Trinity Announces Honorary Degrees

Trinity will award honorary degrees May 22 to Edward Albee, Pulitzer prize-winning playwright; Edward B. Bates, CLU, president and chief executive officer of Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company; Irving Spencer Cooper, an internationally respected neurosurgeon; John Hope Franklin, a prominent historian at the University of Chicago; Robert H. Kriible, president of the Lorette Corporation of Newington; and Emily Dickinson Townsend Vermeule, professor of classical philology at Harvard.

They will receive the honorary degrees during the afternoon commencement exercises for the College's 153rd academic year. Parks will deliver the traditional Baccalaureate address at 10 a.m. the morning.

Edward Franklin Albee
Albee, a Trinity student, will receive a Doctor of Letters degree (Litt.D.). He began writing plays in 1957, at the age of 29. It did not take long for the theater-going world to recognize his talents, and by 1963 he was featured on the front cover of Newsweek. The Pulitzer Prize was awarded to Albee in 1964 for his play, "The Delicate Balance," and he has received numerous other awards and prizes.

Robert Henry Kriible
Kriible, who will receive a Doctor of Science degree (Sc.D.), is president and chairman of the board of the Lorette Corporation of Newington, and international manufacturer of chemical sealants and adhesives. The corporation was founded in 1952 by Kriible's father, the late Vernon K. Kriible, former chairman of Trinity's chemistry department, who discovered the original Lorette formula in Trinity's chemistry laboratories.

Edward B. Bates
Bates will receive a Doctor of Laws degree (LL.D.). A native of Lexington, Mo., he was graduated from Westminster Military Academy and received his A.B. degree from the University of Chicago in 1949. During World War II he served in the Air Force, reaching the rank of major.

Edward Brill Bates, CLU
In 1960 Bates became Second Vice President of the company, in Hartford, and was elected President in 1961. He was elected Executive Vice President and President in 1963. President in 1967, and designated Chief Executive Officer in 1968. Bates is a director of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Company, the Hartford Courant, Hoblitzelle, Inc., Stanley Works, and a trustee of Northeast Utilities.

Irving Spencer Cooper, M.D.
Cooper, who will receive a Doctor of Science degree (Sc.D.), is director of the department of neurosurgery at St. Barnabas Hospital in New York, and research professor of neuroanatomy at New York Medical College.

He has written or co-authored more than 75 articles in professional journals in the U.S. and abroad, and his most recent book, "The Victim is Always the Same," was published last year by Harper and Row.

Especially concerned with aspects of Parkinson's disease (a nervous disorder marked by rigidity of the muscles), Cooper is currently developing a pacemaker for the brain. An earlier book, "Parkinsonism, a Handbook for Patients and their Families" which he co-authored with John Caughey was published in 1967.

Recipient of nearly 30 awards from institutions around the world, Cooper was designated Chief Executive Officer in 1968.

John Hope Franklin
Franklin, who will receive the Doctor of Letters degree (Litt.D.), is John Matthews Manley Distinguished Service Professor of History at the University of Chicago, and former chairman of the department of history. He is also a fellow of the university's Center for Policy Study.

He is author or editor of a number of books, including the text, "Land of the Free," which he co-authored with John Coughtry and Ernest May, "The Negro in the Twentieth Century," which he co-edited, was published in 1967.

He is also general editor of the University of Chicago Press series of Negro History Biographies and Autobiographies, and has contributed articles to leading journals in the United States and Europe.

Emily D. T. Vermeule
Vermeule, who will receive a Doctor of Science degree (Sc.D.), is professor of classical philology, who is to receive an M.A. from Radcliffe and a Ph.D. degree from Harvard. Before joining the University of Chicago in 1964, she has five years at St. Augustine's College, North Carolina College at Durham, Howard University, and Brooklyn University.

Robert R. Parks
Parks, who will receive a Doctor of Divinity degree (D.D.), is in the 18th year of the Parish of Trinity Church in New York City. The Parish, which includes a main church and several satellite churches, has a vast land holdings in lower Manhattan, making it one of the wealthiest and most powerful churches in the nation.

He became a member of Trinity Parish in 1973, after it distinguished itself as a leading church and a powerful church in the nation.

He became the vicar of Trinity Parish in 1980, and has since been the rector of the cathedral not only tripled its membership, but established several community programs in the city, in housing, elderly housing, health care and education.

A native of Georgia, Parks received a B.A. from the University of Florida, and served as an aviator in the U.S. Navy from 1941 to 1946, serving as the rector of Graceland Church in Memphis.

Since 1953 she has been a member of the editorial board of the Journal of Negro History. In 1964 she was appointed Professor of Art and Greek at Wellesley, a post she held until her Harvard appointment in 1970. She was also appointed Professor of Classical Philology in 1970. She was appointed Professor of Classical Philology in 1970. She has taught at Bryn Mawr and Wellesley colleges, and at Boston University, and has been a research fellow for the Boston Museum of Fine Arts since 1965. She has been a research fellow for the Boston Museum of Fine Arts since 1965.

Emily D. T. Vermeule
Vermeule, who will receive a Doctor of Humane Letters degree (L.H.D.), is Samuel Zemurray Jr. and Doris Zemurray Stone-Radcliffe Professor of History at Harvard, a position she has held since 1970.

She has taught at Bryn Mawr and Wellesley colleges, and at Boston University, and has been a research fellow for the Boston Museum of Fine Arts since 1965.

Her Harvard appointment in 1970. She has taught at Harvard in 1980 as James Lown Visiting Professor of Classical Philology.

Renowned as an archaeologist, she has participated in excavations in Turkey, Cyprus, and Libya. She holds an honoryary degree from the University of Regis College, the University of Massachusetts, Smith College, and Wellesley College.

Educated at Bryn Mawr, she studied at the American School of Classical Studies in Athens, at St. Anne's College, Oxford, and earned her M.A. from Radcliffe and a Ph.D. from Bryn Mawr.

Robert R. Parks

Tuesday, May 14, 1974
College Dedicates Auditorium To Boyer

Trinity has named the auditorium in its life sciences center after the late Francis Boyer, former chairman of the board of Smith Kline & French Laboratories and benefactor of the College.

The modern auditorium, located in the Albert C. Jocobs Life Sciences Center, can hold up to 179 people.

The space was officially named the Francis Boyer Auditorium at ceremonies Wednesday (May 8, 1974) at 6 p.m. in the life sciences center. Present were Theodore D. Lockwood, president of Trinity; the Thomas Devonshire Jones, English exchange chaplain; Mrs. Francis Boyer, and the chairman of the three academic departments housed in the center, John D. Brewer, sociology; J. Wendell Burger, biology, and George W. Dumas, psychology.

The Trinity College Concert Choir also sang at the dedication.

Boyer, who died May 21, 1972, was associated with the pharmaceutical firm of Smith Kline & French for more than 56 years, from 1919 until his retirement in 1970. He was executive vice president from 1938-1951, president from 1951-1958, and chairman of the board from 1958-1960.

He was awarded an honorary Doctor of Science degree (S.c.D.) from Trinity in 1961. Boyer established a scholarship fund at Trinity in memory of his son, John Francis Boyer, who was killed in an automobile accident in 1954. John Boyer, a member of Trinity’s Class of 1951, had spent three semesters at Trinity before transferring to the University of Pennsylvania. A prolific writer, he had been editorial associate of the Triad, the student newspaper, and wrote short stories and poetry for the Trinity Review, and had been published in other journals.

Also in memory of his son, Boyer made a gift to provide for the Triad office in Mother Campus Center when it was built in 1960.

President Lockwood standing with Mrs. Boyer and her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Godfrey.

Bockstoce Succeeds Robertson As Treasurer

Clifton M. Bockstoce of West Hartford has been appointed Vice President for Financial Affairs and Treasurer of Trinity College, announced Theodore D. Lockwood, president.

Bockstoce succeeds J. Kenneth Robertson, who is retiring. The appointment is effective May 15.

A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., Bockstoce worked for Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. (PPG) from 1950 to 1961, serving in the U.S. Army from 1941 to 1946. At PPG he was regional manager of the Merchandising Division, based in Hartford.

In 1961 he joined Putnam and Co. in Hartford, and served as a general partner in that firm and its successor company, Ad- ver.

Bockstoce is a graduate of Haverford College and of the Advanced Management Program, Harvard Business School.

Robertson, a native of Cambridge, Mass., holds a Ph.B. from Yale and an M.B.A. from Harvard. He has been active in the Eastern Association of College and University Business Officers, has served as Secretary-Treasurer of Scholarships for Illinois Residents, a scholarship program which brings Illinois students to Trinity, as a former director and treasurer of the Connecticut Student Loan Foundation, and served several years as a director of the University Research Institute of Con-

In making his announcement, President Lockwood said, "Mr. Robertson has ably served the College as Treasurer for twenty-three years, and it was a difficult assignment to find a successor for him. We are delighted that Mr. Bockstoce will join us this month and bring his experience to bear upon the special problems of endowment investment, long-range fiscal planning, and the financial resources needed in independent higher education."

Jonathan Reilly

Correction

In last week’s Triad the statement “If they all teemed up it would be reverse prejudice.” was incorrectly attributed to Neil Garston, assistant professor of economics in the article entitled “Speakers Consider Prejudice.” What Garston really said was, “If they are all in my present society racism, sexism, etc. serve a functional purpose in keeping people distincted, such forms of ‘prejudice’ can only be eliminated by a fundamental restructuring of the society.” He further said, “It is not a case of the majority against the minority, since if one adds Black, Women, Latins, Jews, Arabs, etc. those discriminated against are the majority.” The Triad regrets the error.

Sports Briefs

Wes Beats Laxmen

The Trinity Laxmen finished their season in defeat last Wednesday as the Wesleyan Cardinals rallied in the second half for a 14-3 victory. The defeat was the third straight for the Bants and their seasonal record ended in a disappointing 5-6.

Although it was disappointing, yet Trinity’s lacrosse future is bright due to the fact that the Bants will lose only seven men to graduation. Juniors like Mark Cleary, Nick Bemis, Steve Weeks, Mark Schuller, and Dave Testovsky may have thrown their hat around quite a bit this season; and yet the 1975 Bants had their moments.

To Tim Stevens, Rip Lincoln, Paul Griffin, Frank Chase, Ron Kaplan, and Chris Sebring, their teammates are very good-by but, in all honesty, you won’t be missed.

Jonathan Reilly

President Lockwood standing with Mrs. Boyer and her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Godfrey.

Sports Briefs

Varsity Sports Finish 30-36-1

Golf 10-3; Lacrosse 5-4; Tennis 6-0; Baseball 11-1; Basketball 8-2; Cross Country 6-0; Hockey 6-0; Gymnastics 4-0, 1st New Englands; 2nd Easterns; 7th Div National; Swimming 1-1; Track 0-4; Field Hockey 5-5; Football 5-6; Schuller’s 73 was the lowest score posted by a Trinity player in that competition.

Golf Wins Two; Drops Two

Last week Trinity’s golf team won two out of four matches, concluding their season with nine wins, the most ever by a Trinity golf team.

President Lockwood standing with Mrs. Boyer and her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Godfrey.

Trinity hosted Springfield and AIC last Tuesday and split, beating AIC 7-4 and losing to Springfield 4-3. Then on Thursday the Bants traveled to Boston to play MIT and Harvard, where they split again, beating MIT 7-4 and losing to Harvard 19-0.

The season ended with the team displaying an excellent 9-4 record, 7-4 in New England and 5-0 in Ivy League play.

Last week’s highlights were the 7-4 match which was the longest winning streak of any Trinity golf team, and the excellent second place finish at the Connecticut where Schuller’s 73 was the lowest score ever posted by a Trinity player in that competition.

The player’s individual records for the season were:

Sculler’s 73; Flanigan’s 74; Finkenstein’s 74; Tufts’ 74; Jennings’s 74; Shelly’s 74; Hoopi’s 74; Seniors Schuller, Finkenstein, and Saum will be missed next year, but the fine freshmen prospects are waiting to fill the holes.

Coach Whitney will also be gone next year, but the team’s prospects still look good for the coming season.

Jonathan Reilly

President Lockwood standing with Mrs. Boyer and her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Godfrey.

Sports Briefs