still in the high 80's, fans were placed in the dining hall where Dr. Lockwood addressed the alumni dinner. President Lockwood said he has found students "do not want to run the College. The over-riding factor is to come here to learn and they respect the necessity of a division of labor." But he added, students want "a considerate and responsive management of the College; they want their questions answered and the truth to be heard."

He told the returning alumni, "the irony is that those of us who are older have so much to offer may well have lost the art of listening — and therefore the ability to enter the discussion at a relevant point."

As a beginning, he said "we must find out what young people are saying. Then we can address ourselves constructively to problems that characterize today's colleges."

Mr. Vining lauded Jesus as a teacher, coach, and as a friend. He said, "Dan coached his teams, but taught his players. He loved what he was doing. He was convinced that the sports he taught so well helped make and prepare young men for life."

In the late morning over 100 alumni gathered in the Goodwin Theatre to hear a panel of "Changes in Education in the '70's."

Karen F. Fink '73 of Glastonbury, Conn., said she thought "Trinity was unique because it is the only institution that makes rational changes so quickly." She cited coeducation, various innovations of the new curriculum and various exchange programs, all of which have come in the past year.

Dr. Boyd Painter '58, associate professor of history, said, "in spite of the changes, Trinity's role is still to provide a quality education." He said, however, the College cannot afford not to change. An alumnus asked if the college is actually equipping a student for life and a job.

Panelist Bernard Wilbur '50, said he left the college had an "obligation to equip a graduate to make a significant contribution to society" and to teach them that the sorting which is successfully enter the "business and technical world."

Mr. Vining pointed, "the student is here to learn to think... to sort out what is relevant and what is not. We are "not training people for a particular profession" but to develop "inquiring minds."

Moderator Edwin Nye, in response to a question about student dress, said as Dean of the Faculty he was more concerned about concentrating on providing students with a good education and allowing students the freedom to make decisions. He cited students that are making major decisions in course selection under the new curriculum, and said it was interesting to note that large numbers were electing to take courses which were formerly required.

As the noon sun bore down on the Quad, many alumni took refuge in small headquarters in the Jacoby Life Science Center. Then 500 gathered in the Memorial Field House for a luncheon and the annual meeting of the Alumni Association.

The blistering heat didn't prevent reunion weekend was the Austin Arts Center. Then

Vertrees Young Wins Eigenbrodt

A retired business executive who serves as a life trustee of the College is the thirty-second recipient of the Eigenbrodt Cup.

Vertrees Young of Bogalusa, La. received the College's highest award bestowed on an alumnus at the Friday night dinner of Reunion weekend.

Mr. Young, a member of the Class of 1915, is a director and consultant to Crown Zellerbach Corporation and is the former president of the Corporation and former president of its Gaylord Division.

Long a leader in his community, Bogalusa, he was named "Citizen of the Year" in 1957 and was cited nationally in 1965 for his attempt to speak out against the bigotry that brought the threat of violence to his community.

Mr. Young is a Phi Beta Kappa at Trinity, he earned degrees at M.E.T. and Harvard before serving in World War I, where he was awarded a Certificate of Merit from the Ordnance Department of the Army. He has served Trinity in numerous ways including the last ten years as a life trustee. For distinguished service to the College, he was recipient of an Alumni Citation in 1955.

Mr. Young is considered Bogalusa's number one citizen and is a past president of the Chamber of Commerce; served the YMCA and Medical Center in Bogalusa and is former co-chairman of the Council for a Better Louisiana. He is a former chairman of the Louisiana Forestry Commissions and past president of the Forestry Association. He serves as the director of several corporations.

Brenton Harries '50 Elected National Alumni President

Brenton W. Harries of Westfield, N.J. was elected president of the National Alumni Association at the alumni annual meeting during Reunion.

Mr. Harries, group vice president of Standard and Poor's Corporation and chairman of the Board of Blue List Publishing Company, was graduated from Trinity in 1950. On the evening before his election, he was one of three alumni given a Medal of Excellence by the College for his "significant contributions to his profession, community and College."

As president of the national association, he succeeds Attorney John J. Bonee of Hartford, a member of the Class of 1943.

Other officers elected with Harries by the alumni are: John T. Wilcox '39 of Wethersfield, senior vice president; vice presidents — for Alumni Fund, Andrew Quinnipiac, 1-0, and then the football team burned up Jesse Field in the final quarter with three touchdowns to upset favored Williams, 25-22.

A member of Phi Beta Kappa at Trinity, he earned degrees at M.E.T. and Harvard before serving in World War I, where he was awarded a Certificate of Merit from the Ordnance Department of the Army. At Reunion: Johnson, McCook, Harries Awarded Alumni Medals

The College honored three alumni with Medals of Excellence for "significant contributions to their professions, their communities and their College" at the President's Dinner Reunion.

Receiving medals were: Oliver F. Johnson of West Hartford, Conn.; John S. McCook Jr., of Lyme, Conn. and Brenton W. Harries of Westfield, N.J.

Mr. Johnson, Class of '35, is president and chairman of Taylor McCooks, Inc. of Hartford and is president of the National Alumni Association until his election as president of the College at the annual meeting held Reunion Weekend.

Mr. McCook, Class of '35, a practicing attorney, is a member of one of Trinity's most famous families, the "Fighting McCooks." Before him were graduated his father in 1895, and later, two brothers and three uncles. His son, John, is a member of the Class of 1974.

Active in his community of Old Lyme, Conn., he is chairman of the Republican party there, is a former board member of the New London Chamber of Commerce and is vice president of the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce. He has played active roles in a number of organizations including Rotary, the University Club and the Red Cross.

An active alumnus, he served on the Board of Fellows and is a former secretary and chairman of that distinguished group. He is a past president of the Trinity Club of Hartford and has served the National Alumni Association as well as various committees.

Miss Levertov Set For Nov. 9-13

Poetry Readings

Denise Levertov, who has been called one of the most impressive of the younger poets writing in English today, will be the Frederick L. Grinnell Memorial Poet at Trinity this year. Sponsored by the Trinity College Poetry Center, Miss Levertov will be on campus from Nov. 9 - 13. During her stay she will read from her own poetry and from her contemporaries; and she will give a critical lecture entitled "The Poet in the World" on Nov. 12.

Miss Levertov, currently teaching at Reed College in Clinton, N.Y., has taught at Berkeley, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and at Vassar. She has been a Guggenheim Fellow, a Scholar of the Radcliffe Institute for Independent Study and a recipient of a National Institute of Arts and Letters grant. She is former poetry editor for "The Nation."

Her husband, author Mitchell Goodman will give a talk on "Taking a Step into America: William Carlos Williams as a Non-Parochial Writer" on November 10.

Poet, novelist and playwright, James Merrill, who received the National Book Award for his "Nights and Days" in 1967, will give a reading of his poetry on November 15. Haskell has chosen to work with Merrill in Amherst and Bard. His volume of verse includes "The Fire Screen," "Water Street," and "The Country of a Thousand Years of Peace." His novels are "The (Dhido) Notebooks" and "The Seraglio," and his plays "The Immortal Husband" and "The Ball." Merrill is sponsored by the Poetry Center.

Summer Clean-up Sweeps Through Student Art Works

Hartford, Conn. - Sept. 16 (AP) - "Junkyard" did a thorough job of clearing out Trinity College's art building over the summer but apparently had some trouble deciding what was art and what was junk.

This was the lead of an Associated Press story that claimed 130 of the arts students returning to the campus reported that some 30 to 40 pieces of sculpture and some paintings were missing.

The college buildings and grounds staff had been instructed to clean up the upstairs classrooms and corridors of strewn materials and the result was that the city dump became the unlikely place for an impromptu art exhibit.

Tereence D. LaNoue, assistant professor of art who teaches sculpture, termed the dumping "tragic" and it was "distressing" that an alternative wasn't found to dumping.

Reif S. Crandall, director of building and grounds, said he had been directed to clean out the rooms for summer classes and to clear a fire exit. None of the pieces were tagged, he said, and "we didn't know which was finished and which was incomplete." There was a sculpture exhibit downstairs that remained undisturbed and "we assumed all the serious works were on exhibit," Crandall said.

Prof. LaNoue said he felt the whole affair was caused by a lack of communication.

The art department and buildings and grounds have been asked to take steps to insure future summer cleanups remain just that.

REUEL STRATHON, the last member of the class to live in Hartford, has moved to 675 Curfle Drive, Apt. 5-J, Crofton, Maryland 21113. Crofton is not to be found on Rand McNally road maps and is not listed in the "Columbia Gazetteer of the U.S.," but it seems to have about 3,500 inhabitants and to lie about midway between Baltimore and Washington. And if Beatel and Mrs. Stratton escape traffic problems their life will be enjoyable.

Reuel is married, but we seem to have the greatest average income, but we seem to have the greatest average devotion—a quality deserving recognition.

The famous Class of 1925 again returned to the Trinity campus, this time for its 45th Reunion. And again it was triumphant! One could scarcely believe it was 45 years ago that these youthful-looking men, garbed in blue jackets with the numerals 25 in gold on their breast pockets and white crew hats with a blue 25, had heard the words: Hoc tibi diploma. No less than 50 of the Class returned to celebrate this momentous occasion and as a result were suitably rewarded at the Alumni Luncheon, receiving the Jerome Kohn Award as the Class with the highest percentage of members back for Reunion. Also to the surprise of most, the Class was awarded the Board of Fellows Bowl for the most colorful and spirited Reunion Class and a class which ranks high on the list of contributors and dollar value in connection with the yearly Alumni Fund. This is the third time that 1925 has won this coveted award. Both of these awards may be seen in the Alumni Lounge at the College.

The Class and their wives participated in all Reunion events and especially enjoyed the final win of the football team over arch rival Williams. Members began coming in at 9:00 a.m. Friday and continued throughout the day until 5:00 p.m. Saturday, when the reunion ended with the Alumni Banquet at 9:30 p.m. There was a continuous cocktail party in the Alumni Lounge and, Friday night and Saturday, at the Life Sciences Center. Student bar-tenders of the Class of 1971, Gerry Bartlett, Anne Maxwell, Deborah Bowles, and the Sisters Kellacker showed versatility in preparations of the various cocktails and good taste in the choice of their wines; they are hereby congratulated and thanked.

1925 WINS TWICE—John L. Boone '43 (left), retiring president of the Alumni Association, presents the Jerome Kohn Award to Raymond A. Montgomery '25 in recognition of the high percentage of the class attending Reunion. The Class of 1925 was also awarded the Board of Fellows Bowl for its class spirit and its support of the Alumni Fund since its last reunion. The trophy, established in 1952, was awarded the Class of 1925 at two previous reunions.

At the Class Dinner, your secretary welcomed the Class, wives and guests, introducing The Herb Noble '26 of Glastonbury, The Bernard Wilhlems of Milford and The Dick Potts '26 of Albany, New York. Also annonced at the dinner was the election of Clifton M. Backhouse as an honorary member of the Class of 1925, only the second person so honored in our history; the first being Dr. Arthur Adams, then registrar and librarian, who was named at our Thirtieth Reunion. Clifford, a graduate of Haverford College, was the first president of the Gifts for Trinity Rowing and has done so much for that organization and Trinity College that we, in 1925, felt he should have a closer tie with the School. He was presented with a certificate, rolled and tied with a blue and gold ribbon.

Incidentally, the indoor Rowing Room in the Athletic Center is named in his honor.

George "Duke" Malcolm-Smith spoke in his inimitable manner and then introduced Kenney Smith, Director of Baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., who entertained us with various stories of baseball and "other things." Several other members of the Class also spoke and expressed their appreciation of the two events of the day. The Friday night festivities included the annual recognition of the Class on its success throughout the years and the presentation of the committee on this 45th Reunion.

The achievements of the Class have certainly justified the words of its poet and prophet, Moses Schlomson ("Any ole germist") who wrote only two years ago:

"There's scarcely a class alive Which, however hard it striveth, Can ever hope to arrive At the heights of Twenty-Five."

Congratulations to PETIE HOUGH on his retirement the last of August, and if our source of information is correct, then we all hope and happy in their new home they are building in Colorado.

We join with those of the Class of '70 in expressing our deepest sympathy and prayerful love at the loss the WILLIAM T. BARTO'S suffered at the sad accident on Lake Tahoe that took from them, their good son, William T. Barto III this past August. It was good to learn HAROLD and Miriam MESSER have had a fine vacation visiting in Royster, Mass., and small visiting their son, David and his family, in Wysatakki, N.Y. Retirement is agreeing with our Harold.

Miss Martha Frothingham, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. JOSEPH E. FROTHINGHAM of South Dartmouth, Mass., was married this summer to Harold B. Young of Westport Harbor. The bride was graduated from Dania Hall and the University of Vermont and will live in Arkansas and will live in Arvino, Conn. in mid October. He is happy for the many cards and letters from '34, and reports good progress. Our European tour takes over the fall for about six weeks to a month. A report of the Class Fund is given to the College Board of Directors at its annual meeting in June. The Fund has a running balance of $33,341 as of August. Please consider giving to the Class of 1960 Fund. Contributions may be payable to the Trustees of Trinity College and sent to your Secretary.

Butler

Before joining the Trinity administration, Mr. Butler worked for seven years in the trust department of the then Hartford Connecticut Trust Company (now Connecticut National Trust Co.) and he spent two years with Kolody and Myers, clothing firm of Hartford, Conn., and he joined the company as a Red Cross Field Director. He was a past president of the Eastern College Personnel Council and served on the boards of the Hartford Aid of The Connecticut Junior Republic, Hartford Symphony and Colonial Club.

Butler is active in the Community Chest and the Muscular Dystrophy Campaign.

He leaves his wife, the former Gracie Lynch Smith, two sons, Sean Smith Butler of Hartford and Anthony Smith Butler, with the U.S. Navy, Washington D.C. and a sister, Miss Mary E. Butler of West Hartford.

Donations may be made to the John F. Butler Memorial Fund Book at the College.

The General was October 12.

Honorary pall bearers were: President Theodore D. Lockwood ’48; Albert C. Jacobson ’68, president emeritus; G. Keith Fainstein ’72, past president of the College; the Rt. Rev. George D. Hardman ’29, Richard Scheuch; Norton Down; and Robert L. Moore.

The present pall bearers were: John M. Meyer ’62, and five members of the senior class—John E. Griggs Jr., Donald J. Gabley, John P. Reale, Alexander W. Kennedy and Clinton A. Vince.
James, the 165-pound scooter from Akron, and has yet to be intercepted.

Trinity squads of another era has thrown six TD passes in two games at what he does.

College quarterback who can throw Trinity and although he began gone, there remain is working out, he feels the generation with the times, too. The new Ferris Athletic Center now is the hub for a bustling and varied program which bears little resemblance to the old days.

But when the old grad walks across the grass to the place where the football team is working out, he feels the generation gap closing. For, though Dan Jesse is gone, there remain traditions perhaps somewhat unique at Trinity.

Don Miller is the football coach at Trinity and although he began his Trinity career under Dan, he does things his way now. Which is as it should be, of course.

But Trinity’s football team of today, glistening with sweat as it toils under a hot October sun, very much resembles Trinity squads of another era in numbers and appearance.

Don Miller has had good football teams since he took the reins from retiring Dan Jesse four years ago. He has another one this fall—maybe his best yet.

Traditionally, Trinity football teams have had the big power back, outstanding speed at other backfield positions, a quarterback who can throw and at least one end who stood above the crowd as a receiver.

Kiarsis Knows How

Kiarsis has all of this, and more, on his present Bantam team which already has won both starts and stands to win quite a few more.

Trinity has the power back in senior Dave Kiarsis, a 200-pound-plus bruiser pro scouts are eyeing. Kiarsis not only is a punishing-type runner, but a man with excellent speed and balance. Many who have seen him believe he is the best in New England at what he does.

For sheer speed, there is hardly a wuige runner who can touch Mike James, the 165-pound scooter from Bethesda, Md.

The accommodations have an option-type quarterback in sophomore Erich Wolters, an Akron, Ohio lad who moved right into the starting team at the opening game. He has thrown six TD passes in two games and has yet to be intercepted.

Kiarsis Running To Records; Aims At Sticka’s Grid Marks

Last August Dave Kiarsis changed his football jersey number.

It was “picture day” and the new squad was just posed for the team picture. Kiarsis had on jersey no. 42 which he wore for the past two seasons.

At moments later he was in jersey no. 31. “I always wanted to wear my old school number (Suffield Academy) in college,” Dave said to an inquiring photographer.

The previous season fullback Rick Harvey had worn nos. 31. But he was graduated and after checking with Coach Miller, Dave exercised his senior privilege and spoke up for his “old” number.

Kiarsis seems destined now to break two major Trinity running records (most yards for a season and most yards gained rushing in a career) both of which were set by Little All-American Charlie Sticka ’56 during his brilliant performances during the 1953-1955 seasons.

Oddly enough Sticka also wore jersey no. 31.

A visitor to the Ferris Athletic Center will note that in the display cases in the main foyer is a neatly folded red, white and blue jersey worn by Sticka in the 1955 Shriners’ East-West All-Star Game.

That game was played in San Francisco on December 31 and the jersey is no. 31.

Sticka, who has to rank as one of the greatest all-time all-around athletes at Trinity, gained an amazing 2,293 yards in three years for the Blue and Gold, including 900 yards in one season.

Kiarsis gained 113 yards against Colby to set new career rushing record of 2,202.

Williams was such a good game for me; with the kind of holes I had to run through Captain Ahab would have had a good day.

It’s obvious on the field that the boys up front want to go all out for him. With his speed he often catches a pulling tackle outside with the ball-carrier screeching to the right and the senior tackle sounds old-fashioned. He is no rah-rah guy, but he really showed a lot of on a sweep and will place a hand firmly in the direction he wants that block.

Against Williams he pushed Clift Cutter to the right and the senior tackle responded by blocking out two defenders, allowing Kiarsis daylight for his 75-yard scoring run.

Against RPI. Bant center Dave Sample and guards Jon Miller and Tom Schable opened a big hole and Kiarsis shot through unchallenged and then sped by the defensive halfbacks without a cut to the end zone, 72 yards away.

With his rushing statistics propelling him into the national spotlight, the 200-pound running back is morechaired than a single-game record for a Trinity running back. He gained an amazing 252 yards, a single-game record for a Trinity running back. He gained an amazing 252 yards, a single-game record for a Trinity running back, including a fourth quarter spurt of 75 yards for a touchdown which put the Bantams into the lead, 28-21. With less than a minute left, he drove 15 yards to the Williams four to set up the winning TD for the 35-28 victory.
