The Jesters’ Own Dramatic Story

By Sue Weisselberg ’76

The story of the Jesters — Trinity’s dramatic group which began over a century ago — has its own dramatic side. It’s a rags-to-riches tale, beginning with casual “society melodrama” and developing into a full-fledged academic department with a modern theatre.

The evolution of the group, always dependent on available facilities, took place in spurts. From 1871 to 1887, productions were both casual and occasional, and were for the purpose of “the cultivation of histrionic talent, intellectual improvement, and the entertainment of ourselves and others.”

In 1887, Alumni Hall opened; its upper floor had an auditorium that was used as the college theatre until the late 1920’s, when all of Alumni Hall was taken over by the athletic department. Shortly after, the auditorium was destroyed by fire.

Jesters rented theatres in the area for their productions until 1940, when Alumni Hall’s lower floor was converted to Connecticut’s first arena theatre. From then on, the Jesters productions usually remained on campus, first in the arena theatre, and from 1965 to the present, in Goodwin Theatre of the Austin Arts Center. In 1969, theatre arts at Trinity ceased to be just an extracurricular activity and became a formal department and major.

With the completion of Alumni Hall in 1887, the Trinity Dramatic Club finally had a stage. In October of that year, it announced that it would attempt a season of “society melodrama or light farce.” After that the club, which donated all proceeds to the Treasury of the Athletic Association, gave at least two plays a year.

Full props and costumes were used in most of the plays. Men usually took both male and female parts; not until the early 1900’s did Hartford area women regularly play female roles. In 1894 the drama club took the name “The Jesters,” and it has been used ever since.

The Jesters, who had suffered through a slump during and after World War I, enjoyed a revival during the 1920’s. They reorganized themselves in the fall of 1923, deciding to continue to produce two plays a year. A person who played a single part was called a Junior Jester. One who played two major, one major and one minor, or three minor parts was made a Senior Jester, and awarded a charm for his efforts.

From 1924 to 1926 the Jesters were a social and financial success, producing “The Turtle Dove,” by Margaret Scott Oliver; “Rollo’s Wild Out,” by Claire Kummer; “The Dover Road,” by A.A. Milne; “Arms and the Man,” by George Bernard Shaw; “The Whole Town’s” (Continued on Page 3)

More Students Applying to Enter Trinity

Trinity’s next freshman class will be drawn from the largest applicant pool in the college’s history.

The college anticipates that about 450 men and women will enroll as freshmen in September. If this expectation is met, the class would be slightly larger than last year’s entering class of 421, but smaller than the 495 freshmen who enrolled in 1972.

While private college enrollments nationwide declined last year and sharp drops in enrollment are projected nationally for the rest of the decade, applications to Trinity nevertheless increased 20 percent this year. The total of 1,908 applications — 1,251 women and 1,647 men — increased by 481 over last year’s admission total of 2,417.

According to college statistics, the number of male applicants this year is equal to the greatest number of men who ever applied to Trinity before the decision to become coeducational in 1960.

Included in this year’s applications were 145 from minority people, up from last year when 124 applied. Letters of acceptance were sent to 1,154 people, including 641 men and 513 women. There were 90 minority people – black, Latin and Asian – among those admitted.

Auditorium Named to Honor Boyer

Trinity College has named the auditorium in the Albert C. Jacobs Life Sciences Center after the late Francis Boyer, former chairman of the board of Smith Kline & French Laboratories and benefactor of the College.

Francis Boyer, who died May 21, 1972, was associated with the pharmaceutical firm of Smith, Kline & French for more than 50 years, from

Photograph, Page 2

He was awarded an honorary Doctor of Science degree (Sc.D.) from Trinity in 1961.

Mr. Boyer established a scholarship fund at Trinity in memory of his son, John Francis Boyer, who was killed in an automobile accident in 1954. John Boyer, a member of Trinity’s Class of 1953, had spent three semesters at Trinity before transferring to the University of Pennsylvania. A prolific writer, he had been editorial associate of the Tripod, and wrote short stories and poetry for the Trinity Review, and had been published in other journals.

Also in memory of his son, Boyer made a gift to provide for the Tripod office in Mother Campus Center when it was built in 1960.

Clifton Bockstoce Joins Trinity as V.P., Treasurer

Clifton M. Bockstoce of West Hartford has been appointed vice president for financial affairs and treasurer of the College.

Clifton M. Bockstoce of West Hartford has been appointed vice president for financial affairs and treasurer of the College.

Bockstoce succeeds J. Kenneth Robertson, Treasurer and Comptroller since 1951, who is retiring. The appointment is effective May 15.

A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., Bockstoce worked for Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. (PPG) from 1935 to 1961, serving in the U.S. Army from 1943 to 1946. At PPG he was regional manager of the Merchandising Division, based in Hartford.

In 1961 he joined Putnam and Co. in Hartford, and served as a general partner in that firm and its successor company, Advent.

He is a member of St. John’s Church, West Hartford; a trustee of Trinity Church, York Harbor, Maine; assistant treasurer of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut; a trustee of the Wadsworth Atheneum and the Bushnell Memorial Hall, and a director of Lydall, Inc., and XTRA, Inc.

Bockstoce is a graduate of Haverford College and of the Advanced Management Program, Harvard Business School.

Clifton M. Bockstoce

Mass., holds a Ph.B. from Yale and an M.B.A. from Harvard. He has been active in the Eastern Association of College and University Business Officers, has served as Secretary-Treasurer of Scholarships for Illinois Residents, Inc., a scholarship program which brings Illinois students to Trinity, is a former director and treasurer of the Connecticut Student Loan Foundation, and served several years as a director of the University Research Institute of Connecticut.

In his earlier career, Robertson served from 1935 to 1943 with Warner Brothers Theaters, dealing with operations, public relations, and advertising. From 1943 until he joined Trinity in 1951, he was business manager of the Taft School in Watertown.

In making the announcement, President Lockwood said, “Mrs. Robertson has ably served the College for twenty-three years, and it was a difficult assignment to find a successor for him. We are delighted that Mr. Bockstoce will join us this month and bring his experience to bear upon the special problems of endowment analysis, long-range fiscal planning, and the financial resources needed in independent higher education.”

Trinity’s NINEThIES — Pictured above are Trinity students in “My Lord in Livery,” an all-male production of a one-act farce. It was presented in December of 1891 in Alumni Hall.

“Arms and the Man,” by George Bernard Shaw; “The Whole Town’s” (Continued on Page 3)
CAMPUS NOTES

The Office of Community Life and Student Services will be consolidated into one office next fall. The new office of the dean of students will be directed by J. Ronald Spencer.

Dr. Richard B. Crawford, director of student services, has resigned to become Business Manager at Millbrook School, Millbrook, New York.

In the new combined office, Ellen Melquen will serve as a dean of student services. David Lee will be associate dean of student services, Mohamed Ali will be assistant dean of students and Elinor Tilles, part-time administrator, will take a full-time position and become assistant dean of college residences. Terry Contello will retain her position as master calendar coordinator.

Two Members of the Trinity College Faculty Have Been Promoted to the Rank of Full Professor

Dr. Richard B. Crawford, associate professor of biology, and Dr. Albert J. Howard Jr., associate professor of physics, have been promoted to the rank of full professor.

The promotions to full professor are effective September 1.

Dr. Crawford, a native of Kalamazoo, Mich., joined the Trinity faculty in 1967. He holds a bachelor's degree from Kalamazoo College; a Ph.D. in biochemistry from the University of Rochester, where he was a graduate fellow and postdoctoral fellow.

From 1959, until his appointment at Trinity, he taught at the University of Pennsylvania's School of Dental Medicine.

He has written or co-authored 23 articles in professional journals, presented a dozen invited lectures, and is a member of the American Chemical Society, the Philadelphia Biochemistry Club, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Association of University Professors, the American Society of Zoologists, and the Coastal Biotic Foundation.

Dr. Howard, a native of New Haven, holds B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. degrees in physics from Yale University. He joined the Trinity faculty in 1962 and has taught, as a visiting associate, at Yale University and at the California Institute of Technology.

A nuclear physicist, Dr. Howard has co-authored 22 articles published in professional journals.

Alumni Shown 'Trinity in Action'

A group of alumni got to see "Trinity in Action" for three days in late April. More than 200 students and 50 faculty and administrators helped to welcome the returning alumni what Trinity is like today. They were introduced to the curriculum, classrooms, athletics, the arts, and new teaching techniques, among other things.

"Trinity in Action" was authorized by the suggestion of the executive committee of the Alumni Association. One alumni who participated said he "learned more about Trinity in a short span than I have in the preceding 20 years."

Mr. Constance Ware, chairman, said the hope program would be continued "so that many more alumni will have an opportunity to see the College 'in action' this way."

Painter Appointed History Chairman

Dr. Borden W. Painter, Jr., associate professor of history, has been appointed chairman of the history department effective July 1, 1974. He succeeds Dr. George B. Cooper, who held the chairmanship since 1964.

Dr. Painter, who came to Trinity in 1964, is a 1958 Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Williams College and received his M.A. and Ph.D. in 1956 and 1960 respectively from Yale University.

He was director of the Connecticut Commission on Aid to Education from 1967 to 1971, and served part-time as special assistant to the President and as director of the Individualized Degree Program, which involved him in long-range planning efforts for Trinity.

Alumni Honored

HONORED -- With the traditional reception, the College honored those retiring or having reached 25 years of service. Left to right, The Rev. Thomas Devoshirne Jones who served for the past year as English Exchange Chaplain; Joseph T. Schilling, assistant to the treasurer, retiring after 16 years; J. Kenneth Robertson, treasurer and comptroller, retiring after 32 years; Mary Lee Curry, secretary to the dean for student services, honored for 25 years of service; and President Lockwood.

AU DITORIUM NAMED -- Members of the late Francis Boyer's family were present at the dedication of the Francis Boyer Auditorium in the Albert C. Jacobs Life Sciences Center on May 8. Mrs. Boyer and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Godfrey of Villanov, Pa.

TRINITY REPORTER

May, 1974

Vol. 4, No. 7

Issued nine times a year in October, November, December, January, February, March, April, May, and June. Published by the Office of Public Information, Trinity College, Hartford, Conn. 06106. Second class postage paid at Hartford, Connecticut.

The REPORTER is mailed to alumni, parents, faculty, staff and friends of Trinity. Copies are available to students. There is no charge.

Letters for publication must be less than 200 words and signed. The printing of any letter is at the discretion of the Editor and may be edited for brevity, not substance.

Editor, L. Barton Wilson '37; Associate Editor, Alfred C. Burfeindt; Assistant Editor, Mill Silvestri; Sports Information, Daniel F. Russo '73; Photographer, David R. Lowe; Alumni Secretary, John L. Hoyt '56.

The Jesters always had a faculty advisor willing to serve as dramatic coach. In 1902, Henry Peckham was appointed professor of physics; his wife, who had had a brief career as the professional stage, supervised the Jesters until about 1919. Other people served as advisors until 1946. Then, according to Dr. Michael McNulty, a student at the time and today professor of modern languages and literatures and director of the Tufts-in-London Program, the Jesters were known as the "Golden Age of the Jesters"—along with several veterans of the Second World War who were eager to take on challenging roles and experiment with the theatre.

Advised and directed by Dr. Bard McNulty, the Jesters rehearsed in the top floor of Seabury. They expanded from the traditional presentation of a tragedy in the fall and a comedy in the spring in the avant-garde. In the fall of 1946, "Golden Boy" was produced, with Michael Campo playing the role of the old Italian father and Ken Wynne as Eddie Fuselli, the young boxer. In the spring of 1947, The Jesters Campo played Jacobowsky and Moo Johnquest was the main actor, Donald Craig, who was the manager of publicity, so he flew a plane over Hartford, showering the city with leaflets about the play.

Their first technical director, John Woolley, came to Trinity in 1966, and taught production to interested Jesters.

THE FORTIES — In 1947 the members of the Jesters were, from left to right: (first row) J. H. Schachter; W. Wymne; J. B. McNulty; D. W. Craig; P. E. Boskos; J. T. P. Campos; second row) R. S. Neate; D. E. Convery; J. F. Straley; B. K. Nicholson; E. F. Albee; R. H. Reid; L. E. Sagor; F. C. Campbell; and R. Reynolds. Albee, who was at Trinity for a year and a half, went on to write "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" "America's Dream," "Zoo Story," and other plays. Other Jesters who have achieved successful careers in various aspects of the theatre include Mike Kellin '43, George Dessert '48, Ed Parone '49, Richard Roast '55, Mark Healy '59, John Toye '59, Lee Kalchheim '60, and Bill Barton '68.

THE TEENS — In "Tom Moore," a four-act play produced by the Jesters in 1915, the female roles were played by women. The review of the play in the 1916 Ivy stated, "We could not take our eyes off the actresses. They were all so charming and altogether delightful that any description is sure to fall short of the reality. The playing of their parts was as delicate as it was discriminating."

Upon his arrival, Dr. Campo has commented that the Jesters had become professional. They were no longer dilettantes. Professor Nichols provided them with their own leadership, enthusiasm, and structure. Many of Shakespeare's plays were performed in those years, along with contemporary comedies and dramas.

In the spring of 1960, several days before the opening of "The Skin of Our Teeth," the fire department inspected Alumni Hall and issued a long list of violations to the College. Trinity's Office of Development, which had been planning an arts center since 1953, announced that a new building was needed. It was built. In June, the first half-million dollars were pledged by an anonymous donor (later revealed to be Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Goodwin), who later gave an additional $230,000 with the provision that it must be matched by other donors.

The estimated cost of the arts center was $1,500,000 in 1960, but by the time the Austin Arts Center was dedicated on May 15, 1965, its total cost had run to $2,300,000. The music and studio arts departments were located in the Center along with the Jesters. George Nichols was director of the Center from 1965 to 1969, when he became head of the theatre arts department.

With the opening of the Austin Arts Center, the Jesters began to expand. Their first technical director, John Woodcock, came to Trinity in 1966, and taught production to interested Jesters. In 1966, Professor Nichols was given permission to hire a second professor and to start the theatre arts department. When David Eliet arrived in the fall of 1969, the major was formally established.

"We offer theatre arts as a major which we think can do as much for a person as other fields of study, as well. We don't urge anyone to go into the theatre professionally," Nichols has stated. "When I became the director of the major, the Lift One-Act Series was introduced (about five one-act plays produced entirely by students each semester) and the number of major productions was increased from three to four, with Eliet and Nichols each directing two during the year.

Since the establishment of the theatre arts department, there have been many opportunities for interested students both at Trinity and through affiliation with the other programs. Students may spend a year with the Tufts-in-London program, study the theatre, or a semester at the O'Neil Theatre in Waterford, Conn., or take an open semester or independent study involving the theatre. With the Lift One-Act Series, they can experiment with directing and acting, and develop their general concept of the theatre. Many students have become involved in the department without being majors.

its establishment has meant a fairly wide variety of courses on the theatre. Ellet says, "I would like to see the department push harder and develop more, but its gains have been substantial. Our offering is traditional, and it's good."

Last semester, there were three major productions: Antion Chukowke's "The Snagull," directed by Eliet; Shakespeare's "Richard II," directed by Nichols; and Tennessee Williams' "The Night of the Iguana," directed by Len Cowan '74. "Iguana" was the first student-directed major production since the department began. Six one-act plays were also presented.

"Of course "Iguana" because it "treats the line between comedy and seriousness. Williams' play gets across the idea that distractions between fantasy and reality are indeed blurry, and we must not be frightened of one or the other, as they are both components of life itself."

This semester there was one major production, Lanford Wilson's "The Runners of Eddleitch." Directed by Eliet and presented in early March, it was an unintentional dramatization of the murder of an old derelict in a small midwestern town. The play was done in a collage style, in which the plot was gradually revealed through a series of vignettes. All 17 cast members remained on stage throughout the play. The Lift One-Act Series was presented in March and April.

In February of 1973, actresses Eun Collyer and Mildred Dunnock came to Trinity and taught separate workshops on acting and the preparation of scenes. Nichols would like to see the workshops expanded into a program of an artist-in-residence each semester.

While there are always improvements that can be made, most students were glad that there is an active theatre arts department. Ann Convey '74 says, "The main thing about the theatre arts department is that the spirit down there is incredible. There is no hierarchy. Everybody cooperates; they're happy and dedicated. The kids are proud of the respect that they're not paid.

A senior in the theatre arts department, says, "The great advantage of a liberal arts school like Trinity is that it gives a student exposure to all aspects of the theatre, more so than in a professional drama school. It also gives students discipline; we can do crazy things but we must do them seriously."
Lacrosse

Defeat Tufts 5-4. On April 17 the Bants lost a 7-6 squeaker to the Lord Jeffs of Amherst. The 15-7 setback to Bowdoin was much closer than the score indicates.

Parents Association officers - Recently elected officers of the Parents Association are, left to right: Arthur M. Lewis, vice president; Bruce N. Bender, president; and Mrs. John N. Fisher, secretary.

Parent's Weekend - Dates to Remember: November 1 - 2

Dates to Remember: November 1 - 2

Reunion/Homecoming

Parents Weekend

Recently elected officers of the Parents Association are, left to right: Arthur M. Lewis, vice president; Bruce N. Bender, president; and Mrs. John N. Fisher, secretary.

PARENTS ASSOCIATION OFFICERS - Recently elected officers of the Parents Association are, left to right: Arthur M. Lewis, vice president; Bruce N. Bender, president; and Mrs. John N. Fisher, secretary.

Lawn Tennis Association's men's 75 singles championship went to FRED MILLER of New London, for most improved player and fine sportsmanship.

Parent's Weekend - Dates to Remember: November 1 - 2

Reunion/Homecoming

Parents Weekend

Recently elected officers of the Parents Association are, left to right: Arthur M. Lewis, vice president; Bruce N. Bender, president; and Mrs. John N. Fisher, secretary.

PARENTS ASSOCIATION OFFICERS - Recently elected officers of the Parents Association are, left to right: Arthur M. Lewis, vice president; Bruce N. Bender, president; and Mrs. John N. Fisher, secretary.

Lawn Tennis Association's men's 75 singles championship went to FRED MILLER of New London, for most improved player and fine sportsmanship.

Parent's Weekend - Dates to Remember: November 1 - 2

Reunion/Homecoming

Parents Weekend

Recently elected officers of the Parents Association are, left to right: Arthur M. Lewis, vice president; Bruce N. Bender, president; and Mrs. John N. Fisher, secretary.
39 Mr. Earl H. Fleen 147 Goodacre Dr. West Hartford, CT 06111 SUMNER TWISS, who has been president of Chrysler Corporation’s chemical division in Southfield, Michigan.

40 Mr. Herbert R. Bland 538 Scovil Rd. Newington, CT... 06107 AL HOPKINS and his wife, Jean, will attend Trinity commencement exercises June 25 at which their son, Mark ’84, will be graduated, an alumnus, as did soul ’56 and Steve ’69.

41 Mr. John L. Borsen McCook, Kenyon and Borsen State St. Hartford, CT 06102

42 Dr. Harry R. Gostling 336 Southwick Road Hooft Rd. 06002 EARLE EPS recently moved to Albany, New York where he accepted a teaching appointment as an assistant professor of anthropology at Union College. He told well to private practice in Lakeland, Florida this coming September, Earl, who celebrated his 25th wedding anniversary on April 1, has a son, Douglas, age 22, who just graduated from the University of South Florida with a major in cinematography; a daughter, Cindy, age 20, who is a sophomore majoring in psychology at Sage College, Troy, New York; and a daughter, Conni, who is entering the Academy of Holy Names School in Albany, New York.

43 Mr. Andrew W. Milligan 10 Willow Street West Hartford, CT 06117 FRASER DREW is one of the first nine professors in the 75-campus State University of New York system to be promoted to the newly established rank of distinguished teaching professor. His book, “John Manfield’s England,” was published last year by the Fairleigh Dickinson University Press.

44 Mr. J. William Vincent 80 Newport Avenue West Hartford, CT 06107

45 BING HALSEY is employed as division manager of General Contractors Commercial (textiles), Russell Corporation, New York City. Bing also serves as chairman of the American Arbitration Council. He has three children -- Holly Anne, a sophomore at Manhattan College in New York; Asia, a sophomore at Swarthmore College, Richmond, Indiana; and going on to law school; and Karen N., receiving her bachelor’s degree from the University of New Hampshire.

46 Paul J. Kingston, M.D. 71 Wellesley Road West Hartford, CT 06119

47 Mr. E. Wade Clove, Jr. 200 Hunter’s Trace Lane Atlanta, Georgia 30328

48 The Rev. E. Otto Charles 231 South St. Salt Lake City, Utah 84111 RAY BARNES is the Lexington, Massachusetts celebration committee chairman for their Bicentennial.

49 Mr. Charles I. Teney Charles I. Teney & Associates 2 Byrn Ave. Bryant & Stratton ’90

50 Mr. James R. Glassco, Jr. 151 Farmington Ave. Farmington, CT 06030 RAY SNOW has been named to the newly created position of marketing manager for Fisher Bearing Company, New Britain, Connecticut.

51 Mr. John F. Klingler 51 Wood Pond Rd. West Hartford, CT 06119 KINGTON HOWARD is chairman of the Lexington, Massachusetts Bicentennial celebration.

52 Mr. Douglas C. Lee 51 Wood Pond Rd. West Hartford, CT 06107 JOE MOREHEAD, professor of library and information science at SUNY, Albany, New York, writes that he and his wife, Beul, are the proud parents of a baby girl, Ann Gray, born completing a book on “United States Public Documents” which is to be published by the American Library Association early in 1975.

53 Mr. Andrew W. Milligan 10 Willow Street West Hartford, CT 06117

54 Mr. Thomas R. Tarzi Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co. 1401 11th Ave. Hartford, CT 06103

55 Mr. Edward A. Montgomery, Jr. 65 Backlund Road Southington, Ht 06153

56 Mr. Herbert R. Bland 538 Scovil Rd. Newington, CT 06107

57 Paul B. Marion 7 Martin Place Hartford, New York 07928 LAIRD MORTIMER writes from Elwood, New York that he continues to be a president of Periodical Corporation, a printing firm turning out catalogs and books, publishing, printing you ought to ask WARD JUST for an exclusive.

58 Mr. Borden W. Painter, Jr. 110 Lodgewood Rd. West Hartford, CT 06107

ALUMNI gatheriNG in PALM BEACH -- Top, left to right, Tom Cary ’33, Don Puffer ’20. Jim Fyfe ’55 and Stephen Bonifazi ’47. Bottom, left to right, President Lodewick, Mrs. William P. Gwin, Mrs. Lodewick, and Mr. Gwin, a Charter Trustee of the College. Mr. and Mrs. Gwin were hosts at the gathering.

Dwight Oake, the happy organist from the department of music of Wells College, Auburn, New York, continues on his concert tour with upcoming organ recitals at the Church of the Ascension, Rochester; New York, May 6, and the Music Hall, Middletown, Massachusetts, Aug. 21.

NORMAND RICHARD, the father of three, is data processing director for Comco & Co., Hartford, Connecticut.

GEORGE CASE has just been appointed secretary, individual insurance operations, at Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, Hartford.

Hugh McCracken has been promoted to lieutenant colonel and is presently job chief of training for the 374th tactical airlift wing, Clark Air Base in the Philippines. He says that for the first time in years he has seen a Trinity alumnus who is Air Force — Lt. Mark Macomb ’71, who is also a pilot with the 374th wing.

NORM KAYSER has received the “Associate in Risk Management” designation from the Insurance Institute of America.

BING HALSEY is employed as division manager of General Contractors Commercial (textiles), Russell Corporation, New York City. Bing also serves as chairman of the American Arbitration Council. He has three children -- Holly Anne, a sophomore at Manhattan College in New York; Asia, a sophomore at Swarthmore College, Richmond, Indiana; and going on to law school; and Karen N., receiving her bachelor’s degree from the University of New Hampshire.

Paul J. Kingston, M.D. 71 Wellesley Road West Hartford, CT 06119

JIM MELLOR of Wachusett, Massachusetts, has been promoted to second vice president, group secretary and assistant treasurer of The Paul Revere Life Insurance Company, Woonsocket, Massachusetts.

Mr. Charles I. Teney Charles I. Teney & Associates 2 Byrn Ave. Bryant & Stratton ’90

Mr. James R. Glassco, Jr. 151 Farmington Ave. Farmington, CT 06030

Mr. John F. Klingler 51 Wood Pond Rd. West Hartford, CT 06119

Mr. Andrew W. Milligan 10 Willow Street West Hartford, CT 06117

Mr. E. Wade Clove, Jr. 200 Hunter’s Trace Lane Atlanta, Georgia 30328

Mr. Edward A. Montgomery, Jr. 65 Backlund Road Southington, Ht 06153
HARTFORD PHONATION - Students joined alumni to help with a phonathon in greater Hartford that raised about $18,000 for the Alumni Fund over four evenings May 6-9. Shown in the picture here are seniors Deborah L. Root, left, Harry Heller and Elizabeth R. Grady. Others who helped out were Rebecca Adams, Michael Chearsney, Elizabeth W. Edsall, Edmond Fournier, Amy Tolley and Karen Tucker. The student team raised about $3,000 for one night's telephoning, May 7.

62
Mr. Robert Q. Langen
2 Sacramento St.
West Simsbury, CT 06092

STEVE LAZARUS has authored the second edition of "The American Company: Knowledge in Utopia," over 1100 multiple choice questions for review purposes. Steve is living in Queens, New York and working in Queens and Brooklyn.

ALLEN SCHNEIDER, professor of psychology at Simmons College in Massachusetts, recently presented a colloquium at the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts on the topic "The Infancy of Memory."

DICK BOWMAN of Woodbury, Connecticut has been elected an assistant cashier of the Connecticut National Bank and named manager of the credit department.

63
Mr. Del A. Stifflett
412 N. 2nd St.
S. Windsor, CT 06081

ROGER MACLEAN has decided to stay in Boston although he is considering beginning in July, to be attending surgeon at Babies Hospital. Roger will marry Carla Duny, a native of Saratoga, New York, whom he met in Boston two years ago and is "a happy guy." He says Carla has her Master's in learning disabilities.

GUY DOVE has been serving as a financial consultant for the Federal Energy Office since February.

JOHN KORETZ is coopers with Lybrand and is working in Chicago, Illinois, where he is a director in the management consulting division. He is responsible for a group of consultants who provide audit, tax and management consulting services in the area bounded approximately by Chicago and Delaware in the north, and by the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers on the west.

JOHN KENT is working for a small company which deals with problems of the airline industry, consisting with cities and city government. Recently, he spent a few days in Chicago with Mayor Daley's staff.

JOHN RICHARDSON, a member of our Write staff, reports the recent addition of a son, Mark. John is still with Putnam Trust Company in Greenwich, Connecticut.

EMMETT MILLER, M. D. sent me a very happy 70th birthday card this month. He is still working hard, and his work is primarily in the area of liability management.

You SHELLEY has lunch with SANDY CREEGREN recently and learned he is very pleased with his job with Citibank. Cabet, Cabot and Forbes, a major commercial real estate developer headquartered in Boston. Sandy is now coordinating a project in Boston for Louis.

SAM WINNER, M.D., reports he is still highly motivated, overworked and single.

TOM DEAKERT has been promoted to a vice president of the Public Accounting Studies and is being trained to become a partner.

JOHN KENYON is working for a small company which deals with problems of the airline industry, consisting with cities and city government. Recently, he spent a few days in Chicago with Mayor Daley's staff.

STEVE LAZARUS has authored the second edition of "The American Company: Knowledge in Utopia," over 1100 multiple choice questions for review purposes. Steve is living in Queens, New York and working in Queens and Brooklyn.

ALLEN SCHNEIDER, professor of psychology at Simmons College in Massachusetts, recently presented a colloquium at the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts on the topic "The Infancy of Memory."

DICK BOWMAN of Woodbury, Connecticut has been elected an assistant cashier of the Connecticut National Bank and named manager of the credit department.

HARTFORD PHONATION - Students joined alumni to help with a phonathon in greater Hartford that raised about $18,000 for the Alumni Fund over four evenings May 6-9. Shown in the picture here are seniors Deborah L. Root, left, Harry Heller and Elizabeth R. Grady. Others who helped out were Rebecca Adams, Michael Chearsney, Elizabeth W. Edsall, Edmond Fournier, Amy Tolley and Karen Tucker. The student team raised about $3,000 for one night's telephoning, May 7.
69

Mr. Frederick A. Vyn
10 Toma Ave.
Worcester, MA 01608

BEVERLY DIAMOND MAYR and her husband, Kurt, proudly announce the birth of their second child, Kardine Anne. Beverly is a part-time teaching job on the community college level.

Florence Crofoot, JON M.A. 1938 Miss Florence S. Marcy Crofoot, Connecticut author and philanthropist, died March 27, 1974 in Hartford. She was born at the age of 106. She leaves no immediate survivors. Miss Crofoot lived most of her life in New York City. She was a member of the Trinity College Women's Club and was a member of the TRIPOD staff. A veteran of World War II, she was a member of the Connecticut Historical Society. She was married to Mr. Crofoot.

73

Jonathan Stevens writes that after a summer as a baseball counselor at Camp Mystic in Maine, he is presently a Vista volunteer in the beautiful woods of Bridgeton, New Jersey. He is now living in Charlotteville, Virginia where George is attending graduate school.

Arthur van Riper Tilton, 1920 Tilton, a former president of the faculty of Trinity, died April 24, 1974 in New York. He is survived by his wife, Eleanor Taft Tilton; a daughter, Mrs. Joan L. Tilton; and six grandchildren.

Beverly Diamond Mayr and her husband, Kurt, proudly announce the birth of their second child, Kardine Anne. Beverly is a part-time teaching job on the community college level.

Florence Crofoot, JON M.A. 1938 Miss Florence S. Marcy Crofoot, Connecticut author and philanthropist, died March 27, 1974 in Hartford. She was born at the age of 106. She leaves no immediate survivors. Miss Crofoot lived most of her life in New York City. She was a member of the Trinity College Women's Club and was a member of the TRIPOD staff. A veteran of World War II, she was a member of the Connecticut Historical Society. She was married to Mr. Crofoot.

Jonathan Stevens writes that after a summer as a baseball counselor at Camp Mystic in Maine, he is presently a Vista volunteer in the beautiful woods of Bridgeton, New Jersey. He is now living in Charlotteville, Virginia where George is attending graduate school.

Arthur van Riper Tilton, 1920 Tilton, a former president of the faculty of Trinity, died April 24, 1974 in New York. He is survived by his wife, Eleanor Taft Tilton; a daughter, Mrs. Joan L. Tilton; and six grandchildren.

Florence Crofoot, JON M.A. 1938 Miss Florence S. Marcy Crofoot, Connecticut author and philanthropist, died March 27, 1974 in Hartford. She was born at the age of 106. She leaves no immediate survivors. Miss Crofoot lived most of her life in New York City. She was a member of the Trinity College Women's Club and was a member of the TRIPOD staff. A veteran of World War II, she was a member of the Connecticut Historical Society. She was married to Mr. Crofoot.
Trinity Reporter May 1974 Page 8

By Burton Apfelbaum '75

The 1973 Trinity crew program, with 7 men placed third of 16 at the Mason-Dows Cup, began its season with a four length victory over W.P.J. to win the Bantams' only varsity regatta of the season. Ten strokes into the race an oarlock burst open allowing an oar to pop out. Before the boat could redress, they were the high points of a new season.

Varsity pair, Bill Barney stroke Chad Mooney bow, finished season 11-2 placing 2d at the Dad Vail.

The Nine opened their season April 11 at Wesleyan, falling 7-3, then split a doubleheader with Colby. The Mules won the opener 6-0, then dropped to Trim 4-2.

Senior right-hander Bill Scully, the Bantam captain, led Trinity's second-game win with clutch pitching and two key hits.

The Bants next lost to Williams, 4-3, on the road after having tied the score in the top of the ninth. Only the winning run was earned by the Ephem. The Bants came back against Coast Guard, downing them at Trinity 8-3, and splitting with them in New London, 5-3 and 1-4. Steve Carlrow went the distance for Trinity in the 8-3 win, scattering six hits and allowing the game's only earned run. The game's offensive highlight was Mike Hokinsson's home run in the eighth. In the first half of the doubleheader, Kindl gave up two runs in the first inning, on no hits or walks, then scattered three hits as the Bants came back for the win. John Wiggins' sacrifice fly drove down in the game-winning run for the 5-3 win.

In the 4-1 nightcap loss, Trinity loaded the bases with none out in the seventh (and final) inning but failed to score. A fine pitching performance by Carlrow, in relief of Scully, saved a 6-4 victory over the University of Hartford on April 22. Trinity, down 4-2, erupted for four runs in the top of the eighth inning for a 6-4 win.

WPI came to town on April 26, defeating the Bants 9-6. The Engineers' four-run fifth and three-run sixth innings were too much to overcome. A four-run Bantam rally in the ninth was keyed by Wiggins' 400-foot triple to right.

Trinity traveled to Tufts April 27 for a doubleheader and split 4-2 games. In the victory, Kindl pitched another three-hitter and Wiggins' last-out single earned him the game-winning RBI.

The following week Trim lost 9-3 to Ambrose, and 5-2 and 8-5 to Wesleyan, all at home. The powerful Lord Jeffs entered the game with a 9-2 record and 343 batting average.

The Springfield College game was disappointing. Though the final score was 18-7, Trinity led 5-3 after four and one-half innings. This was the last game prior to the historic tripleheader, which let Trinity go out on a positive note.

Crew

By Peter Schuller '74

The Trinity golf team accepted a challenge last spring season, a challenge put forth by virtue of its faltering records in recent years. The members of the 1974 team set out with the best record of any Trinity varsity during the spring season but also compiled the most wins ever by a Trinity golf team, nine.

In 1966, Trinity golfers amassed an 8-2 record, the best at that time in the history of the sport at Trinity. This season's team surpassed that with a 9-4 total, establishing a new mark for number of wins in a season. The 1974 team, in order of playing position, Peter Schuller, Henry Bruce, Ed Varner, Charles Putnam, captain George Finkenstaedt, Andy Taussig, Chris Jennings, Tom Shulte, and alternate Rick Huoppi also managed a second place finish in the Connecticut State Intercollegiates and eleventh place in the New England Collegiates.

The season started at home against the University of Rhode Island and Worcester Polytech. Trinity won both matches 4-3. Next the team swapped Conn College 70 and narrowly beat the University of Hartford, 4-3. The team then travelled to Wesleyan where they increased their record to 6-0 by handling Bowdoin 5-2 and Wesleyan 6-1. After defeating Coast Guard 6-1, Trinity went to the Connecticut Intercollegiates and finished a strong second behind Central Connecticut, led by Peter Schuller's 73, the lowest score ever posted by a Trinity player in that event. Following the Connecticut, the team had a rough week, succumbing to powerful Williams and Dartmouth, then finishing a disappointing tenth (in a field of over 40 teams) in the New England Intercollegiate. The team had good depth: Schuller finished 4-3, Bruce 9-2, Stuardinger 7-4. Finkenstaedt, Taussig 5-2, Schulte, 7-4, and Huoppi 1-1. (There were two medal play matches which do not figure into the individual records and account for the discrepancy between the latter totals and the overall team record.)

Lacrosse

By Alan Stark '74

Although the 1974 Trinity Laxmen finished the season with an overall 5-6 record, this junior oriented team has a bright future. Of the 107 goals scored this year all but six were underclassmen.

The offensive minded Bants broke six college scoring records: season scoring team goals (107); season assists (54); season team points (265); career goals (59) Nick Bensley 1973-4); season goals-halffielder (26 Chris Max). Another record which speaks well for an individual is Jeff Ford's 176 goalie saves.

The laxmen started on April 6 with a 7-6 defeat at the hands of Wesleyan. Trim came back a week later behind the efforts of Chris Max (2 goals, 1 assist) to (Continued on Page 4)