John Watrhe, chief of building maintenance, points to water-system in boiler.

The steam produced by these boilers is piped into most of the buildings on the 90-acre campus, providing heat and hot water, as well as steam for cooking in the student dining hall. According to John Watrhe, chief of building maintenance, the system is heating about 920,000 square feet of building space. That's a little larger than 19 football fields side-by-side.

To provide this heat, Trinity burns about 4,000 gallons of oil a day. At 21.5 cents a gallon, that's a daily heating expense of about $900. In late November, the College cut back temperatures in offices, dormitories and classrooms, and has kept residential areas closed during the Christmas holidays. Crandall says this action, along with slightly warmer weather, saved 25 percent of Trinity's number six oil in December, compared with what the College used in December, 1972.

But, Crandall says, “this is a saving in quantity rather than in dollars. We're paying $8.84 a barrel for number six low-sulfur oil. A few years ago our oil cost less than $3 a barrel.”
Damage was severe along the Long Walk...

Elms Take 'A Major Beating' in Ice Storm

An ice storm, breathtaking in its beauty but vicious in destructiveness, crippled Connecticut the week before Christmas, and claimed as its toll on Trinity, major limbs of the campus's fine old trees.

Four elms on the Quadrangle were killed, two trees elsewhere uprooted, and others damaged as trunks and branches bent and snapped under the heavy weight of ice. For the surviving but weakened elms, the threat of death by disease is increased.

By all accounts, it was the worst storm in Connecticut in two decades. At one point, killed, two trees elsewhere uprooted, and the near suburbs - power lines were not repaired until the weekend, and there were uncounted losses in off-campus housing were affected at home.

What began as a snowstorm on Sunday, Dec. 16, turned to freezing rain overnight, and by Monday afternoon the predominant sounds on campus were the crack of huge branches and the rush of limbs crashing to the ground. Laden with leaves in autumn, taking power lines with their normal weightload. Trinity's telephone service.

The fallen limbs weakened the trees by reducing their growing areas, Crandall said. "The big trees on the Quad took a major beating, and with the problems of disease we could suffer more losses next summer," he observed.

Crandall noted that Trinity - along with Dartmouth, Williams, Notre Dame and New York University - is a charter member of the Elm Research Institute, a seven-year-old organization based in New Hampshire, which is spearheading the effort to combat the disease.

Dutch Elm Disease is spread from tree to tree principally by the elm bark beetle. The fungus itself penetrates the tree and infects the sap-flow system. Treatment includes spraying trees to kill the beetle, and injections with a fungicide to combat the fungus.

President Lockwood said the storm damage was "very disheartening, and not only because of our fondness for being the College 'Near the Elms. Trinity has always prided itself on the beauty of its campus - especially the main Quadrangle" - and this newest loss points up the need we have for help to maintain Trinity as a place of historic and esthetic charm."

It is with regret we learn that CHARLES B. BEACH's wife, Thelma, passed away on October 9th. However, he is happy to report the marriage of his granddaughter, Anne Shepard, to Stuart King, Stamford, Conn., on October 17th.

Ms. HARRIETTE POLLOCK notes that he has a new job selling condominiums at "Pilgrim's Harbor," Westport, Conn. He says that Trinity Alumni are welcome at all times.

Mr. James A. Calano
2346 Newfield Ave.
Hartford, CT 06114

Our 50th Reunion is now coming. Your Secretary's able to make it because of illness but he was well represented by his wife, Mary, and daughter, Lucile Marvin, and Lebanon B. (L.B.) Davis, who had a grand time with the group in attendance.

Those attending were MARTIN and Evelyn C. GILLIS, COOK, Vice-President; STAN and Lucille Churchill, MARIE, and ALICE PANZER, President; STAN and Lucille Churchill, MARIE, and ALICE PANZER, President; JOE HALLBERG, MANION; and WALTER RAUSCH, P.S.W.

A good time was had at the Field House lunchroom and a very enjoyable time at the dinner dance at the Hartford Hilton. Your class won the greatest percentage award which was accepted on your behalf by the Lewiss. Newal Jr. Tom defeated Geno in baseball which was a rarity in our day) and the good battle between Concussion and Leslie, delivered the Sunday sermon at the Chapel.

Regrets and congratulations were sent in by CHARLES HALLBERG, BOB HARTSHORNE, RICHARD BRUSSEN, JOE HALLBERG, HARRY KOBROWSKY, and JOE CAPUTO. Also by several Hartford area mates via phone conversations. SEVILLE INNIGI has joined Martha, CULLE, RITTEN and pan as counsel.

Mr. Thomas J. Quinn
546 Forest Ave.

Wethersfield, CT 06109

A hardy handful saw the Wesleyan game and celebrated our XXXVII Reunion year. It was a great day for the game, and our group enjoyed seeing the Trinity float perform as it has in the past. The O'MALLEY and MICKEY KORSET.I.

Class attendance was a statistic disappointing at the Reunion dinner, although expressions of regret at the weather are passed. Many of us now live long distances from the campus, and many of us were delayed by Thanksgiving is evidently a difficult date to keep. We may have missed a name or two but among those attending with their wives were: BOB O'MALLEY, STAN STAFFORD, GEORGE WIEGHEVELD, HARRY KOBROWSKY, BILL SINDERS, LOU WALKER, JIM ASHMAN, JOHN WALKER, J. RICHARD KENNEDY, and RUSS P. LIEBMAN.

Our sympathy goes to FRED BOURJOUR whose mother died suddenly in Hartford. We understand that BILL MCCORMICK has had a hospital birth, but is now home.

CHARLES HODGKINS sends a report that he has about 100 interested alumni for his Homecoming Reunion. His classmates might be interested, however, in what Charles has done after his left. He writes:

"After military service, I graduated from Harvard Law School in 1948 and then obtained a certificate of higher studies in civil law from the University of Leiden. I was in private corporate practice, joining the Civil Law office of the law firm of B. Peute and van Trier as translator and specialty importer-wholesaler. I was married in June to Dr. ELSA J. TEISINGER and we have two children. In 1961 I returned to the firm of Peute and van Trier, and in 1963 I opened my own office in New York City. In 1971 I was admitted to the New York State Bar. In 1972 I moved to the firm of G. S. O. C. and S. S. and I am the current corporate counsel of the Eastern Union of the Legal Division. In 1976 I was elected a vice president of the firm and I am now a vice president and general counsel. The corporate headquarters have been in Atlanta, Georgia since mid-1972. I was married in 1950 and have four children. The oldest, Charles IV, is in second year college at Florida, the second child, Jane, is commencing a first year course in Chinese at the University of Leeds, England. The third and fourth children, Robinson C. III, and Caroline, are interested in the Atlanta area."

Trinity defeated Eastern Conn. 63-52, Sunday, Jan. 20 to win the 3rd annual Connecticut Yankee Invitational Basketball Tournament at the University of New Haven.

The Bantams, now 7-3, picked up their first victory in their first tournament title, Othar Burks, with three score total of 58 points and Nat Williams with 49 points and 28 rebounds, were named to the tournament all-star team. In addition, Burks was voted the Most Valuable Player of the tournament.

The University of New Haven hosted an eight-team field including six Connecticut schools, Central Conn., Eastern Conn., Southern Conn., Quinnipiac, Trinity and New Haven along with two New York Schools, Geneseo State and St. John Fisher.

Trinity defeated host New Haven 81-80 and then Geneseo State 80-70 to reach the finals with Eastern Conn.

Against the New Haven Chargers the Bantams played a strong game throughout the game and stretched a 35-33 half time edge to an 18 point advantage, 59-41, in the second half. Burks scored 18 points before being injured in the fourth period. He was replaced by Bobby Williams for the last six minutes. As New Haven tried to catch up, Williams provided the final edge as he connected on 8 to 10 free throws, including 4 in the last 30 seconds.

In the second round, second half efforts by Burks and Nat Williams led Trinity over Geneseo State 80-70.

Up by one point 30-29 at the half, Trinity took off with a string of nine straight points making it 48-37. After that the Knights were never allowed closer than 10 points.

Burks had 22 points and Nat Williams 23 points and 13 rebounds as Trinity held a 52-40 edge on the boards. Bill Fenkel had 12 points and 9 rebounds.

In the final game, a combination of controlled defense and coordinated offense gave Trinity the advantage over a very stubborn Eastern team 63-52.

The inside teamwork of Burks and Nat Williams sparked the offense as Trinity led from the tip-off. Although up 28-4 in the second period the disciplined Eastern defense cut that to a half time edge of only 29-23. In the second half the Warriors got within four points twice but could not override the determined Bants.

All of Trinity's meets have been much closer than the scores indicate. The majority of the teams have been well matched, but Trinity has been closely fought, as the score against Amerhist shows. What it does not show, however, are the comparative times between the swimmers or the fourth contestant. Trinity was consistently competitive against R.P.I. and Tufts, both good teams.

One portion of Coach Slaughter's Bantam which is not as well known as its divers is its Swim team. This year all of the divers for Trinity are women. In both the required and optional divisions any of the three different coeds represent Trinity.

Under NCAA and ECAC rules, women have been allowed to compete in swimming for the past two years and this season the squad counts seven coeds on its roster.

Trinity's three divers are Barbara Clark '76, Barbara Hayden '77 and Bette Tyson '77. Maran Kahn '77 and Peggy Palmer '75 are freestylers. Judy Scales '76 competes in both, the freestyle and backstroke. Jo Ann Simons '75 swim in the freestyle, backstroke, and butterfly events.

There are five categories of dives in each of the two events, required and optional. In each team meet the diver with the highest total score wins. This season if the girls were not allowed to compete Trinity would have forfeited these events. In addition, the Lady Bantams have done extremely well against their male competitors.

On Dec. 5 R.P.I. Clark placed second in both required and optional events. Hayden and Tyson were second and third in one event and first and second in the optional dives with Tufts Dec. 3.

Seymour placed third in the 200 yard backstroke vs. R.P.I. At Tufts she set Trinity's three divers is its Swim team. This year all of the divers for Trinity are women. In both the required and optional divisions any of the three different coeds represent Trinity.
