Largest Class in History Graduates

During the Moments of Waiting...

To the strains of the Processional March played by the First Company, Governor's Foot Guard Band, the largest class in Trinity history wound its way down the Long Walk, for the last time as undergraduates. Waiting for them under the outstretched arm of Bishop Brownell was an overflow audience of about 4,000 well-wishers. When the ceremony was over Trinity had acquired 458 alumni with bachelor’s degrees and 70 with master’s degrees. Seven persons were awarded honorary degrees.

In his charge to the senior class, President Lockwood said in part, "We all look ahead with uncertainty. Yet, whatever our positions, we know that we want to create a world of our own making, received but not precast. We hope that somehow we may make a mark on the world we inherited .... We are linked with one another; we define our humanity by both our contemplation and our action. I have only this simple message: do it your own way, but do it humanely ...."

The College awarded honorary degrees to Mary Ellen Avery, M.D., professor of pediatrics at Harvard University; Ostrom Enders, retired Hartford business executive and civic leader of Avon, Conn.; Harry J. Gray, chief executive officer, president and chairman of United Technologies; Frank S. Jones, professor of urban affairs at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; The Right Reverend Robert S. Kerr '40, Episcopal Bishop of Vermont; Robert B. O'Connor '16, architect and consultant; and W. Anthony Paddon, M.D. '35, director of Grenfell Association Northern Medical Services of Labrador.

This year's graduates came from 32 states plus Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia and four foreign countries. The class included the largest number of women to graduate since the College went coeducational in 1969. The Bachelor of Arts degree was awarded to 358 students and the Bachelor of Science degree to 100. Valedictorian was Stephen J. Poole of Wilmington, Del., a biology major. Phi Beta Kappa, Holland Scholar and honorary H.E. Russell Fellow, who also received honors in general scholarship and departmental honors in biology.

Susan Anne McGill of Glastonbury, Conn., was Salutatorian. A biochemistry major, Phi Beta Kappa, H.E. Russell Fellow, Holland Scholar and Krieble Scholar, she also received honors in general scholarship and departmental honors in chemistry.

Thirteen other students received Honors in general scholarship. They are Donald C. Baur of Meriden, Conn., also with honors in history; Phyllis K. Roberts of White Plains, N.Y.; Michele E. Vesekis of Hartford, also with honors in English; Timothy A. Cross of East Sandwich, Mass., also with honors in chemistry; Thomas E. Bell of Berwin, Pa., also with honors in biology; Daniel S. Silver of Manchester, Conn., also with honors in mathematics; Steven M. Salky of Memphis, Tenn.; Paul R. Sacht of Bala Cynwyd, Pa., also with honors in psychology; Alan S. Hergert of Austin.

burn, Wash., also with honors in economics; Stephen J. Swiatkiewicz of East Hartford, Conn., who also received honors in history; Sally E. Tarbell of Windsor, Conn., who also received honors in psychology; Stuart L. Koman of Baltimore, Md., who also received honors in psychology; and Barbara F. Bass of South Glastonbury, Conn., who also received honors in biology.

A total of 87 seniors were graduated with honors in their respective major areas of study.

One senior, Chester B. Derr of South Woodstock, Conn., received a B.S. degree from Trinity and also received a Master of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute under a professional degree program in conjunction with R.P.I., in Troy, N.Y.

The first member of Trinity's Individualized Degree Program to graduate is a member of the class of '76. She is Kay Lazarus of Simsbury, Conn., housewife and mother of three, who received the B.A. The IDP program permits students to study at their own pace, taking as many as eight years or more, without being required to attend classes.

A married couple also graduated, Ellen and John Fisher received B.A.'s. Ellen, originally from Canton, Conn., and whose husband is Trinity's medical director; and Barbara White of Hartford, mother of four, whose son is a Trinity sophomore.

As the 75-76 academic year drew to an end, the college community was unexpectedly and abruptly faced with a problem which, in the light of matters of things, there is no one perfect solution. The affair began with an expression of racist and sexist sentiments on the campus and within a few weeks, was the subject of news articles and editorials throughout the country. Education in science at Trinity was raised by President Lockwood, who had moved quickly to curb further occurrences, some hectic, urged by a community that felt the constitutional right of free speech could be jeopardized.

The nonconventional affair began in no way adequate to a student-sponsored "Joke Night" field campus in early spring. It is the nature of the role of 250 students. What occurred is summarized in a letter reporting on the event written by Dr. Robert Lindsay, professor of physics and chairman of Trinity's Special Council on Minority Students, and vice president Thomas A. Page. The president-elect had asked the Council to prepare a report with recommendations.

On April 22 the Council met with members of the Student Government Association, members of Mather Board of Governors, some of whom were present at the April 9 Joke Night, and with a member of the faculty and an administrator who were also present during a part of the evening. We listened to approximately two hours of accounts of what had taken place at Joke Night, and there is no question in the minds of the Council's members but that the event was outrageously offensive to blacks and to women.

We consider the event to have been a moral outrage . . . . What is most incredible and dismaying is that an audience of over 250 Trinity undergraduates apparently participated in and enjoyed a program which was characterized by obscene and abusive verbal assaults upon the race and sex of fellow human beings . . . .

Similar reactions quickly followed from other campus quarters, writing to the Special Council in his role as chairman of the Trinity Faculty Conference, Dr. J. Bard McNulty said, "We do not wish to anticipate your findings, but it is our hope that you will leave no doubt in anyone's mind about the opposition of the Faculty Conference to expressions of gross racism and gross sexism under the guise of community entertainment. . . .

Students, too, reacted with a flurry of indignant letters condemning the underlying attitudes expressed by the Mather Board of Governors publicly apologized.

After studying the recommendations of the Special Council on Minority Students, Lockwood responded with a number of forthright steps. He censured the officers of the Student Government Association, the chairman of the Mather Board of Governors and the chairman of the MBOG Small Group Activity Committee. He ordered failure to exercise appropriate precautions and judgment. He tightened controls on future events held by the MBOG Small Group Activity Committee. He also set the wheels in motion to clarify and codify the College's position.

The College Affairs Committee and appropriate College officers were asked to consider preparing regulations to adapt the College's position to such a project which is abusive and intended to demean one because of one's race, ethnic origins, religion or sex being clearly identified as an offense which would normally merit suspension from the College.

The officers of the Student Government Association were asked to review at the beginning of each academic year the Student Government Association regulations should be aware of the assurance that those organizations are free of discrimination. Lockwood also asked that SCA to make sure that organization members will not use College funds or facilities for abusive purposes.

Finally, he promised to work with the vice president and dean of students to clarify the manner in which officers of the College and others should respond to such situations in the future so that such episodes will not recur or, if begun, will terminate quickly.

In a published reply to a Hartford Courant editorial cautioning the College against any abridgment of the right of free speech, Lockwood summed up Trinity's position. He said, in part, "We wished to draw attention to the insensitivity which can so easily foster intolerance, injustice, and in many instances, violence. We concluded that it was time to remind the Trinity community that abusive language is unacceptable. In issuing that blunt reminder it was not our intention to inhibit free debate; rather, it was to provide thoughts and to heighten awareness — to make clear that there are certain standards of public conduct and one of these is basic respect for the dignity of others.

"In stating a judgment and in calling for the consideration of explicit guidelines, it is possible to appear as being overreacted. The suggestion of penalties sought to underscore the need for some appropriate action as the only approach which held any promise of raising the tone of this college community. The faculty-student-administration committee to which I directed this request will consider whether we can, or should, draft guidelines about such behavior. Any such effort risks the simplistic reply of authoritarianism, as one writer noted. That skirts the issue of competing rights. Surely we shall not achieve a higher level of morality in the daily struggle to improve man's lot if we protect the right of free expression."

New Assignments Announced

In April the College announced adjustments in administrative assignments to meet more effectively foreseeable future needs. Robert Speigle '64, dean of students, has been appointed dean of studies. John S. Waggett '63, a faculty advisor in planning, will return as assistant dean of the faculty and advisor to the freshman class. Gerald J. Hansen '51, director of alumni relations, has been named director of alumni and external affairs. Thomas Lips, director of external relations, has been appointed director of institutional affairs.

Spencer received an M.A. in history from Columbia University and joined the history department at Trinity in 1968. He was appointed dean for community life in 1971 and three years later was named dean of students. A part-time Hartford newspaper reporter during his undergraduate years, Spencer served as a lecturer in history at Brooklyn College of the City University of New York from 1966 to 1968.

Spencer will work with faculty on academic programs, assist in the clarification of academic objectives, oversee aspects of the curriculum and the student's role in relation to existing and proposed programs.

Spencer Waggett

Waggett has been on indefinite leave to complete his graduate studies at the University of Michigan, where he has been serving as associate director of financial aid. As a Trinity College student he had served 1970 as director of financial aid and associate director of admissions. He is a member of the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators and the American Association for Higher Education.

Waggett will work closely with undergraduates and alumni to improve the College's admissions efforts and will assist in increasing the effectiveness of financial aid programs. He will also act as liaison with the entering class and, with Dean Spencer,

Graduate Studies Adds M.A. Option

In a poll of 273 Trinity students taken last fall, 195 or about 70 percent stated they were taking courses "for personal satisfaction and intellectual growth."

This and similar soundings in the Greater Hartford area by the Graduate Studies Office has led to the development of a new Masters Degree program to be offered next September for the first time.

The advanced degree program is designed to fill a need not satisfied by current offerings. The specific need in this instance was for a Master of Arts degree which would allow students to design their own programs from several traditional disciplines within the liberal arts area rather than concentrate their work in a single department.

The new program is part of a planned broadening of the graduate program by Graduate Studies Office director Ivan Backer.

The program formulated by the Graduate Studies Committee would lead to a Master of Liberal Arts degree. It provides, in a sense, a third option to the two now available. It is not viewed as a way-station toward the Ph.D. The program is for students who "continue their education to further their intellectual development rather than to gain professional advancement and... and who wish to work to graduate in a more flexible curricular options to meet their interests."

The mechanics will be spelled out in the catalog now being assembled. "To be accepted as a candidate each student must submit to the Graduate Studies Committee a statement of his/her proposed program of study. When the Graduate Studies Committee approves the student's proposal it will also assign...

Spencer Lips

Francisco, was appointed assistant to President Lockwood in 1973 and director of external relations in 1975. A 1966 graduate of Dartmouth College, Lips earned the J.D. degree from Harvard Law School in 1969. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the American Bar Association, the State Bar of California, and the San Francisco Bar Association. Lips' new title is more appropriate to his current range of duties which include development, work, affirmative action and legal counsel.

Spencer Waggett

Waggett has been on indefinite leave to complete his graduate studies at the University of Michigan, where he has been serving as associate director of financial aid. At Trinity College he served until 1970 as director of financial aid and associate director of admissions. He is a member of the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators and the American Association for Higher Education.

Waggett will work closely with undergraduates and alumni to improve the College's admissions efforts and will assist in increasing the effectiveness of financial aid programs. He will also act as liaison with the entering class and, with Dean Spencer,

Alumni Trustee Named

James A. Van Sant '52 was named Alumni Trustee after the closest election at the May 22 Alumni meeting. Alumni trustees serve for six years on the Board representing the entire alumni body. They also work closely with the Alumni Education Committee on programs for alumni of interest.

After leaving Trinity, Van Sant attended London and later Washington University in St. Louis where he received his M.A. in 1957 and taught in the English department from 1956 to 1958. In 1965 he graduated from the Harvard Business School Advanced Management Program.

Van Sant joined General Steel Industries, Inc. of St. Louis in 1964 as director of public relations and advertising after serving from 1958 to 1964 as executive vice president of Lemen Skinner, Jr. Public Relations, Inc. He then became successively vice president, executive vice president and president of General Steel Industries, Inc.

When Van Sant was named "man of the year" in 1973, rather than respond with a speech at the presentation ceremony held at William Woods College in Fulton, Missouri, he sponsored a recital by concert pianist Eugenia Bogdan. His recital program was followed by an editorial in the Detroit News which said: "Van Sant had the decency, the grace, good sense and taste — class, if you will — to resist the temptation..."
George Jackson, Ross Hough, Norm Pitcher, and Verona to Venice where alumni will step into a motor launch for a short ride through the famed canals to the Hotel Excelsior dei Bagni. Two days of sightseeing in such landmarks as the Doges' Palace and St. Mark's Square with pigeons guaranteed, will follow, capped by an arrivederci dinner. Then, after breakfast at the hotel the next morning, alumni will board the plane at the Venice airport for the return trip to the U.S.A. and reality.

Class of '26 Joins the Immortals

Class of '26 began their 50th Reunion on Congressman weekend when they were formally inducted into the Immortals Club at the Hartford Club annual dinner. A record turnout of 176 alumni, spouses and college administrators attended. From the left, above first, Henry Wallad, James Burr, Perry Hough, Norm Pitcher, John Linsen, Ken Steuer, Ben Warner, Charles Hough, Richard Ford, Walter Riley, George Jackson, Ross Paare, Herb Noble, Harold Messer; Third row, Bill Nicol, George Hamilton, Bob Nevell, Dave Loeffer.

GIFT ESTABLISHES ECONOMICS CLUB

Trinity has received a gift of $375,000 from Shelby Cullom Davis, financier, philanthropist and former U.S. Representative. The gift will establish an endowed professorship and related programs of internships and seminars in the field of American business and economic enterprise.

The gift brings to $8.3 million the total of contributions to the current $12 million fundraising campaign announced in January 1975.

The Shelby Cullom Davis Professorship of American Business and Economic Enterprise is the 18th named professorship at Trinity. The distinguished chair began in 1875 with the Hobart Professorship and the Seabury Professorship of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy. Earlier this year George M. Ferris '16 established the George M. Ferris Professorship of Corporation Finance and Investments.

The new professorship will augment the curriculum at the College in studies of the economic theory, practice and history of the American business system. An unusual feature of this professorship is the inclusion of programs for students to tour first-hand about American business through on-site internships with business and industrial firms. In addition, seminars will bring students, faculty and representatives from business together for study and discussion of substantive issues in business and education. These opportunities are usually available only to students in graduate school.

DAVIS, who served as U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland from 1969 to 1975, is a graduate of Princeton University, earned a master's degree at Columbia University, and has a doctorate in political science at the University of Geneva. He was awarded honorary degrees from Bradley University (1966) and Trinity College (1973). He began his career as a correspondent for the Columbia Broadcasting Service in Geneva in 1932. He subsequently was an economics assistant and economic advisor to Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Following this experience he returned to finance and spent 22 years as managing partner of Shelby Cullom Davis and Company, an investment banking house and one of the largest firms specializing in insurance securities.

FALL TOUR ABRAD FOR SLATED FOR ALUMNI

After Russia, Spain and England, what's next? For the Alumni Office, the answer this year is Italy with a focus on the six cities of Venice, the classical city of Venice. The nine-day tour for Trinity Alumni begins at Hartford's Bradley International Airport on October 5 and returns October 13.

Accompanying alumni will be Professor Michael R. Campo, chairman of Trinity's Department of Modern Languages and director of the Cesare Barbieri Center, who promises, among other diversions, to introduce all courageous volunteers to aspects of Roman life seldom seen by less fortunate tourists. Campo will be the escort on a tour of Trinity's Barbieri Center/Rome Campus.

For the flight to Rome, passengers will be boarded chartered Pan Am Flight 707 jet at Bradley in the evening, arriving in Rome the next day in time for a welcome wine and cheese party at the Beverly Hills Hotel. After three nights in Rome, with days filled with sightseeing at St. Peter's, the Pantheon, the Spanish Steps and, of course, the Trevi Fountain and afternoons free to pursue individual interests, alumni will leave for a tour of the six remaining cities of Rome.

In Florence two nights will be spent at the Hotel Plaza or Anglo. As in Rome, professional guides will escort the group through the historic city. Some of the high points: The Duomo, the Bell Tower, the Academia of the Arts with Michelangelo's famous "David." Again, about half of each day will be free for personal activities.

The motor coach with bi-lingual tour guides will carry the group to Siena, Tuscany, Pisa, Lucca, Florence, Pisa, Siena, Cortona, Assisi, and Rome for splendid sightseeing. In Rome, the group will stay at the Historic Center and Museum, a conservation center of eternal beauty.

After the tour, alumni will be chartered to fly to Paris, where two nights will be spent at the Hotel Plaza, and from there to Brussels, where the group will tour Ghent, Ostend and Antwerp.

A while back MYRON PIESTSKY reported that he had been elected a Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association. He is also the director of the group therapy training program at the Institute of Living in Hartford, and an assistant clinical professor at the University of Connecticut School of Medicine. Sounds as if he is keeping himself busy, doesn’t it? Also in the Hartford area is NORMAN FEINSTEIN, who is the data processing director for Canning & Company. JOHN SIDDIQUI mentioned that he is president of the Matterhorn Club in D.C., a mountain climbing organization. He will be expanding into the whole club’s trip business for about nine years. Their two children are Brad, age seven, and Maria, age five.

DON KNUTSON, whose first wife died about three years ago, was married again on March 2. His wife is ANGELA MCINTOSH, who he met while they were stationed in Ankara, Turkey. They have two children: Sarah, 13, and Michael, 7.

A lot of news to report about the class one year out: The Class of 1983EUS "Gryskya" write that they're living in Boston, working, and loving it. Jennifer S. Ven taught and studied biology at Northeastern; she's now working in a research lab at the Harvard Medical School. She will begin medical school at New York University in the fall, where she hopes to be one of the first women on the faculty. Tom Martens, who has been working in the Dellbaum Massachussetts Choral Society for the past three years, has been told by Tom Martens that Tom Martin is working with the women's crew team at Boston University with great success. And for the class of 1983, there is a new Bicenntial. Debbe is working as a personnel consultant for Hames Personnel of Boston, where she works in the office of employment as a personnel consultant with a fill-in staffing company. She is now in Boston, working for theNeedham Trust and for UPS, for whom she has worked in both the Celtics and Bruins and their marches toward their respective league championships. Bill will report that he traveled all over Europe from Amsterdam to Rome, including Trinity's campus, from the day after graduation until mid-August in a VW rabbit purchased over the summer.

Nearby is Paul Charlow, now a licensed real estate broker with Miyoshi Realty Associates, a real estate company in Philadelphia. Joan Starkey is also in the area, working as an intern with the National Bureau of Development at the Duke Research Institute of the retina Foundation. She's very happy with her job and plans to start graduate school in the fall. At Smith, there is a couple of courses at Harvard, Joan is singing in the Glee Club, and Joan is currently serving as the editor of the student newspaper.

Patsy Centenni has been appointed as administrative assistant to the mayor of Cambridge.

Karen Armstrong is working in Greenwich, Conn., as a first-year housekeeper, due to the dearth of admissions at Simon's Rock. Each week she is given the job of organizing a group of students to give at least five dollars to an organization of their choice.

Malcolm Davidson is working full-time at the Penn School in Concord, Massachusetts, at least until the end of the semester, after which he will return to New Brunswick, New Jersey and is teaching English.

Janet Dickinson is working in Guadalajara, Mexico (which she says isn't bad at all), where she is teaching English at the University of Guadalajara.

Richard F. Ciccillo is still working for the Hartford Insurance Company and is living in an apartment on Allen Place. He managed to make a brief sojourn to the Corner Tap when we got together a few months ago, and agreed that the Corner Tap was the best bar in the city. Eileen Brustow Molloy, is living in Newington, Connecticut and working at the Child Guidance Center in Hartford.

Howard Burchfield appears to be a fair contingent of "7ers in Gotham City. Since graduation Lynn Ianno has been in active service with the investment advisory division at Banks Trust in New York City. Lynn says that he's enjoying the city.

Friscilla Motley is employed as a secretary for Virginia Hall at the College of William and Mary in Virginia Beach, Virginia. She is working for a law firm in Richmond, Virginia. Paul J. Miller is employed as a postal clerk for the United States Postal Service in New York City.

He was a World War I veteran, serving in the Army in France.

RICHARD GOODMAN IVE'S, 1924

Mr. Ives was born February 9, 1902 in Danbury. He graduated from Danbury High School in 1920 and transferred to Yale University, where he graduated in 1924. While at Trinity, Mr. Ives was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. Besides his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Young Ives, he is survived by his son, Mr. Warner Ives of Walpole, Massachusetts; his daughter, Miss Margaret Ann Ives of New York City; and four grandchildren.

ROBERT W. HILDERBRAND, 1927

Robert W. Hilderbrand, a civil engineer employed by the Hartford Insurance Group, died December 31, 1971 in Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania. He was a member of the Gamma Chi chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. He served in the Army from 1942 to 1946 and was a member of the 27th Infantry Division in the European Theater of Operations.

Mr. Hilderbrand earned a BS degree in civil engineering from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1927. He was a registered professional engineer in Connecticut and New York.

Mr. Hilderbrand is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Hilderbrand, three sons, Mr. Charles Hilderbrand, Mrs. Richard Hilderbrand, and Mrs. Robert Hilderbrand; and two grandchildren.

At the time of his death he was a French and Spanish instructor at Bridgewater-Raynham Regional High School in Bridgewater, Massachusetts.

Prior to their loss against Yale, the Bantams routed Conn. College and Wesleyan by respective scores of 11-0 and 11-1. Trinity finished the year with a string of six consecutive victories, defeating Tufts 5-4, Brown 6-3, Mt. Holyoke 8-4, Smith 18-1, Miss Porter’s 12-4 and Williams 19-9.

LACROSSE

Saddled with a myriad of critical injuries, the varsity lacrosse team turned in a less than outstanding performance in the early part of the season, dropping their first four games to New Haven 10-1, Southern Conn. 12-11, Amherst 13-6 and Tufts 14-6. The team persevered and determination proved unshakeable, however, as the Bantams overcame their early 0-4 mark by rallying to win five of their final six outings to finish the season with a creditable 5-5 record.

Trinity rebounded for its first win by rolling over Fairfield 18-10 and the Bantams’ home opener. The explosive potential which Bantam offense exhibited against Fairfield was to continue for the remainder of the spring as Trinity went on to defeat Holy Cross 12-7, M.I.T. 10-4, U. Rhode Island 18-11, and Springfield 10-7.

The varsity’s only loss during the second half of the season came at the hands of Wesleyan, who nipped the Hilltoppers by a slim 10-9 margin, with the Cardinals finally tallying in a sudden death period following two record.

The Bantams opened the season by defeating U. Rhode Island 14-8, and went on to split their next matchup against U. Hartford and U. Rhode Island, taking their two remaining New England Intercollegiate games against Springfield Hawks while falling to the “Rhodies” by a slim 32 margin. The linksmen won three of their next five contests, bringing their New England Intercollegiate record to 7-0 and College 7-0 and Coast Guard 4-3, only to succumb to the hands of Tufts 4-3 and Willamette 11-9.

Following their strong performances in the New England and Hartford tournaments, the varsity golf team finished with a record of 8-5 and garnered sixth place finishes in both the University of Hartford Invitational and the New England intercollegiate tournament.

Following their strong performances in the New England and Hartford tournaments, the varsity golf team finished with a record of 8-5 and garnered sixth place finishes in both the University of Hartford Invitational and the New England intercollegiate tournament.

The winners of Trinity’s five highest annual athletic awards were announced by Athletic Director Karl Kurth, Jr., during a reception held on May 7 in the Tansill Sports Room of the Ferry Athletic Center.

Senior A. Hobart Porter was named the 74th recipient of the coveted “George Sheldon McCook Trophy.” The McCook award is the College’s top athletic award and is presented each year to the senior who has exhibited outstanding “courage, dedication and ability” as a participant in Trinity athletics. Porter also received the “Blanket Award” as a ten-time varsity letter winner.

The “E.A.C.C. Outstanding Scholar-Athlete Award” was presented to Don Baur ’76 in recognition of his concurrent achievements in the fields of academics and athletics. Paul Teichmann was presented with the “Bob Harron Award” as the College’s outstanding junior scholar-athlete.

Karen C. Mapp received the “Larry Silver Award” for the student who, “as a non-athlete, has made the greatest contribution to the Athletic Department according to the vote of the full-time staff.”

The newly instituted “Bantam Award” was presented to Raymond A. Montgomery ’25. The award is given by the full-time staff “in recognition of the non-student who has done the most for Trinity’s athletic programs.”

Baseball, Crew, Golf, Track Spring Team Awards Presented

The winners of this spring’s team awards were announced recently at each of the squads’ post-season banquets.

Senior pitcher Steve Carlow received the varsity baseball team’s Dan Webster Most Valuable Player Award. Senior co-captain John Wiggins was named as the recipient of the John Sweet Batting Award as the squad’s leading hitter while junior first baseman Dave Weselcouch received the William Trawley Most Improved Player Award.

Coach Shults also announced the election of junior catcher Bob O’Leary as team captain for ’77.

Junior Mike Mackey received the Torch Award as the oarsman “who has contributed most to the perpetuation of crew at Trinity.” The Hartford Barge Club Rowing Trophy “for sportsmanship and outstanding improvement” was presented to sophomore Paul Wendler, while the Coaches Award, presented annually “to the individual on whom all credit was placed with a highly successful effort for the team,” was presented to junior Bob Cederman.

Freshmen Eliot Klein and Bob Childs were selected as co-recipients of the Wickers Award as the “freshmen who exemplify the spirit of the founders of Trinity crew.”

The Robert S. Morris Track Trophy was presented to senior co-captain Victor Novak, while the Craig Most Improved Tennis Player Award was presented to sophomore Andrew R. Vennlyte.

Sophomore Bill Dodge won the annual Wyckoff Golf Award, while freshman Greg Carey and senior Sean O’Malley were named as co-recipients of the J.F. Boyer Lacrosse Award.

VARSITY SPORTS ROUNDUP

Trinity’s varsity tennis team established itself as one of the top New England powers in 1976 and, with only one graduating senior, next year’s squad, led by tri-captains elect Charlie Johnson, Jim Rice and Tim Jenkins, should have few problems in maintaining that stature.

The Bantams finished the ’76 season with a solid 8-3 record and emerged from the New England Championships tied with Brandeis for fifth place honors behind Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth and Tufts.

Trinity began the year with successive victories over U. Hartford (9-0), Conn. College (9-0) and Rhode Island (8-1) before dropping its first match of the year against a strong Yale team (7-2). The Bantams routed their next four opponents, defeating Amherst (8-1), U. Conn. (8-1), Springfield (9-0) and M.I.T. (9-0) before losing their second match of the year to Williams (6-3).

The Bantams journeyed to the New England tournament in Amherst, Mass. with a 7-2 record and three of its top five players seeded. Senior co-captain Jim Solomon came into the event ranked third, while junior Charlie Johnson and freshman Eric Matthews garnered rankings of fourth and sixth respectively.

Going into the tournament, Trinity’s combined efforts rallying a total of 26 team points at Amherst to finish ahead of 22 of the 28 teams in the three successive New England meets. Trinity’s efforts were highlighted by the doubles play of Jim Rice and Eric Matthews who made the match itself. The Bantams were edged by a pair from Dartmouth.

The varsity split its final two regular season contests. After suffering a disappointing loss at the hands of the Army (6-1), the Bants closed out the year with a highly successful effort against Wesleyan (9-1).

Sophomore Andrew Vermilye finished the year with the squad’s best individual record at 9-1, while Jim Solomon and Jim Rice were close behind with 9-2 marks. Charlie Johnson, Eric Matthews and Tim Jenkins each posted strong 8-3 individual season records.

BASEBALL

Trinity’s varsity “nine” closed out one of its finest years in recent memory with a 9-7 shutout victory over Wesleyan. The victory gave Bantam hurler Jim McGrath his fifth win of the year and raised the team’s final season record to 14-8.

The Bantams opened the season in Florida on a strong note, winning three of their first five contests. They defeated Lynnins twice, 10-6, 7-4, and Florida Bible College 19-6 while losing close contests to Wesleyan 9-8 and M.I.T. 4-2.

Returning to Hartford for their first homestand, Trinity wallowed cross-town rival U. Hartford 10-3. Down 3-1, the Bants came back to win the bottom of the eighth inning, 13 Trinity batters went to the plate to tally a total of nine runs against the Hartford starters.

The Hilltoppers’ hitting slowed somewhat as they dropped their next game with Amherst 11-1, but they quickly returned to the winning track, downsing W.P. I. 5-3 and sweeping a doubleheader against Colby 5-0, 5-4.

Four errors proved costly in the Bants’ battle with Williams as the Ephmen edged Trinity 2-0, but Steve Carlow’s 85 pitches proved too much for Coast Guard as the Cadets managed only one hit and one walk off the senior pitching ace to give Trinity a 3-0 victory.

The Bantams split successive twinbill weekends with Bowdoin, U. Hartford, and Tufts en route to winning seven of its final eight outings. The Bantams dropped their opening games to Bowdoin 9-0, U. Hartford 5-1 and Tufts 5-0, but came back to win the second game of each doubleheader, defeating Bowdoin 3-1, U. Hartford 10-8 and Tufts 3-1. Prior to the season’s finale against Wesleyan, the Bantams succumbed to the Cardinals 4-3 while defeating Coast Guard 11-1 and Springfield 2-0.

Three members of the Trinity varsity fished the season with batting averages over the .300 mark. Senior co-captain John Wiggins led all the Bantam hitters at .348 while junior catcher Bob O’Leary and second baseman Mike Wyman finished at .328 and .303 respectively.

Steve Carlow ended the year as the team’s leading pitcher with six wins, one save and one loss. Junior Jim McGrath proved to be the workhorse of the Bantams’ pitching staff and wound up the year with a strong 5-5 mark.

WOMEN’S LACROSSE

In its second year under the direction of coach Robin Sheppard, the women’s varsity lacrosse team outscored its opposition by an astonishing 96-35 margin to post an outstanding final season record of eight wins and one loss.

The only blemish on the women’s record came at the hands of Yale in a hard fought contest which saw the Bantams rebound from an early 3-0 deficit to knot the score at 5-5 by the end of the first half. Throughout the second period Trinity matched Yale goal for goal, but a tally by Bantam Cackie Bostwick in the game’s closing minutes was disallowed, leaving Trinity on the short end of the stick as the battle ended at 5-4 in favor of Yale.
