Dr. Ward Curran Named To Direct Long-Range Plan

Dr. Ward S. Curran, associate professor of economics, has been appointed Director of Institutional Planning at the College effective July 1 for a period of two years.

Dr. Curran, a specialist in corporation finance, will continue to teach one course and in his new post will work directly with President Lockwood.

In making the appointment, President Lockwood said: "Colleges and universities must devote far more time and expert judgment to planning, not only in the immediate sense, but in long-range terms. Professor Curran is particularly well-versed in this respect. A member of the faculty, an economist who has served as chairman of the (College's) Financial Affairs Committee, and an astute observer of the national scene in higher education, Professor Curran has the special advantage of viewing the issues from the academic as well as the financial perspectives.

Blood Donors—Trinity students and staff donated blood recently in such unexpectedly large numbers that the Greater Hartford Red Cross Bloodmobile unit had to call for reinforcements. More than 174 pints were donated in a five-hour period, about five times the number collected last fall. Many students under 21 had to be turned away because they didn't have permission slips from their parents. Prime mover in the success was Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity which publicized the blood drive as a campus project.

Three Vie For Trustee Post

A dentist, an insurance executive, and a college professor are the three candidates to fill the six-year post of alumni trustee when the term of Herbert R. Bland '40 expires June 30.

N.E. Small College Athletic Conference Formed

It is official! A dream for many for decades, an athletic conference with Trinity and many of the college's traditional opponents has been formed.

The heart of the conference is the philosophy of keeping intercollegiate athletics in harmony with the essential educational purposes of the institution. Joining in the association are 11 colleges and universities from New England and New York State. Members are: Amherst, Bates, Bowdoin, Colby, Hamilton, Trinity, Tufts, Union, Wesleyan and Williams.

Despite the two member institutions from New York State, the official title of the conference represents an agreement with New England institutions.

The college shields on this page are from handsome replicas created by Ray Montgomery '25 and presented to the College some years ago for display in the McAllister Campus Center. College photographer, David Low, found that Montgomery's collection included all 11 Conference members.

- that competing players be representative of the student body

The governing document of the new conference is an amended version of a 1955 agreement among Bowdoin and the Little Three: Amherst, Wesleyan and Williams.

The new agreement specifies policies in regard to eligibility rules, out-of-season practice, post-season competition, limits on recruitment activity, financial aid awards, and exchange of relevant information.

Principal stipulations of the agreement include scheduling autonomy for each of the colleges and the fact that no conference championships or inter-conference rankings will be determined in any sport. All members will continue to follow the policy of administering financial aid on the basis of demonstrated need only. Members have also agreed to share program cost information in an effort to improve economy in the operation of each program.

An Executive Committee, composed of presidents from four institutions, initially consisting of the presidents of Bowdoin, Hamilton, Tufts, and Williams, will represent the member institutions and interpret the agreement, approve post-season tournaments and serve as an appeal and review board.

Final authority is vested in a Conference Committee consisting of all the presidents of the member institutions.

Trinity President Lockwood said, "At a time when athletics have become increasingly professional, the formation of this conference represents an appropriate effort to retain truly amateur intercollegiate sports. It also embodies our convictions that while participation is important, colleges should respect their primary commitment to learning."

Trinity Director of Athletics Karl Kurth, one of the prime movers with John Winkins of Colby in getting the conference from a dream phase to talking.

Six men who have contributed a total of 150 years of service to the College were honored in February.

All joined the college in 1946, five being appointed to the faculty and one to the administration. With classes out of session, most offices on campus closed early as members of the administration and staff joined other faculty in honoring the six at a reception in Hunn Hall.

Those honored on the completion of 25 years of service were: Dr. Gustavo W. Andrus, professor of modern languages and former co-chairman of the department; Dr. J. Woodbridge Constant, a professor of physics and former department chairman; John A. Mason, assistant to the President on alumni affairs and former alumni secretary; Randall W. Tucker, associate professor of economics; and Ralph M. Williams, professor of English.

President Lockwood, praised each of the six who had joined the college just after World War II and presented each with a new college chair.

A native of Hartford and graduate of Bulkeley High School, Dr. Andrus was graduated from Trinity, Phi Beta Kappa, in 1946 and was awarded the H. E. Russell Fellowship. He taught Spanish and French at the University of Maryland and later at Johns Hopkins University, where he received his Ph.D. in 1946. He served as co-chairman of the Department of Modern Languages from 1963-70. He has been a full professor since 1961.

Dr. Cameron, a native of Martins Ferry, Ohio, holds an A.B. and M.A. from West Virginia University, an M.B.A. from the University of Chicago. He became an assistant professor in 1953 and in 1959 was promoted to associate. He was elected to the Savings and Loan League of Connecticut to make a research study of The History of Savings and Loan Industry in Connecticut.

Dr. Williams was graduated from Amherst in 1933 and received his Doctorate from Yale in 1938. He also studied at Cambridge University, an authority on linguistics; he has recently published a series of spelling books entitled "Spelling: Sound to Letter" for grades one through six with the books for grades seven and eight to appear in 1972. Dr. Williams, who has been working on the series for ten years and that the series is the first completely linguistically oriented spelling series.

Six Honored By College

For 150 Years Service
Professor Edwin Nye Renamed Faculty Dean

The Trustees, after a national search by the College for a new Dean of the Faculty, have appointed the man they asked to fill in last July, Dean Edwin P. Nye.

Professor Nye was appointed Dean of the Faculty last July while a search was on for a successor to Dr. Robert Fuller who resigned to become president of Oberlin College.

In announcing the appointment, President Lockwood wrote the faculty: "Since he has served so compassionately our faculty and our students, his sensitivity to the issues which we confront, and his keen appreciation of the College, his continuation of his position among us will help us all in so we ponder how best Trinity may respond. We shall not lose valuable guidance in the years ahead. I am grateful to have been a part of this transition if we had felt obliged to reach outside our ranks; we shall be able to make our plans and implement them with a minimum of motion. Moreover, Dean Nye has already brought to the office an organizational ability which I am sure you appreciate every bit as much as I.

"As we move forward, I know that you will lend him your full support and cooperation. Once again, may I add how grateful we are all that he has accepted the position as dean of the faculty."

Dean Nye has been a member of the faculty since 1959, where he has served as professor and chairman of engineering. He was graduated from the University of New Hampshire and holds an M.A. degree from Harvard University. He taught courses in thermodynamics and power plants at Pennsylvania State University for 12 years before coming to Trinity.

While at Trinity, Nye has been chairman of the Curriculum Committee that reviewed major curriculum revisions a few years ago. He has been working since last fall to allow students to attend faculty meetings and this year suggested formal examinations at the end of the fall term and proposed a revised academic calendar. Overseeing the College's Graduate and Undergraduate Student Program, he has been instrumental in implementing innovative programs, including Urban and Environmental Studies.

LaFore To Deliver Mead History Talk

Novelist and historian, Laurence Lafore, professor of history at the State University of Iowa, and former member of Trinity's history department (1940-42), will deliver the Mead Lecture in History on April 19 at 8:00 p.m. in the Washington Room. His topic is "The Coming of the First World War."

Dr. George B. Mead, Chairman of the History Department, commenting on Lafore's appearance at the College said, "Laurence Lafore is a great example I know of the true man of letters, essayist, novelist, historian and wit. His work here will provide a great contribution to the Trinity Community to meet and hear a very entertaining and profound lecturer."

College Receives $6000 DuPont Gift

The College recently received $5,000 from the E.I. Du Pont de Nemours Company, Inc., under its program of aid to education for 1971, for the Chemistry Department and College Discretionary Fund Grant of $1,000.

Approximately half of the $5,000 will be used to provide a telephone connection in the Chemistry Building to the campus computer located in the Helden Engineering Laboratories in proportion to part of a time-sharing expansion project. The balance of the funds will go toward the purchase of a three-channel oscillographic recorder to be used in the mass spectrometer laboratory. The device, which was used in the 1971-72 Klappin's 54th year of aid to America's colleges and universities, this year's grants go to provide funds for continuing education in science research and teaching. Also included are grants for minority group education and improved science teaching methods and curricula for secondary schools.

and planning stages among his counterpart four years ago, hailed the conference "as a most significant and promising development for the future of collegiate athletic programs at the 11 member institutions.

And he added, "Let it be noted, that in a time of great change which has swept aside many traditions, 11 institutions had themselves thoroughly and seriously the underlying principles of an approach to athletics which each has nurtured individually throughout the years."

Kush sees the conference as "stimulating interest" for players, coaches and fans and as a real help to athletic directors in budgeting, scheduling and planning.

The conference makes no demands on scheduling by member colleges, however, the athletic directors have been working closely together and it is expected conference members will be scheduled in various sports where possible. Many are already traditional opponents in many sports.

There is also a variance in the sports represented by the member institutions. While each fields varsity teams in sports such as football, basketball and baseball, only half or less compete on the varsity level in such sports as hockey, skiing and crew.
As of March 15, pledges to the 1970-71 Annual Giving Campaign had reached $297,636 or 86% of the goal of $350,000. Campaign leaders were enthusiastic about the progress which indicated substantial increases compared with last year's campaign for the same period.

- Alums pledged $183,107 or 92% of the $200,000 goal (at a comparable date last year, the amount pledged was $129,759).
- Parent Fund—$60,355—80% of the $75,000 goal (at the same time last year, $40,953 had been pledged).

- Business and Industries—$43,378—87% of the $50,000 goal.
- Friends of Triniti—$78,932—52% of the $150,000 goal.
- Foundations—$3,033—30% of the $10,000 goal.

Campaign ends June 30, 1971.

"The Summer Term at Trinity College is not in any way a conventional college term."

Working within this self-expressed premise, Dean of the Faculty Edwin Nye, who also is overseeing the summer program, has developed a 1971 summer term offering which includes a mixture of the traditional with timely innovative programs.

The main focus of new offerings for the two-five-week sessions (June 28-July 30; and August 2 to September 3) are two groups of courses dealing with Urban and Environmental Studies. Enrollment in these courses is not restricted to potential social scientists but is intentionally being opened to include a wide range of undergraduate students and adults in the community who seek the opportunity to better understand various aspects of the urban and environmental problems of our technological society.

Some of the courses being offered are:

1. (first session) Economics of Urban Planning, by George S. Feldman, "Urban and Regional Resource Planning;" The Black Experience in the American City; Utopian; Urban Politics; Introduction to Ecology; (second session) Religious Ideas and Movements of the American City; Contemporary Hispanic Life and Culture; Community and Regional Resource Planning; The Chemistry of Air Pollution; Community Action Programs.

Related courses supporting the urban and environmental programs are study groups entitled "Men and Institutions" with course offerings in economics, political science, philosophy, "Modern Languages" with offerings in French, German, elementary, intensive Italian and intensive and oral Spanish; and a "Science and Mathematics" group including biology, mathematics, and physics.

Graduate courses for students wishing to take a single course, or as part of a masters degree program, are offered in classical civilization, education, English, French, German, history, Latin, mathematics, philosophy, and are the hot ticket. If there is a moral to Mr. Just's fine, tact, involved job of reporting it is this: "Under the American system, the civilians have to control the military because there is no mechanism for the military to control themselves."

Library: Publishers Poet's Biography

Through the efforts of a former student, the Watkinson Library has published a bio-bibliography of American poet Edwin Arlington Robinson (1869-1935). The bibliography on Robinson, a native of Maine, who three times won the Pulitzer Prize, and is considered by many as this nation's greatest poet, was compiled by John W. Pye, of South Weymouth, Mass., who was graduated last June.

Now a student at the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Cambridge, Pye compiled the bibliography last year while a student assistant in the Watkinson Library.

A feature of the library publication is the reproduction of the manuscript of the poet "Twilight Song," first published in "Captain Craig" in 1902, including two stanzas deleted by Robinson which were never published and for some time thought to be lost.

The lines were almost obliterated in the original manuscript but the former student transcribed the 24 lines and they are included in the publication, presumably for the first time.

Pye based his publication on the extensive collection of Robinson books, manuscripts and memorabilia given to the Watkinson Library by H. Bacon Collamore of West Hartford.

Richard Lawrence Slosson Jr. 1932

Word has only recently reached the College of the death of Richard L. Slosson who died August 13, 1970 in East Aurora, New York. A member of Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, Mr. Slosson enjoyed in coaching football from the University of Buffalo. Cecil Graham Ramsay 1955

Word that Cecil G. Ramsay died on August 22, 1967, in Schenectady, New York, has recently reached the College.

A member of the Class of 1955, Mr. Ramsay left Trinity in his sophomore year to enter Kenyon College. He was the manager of the Freshman Executive Council and also president of the Freshman Class.

The group has moved out into the community to meet with parents, residents, and others to learn how to help others build to closer ties and coordinate their efforts. One drawback, however, is that all the programs stop each summer when Trinity students go on vacation and the volunteer forces must be reorganized each fall.

Paring off youngsters with tutors, keeping track of the group and coordinating volunteer's relief and transportation is nearly a full-time job, according to the leaders of the squad. All the programs have been squeezed for time among academic subjects, the OD Squad and other activities cropping up from campus country runs to dramatics.

"Everyone's really pressed for time," said Roberts, "but there's so much you do if you have the energy. It's a shame more don't do it, but we wouldn't do it for nothing."
Ten Athletic Teams, Four Crews Ready For Busy Spring Season

Ten teams and four crews will be busy for the next six weeks as the brief but active spring sports season unfolds. There will also be a women's tennis team, with three matches scheduled and coeds will also be participating in many of the sailing club's regattas.

BASEBALL

The baseball team planned a four-game pre-season trip into Washington D.C. in early April. The trip was made possible in part through income derived by the players from staffing concession stands during the Yale and Harvard basketball game with the Trinity Alumni All-Stars defeating the All-American Red Heads. The team planned to stay at military installations in the Washington-Virginia area to reduce expenditures.

Coach Robie Shults will be counting heavily on returning pitchers Stephen Funk and Bill Foster and seven other returning lettermen to spark the team which opens the regular schedule with a double header April 10 against Colby in Hartford. Don Miller is preparing the freshman nine for their opener April 17 at Wesleyan. Yale's frosh are here April 20.

CREW

With four veterans back from last year's heavyweight crew, and some bright prospects up from the 1970 JV boat and the undefeated freshman eight which won the national championship, Coach Norm Graf is looking to another good year.

The only home regatta scheduled is the annual Mason-Downs Cup Race on April 17 on the Connecticut River. And the Lightweight Crew, which has a separate schedule, will be on home water May 1.

The crews planned most of March and the first week of April for hard work and scheduled "brushes" and practice races against such powers as Yale, Brown and M.I.T. On April 20, before Trin crews enter the bigger regattas, Coach Graf has another practice class scheduled with Yale at Derby, Conn. on April 20.

GOLF

Watch the freshman golf team this year! John Mason '34, has agreed to share his secrets of success on the fairways and shepherd the yearling golfers around this spring.

Harry E. Winslow of the Wethersfield Country Club has volunteered to coach the varsity and he will be looking to co-captains Pet Wenz and Jay Smith to lead the squad which opens its campaign April 15. The varsity will play its home matches on the Goodwin Park Golf Course in Hartford.

LACROSSE

It is Dr. Chet McPhee now (he received his Ph.D. from Ohio State) and he is back for his 10th season as head lacrosse coach. The team appears to be well balanced with 15 returning lettermen and should improve on last year's 2-6 record.

Dr. McPhee will be looking to co-captain Spike Birmingham to lead the attack and co-captain Bill Prowost to head the defense. The team opens April 10 with Bowdoin on campus, Bill Sferro is coaching the freshman eleven.

TENNIS

Veteran coach Roy Dath will have his hands full this spring. In addition to the varsity and freshman teams he now is coaching a women's tennis team which has three home matches scheduled (April 14, 28, and May 3).

The men's varsity will open at home against Army on April 9. The team will be paced by Captain Richard N. Palmer. The frosh team has its first home match April 19.

TRACK

Dave Buran takes over as head track coach this year. The varsity and freshman teams will be combined this spring which should give Buran and assistant coach Jack Daniels a little more depth for the usual thin Blue and Gold lineup.
