HARTFORD, CONN.

THE TRINITY

INSIDE Magazine: The Black Viewpoint at Trinity

Volume 79 Issue 9 November 4, 1980

Pub Hours Change; No Pitchers to be Sold

by Patty Hooper

Due to "students' disregard for college policy," Mather Campus Center Director Wayne Asmus announced last Tuesday that there will be three changes at the Iron Pony Pub, effectively immediately.

According to Asmus, the pub is changing its closing hours from 1:00 a.m. on weekends and 2:00 a.m. on weekends to 12:00 a.m. every night. He noted that this change is in order to avoid "last minute arguments and infractions of the Connecticut State Liquor Laws," which require that all glasses and pitchers be removed from the tables by 1:00 a.m. on weekends and 2:00 a.m. on weekends.

The second difference will be that all identification cards will be retained at the door of the pub. He stated that this is being done as a precautionary measure so that the Pub workers can use them for future reference should a need for identifying a student occur.

The third change is that no pitchers of beer will be sold. Asmus asserted that this is being done to "control alcohol intake." He stated, "If people cannot control their own intake of alcohol, we must control it for them."

Asmus mentioned that these changes are in response to "carousels on the part of some students." He further stated that it is a "stronger measure to ensure compliance with various college regulations."

Asmus feels that students should have more respect for the facility. "Because we dispense alcohol, we are governed by the same rules and regulations as everyone else in the state who dispenses alcohol," says Asmus.

Reiterating the reasons that these changes have occurred, Asmus stressed that these measures are in an effort to make sure that no state liquor laws are violated. He said, "The Pub is a student service, it will continue to exist as long as students do not abuse it. Students act in a position to do a lot more than I can," with respect to making sure that the Pub is not abused. In all, according to Asmus, "It comes down to people having respect for people."

Student House Plans in Stalemate

Students get into Halloween mood at Saga's special dinner.

by Peter A. Stinson

At 190-192 New Britain Avenue stands a three-story frame house. Owned by the College, the Administration has been looking into possibilities for its use in the future.

The House is now vacant and in desperate need of repair. From the outside it looks as if it has seen better days. Several windows are broken, the railing on the back porch is falling away, the gutters and drains are new (compared to all else) but few and far between, and the siding is rotting away in several places.

The inside of the House is filthy. There are signs that someone once lived in the house. In the front hall there are several letters covered with dust. There is a portrait of a distinguished looking gentleman and his wife and son — it lies discarded in a side room. The bathroom lacks plumbing, but the medicine cabinet is still complete with aspirin and other assorted medical problems.

The House is now vacant and in desperate need of repair. From the outside it looks as if it has seen better days. Several windows are broken, the railing on the back porch is falling away, the gutters and drains are new (compared to all else) but few and far between, and the siding is rotting away in several places.

The inside of the House is filthy. There are signs that someone once lived in the house. In the front hall there are several letters covered with dust. There is a portrait of a distinguished looking gentleman and his wife and son — it lies discarded in a side room. The bathroom lacks plumbing, but the medicine cabinet is still complete with aspirin and other assorted medical problems.

The House is now vacant and in desperate need of repair. From the outside it looks as if it has seen better days. Several windows are broken, the railing on the back porch is falling away, the gutters and drains are new (compared to all else) but few and far between, and the siding is rotting away in several places.

The inside of the House is filthy. There are signs that someone once lived in the house. In the front hall there are several letters covered with dust. There is a portrait of a distinguished looking gentleman and his wife and son — it lies discarded in a side room. The bathroom lacks plumbing, but the medicine cabinet is still complete with aspirin and other assorted medical problems.

The House is now vacant and in desperate need of repair. From the outside it looks as if it has seen better days. Several windows are broken, the railing on the back porch is falling away, the gutters and drains are new (compared to all else) but few and far between, and the siding is rotting away in several places.

The inside of the House is filthy. There are signs that someone once lived in the house. In the front hall there are several letters covered with dust. There is a portrait of a distinguished looking gentleman and his wife and son — it lies discarded in a side room. The bathroom lacks plumbing, but the medicine cabinet is still complete with aspirin and other assorted medical problems.
Chemistry Lecture

"The Use of Lead in the Detection of Art Forgeries" is the topic of a lecture to be delivered by Professor Alexander Kuziemzev of Tulane University's Department of Chemistry on Wednesday, November 5, at 4:30 p.m. in Room 103 of the Clement Chemistry Building. A coffee hour will precede the lecture at 3:30 p.m. in the Chemistry Library. Admission is free, and everyone is invited to attend.

Physics Seminar

Eric Fossum, Trinity '79, of the Department of Engineering and Applied Science at Yale University, will give a Physics Seminar on Wednesday, November 5 at 4:00 p.m. in Room 203 of the McCook Math-Physics Building. His topic will be "SMART" SOLID STATE SENSORS AND REMOTE IMAGE SENSING.

Biology Seminar

Dr. Craig W. Schneider of Trinity College Hartford, Connecticut will speak on "An Unusual Occurrence of a Natural Form of a Usual Brown Alga" at 4:30 p.m. in room 212, The Library of the Life Sciences Center.

Attention Seniors

Any member of the Class of '81 interested in working on the Senior Class Gift Committee should contact Liz Droney in the Development Office by November 6. Phone 527-3151, Ext. 225 Williams 200.

Information on Study Abroad

For all who are interested in considering study abroad for next year, there will be a general information meeting in Alumni Lounge on the following dates and at the following times:

- Nov. 13, Wed. 11:00 a.m.
- Nov. 14, 1980 Fri. 9:15 a.m.
- Dec. 2, 1980 Tues. 1:30 p.m.
- Dec. 12, 1980 Thurs. 10:00 a.m.

Please obtain the blue information sheet and four attachments in the Office of Foreign Study Advising (Williams 109) if you have not already done so. Each of the lists mentioned above is identical to the others; a student need only attend one.

Internship Program

Trinity College Dance Club will present "A Night of Dance" in celebration of Dance Month in the Math-Physics Building. His topic will be "SMART" SOLID STATE SENSORS AND REMOTE IMAGE SENSING.

Foreign Study Deadlines

Students tentatively or definitely planning to study abroad during the Trinity Term (Spring) 1981 are expected to have sent their applications to their prospective programs no later than 31 October 1980. They are also expected to have completed all arrangements and notified the Office of Foreign Study Advising of their definite plans by 15 November 1980. A special form for this purpose may be obtained in the Office, Williams 109, after 15 November.

Square Dance

On Friday, November 7, 8 square dances at 4:00 p.m. in the Life Sciences Center; refreshments will be served at 3:30 p.m. in room 212, The Library of the Life Sciences Center.

Employment for Handicapped

Peanuts: elephant love them, but people shouldn't work for them. Need light desk work because of handicap! Complete training. No experience necessary. Guaranteed hourly pay plus bonus. Call Mr. Stevens at 522-4603.

Writing Center

Help for writing problems or queries is available to all Trinity students at the Writing Center. Located in the English Building, 115 Vernon Street, the Center is open 9:00 Monday and Friday, 9-5 Tuesday through Thursday. To take advantage of this free service drop in or call extension 392 for an appointment.

Dance Club

The Dance Club is offering tickets to see the November 1980 matinee performance of DANCIN' at the Bushnell for $12.50, $2 off the box office price. Tickets are for first balcony front and can be purchased by contacting Teresa Payne 246-3552. Tickets are limited and will be sold first come first served.

YWCA Internship

The YWCA of Hartford, located at 125 Broad Street, is seeking an intern interested in the development of programs for Women's Services and Classes. If you are interested in helping to meet the needs of community women through special conferences and programs, contact Pat Martin at 525-1163.

---

How to Stretch your College Dollars

You don't have to be a math genius to figure this out. Basic money management and careful budgeting are two very effective ways to keep from taking pinch when money gets tight. And we did you how to do just that, and more, in our last issue of Triumph." The free supplement to your college newspaper from Ford.

We'll explain how to meet the high cost of tuition through scholarships and student loans. We'll set up guidelines for developing your own personal financial regimen: tailoring a budget... choosing and maintaining a checking account... and obtaining and using credit wisely. And we'll stick to those budgets. With info on where to live, and jobs to get the best buys on food, entertainment, clothing, travel, textbooks, stores, and more. Then we'll show you how to be sure you're getting what you want for your money. And how to complain when you don't.

Check it out. You'll find some great tips on how to stretch your college dollars, and you may even discover being frugal can be fun!

And to check out Ford's exciting new 1981 lineup, including Escort. The front-wheel drive car that's built to take on the world. With Escort you'll find some great ways to multiply your fun.

---

Bach's Lunch

Featuring Dance Club

The November 7 Bach's Lunch at 12:30 in the Trinity College Chapel, will be something very new and different. Members of the Trinity College Dance Club will be performing original dance works choreographed for this event. The Dance Club is a student-organized which perform, sponsors trips to area dance performances, and hosts master classes. This performance will be the last for Anthony Shenk, who is presenting a solo and a duo. Teresa Payne '81, who is choreographing a quartet, and Timothy Martin '83, who is choreographing a duet. The choreographers and three other dancers will be performing. Additionally, three minuets will be performed by Joseph Dinanno '81, on harpsichord, and Timothy Martin on flute. There is no charge for admission.

The audience is invited to bring lunch and enjoy these minuets and beverages at the Chapel. Everyone who attends will receive a free lunch and will be served to the audience. The next Bach's Lunch program will be on November 20th, featuring Martha Hogan, soprano, and Edward Clark on the keyboard.

---

Williams College

Mystic Seaport

Celebrated American organist Robert Glasgow will be the featured guest in the Trinity College Chapel this program is sponsored by the Seaport Program in American Maritime Studies. Professor of organ at the University of Michigan, Dr. Glasgow is widely known to audiences throughout this country and abroad for his outstanding performances of 10th century romantic literature. The esteem in which he is held by his colleagues in the field is demonstrated by the 20 invitations he has received to perform at national and regional conventions of American Guild of Organists.

---

International Career?

A representative will be on the campus Tuesday, November 13, 1980 to discuss qualifications for advanced study at the American Graduate School of International Management. Interviews will be scheduled at the request of the applicant. A representative will be on the campus Tuesday, November 13, 1980 to discuss qualifications for advanced study at the American Graduate School of International Management. Interviews will be scheduled at the request of the applicant.

---

Planning & Placement

The Admissions Office of the American Graduate School of International Management will be on the campus Monday, November 13, 1980 to discuss qualifications for advanced study at the American Graduate School of International Management. Interviews will be scheduled at the request of the applicant.
The Trihity Coalition of Blacks at Pennsylvania Professor Joseph movement, the problems encountered by it, and the possible means for Black advancement in the 1980s.

During his nearly two hour talk, Professor Washington outlined the development of the Black movement of its present state. According to him, stagnation of Black activism in the 1970's was largely by White youths, who "literally saw the wall." He explained that this will look at how broad the individual students of Black community must do to become educated — to love and learn to love.

Anderson Runs Strong in Connecticut

The State of Connecticut has been a mecca of support for Republican John Anderson. The campaign in this state began in July of 1979, with Anderson running for nomination on the Republican ticket. He was defeated in the primary by Representative William L. Roth, Jr., Senior Senator in the Senate.

Anderson declared his interest in running for the United States Senate in Connecticut. He asserted that the election is running, began in May of this year. Since then, the campaign has been involved with the details of raising money and soliciting votes. The Petition Drive in Hartford alone obtained 50,000 signatures in support of Anderson. The campaign has so far direct-d in excess of $40,000.

The First National Union Campaign, the organization under which Anderson is running, was managed to get on the ballot in all fifty states and the District of Columbia. Since an independent campaign has no FEC funds available to it, money must be obtained from banks and private supporters for workers salaries and travel expenses. According to White, most of Anderson's financial support has been in Hartford.

Also, a system of local coordinators, both for districts and precincts, has been established to organize voters. Under the democratic and Republican campaigns, which has this organizational structure already built in across the country, the National Unity Campaign, in White's words, "had to put the structure there." According to Washington, the majority of Blacks have no resources, and the student's obtaining the education and the leadership experience. According to Professor Robin White, "one of the great things people in the Black community need to do is to change what we don't want done." Blacks, Americans, the professor concluded, must make the system and the people in it see that they believe, is knowledge. "The most important thing people in the Black community must do is to become educated — to love and learn to love."
Alternatives for Student House Presented by Winer

Clay, who wished to form an organization backed in part by the SGA to satisfy the Administration's requirement for a recognized student organization to take part in the planning and refurbishing of the House at 190-192 if it is to be used by the students. Since the initial meeting with the SGA, Clay has not approached Pomroy for further discussion of plans for the organization.

Next problem is funding. According to Mr. Trevor, author of the convention. As Dan Arnett, one of the producers of the convention said, "Introvert and extrovert alike, no matter what the interest, the hobby, the taste, or the ability, there is a game for everyone."

Loren Dunton, the developer of "KWATRO" provides a "psychological incentive capable of improving an individual's reaction time." The game was very popular with the gaming public.

Other games at the show made the players a part of the game itself. On Saturday, almost one hundred players joined forces for seven hours of fantasy gaming with "Dungeons and Dragons," based on the idea of J.R.R. Tolkien's "Middle Earth."

More common games such as cribbage, darts, bridge, and chess among others were represented at the convention. As Dan Arnett, one of the producers of the convention said, "Introvert and extrovert alike, no matter what the interest, the hobby, the taste, or the ability, there is a game for everyone."

CAREERS IN SPORTS JOURNALISM

"Careers in Sports Journalism and Promotion" will be the topic of a panel discussion today at 8:00 p.m. in Hamlin Hall. The free event is sponsored by Trinity's Office of Career Counseling. The public is invited to attend. The four panelists will be: Ginny Apple, sports journalist for the Hartford Courant; Matthew Levine, '60, president of Providence Select Corporation, a sports and entertainment marketing company; Frank McCaffrey, director of advertising and promotion for Olin Skis Corporation in Middletown; and Randy Pearsall '78, Public Relations director for the Hartford Hellions.

For Delicious Pizza and Hot Oven Grinders

Call when you leave - it will be ready upon your arrival

Come in and Eat in our NEWLY EXPANDED Dining Room!

287 New Britain Avenue, Hartford
Across from South Campus

VOTE

PART TIME HELP NEEDED

Friday evenings, all day Saturday.
Other times also available.

See Tom Reilly.
D & D Package Store

Winter Recess
January 4 - 9
January 11 - 16

SKI STAFFTON

Five Days - Lifts $65
Special Savings
All Inclusive Ski Instruction Packages
Lifts Lessons Lodging
Meals Parties Taxes Gratuities

Photo by Peter Sisson

GAMES UNLIMITED: TOURNAMENTS AND EXHIBITS FOR EVERYONE

by Peter Sislen

"Games Unlimited 1980" sounds like a convention for Monopoly playing youngsters, but it was anything but that. Games Unlimited at the Hartford Civic Center over the weekend brought gamblers of every age from all over the nation to participate in tournaments and seminars and to view a large consumer display of games.

The list of activities at the exhibition was endless. Tournaments were held at the exhibition ranging from the U.S. Open Football Championship with $10,000 in prizes to the Connecticut State Football Championship worth $2,500 in prizes.

Top world experts in backgammon gave clinics to anyone who wanted to learn. One participant in the convention, Chuck Petr played Leigh Grand, the current World Women's champion in backgammon. He came away from the board totally astounded. He exclaimed in amazement, "She played a different game!"

Included in the exhibits were several new games which have recently appeared on the market for the general public. "Assassin" was one of the more noteworthy games. Players buy and sell illegally obtained commodities in order to hire an assassin to eliminate their opponents. "KWATRO" was the other game introduced. It is designed to increase "mental agility."

Loren Dunton, the developer of "KWATRO" provides a "psychological incentive capable of improving an individual's reaction time." The game was very popular with the gaming public.

Other games at the show made the players a part of the game itself. On Saturday, almost one hundred players joined forces for seven hours of fantasy gaming with "Dungeons and Dragons," based on the idea of J.R.R. Tolkien's "Middle Earth."

More common games such as cribbage, darts, bridge, and chess among others were represented at the convention. As Dan Arnett, one of the producers of the convention said, "Introvert and extrovert alike, no matter what the interest, the hobby, the taste, or the ability, there is a game for everyone."

"Careers in Sports Journalism and Promotion" will be the topic of a panel discussion today at 8:00 p.m. in Hamlin Hall. The free event is sponsored by Trinity's Office of Career Counseling. The public is invited to attend. The four panelists will be: Ginny Apple, sports journalist for the Hartford Courant; Matthew Levine, '60, president of Providence Select Corporation, a sports and entertainment marketing company; Frank McCaffrey, director of advertising and promotion for Olin Skis Corporation in Middletown; and Randy Pearsall '78, Public Relations director for the Hartford Hellions.

For Delicious Pizza and Hot Oven Grinders

Call when you leave - it will be ready upon your arrival

Come in and Eat in our NEWLY EXPANDED Dining Room!

287 New Britain Avenue, Hartford
Across from South Campus

Richard Staronprop.
Carter and Reagan Run Even in Connecticut

by James Moore

President Carter and Ronald Reagan are virtually even in Connecticut and according to Daniel Reese, the Deputy State co-ordinator of the Carter campaign. The outcome of the race hinges on the number of votes received by independent presidential candidate John Anderson, he noted.

Reese said the polls indicate that Reagan and Carter are very close, with Anderson lagging approximately four points a day — a drop he attributed to greater public awareness of the Congressman's campaign.

Reese attributed Anderson's initial success to the novelty of his independent campaign and his image as someone "taking on the establishment." Reese said that as Anderson's position on the issues becomes clearer, much of his support waned. Reese points to the fact that after the Reagan-Anderson debate many Republican and unaffiliated voters left the Anderson camp.

Reese also called attention to the charge of the League of Conservation (composed of environmental groups) that Anderson has the worst record of all the major candidates on nuclear power. Reese commented that "it is saddening to see a man with such a conservative record manipulate the press and delude students in believing he is a progressive."

Another reason for Anderson's lagging campaign, Reese said, is poor campaign management. Reese noted that Anderson's campaign "is in the hands of a media wizard named David Garth. A good campaign needs more than that." Reese commented that the people running Anderson's campaign have no strategy for winning. "They had a chance to win in two states, Massachusetts and Connecticut, and now the possibility of winning just those states looks bad," Reese said.

Reese reminds students that while it is important to vote for the candidate one supports it is also necessary to be realistic and recognize that while Anderson can't win voting for Anderson could lead to a danger of a Presidency, a situation with serious implications for students.

According to Reese, who graduated from Trinity in 1975, Reagan's policies, both foreign and domestic, would seriously affect the future of America's youth. Reese noted that Reagan favors the elimination of the Department of Education which would cut funding for the education of handicapped children and grants for middle class students.

Even more critical, Reese believes, is Reagan's foreign policy, which he said places too much emphasis on military intervention. Reese observed that Reagan responded to various world disorders by advocating the use of troops, for instance, as a means of settling a fishing dispute in Ecuador.

President Carter's reaction to crises, according to Reese, is characterized by restraint and by "dealing with complex issues with open options which, in the case of the Afghanistan invasion, included the Olympic Boycott and the ban on the export of grain and high technology items to the Soviet Union." Reese said Governor Reagan, on the other hand, is attempting to "hearken America back to the days of the Spanish American War" when the United States could enforce its will on the rest of the world.

In terms of Connecticut's well-being, Reese said Carter's cooperation with state officials prevented a recession here. Reese commented that "Reagan's people are trying to make the people forget what was happening in Connecticut during the Nixon and Ford administrations, unemployment was up and industry was deserting this state."

Presently, Reese said, manufacturing jobs are returning to Connecticut, a factor which could lead to a further reduction in unemployment. Reese also referred to the six and a half million dollar federal grants for the reconstruction of the Hartford Civic Center as indicative of the President's concern for the cities.

On the national level, Reese noted, that Carter's energy plan is more complex and thorough than Anderson's. In regard to foreign policy, Reese said, the Panama Canal Treaty is typical of Carter's attempt to deal with developing nations as equals — a practice that leads to alliances based on trust rather than fear.

With the election finally here, Reese asks students to look at who supports Reagan and what Carter has to offer them. Reese noted that various "right wing hate groups" that have called Carter everything from a homosexual to baby killer." However Reese continued, when Carter points out changes in Reagan's position on the issues he is accused of "mud slinging."

Reagan will fight the country's economic woes, Reese observed, with a tax cut that Business Week said would be a "disaster for the economy." Carter, on the other hand, plans to fight inflation in part with a system of tax breaks that offer real incentives for manufacturers to keep wages and prices low. More importantly, Reese commented, Carter offers students both financial assistance and "the chance go grow and pursue a career without the threat of war."

Glazer Speaks On ‘Struggles’ of Men in Labor

by Gregory Economos

On October 30 at 7:30, the American Studies Program presented Joe Glazer singing songs of the labor movement of the 1950's and told stories of the "struggles" of men in labor. His performance, which was given in the Faculty Club to an audience of about forty, was an anthology of historical and social commentary on the plight of the proletarian in American society.

Glazer's songs ranged from black civil war songs with the audience singing along, to coal miners songs to songs of the fight between man and machine. Unfortunately, one of his guitar strings broke; however, with his quick wit and sense of humor, he incorporated it right into the act.

C.I.O., for many rallies for the labor movement, conventions and picket lines.

Many of the songs were well-known tunes with the different lyrics fit into the popular scores. Glazer is the composer of many famous labor songs and has made ten recordings in the past. He is also the co-author of the book Songs of Work and Protest.

Remember to

VOTE

VOTE

VOTE

November 4, 1980, THE TRINITY TRIPOD, Page 5

E-6 Ektachrome Processing in Two Hours

Highest Quality Cibachrome Prints From Your Slides and Transparencies

10% STUDENT DISCOUNT

CHARLES VENDETTI

PHOTOGRAPHY, INC.

150 Husayhope Avenue, Hartford, CT 06106
(203) 246-7491

The TRIPOD, Vol.79, Issue 9, November 4, 1980. The TRIPOD is published weekly on Tuesday, except vacations, during the academic year. Student subscriptions are included in the student activities fee; other subscriptions are $12.00 per half year, $24.00 per year. The Palmer Journal Register, 112 New Britain Ave., Hartford, Conn., under the Act of March 3, 1879, is published at Hartford, Ct. Advertising rates are $2.50 per inch. 45c per quarter page, $85 per half page, and $160 for a full page.

Call for Amity's free brochure on the exam of interest to you:

Amity SAT GMAT LSAT MCAT REVIEW PROGRAMS

329 Asylum Ave., Hartford, CT 06106
(203) 246-7491

10% STUDENT DISCOUNT

E-6 Ektachrome Processing in Two Hours

Highest Quality Cibachrome Prints From Your Slides and Transparencies

10% STUDENT DISCOUNT

CHARLES VENDETTI

PHOTOGRAPHY, INC.

150 Husayhope Avenue, Hartford, CT 06106
(203) 246-7491
Quiche and Kettle

by Pam Wilton & Michele Pagani

Downtown, in the depths of the Gold Building at one Financial Plaza, exists a new restaurant which sparkles with originality and charm. It's called Quiche and Kettle and has been open only since June. Designed by a New York decorator, Quiche and Kettle's uniqueness is reflected throughout its modern decor. Dimly lit, the illusion of space nonetheless pervades the restaurant. This illusion is executed by the mirrored walls and strategic placement of booths and tables. The dining area is divided into several sections, the considerate management has even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

While the decor by designer is united in its modern decor, the overall effect is a modern decor. The dimly lit, the illusion of space nonetheless pervades the restaurant. This illusion is executed by the mirrored walls and strategic placement of booths and tables. The dining area is divided into several sections, the considerate management has even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.

In our eyes, the food, service, and overall ambiance of the restaurant deserve a four-star rating. Owned by Mr. Sid Pollock, also the owner of the Pie Place in West Farms, the Quiche and Kettle was delightful. The managers are Larry Pollock, son of Mr. Sid Pollock, and Bob Pagani, who was a more than considerate management having even provided a non-smoking section. In our opinion, the use of mirrors has perhaps been overdone, finding the images reflected off of every wall bring a bit much. However by no means let this factor prevent you from trying the culinary delights prepared there.
Trinity Pipes Perform for Alumni

by Robert Pollien

Classical music afficionados have Chopin and Bach, jazz lovers have Miles and Trane. Twelve-year-olds have Donny and Marie and Muzak fans have Trinity's own Pipes to call their own. Although personally this reviewer would much rather spend an evening with Echo and the Bunnymen, one of the many wonderful benefits of being Arts editor is being called upon to occasionally broaden my horizons and take in such culturally lofty items as the Pipes concert that was held on Saturday evening past in the Washington Room.

The Pipes were received very enthusiastically by the audience of students and alumni, particularly the boisterously dithyrambic class of '55. The program, a mix of traditional and contemporary began with Sing Out (If You Want to get to Heaven), a bright uptempo tune. One of the highpoints in the first half of the program was the song Julliane with solos by Scott Nesbitt and Grant Cochran. Another very well received number was the Andrews Sister's Boogie-Woogie Bugle Boy which was done by the women of the Pipes. The men followed with there punk-rock sunglasses and the classic 50's tune, Blue Moon. The lead part was sung by Grant Cochran.

The second half of the concert featured this critic's favorite Pipes song, The Trinity Blues. The lyrics were humorous with a certain element of truth in its off the cuff jobs at life on Campus. Ann Brown's solo was very strong as were the supporting voices. This was followed by an exceptionally campy aria entitled Be True To Your School. Need I say more? In truth, Madison Riley sang the lead to this charming (?) ditty with great eloquence.

The Trinity Pipes, the group that dares to ask the musical question "Where Did You Prep?" were accompanied by Scott Allyn and Fritz Eberle on Guitars and Dan Moalli on the upright bass. Overall, although as I have stated before that The Pipes are not my harmonic cup of tea, they are and have been since their initial appearance in 1958, a strong part of the Trinity College experience. It would be unthinkable that someone should attend here for four years without witnessing The Pipes.

Trinity Pipes perform in the Washington Room Saturday evening.

Theatre Arts Department Presents:
The Miser
Goodwin Theatre by Moliere
Nov. 7, 8, 13, 14, 15, at 8 p.m.
$1.50 Admission for Students

French cooking, American style.

No its not Echo and The Bunnay-Men, it's the Trinity Pipes.
"We're not going to teach them (whites) to change - we're going to teach them that we cannot be walked all over and will not be walked all over." This statement has a radical ring which most people would attribute to a black student in the 1960's or the early 70's. It was adamantly stated, though, by a black student who is currently moving in different directions / down the imperturbable street. Trinity College is not an radical ring which most people would attribute to a black student in the 1960's or the well on their way to racial and social equality.

Trinity; particularly since the recent controversy and criticisms of the security alert solution. However, they feel that the Trinity community needs to be made aware of students on campus, as well as holding two discussion sessions with the Trinity racism. Other issues which TCB members brought up included an overall dissatisfaction with the College's efforts to address minority problems, the tendency of whites to accuse blacks of paranoia and isolation, the small number of blacks and minorities enrolled at Trinity, and the extra-curricular burden of pressing their interests on an unresponsive administration. The students also lamented a lack of unity amongst the blacks at Trinity.

"Racism has developed as a sort of historical sequence. It's a system that cannot be understood as a set of laws in varying forms. If you want to talk about racism, a whole other book would be too short," said Kwaku Sintim-Misa, President of TCB.

Quite a few white students also feel that these problems are difficult to solve due to their sensitive nature and due to decades of their institutionalization. "It is a viscous circle," was a phrase commonly used by both whites and blacks. One white student noted, "I don't think white people take the time to think about it. Perhaps this insensitivity lies on both sides." Another white student noted that a possible reason for whites unwillingness to be quoted could indicate a reluctance to admit that there is a problem of racism on campus.

Blanche Hines, a TCB member, said, "There's a whole world out there. People here are living under some kind of illusion - in some kind of bubble - that they can be protected from the real world. They can go through here, get a liberal arts education, and do whatever they're going to do and not deal with things - like they're not dealing with us."

Sintim-Misa and others stressed that the TCB is a vehicle by which to combat this ignorance of racism among ourselves. "The Black Cultural Center is not supported by the College, although it does get funds from the Budget Committee annually, as does TCB."

"The purpose of TCB is to enrich and ignorance and to promote an awareness of the Black presence at Trinity," said the recording secretary of TCB, Patrick Lyle.

"Society is structured so that they (whites) don't have to learn about us - so many of them don't know what's going on," said Carmellette Smith, Vice President of TCB. "We have to learn to work in their society - they don't have to learn to live within ours.""
The Administration Considers the Trinity "Minority" Issue

by Tabitha Zane

"We are astounded with the fact that there are no more blacks at Trinity, I don't think it's due to the College's efforts, they just don't talk about it," this opinion, submitted as a result of the study, refers to an important problem that must be addressed by the members of the Trinity community. Undoubtedly, the most disputed question, is Trinity firmly committed to minority affairs and administrators? The Tripod posed this and a number of other questions concerning the role of minorities in this institution. While the faculty and administrators who held many conflicting views on this issue, they all agreed that Trinity needs to recruit more minorities in all areas. The problem is how to bring about this change and what methods should be employed to facilitate the movement of minorities into this college.

Thomas Lips, the Director of Institutional Affairs, believes it is a difficult challenge for Trinity to bring qualified minorities into the faculty. He states that these people are in great demand by other, larger institutions which have more resources to attract "very capable minority candidates." In order to aid the College in its search, Lips pointed out that Trinity works closely with various organizations, such as the Urban League, that locate potential minority candidates. In his opinion, the administration is committed to its policy to hire minority faculty member. Dean Waggoner also feels that there has been a firm commitment by the institution in this area and no one doubts that there has been a "big leap" in the number of black faculty at Trinity since the 1960's.

This belief in the firm commitment of the administration is not supported by the views of Richards and Richards feels that if we are sincere we would have more than five black faculty members. She states that the blame should be placed on the lack of interest that he believes is an uneven attitude taken by the administration. He believes that we are in a situation where there has been little movement in the last few years. This lack of flow cannot be blamed on the tenure system because appointments are still being made and few faculty members are continuing to be hired. Richards feels that Trinity needs to broaden its recruiting base and advertise in black publications if any substantial results are to be achieved.

One major problem seen by Miller is that there are so many minority faculty here have been brought in under the ICS program. He believes this is indicative of the attitudes held by many administrators who make presumptions about black faculty and the areas they should and can teach. Lips disagrees with this idea and states that Trinity looks for minorities to fill positions in "any and all" categories. The problem is that the "pool is very limited" and a larger number of qualified minorities have been found in areas that deal with ICS-type subjects.

The lack of minority faculty at Trinity is also seen as harmful to the education received by the students. Richards believes that the majority of the faculty members are homogeneous in their attitudes and methods of teaching. By bringing minority faculty to this campus the students would receive a "technocratic" view of their subject.

Miller agrees with this idea and he also believes that the majority of minority affairs are not utilized by the majority of students. He thinks they feel there is a prejudice against them in their education and are often viewed as "different." This attitude, he feels, is extremely unfair and incorrect. DeAngelo points out, these courses are necessary and it should be made clear that courses are to be made more of other cultures and less of "living in the shadow of other people." We "need to understand other people because we need to live in this world," he concludes.

Understanding differences in people is also a problem often mentioned. Though charges of racism have been growing in this country, the decline in the number of minorities seen is as one outgrowth of this conflict. And, as Miller points out, "the level of frustration and anger is very profound in this community." He accepts the fact that "racism is a permanent feature of American life" but realizes that people must strive to combat this, especially Trinity.

Before discussing these views on racism

A Look at Black Issues in Four Eastern Colleges

by Rachel Mann

Are the issues of racism which black and white students at Trinity College face any different from those issues which confront students in other eastern colleges? Linda Richards, a member of the black student union (USMMA) at Smith College, and Smith's Community Director of Intercultural Affairs states, "This country is unique in the sense that we have the most representative pattern defies the patterns that are going on even in this country."

The Tripod telephoned a few faculty and students in four schools on the eastern seaboard: Tufts University, Wesleyan University, Colby College, and Smith College. In general, all of the individuals interviewed spoke about concern and criticism, which were similar to black students' concerns and efforts at Trinity. Increasing the number of black students and black faculty were usually at the top of the priority list of concerns and efforts for the course of the year. They also spoke of racism on their respective campuses and they agreed on the goals of their respective black student organizations in dealing with these issues.

Although all four schools, excluding Colby, cited black enrollment figures at well over a hundred, they all expressed a desire to attract more minority students. Wesleyan counted approximately one hundred and twenty out of two thousand; Smith, one hundred and forty out of a thousand; Colby, by tabulation, approximately eighty percent of black students; but there is no one figure for Smith. On the other hand, Greg Davis, a Resident Assistant at Wesleyan, said that the recruitment of qualified black students is the black student union's (UJAMAA) number one priority. Lettie Moore, President of the black student union at Smith, complained that black professors—"good black professors with Ph.D.'s"—were constantly denied tenure by the school's administration. She said, "If you are a white professor on the line, you can't keep the program. There is an overabundance of white students." One major problem seen by Miller is that there are more black faculty members, the students will learn more.

According to Gomez, Tufts tried to start an African-American studies department. The students, however, have tenure. She said, "I feel that it is a fault with the administration. This is why I think there should be more black students."

Reflecting this assertion, Moses said our "b history is American history even more than it is African-American history," and he should and can teach. Lips disagrees with this idea and states that Trinity looks for minorities to fill positions in "any and all" categories. The problem is that the "pool is very limited" and a larger number of qualified minorities have been found in areas that deal with ICS-type subjects.

The lack of minority faculty at Trinity is also seen as harmful to the education received by the students. Richards believes that the majority of the faculty members are homogeneous in their attitudes and methods of teaching. By bringing minority faculty to this campus the students would receive a "technocratic" view of their subject.

Miller agrees with this idea and he also believes that the majority of minority affairs are not utilized by the majority of students. He thinks they feel there is a prejudice against them in their education and are often viewed as "different." This attitude, he feels, is extremely unfair and incorrect. DeAngelo points out, these courses are necessary and it should be made clear that courses are to be made more of other cultures and less of "living in the shadow of other people." We "need to understand other people because we need to live in this world," he concludes.

Before discussing these views on racism
"No matter how sympathetic whites are, they are still outsiders looking in on something they don’t really know about. You can be sympathetic, but you don’t really know what it’s all about unless you’re black and that’s the bottom line."

Minority Question'

Minority Question'

It is important to note that the question of racism within the writing of the administration. If it exists, it is not seen by "the". He believes that the problem of racism is an "absurd and shallow" one. He further notes that the "black" administration is not going to generate change. In order to combat this problem, Miller believes that there is a "casual attitude" towards the student body. The Trinity community must become more aware of the problems and engage in the debate. The TCB Constitution outlines the interests of Black Students and the need for an environment of enlightenment and understanding. The Trinity life and what can be expected of the students are discussed. The TCB Constitution was written in 1968-1974.

TCB Constitution

ARTICLE II

PURPOSE

Sec 1. The purpose of this organization shall be:
A. Unify its members
B. Represent what it believes are the interests of Black Students
C. Serve as an organization that will assist in the adjusting Black Students to the Trinity College Community and vice versa.

ARTICLE III

MEMBERSHIP

Sec 1. Trinity Coalition of Blacks does not discriminate as to race, creed, color, sex, or national origin; its events, when public, are open on a non-discriminatory basis to members of the College Community.

Sec 2. A student petitioning for membership must submit a letter to the Corresponding secretary no later than 4 weeks after the beginning of each semester. The letter must contain the petitioner’s name and class.

Sec 6. Upon approval, a petitioner shall be able to exercise all rights, privileges, and prerogatives afforded to a full fledged TCB member. These rights, privileges, and prerogatives include voting, participation in activities, office holding, etc.

Reprinted from the Trinity Tripped, Spring, 1974.

In the middle to late sixties the Trinity Association of Negroes (TAN) was formed with Norman Graf as its faculty advisor. In 1968 the College decided to integrate its student body. The Trinity Coalition of Blacks was formed. This organization was the predecessor of the current TCB. Meetings were held in Wean Lounge or in other campus rooms. The president of TAN was a resident at 84 Vernon St. It was a large three story house. The house was more than large enough, but the college didn’t provide the necessary funds for upkeep. In 1971 TCB presented ten demands to the College through the Trinity College Council (TCC). In the demands we demanded enrollment of all qualified Black applicants, abolition of academic probation for Black students, a new house, establishment of a Black Studies curriculum, the firing of all racist faculty and administrators, and other pertinent issues. The TCC sent the demands to a special committee and their recommendation to the President was encouraging on the surface, but it was torn out of context. Many of the TCB members were mad at the clandestine operations of TCB taking over the house. The house was to be our Black Cultural Center.

In the same year the College decided to establish a curriculum devoted to Black Studies. However, due to the school’s reluctance to devote it entirely Black Studies they named it Interdisciplinary Studies encompassing both white and Black studies.

The tragedy is that TCB was not allowed to sit on committee meetings held by Robert Stewart in the math department. TCB learned of the establishment of the department by reading of it in the Tripped. We weren’t on the meetings drafting the constitution. Whether the students are more aware of the problems and engage in the debate. The TCB Constitution outlines the interests of Black Students and the need for an environment of enlightenment and understanding. The Trinity life and what can be expected of the students are discussed. The TCB Constitution was written in 1968-1974.

November 4, 1980 The Trinity Tripped Page III
Students at Trinity Face Repercussions and Issues of Racism

The Trinity Coalition of Blacks (T.C.B.) can be defined as a politicized group which functions under a threelfold objective: 1) to define and protect the interests of black students on campus; 2) to aid and accelerate the increment of minority faculty and administrators; 3) to work relentlessly with the Admissions Office to raise admittance and acceptance of black students at Trinity; 4) to cooperate with other student organizations on campus to help foster and improve inter-racial relationships.

The membership of T.C.B. is open to all students, in tune with our non-discriminatory policy. Any student can become a member after a written application from his campus group which functions under a three-part charter.

As leaders of T.C.B., we are committed to the intensification of our objectives this year. The areas of concern which we are concerning ourselves with include: effecting changes in administration, in order to attract more black students and faculty; confronting the administration to increment the numbers of minority faculty and administrators. The results of this have been positive.

As to our feeling, they are not altogether negative. We were pleased with the actions taken when we raised our objections over the wording of the minority alerts. The response which the President and Vice-President of the College was positive and heartening.

The Association of Students and the Dean of Faculty have also assured us of their support in the attainment of our goals. We are, indeed, encouraged by the display of willingness on their part.

Since we have their support, to a certain extent, we would like to seize this opportunity to address a few very vital issues which need to be brought to the forefront at this time:

1) a persistent but latent racial tension and 2) a lack of full commitment on the part of the administration concerning minority issues.

To remedy this, we propose for the consideration of the administration the following suggestions:

1) the broadening of the academic curriculum to encompass courses dealing directly with race relations on a national and international level, the Americanization and intensification of an independent Black Studies department which includes a comprehensive study of the black race in an historical and contemporary setting—both internationally and nationally. It is noteworthy that, contrary to popular misconception, racial prejudice can be minimized by having the vanguard of the academic program concern itself with the reality of contemporary issues involving people of color.

2) The issue of minority affairs should be integrated into the administrative hierarchy.

In light of these suggestions, we propose that when the Assistant Dean of Student Affairs office, which will not be solely burdened with minority issues, Minority issues be better handled if they are diffused throughout the fabric of the administrative structure.

Lastly, we wish to express our profound gratitude to the Trinity Coalition of Blacks for their dedication and hard work on this project. It is sincerest hope that the presentation of this information will serve as a means of enlightening the community to the problems, issues, and struggles that we as conscientious black students must face on an everyday basis.

The knowledge of our history as an organization, our present purpose and our proposals for the future strength of our organization should assist in the improvement of the lives of all races in the Trinity community.

It is our assumption that this spread will create an awareness of the issues in question, as they stand, an awareness which a majority of the population at Trinity poem to have failed to grasp.

Kwaku Sintim-Misa
Carmelette Smith
President and Vice-President of the Trinity Coalition of Blacks

Up Against It All

I wish to protest being
Uncomforted in a place
Where cracked dreams and broken men
Are said to be figments
Of our colored imagination.

A place where the top of the world
Has abandoned houses and drag deals,
While looking down upon apple orchards
And perfect landscapes.

One cannot breathe the commercialized air
Nor drink the carbonated water.

Silent screams and minor disasters
Are all part of the illusion.

But eventually the truth shines
Through the whitewash of lies.

And to live through it all
One must go beyond their wildest imaginations
And be true to one self.

—Patrice Ball

This Inside magazine is a product of the combined efforts of Tabitha Zane and Rachel Mann with the assistance and input of Carmelette Smith, Vice President of the Trinity Coalition of Blacks.
Weekend
Declining Quality

Dr. George Cooper made several remarks at a recent faculty meeting which raise an issue of vital importance to us all: the declining quality of life on campus. Quality of life is a nebulous term and its "defined line" cannot be stated by any concrete action. The blame for the quality of life and any hope for a solution lie squarely on student attitudes.

There are three attitudes which we feel are primary causes of the decline in the quality of life. They are insensitivity, irresponsibility and a lack of respect for the feelings of others. We are not saying that all Trinity students are insensitive, irresponsible and disrespectful. There is, however, a sizable minority who are and there is a sizable majority who do nothing about it. There are no simple solutions we can offer to change these attitudes. We only hope that people will realize that they exist and through their own individual actions make a small contribution to a change in the style of the campus.

One particularly blatant example of these attitudes took place last week in the pub. A group of students, through their alleged actions, caused the pub to be closed early for at least the rest of the term. A small group of thoughtless students displayed an incredible lack of sensitivity, responsibility and respect. By doing so they have inconvenienced 1600 or more of their peers.

There are other examples of the attitudes we are talking about. The excessive noise that pervades the little ways which is impossible and unaccept- able. The noise which prevents many people from studying in dormitories is equally intolerable. Vandalism and abuse which many students have been giving security guards this term are two other concrete examples of those attitudes. The quality of life on campus is not going to improve by any action of the administration. It will be improved only by student action. Peer pressure is a far more potent force than the Dean of Students. We have a responsibility to ourselves and to the institution to act in a respectable manner. But more importantly we have a responsibility not to tolerate those who act in a manner which is inconsistent with that of an academic institution.

Remember to VOTE

The Wild, the Innocent and Me

by Kate Meyers

Over the past few weeks, as I've sat at my third floor window in Seabury, watching the members of the Trinity band coming to their daily business, I have noticed that many of the students seem to be acting strangely. This behavior is not unusual at a place such as Trinity, which attracts its share of unique individuals as well as outright oddballs, but I have found that as this term has progressed, I have noticed more and more students exhibiting bizarre patterns of behavior.

Of course, by bizarre patterns of behavior, I do not mean that I have witnessed students hanging their heads against the walls of the Life Science Center, or sitting in a closed room reading on a Saturday night. It's just that I have seen many students wandering aimlessly about the campus or walking briskly toward some important meeting, intent upon arriving on time. The common aspect of both these which I received:

A Study of 'Senioritis'

by Carl Schiessl

"Senioritis-'The knowledge that, exactly one year from this very moment, you do not know where you will be or what you will be doing."

"Working on a thesis that you don't really want to do, so that when you graduate, you will have six extra letters on your diploma."

"A terminal illness which requires you to stay at Seagar house for the rest of your life."

"Facing the prospect of leaving Trinity College never knowing at what Bishop Brownwell is putting."

"Trying to convince yourself that the LSAT, GRE, and GMAT are just another standardized test and that graduate schools really consider the most academic achievements first."

"The feeling that whatever you are doing at any time is known in such a way that you would rather be anywhere else."

"Senioritis is spreading rapidly through the Class of 1981, and the epidemic should become worse before it gets better. So you are all walking down the Long Walk and you bump into someone who seems "detached," and you say 'he's probably a member of the Class of '81, with an acute case of Senioritis."
Last Words on Reagan

by David Goulet

I wrote a reply to that letter last week, but finished it too late to be published. My argument was that most of Reagan's speeches (casual and prepared) were already intelligent, and that to judge the man by a few off-hand statements is not a good idea. (See last Tuesday's Tripod.)

Here we are on Election Day, when all the closest politicos have come out and cast their one minute vote for their favorite horse. I say horse because to the common voter, the perception of an election is like the perception of a mutual pool at a racetrack. To that voter, his vote has as much of a chance to affect the election as his two dollars has to affect the odds of the mutual pool. And if you think about it, he's right. His two dollars alone will not affect the odds or the payouts at all. His vote alone, in all probability, will not affect the election results. That makes it tragic that we have millions of people who believe in the Racehorse Theory. It's like the perception of a mutual pool, so the more just like his own.

Mr. Belin, who supported Howard Baker in the primaries, and is not in the Reagan organization, said that Reagan's judgement was considered and his opinions reasonable -- an asset to be proud of, but not to be taken lightly. In all probability, I say, we will settle a few misconceptions in the campaign.

Mr. Belin, who supported Howard Baker in the primaries, and is not in the Reagan organization, said that Reagan’s judgement was considered and his opinions reasonable — an asset to be proud of, but not to be taken lightly. In all probability, I say, we will settle a few misconceptions in the campaign.

The Educated Electorate

by Jim Shapiro

We are on Election Day, when all the closest politicos come out and cast their one minute vote for their favorite horse. I say horse because to the common voter, the perception of an election is like the perception of a mutual pool at a racetrack. To that voter, his vote has as much of a chance to affect the election as his two dollars has to affect the odds of the mutual pool. And if you think about it, he's right. His two dollars alone will not affect the odds or the payouts at all. His vote alone, in all probability, will not affect the election results. That makes it tragic that we have millions of people who believe in the Racehorse Theory. It's like the perception of a mutual pool, so the more

The Educated Electorate

by Jim Shapiro

We are on Election Day, when all the closest politicos come out and cast their one minute vote for their favorite horse. I say horse because to the common voter, the perception of an election is like the perception of a mutual pool at a racetrack. To that voter, his vote has as much of a chance to affect the election as his two dollars has to affect the odds of the mutual pool. And if you think about it, he's right. His two dollars alone will not affect the odds or the payouts at all. His vote alone, in all probability, will not affect the election results. That makes it tragic that we have millions of people who believe in the Racehorse Theory. It's like the perception of a mutual pool, so the more
Commentary

‘Wounded Animal Noises’ and other Subcultural Influences

by W.K.B. Kehoe

It’s a good thing there are still a few people around Trinity who are willing to stand up and be different. I am referring to Professor George Cooper’s sparkling performance at the Faculty Meeting of October 14 as reported in the Tripod. Our renowned Angliophile was reported to have ‘decried among other things the excessive playing of “wounded animal noises” on stereo systems’ on the Long Walk and the subcultural influences of the Mather Hall game room, citing especially the “cannibalistic noises that emanate there from” and the distressing pinball adoration that is fixed. Though Dr. Cooper has offered many passive solutions to them, he has been willing to stand up and be derisive.

Moving right along, apply the talents of Professor Cooper’s Visigoths and have them lay waste to Mather Hall. Also places within their jurisdiction Jones and Elton Halls and the Calderesque monstrosity across the way. This will serve a manifold purpose and yield the community many benefits. First of all, Mather Hall is an architectural disaster. The stairwells are larger than the dining area, the walls though of the finest Cinderblock cause congestion, the Washington Book is too often the haven of down and out Middle-of-the-road pop stars, and the downstair does have the design and atmosphere of a bus station. By all means evacuate the Cave ladies but burn the place to the ground. The pub can be moved into the Chapel, Greater Coopera and the scourage of Sammonia will never rear its ugly head again.

United Way of the Capital Area
Thanks to you it works for all of us

The School of Law
Western New England College
Springfield, Massachusetts will be represented by Professor Frederick Royal at The Faculty Club

on Friday, November 7

A Mock Class will be held at 9:30 followed by meetings with integers students from 10:30 until noon.

Underclass students as well as seniors should attend. Women, minorities and handicapped are encouraged to meet our representative.

AIESEC: A Valuable Experience

by Bruce Newman

AIESEC is the French acronym standing for the International Association of Students in Economics and Business Management providing the college students that opportunities to make business contacts and develop communication skills; apply classroom knowledge to situations in the world and, most importantly, to work in a foreign country.

For students who wonder how their college will benefit them when they graduate, AIESEC can help. As a member of AIESEC- Trinty, a student studying economics, foreign languages, commerce science, international relations or any other business-related field can apply the knowledge learned in these areas to business situations. This is made possible through AIESEC’s international exchange program, which provides stimulating, challenging work experiences in over 58 countries throughout the world. Hundreds of American college students involved in AIESEC work overseas each year. In the past couple of years, AIESEC-Trinity has sent several of its members to work abroad.

On a domestic level, AIESEC-Trinity has been a strong supporter of its members’ own special interests. For example, in the past year an upperclass member formed a student training program in insurance companies in the Hartford area. This fall, AIESEC-Trinity is also making plans to produce a short film concerning AIESEC’s international student exchange in order to increase student awareness.

AIESEC provides the opportunity to pursue a career and make a difference. A career with the American Institute of Economic and Social Exchange requires commitment, time, dedication and skill. It requires commitment to AIESEC and its mission; time to study, to prepare, to travel, to adapt; dedication to the cause of international exchange; and skill in communication, business and marketing.

Each member devotes as much time as he/she can to the organization, just as he/she devotes time to curricular activity. Although not required, attendance of regional and national conventions is beneficial. These conferences offer training programs in marketing and leadership effectiveness and the chance to meet new people from other chapters.

AIESEC-Trinity provides the chance to become involved in the real world. Our meetings are held Monday nights at 9:30 downstairs in Mather Campus Center. New members and interested observers are welcome.

VOTE

MAKE EXTRA MONEY
SELL AUDIO EQUIPMENT AT YOUR COLLEGE

No Investment!
Professional Sales Help Provided
No Initial Program!
Sell to Over 60 Top Brands!
BE YOUR OWN BOSS!
Call or Write
Selling Is Easy ONLY!

AUDIO OUTLET, INC.
News, 2nd Floor

CASA DI TRAVEL

Welcomes Trinity students and all their travel needs.

ASK ABOUT OUR TO LOW FARES TO LONDON — NOW ONLY!!
DOMINIC SCOTECCE
(203) 527-6600
425 New London Ave., Hartford, Conn. 06106
across from D&O Package

*******
Men's Varsity Soccer Falls To Dismal 2-9

The past two weeks of play for the Trinity Varsity Soccer team can only be characterized as dismal. On the verge of bettering their record of the previous two seasons, the Bantams have dropped their last four games to bring their season record to 2-9. With only one game remaining against arch-rival Wesleyan tomorrow at 2 PM in Middletown, the hooters need a victory to surpass the two-win barrier they have been unable to break in the last two years. The Bantam huskeys have all fallen into a similar pattern of late: an inconsistent defense and a lack of scoring punch. The defense has played well at times, but has seemed to lose its concentration and bring about periods of sloppy play. The impotent offense of the Bantams has only scored ten goals in the eleven games played.

Coming off a disappointing showing at Union, the Bants rebounded with a strong effort against the Hawks from the University of Hartford on October 22. Playing their best soccer of the season in the first half, Trinity took a 1-0 lead as Club Palma scored from 23 yards out on a back heel assist from Carl Schieta. In the second half, the Bantams went into a defensive shell as they tried to hold off their highly-ranked crosstown rivals. However, with fifteen minutes remaining, the Hawks cracked the Bantam defense to knot the game at one. With six minutes left in the game, a pretty passing series brought UHart the winning goal, keeping them undefeated. Stellar defensive efforts were put in by Tom Chase, Scott Growney, and goalkeeper John Simons.

After the disheartening loss to UHart, the Bants hit a low point as they traveled to New London to take on Connecticut College. The Bantams exhibited their worst performance of the season as they were drubbed by the high-powered Camels 6-1. The only bright spot on the damp afternoon was goaltender Andy Fink's save of a penalty kick.

The impotent offense of the Bantams has only scored ten goals for the season. A pretty passing series culminating in a short yardage run by halfback John Fraser. When they took the opening kickoff, the Bants answered right back with their own length-of-the-field drive, culminating in a short yardage run by halfback John Fraser. The two teams went touchdown to touchdown throughout the game. Trinity's second six-pointer came when Aaron Meadows turned a Jeff McLucas pass into a goal line. The final Bantam points were Before a large Homecoming crowd this past Saturday, the Tritons succumbed to a defensive lapse and suffered a 6-0 shutout at the hands of Amherst. The first half was played fairly even as both sides failed to score. Several outstanding saves by Simons kept the Bants in it. Although the Lord Jeffs scored five goals in an eight-minute span to quickly out run many of Trinity's returning alumni. The Bantams' problems stemmed from not taking advantage of several Amherst defensive mistakes and a lack of shots on goal.

Hopefully, the Bants will play the role of spoiler as they oppose the nationally-ranked Cardinals tomorrow afternoon. It would be a sweet ending to an extremely sour season.

JVs Down Southern

The JV Football team upped their season record to 4-1 last Monday as they defeated a visiting Southern Connecticut team by a 21-6 tally. The difference turned out to be the three successful extra points by placekicker Mike Cooke.

Southern got on the board first when they took the opening kick-off to the length of the field. The Bants answered right back with their own length-of-the-field drive, culminating in a short yardage run by halfback John Fraser. The two teams went touchdown for touchdown throughout the game. Trinity's second six-pointer came when Aaron Meadows turned a Jeff McLucas pass into a goal line. The final Bantam points were

The JV Bants engaged in their season finale yesterday against Amherst, with results unavailable at press time.

Men's Crew At Head Of The Charles

by William Gregg

On a beautiful Sunday afternoon on the Charles River, the annual Head of the Charles event took place. Both men's varsity heavyweights and lightweight had a respectable showing.

The Varsity elites came in twenty-eighth of a tonal of fifty boats. They might have had a much better showing but they not suffered a booy violation. The Varsity lightweight's time was very respectable, coming in ninth out of approximately forty boats. The Varsity lightweight hours had the best outcome of the day, coming in third out of forty boats. The youth came in eighth out of forty boats. Overall, the team came in eighteenth out of almost a hundred schools and independent organizations competing in the Regatta. Coach Graf, head coach of rowing, was elated with the outcome of the entire fall season. He anticipates a most successful spring campaign.

Men's Crew At Head Of The Charles

The Trinity Freshman Heavies, twenty-eighth of a tonal of fifty boats. They might have had a much better showing but they not suffered a booy violation. The Varsity lightweight's time was very respectable, coming in ninth out of approximately forty boats. The Varsity lightweight hours had the best outcome of the day, coming in third out of forty boats. The youths came in eighth out of forty boats.

Overall, the team came in eighteenth out of almost a hundred schools and independent organizations competing in the Regatta. Coach Graf, head coach of rowing, was elated with the outcome of the entire fall season. He anticipates a most successful spring campaign.

French craft, American style.

Now appearing at your local store.

Men's Crew At Head Of The Charles
BANTAM SPORTS ARENA

Ski Class
Register for third quarter Ski class from Dec. 1 - Dec. 12. Lessons and bus ride are required of everyone. The cost is $69. All money must be paid in full in advance when registering. Registration may be done through Rita Kane's desk in FAC. For more information, call her at Ext. 291.

Football Tickets
Tickets are on sale for the Wesleyan football game at the Athletic Office. The price is $2.00 for all Trinity students and $4.00 for general admission.

Crow Hoop Marathon
Alpha Chi Rho is sponsoring a 24 Hour Basketball Marathon on November 14-15 as part of Trinity Greek Week. Competition will include teams of Trinity undergrads and faculty and the Hartford Community.
All proceeds obtained through pledges will go to buy clothing and essentials for mentally and emotionally retarded citizens of a community residence. Interested parties should contact Angel Martinez at Box 723 or 728-9704.

Sports Panel
"Careers in Sports Journalism and Promotion" will be the topic of a panel discussion tonight at 8 PM in Hamlin Hall. The free event is sponsored by Trinity's Office of Career Counseling. The public is invited to attend.

This year's Bantam defense has allowed only 14 points per game while racking up a myriad of personal bests. Safety Nick Bioderilr (#20, top r.) leads the team with six pass knockdowns and five interceptions, the latter mark being one away from tying a school record. Bioderil snagged two in the Amherst win. He also leads the defensive backfield in tackles with 38.5. Sophomore Steve Mungillo (#24, top l.) also picked off a pass in Saturday's game, giving him a total of two for the year, while his four pass knockdowns ties him for second on the team. Captains Paul Romano (#11, bottom l.) has contributed four interceptions, one on Saturday, while being a most effective team leader. Mike Tuccio (#8, bottom r.) leads the team in tackle assists with 44.
Senior Frank Netcho (#83, center l.) at end set a new school record of nine individual career quarterback sacks against Amherst. Fellow senior end Chip McKechnie and junior noseguard Joe Fossili (#69, bottom r.) are second in sacks with six apiece. Defensive tackle Bob Greer (#76, bottom l.) has four. Linebacker Bill Schaffner leads the team with 76.5 total tackles, while also accumulating four pass knockdowns, two quarterback sacks, and one interception, and he has caused two fumbles with his jarring hits. Jim Meyers (#40, bottom r.) and Peter Smolak fill out what may be the best defensive squad Trinity has seen in a long time.
Trinity's offense is the most productive it has been in years, even surpassing most of the marks set by 1978's 7-1 Bantam squad. Captaining the corps is junior quarterback Peter Martin (#17, top r.), who is on his way to becoming the best rushing QB in Trinity history. Not only does he display some impressive statistics when it comes to his passing game, but he is also second in rushing on the team with 219 yards, leading all New England quarterbacks. He has five touchdowns and two conversions to his credit, making him the second leading scorer.

The dynamic Trln backfield has as its core a workhorse in Bill Holden (#44, center l.), who is averaging 87.3 yards rushing per game, second in New England, Division III. Diminutive back Mike Elia (#35, bottom l.) is tied for the team lead in scoring with 48 points (eight touchdowns); six of those have come by way of running, two by receptions. Freshman Tom Clemenson (#12, top l.) is part of a bright future for the Bants. His 41-yard halfback toss to Bob Heading in the second quarter gave Trin their third touchdown last Saturday.

Reading himself has been a highlight of the Bantam season. He not only leads the team in scoring with eight TD's, but also leads the all Division III receivers in New England in total yards. As homage to his exceptional performance last Saturday (8 receptions for 144 yards and three touchdowns), he has been chosen by the New England Football Writers Association to be the recipient of the Coca Cola Gold Helmet Award. This honor is given to the outstanding small college football player in the previous week's action. Of course, none of this would have been possible without the stupendous work of the Trinity offensive line: Steve LaFortune and John Josel at guard, Dom Rapini and Justin George at tackle, center Art Stern and tight end Jim Samsel (who snagged a TD for the Bants last Saturday).

For trivia fans: Reading’s three touchdowns were scored in a span of less than five minutes.
Bantam score was an omen of fumbled the return only to recover first half. In that stretch, junior Bantams took command of the end zone for the opening score of game during a 4:44 span late in the three touchdown passes to increase split end Bob Reading hauled in College. On a cold blustery day, the things to come, Bordieri in-6-1 with a well earned 35-14 victory Amherst 17 three plays later. On intercepted a deflected Brian Curran half.

With 5:42 remaining in the opening quarter, Mike Cooke split the uprights and Trinity held a 7-0 lead. Reading in the left corner of the touchdown when he caught the defense napping. Cooke added the extra-point and Trinity Martin's scoring toss was picture-perfect as he threw the ball before Readiing had made his final break.

Having tasted the end zone to Reading passes of 33 and eight scoring drive was keyed by Martin quarters as he drove Trinity to the five-yard line from where he kept the ball for the score. The six play scoring drive was keyed by Martin to Reading passes of 33 and eight yards.

Although Ambrose squandered a potential score when a late third quarter drive stalled at the Trinity 31, the Lord Jeffs came back to tally six points on their next possession. A second and nine pass from the Trinity 17 witnessed Curran finding Mengone once again for the touchdow. The score came with 14:24 remaining in the game, with the Ambrose unit responding with a Trinity defensive back Steve Mongillo.

Look back at the fourth quarter when Curran hooked up with split end John Mengone for a 31 yard score. The fourth and 16 toss highlighted in eight play, 55 yard march, which saw Ambrose recover an onside kick to open the second half. A key play in the Ambrose drive was a 24 yard pass completion from Curran to Jeff Simpson, putting the ball on the Bantam 23 yard line. Five plays later, Curran and Mengone put the Lord Jeffs on the board.

Bordieri set up the fourth Bantam touchdown when he picked off his second pass of the separate occasions. Ambrose moved deep into Trinity territory only to find the Bantams defensive unit respond on fourth down situations, stopping any more advance. Late in the game, Frank Negri single-handedly stopped any potential Ambrose drive while chalking up his third quarter sack of the game, establishing a new single season record for a Trinity player.

The final Bantam points of the day came when Martin and Jim Samsel connected from five yards out. The touchdown came with 1:22 left to play, and Cooke added his fifth extra-point to make the final score 35-14. Although Ambrose sought to salvage some pride in the waning moments of the game, their drive ended on the Trinity three yard line as time expired.

The Bantams won the battle on the ground as they outrushed 126 yards to only 77 for Ambrose. Pullball Bill Holden was the workhorse for the winners, as he carried 24 times for 93 yards, increasing his career total to 1,372. Elia proved valuable as he scampered for 50 yards on seven carries. John Hess aided the Ambrose rushing game as he carried 16 times for 43 yards. While the Trinity defense was shutting down any type of running game, Ambrose field general Curran was pacing for 216 yards. However, Curran too fell victim to the Ambrose defense as he was intercepted four times on the day.

This Saturday, Trinity travels to Andrus Field in Middletown, Connecticut to take on the Cardinals of Wesleyan in the season finale. Wesleyan, which holds a 47-31 record over Trinity in a series dating back to 1885, is coming off a shocking 9-0 loss to Williams. Turnovers prove to be the demise of the Cardinals as they lost the ball six times on pass interceptions and fumbles.

While the Trinity offense did little in the fourth period, Ambrose moved the ball fairly well. On three consecutive drives, Ambrose had a shot to score on four occasions, stopping any more advance.

Game time against the 3-2 Lions is set for 1:30.

Cumulative Statistics

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Trinity</th>
<th>Ambrose</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>First Downs</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rushing-Yardage</td>
<td>46-186</td>
<td>50-77</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Passing-Yardage</td>
<td>10-50</td>
<td>216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Return Yardage</td>
<td>29</td>
<td>121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Penalties</td>
<td>10-310</td>
<td>11-354</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Points</td>
<td>8-294</td>
<td>5-342</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fumbles/Lost</td>
<td>3-2</td>
<td>5-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Penalties-Yards</td>
<td>10-129</td>
<td>5-25</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Trinity</th>
<th>Ambrose</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Rushing: Trinity- Holden, 24, 53; Elia, 7-50; Martin, 1-29; Ambrose- Hess, 16-43, Hughes, 10-23</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Passing: Trinity- Martin, 10-204, 109 yards; Cleemannson, 1-40, 41 yards, Ambrose- Curran, 11-354, 216 yards</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Receiving: Trinity- Reading, 8-144; Samsel, 1-5; Elia, 1-1; Ambrose- Mengone, 6-126; Gallagher, 241; Hess, 2-27</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The high-scoring Bantam offense. (photo by Charles Rosenfield)