Architects Chosen for Mather Design

by Julie Masters

After two years of deliberation concerning the proposed expansion of Mather, the architectural firm of Russell, Voorhees, and VanDoren has been hired to complete the project. In hiring the firm, the college has accepted the basic design developed by the college for the expansion of the building. According to Vice President Russell, the next step will be to make adjustments upon the basic design. This consists of verifying the requirements made by the college and adapting them to the limitations imposed by the firm. Smith said this step also involves taking bids from contractors, a process which is currently underway. He believes this is the most interesting phase of the design and involves only planning for the present needs but not for the future needs of the student body.

After completing this preliminary stage, the college would move to the Design Development stage. The chosen scheme was designed to be filled in with more details such as placement of doors, windows, walls, and ceilings. The last stage before the actual construction begins is the Construction Document stage where the architect is responsible for the electrical and lighting systems and will be added. The $2 million budget has been completed. The basic concerns are: an increase of kitchen space; a reduction of energy consumption; provision for handicapped access and a relocation of dishwashing away from food preparation. In addition, the dishwashing room will be expanded to accommodate an additional 250 people and low partitioning will be installed to decrease the sense of mass within the Cave. The food preparation and service areas will be expanded, a salad bar installed, and a portable pizza oven added. The Pub will move so that it adjoins the Cave and will have the same seating. A small stage will be installed with track lighting. Over the next several years the expansion will be undertaken, the purpose of the Cave-Pub will be expanded in order to seat 200 people, while the bowling alleys will be added. In general, the appearance of the halls, floors and ceiling of Mather will be changed.

Once construction begins, tentatively planned for this summer, it will take approximately one year to complete. The construction could cause many inconveniences to students such as disruption of sleep by loud machines, traffic detours, and unpleasant eating conditions. The campus experienced a similar disruption in student activities with the construction of New South Campus a few years ago; the resumption of work every morning and every evening disturbed many students in the area.

New Computer Awarded by HFPG

Trinity College has been awarded a grant of $121,000 by the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving toward the purchase of an academic computing system. The grant will enable the College to expand its computer services extensively.

The new computer, the VAX-11/780, is manufactured by Digital Equipment Corporation, and has three computer languages: BASIC, PASCAL, and FORTRAN. Annual maintenance costs for the computer, estimated at $9,500, will be borne by the College. With the acquisition of the new computer, the old systems, the PDP 11/40, can be converted over to word processing, supporting up to 16 work stations, and further relieving pressure on the academic computer.

In the past, Trinity faculty members, assisted by students trained on the academic computer, have helped public and private agencies in the Capital Region by evaluating data and conducting needs assessment. Agencies helped include the Hartford Housing Authority, the City of Hartford, Asylum Hill Inc., the State Banking Department, Southside Institutions Neighborhood Alliance, Hartford Architectural Conservancy, ConPITG, Broad-Park Development Corporation, Stamford, and the Connecticut Prison Association.

"This new computer represents the most modern computer technology," according to Dr. August Seegers, professor of engineering, who supervises the academic computer. He adds, "The new computer has four times as much memory and is 20 times faster than the machine now used for academic computing. These features will allow us to offer computer instruction to a larger number of students."

Computers have been used for undergraduate instruction and for research by students and faculty at Trinity since 1964, and the need for a new computer has increased in recent years. In 1976, the College introduced a computer coordinate major, allowing students to combine their interest in computers with study in any other department or offering a major. Students have linked computing with engineering, chemistry, mathematics, and with fields as varied as economics, psychology, political science, German, English, intercultural studies and sociology.

Trinity offers an introductory course in computing that enrolls 100-120 undergraduates per semester. It is estimated that one-half of Trinity students will have taken the computer course by the time they graduate. The academic computer is available for use for 24 hours a day, seven days a week, during the academic year.

Stress Battled in Groups

by Amy Snyder

Stress and tension are growing concerns in today's modern world. Here at Trinity, Counselors George Higgins and interns Kate Kavanaugh are attempting to help students combat these problems through two, 9-week discussion programs. "We are trying to see whether we can offer services of a preventive nature rather than a remedial nature," says Higgins, "so we tried to pick something that was central in anxiety-control."

The discussion groups will be split according to sex. Kavanaugh's group will meet on Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Women's Center, and is designed specifically for women who have problems feeling overweight and/or having eating habits. "People have been expressing a need for changing their eating habits," Kavanaugh notes, "there's much concern." A number of male-oriented topics will be discussed in the men's discussion group, which Higgins is organizing. "Issues concerning cultural expectations of men will be discussed — success, competition, emotions, and always being in control," he says. Men will meet Monday evenings, beginning February 4, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Counseling Office, 76 Vernon St. Those interested should call the Counseling Office for advance information.

Stress Battled in Groups

SGA Announces Voting Procedures

The long-awaited day has finally come to vote; it is this THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1982, for the election procedures for AT-LARGE ELECTIONS. Some of the procedures are: AT-LARGE ELECTIONS (specifically the election of the Junior Class), the DORM ELECTIONS (Elevon, Goodnow-Woodward, Jarvis, New South Campus, Northam-Seabury, and Smith), and FRESHMAN CLASS ELECTIONS. Information provided are as follows:

1) At large and Freshman Class Committee ballots will be stuffed in the PO boxes of dorm residents, Juniors, and Freshmen prior to Thursday, the 4th. Students from the respective constituencies mentioned above will elect one (1) person for Off-Campus, one (1) for Junior Class Representative, and four (4) for Freshman Class Committee. An election booth will be set up by the Post Office for those students to register (must have I.D.), and to deposit their completed ballots between 11:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. on February 4th.

2) In the DORM ELECTIONS, the RA's of Elevon, Goodnow-Woodward, Jarvis, New South Campus, Northam-Seabury, and Smith will have been contacted and have agreed to help the SGA with the distribution and collection of the completed ballots by midnight Thursday, February 4th. The RA's in which they carry out this request is left to them.

One procedure which is strongly stressed in many of the dorms is to coordinate a mandatory election meeting in each dorm. Another is to approach all the members of the dorm and collect their completed ballots. Keep A Look-out On The Signs and "Keep the Mails In Order"

Here are the members of your constituencies that are running:

AT-LARGE ELECTIONS for Trinity Campus

Off Campus: SUSAN E. HOUSER
Junior Class: GIM O'BRIEN

Join the SGA Voting Office in advance.

Book Banning Subject of Contest

Although printed announcements have been delayed, the 1982 Percival Wood Clement Essay Competition will again be held this year. The Contest subject for this year concerns itself with Book Banning in America and its name must be submitted by April 15th.

The Clement Contest, which was established in the will of Percival Wood Clement, a former governor of Vermont, seeks those essays which, in the opinion of the judges, best support the principles of the United States Constitution and Bill of Rights. Associate Professor of Political Science, Clyde D. Mckee, Jr., is Trinity's representative for the Contest.

The Clement Contest is limited to juniors and seniors at selected New England colleges, including Trinity. First prize is a tempting $1250, second prize is $750, third prize is $400, and fourth prize $650. Trinity has boasted about a dozen winners in the past few years.

Essays should be submitted to: Professor Eugene A. Mawhinney, Department of Political Science, North Stevens Hall, University of Maine at Orono, Orono, ME 04469. Essays are not to exceed 5000 words in length and must be neatly typewritten on one side of 8½ by 11 paper. The title or name of the author must be not written on the cover page and if the essay is not written in the student's own words it must be submitted along with the essay the cover page should include the title of the essay and the name of the student and an assumed name. Each essay should be accompanied by a sealed envelope containing on the outside the assumed name, and within, the real name, college, home, a bibliography, the writer, together with a statement from the registrar of his or her college verifying that he or she is a junior or senior in an undergraduate curriculum leading to a bachelor's degree. Any questions concerning the contest may be directed to McKee.
Fueled Butts $678 Yearly
By Joanne Matzen
If college authorities were to take $678 from each student, each year and institute it, we might ourselves in the midst of a student rebellion of sorts. Yet, that precisely what is being done as the cost topptles well over a million dollars to provide Trinity’s campus with gas, oil, water, and electricity. Although some conservation tactics have been employed, resource prices continue to push energy costs up even higher. For example, gas has been cut 50% by means of computer regulating systems installed at Buildings and Grounds. Even so, in fiscal year 1980-81, $475,692 was spent on gas alone. In addition, that same year the college would like it cut another 10%," he stated. Currently, Cardinal is doing a driving survey and taking outdoor fixtures in overuse areas. "We can’t cut it out too much, no. They can. Electric appliances, especially the heating type, should be used not more than absolutely necessary." A hair dryer or an iron use as much energy as ten watt bulbs.

Others see the situation as "Impossible."" Are Dr. E.F. Whitelsey, head of the Energy Management Council, "What are we going to do? The number one problem is heating. The buildings are all nightmares!" Indeed, Trinity’s historic buildings are not energy efficient, but neither is claimed. Whitelsey is the head of the newer ones.

McCooch is singled out as presenting particular problems. Cardinal, who came to Trinity six years ago, was building was built, exhibit social problems. "We’ve had a heating ventilation system like that in McCooch." Since the building was designed for the most adverse conditions and continued 100% oc.

Crow Probation Ends
As a result of a misdeemeanor concerning sexual harassment last year, Alpha Chi Ro was placed on probation, thereby making the fraternity inactive in any kind of activity involving the Trinity community (i.e. rushing activities). The facts revealing the people involved and the nature of sexual activity were dubious. Nevertheless, Trinity is morally deranged "incidents" did occur within the Alpha Chi Ro house.

Now after a full year, "Crow" has been taken off probation. The three major reasons: 1. overall good behavior, 2. obeying the rules and restrictions of probation, and 3. alumni cooperation. In reference to the effect of "Crow’s" renewal of social freedom, Dean David Wiser stressed, "It should be pointed out that the whole community will be watching them (the brothers) now." When asked how the Alpha Chi Ro brotherhood views the absence of probation, newly elected president Dan McNamara stated, "Obviously we’re thrilled. Yet it’s important to stress that we feel like we’ve earned our freedom by faithfully obeying the rules of probation. We also feel that it’s been a bad time for the frat in the past but now we want to start anew, continue to obey the rules, and show that the community that the Alpha Chi Ro brotherhood is composed of a good group of individuals."

Winer will formally declare the end of Alpha Chi Ro’s probation at the faculty meeting on February 9th.

Seabury Floored
Portions of Seabury Hall sustained extensive damage early Sunday morning as a result of an apparent act of vandalism. A sprinkler system pipe was wrenching in the ceiling in the Towers section, sending water cascading down the stairs, cornering walls and ripping up tiles on the stairwells. While faculty offices appeared to be spared by the destruction, damage was severe in the recent residential buildings. "All the carpets were destroyed and false ceilings either collapsed or had to be pulled down."

Fire officials report that the pipe in the third floor hallway evidently broke as a result of an individual or individuals jumping up to the pipe and wounding it from above. A security officer was allegedly told by students attending a party on the third floor that they had heard another student returning from the hall saying, "The fire alarm is about to go off."

The alarm did indeed go off, and scores of students shivered on the Long Walk while Security and Hartford Firefighters turned off the water off.

Hartford Fire Department officials ordered a 24-hour fire watch since damage to electrical wiring could have extended beyond the area. The area Resident Assistants conducted an all-night patrol through both Seabury and Northam, where the sprinkler system and fire horns also had to be torn off.

An estimation of the damages has not yet been made. The College electrician and plumber, as well as a restoration crew, was called in that night to clean up the hallways and two floor basements and bathrooms. Security and College officials have no suspects in the case. Mager Campus Director Wayne Asmus recommends that the person or persons responsible turn themselves in. "We won’t go easy on them, but it will be beneficial for them to turn themselves in because if we find out that person may be more severe," Asmus stated.

Food Service Bids Studied
Wayne Asmus, Vice President Tom Smith, Budget Director Alan Sauer, Treasurer Mike Zonke, Academic Calendar Coordinator Jan Barr, and student representatives Bob Mustel and Lila Fuller present this week, perhaps three, additional companies will be invited to compete in future presentations. ARA, Seller’s of New England, and SAGA are the companies currently being considered for these invitations. It has already been decided that DAKA and Food Management will not be among the finalists. For those interested in this section the selection committee will offer the contract to the company they feel will benefit the Trinity Community. Further regulation on the fine points of such a decision as to which items shall be in the Salad Bar will be necessary, however, before any deal is finalized.

The contract will bring an estimated 1.5 million dollars in needed economic water damage to the campus. The Mather, while sales revenue from the current fiscal year has fallen an average of $230,000 to the chosen company. The Hamlm Hall dining service and the Calendar Coordinator at Di Russo’s love and support, however, whatsoever, because students in their Pennsylvania.

Essays to be Honored
By John E. Hardy
The 1981-82 President’s Fellows, a prestigious group that they will produce a journal which will be published prior to commencement and will provide "a means of recognition for creative papers and research projects." The journal, entitled The Trinity Papers, will be distributed to all faculty, interested members of the alumni, and some selected institutions. Having a paper or project published in The Trinity Papers will be considered an honor and may be accompanied by a certificate at Honors Day, they said.

All Trinity students are encouraged to submit papers and projects for consideration. Members of the faculty and student organizations submitted essays for consideration.

Inside the Tripod
Editors
Tuition Costs Skyprocket . . . . p. 6
Hartford
Neighborhoods Fear Program Cuts . . . . p. 9
Arts/Entertainment
Faculty Dancers Crash Convention . . . . p. 11
Sports
Tarheel Lacrosse Heaven . . . . p. 16

Volume 80
Issue 15
February 8, 1982
Dance Professor Tenured
By James B. Moore

Assistant Professor Judy Dworin, Director of the Dance Program and one of the first women to be tenured by the Appointments and Promotions Committee, was awarded tenure by the Appointments and Promotions Committee.

Dworin is currently a social studies teacher at Conrad High School, and is a candidate for an M.A. degree in history at Trinity. Wilson graduated from Trinity in 1977, received her B.A. degree in intercultural studies with honors, and was named a President’s Fellow in intercultural studies in her senior year.

Wilson is currently a social studies teacher at Conrad High School, and is a candidate for an M.A. degree in history at Trinity. Wilson graduated from Trinity in 1977, received her B.A. degree in intercultural studies with honors, and was named a President’s Fellow in intercultural studies in her senior year.

Dworin commented that she will continue to perform, research, and write about dance, and to strive to make dance an exciting part of the Trinity curriculum. She said she considers herself fortunate to have a job that offers opportunities “to develop new ideas and new directions.”

Stock Scholarships Awarded

Tracey Wilson of West Hartford, CT and Robert J. Naeher of West Simsbury, CT have been awarded the Mitchell B. Stock Scholarship for tuition credit at Trinity.

The Mitchell B. Stock Scholarship goes to those, secondary in their work toward freedom of expression for those in need, either popular or eccentric views.

Wilson is currently a social studies teacher at Conrad High School, and is a candidate for an M.A. degree in history at Trinity. Wilson graduated from Trinity in 1977, received her B.A. degree in intercultural studies with honors, and was named a President’s Fellow in intercultural studies in her senior year.

Building Leak Energy

Buildings leak energy continued from page 1

et through at frequent intervals.

Whitley was quick to point out several other inefficient aspects of the Chapel, including the lack of insulation in the building.

The Jubilee celebration will continue throughout the spring, leading up to a service on June 30.

Students specifically interested in dance, Whitley, the Jubilee, and others, will continue to pay more the Jubilee, and others, will continue to pay more for the energy consumption.

Unfortunately, most renovations are hindered by monetary factors. “No university has this kind of money,” noted Whitley. So, students will continue to pay more for the energy consumption.

Jubilee, a spirited celebration of the 450th anniversary of the completion of the Chapel, will open Sunday, February 7, with a Festival Jubilee Service at 4 p.m. in the Chapel. The service will feature an all-College choir, assembled for the occasion, and will include the premiering of a new work commissioned for the service and written by Robert Edward Smith, composer-in-residence. The choir for the service includes individuals from all areas of the College — faculty, staff, students, and alumni. The Chapel Singers will perform an anthem by 16-century composer Christopher Tye. The complete all-College choir will sing three works: “How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings,” written by Robert Edward Smith; “Te Deum, in C Major” by Mozart; and “Blissed City, Heavenly Salem, Paradise Taken,” written by Robert Edward Smith.

The Jubilee celebration will continue throughout the spring semester, encompassing a full range of music recitals and concerts, lectures, and special events, and leading up to a service on June 18, which is the actual 500th anniversary of the consecration of the building.

Every Night Is College Night

Mondays:
Happy Hour prices all night
4 p.m.-midnight

Tuesdays:
50¢ domestic draft beers
$1.50 Jumbo

Wednesdays:
Margaritas. All the tacos you can eat.
Snakebite Night

Thursdays:
Snakebites $1.00

Buildings Leak Energy continued from page 1

continued from page 1

,unsigned, fun architectural trend of the early 1960's the ventilation system unnecessarily exchanges the air completely at frequent intervals. Whitley was quick to point out several other inefficient aspects of the Chapel, including the lack of insulation in the building.

The Jubilee celebration will continue throughout the spring, leading up to a service on June 30.

Students specifically interested in dance, Whitley, the Jubilee, and others, will continue to pay more for the energy consumption.

Unfortunately, most renovations are hindered by monetary factors. “No university has this kind of money,” noted Whitley. So, students will continue to pay more for the energy consumption.

Jubilee, a spirited celebration of the 450th anniversary of the completion of the Chapel, will open Sunday, February 7, with a Festival Jubilee Service at 4 p.m. in the Chapel. The service will feature an all-College choir, assembled for the occasion, and will include the premiering of a new work commissioned for the service and written by Robert Edward Smith, composer-in-residence. The choir for the service includes individuals from all areas of the College — faculty, staff, students, and alumni. The Chapel Singers will perform an anthem by 16-century composer Christopher Tye. The complete all-College choir will sing three works: “How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings,” written by Robert Edward Smith; “Te Deum, in C Major” by Mozart; and “Blissed City, Heavenly Salem, Paradise Taken,” written by Robert Edward Smith.

The Jubilee celebration will continue throughout the spring semester, encompassing a full range of music recitals and concerts, lectures, and special events, and leading up to a service on June 18, which is the actual 500th anniversary of the consecration of the building.

Every Night Is College Night

Mondays:
Happy Hour prices all night
4 p.m.-midnight

Tuesdays:
50¢ domestic draft beers
$1.50 Jumbo

Wednesdays:
Margaritas. All the tacos you can eat.
Snakebite Night

Thursdays:
Snakebites $1.00

36 Lewis Street
Hartford, Connecticut
247-2300

Members of Trinity’s Alpha Delta Phi celebrate the selection of new pledges last Saturday night. Said one brother of the festivities, "Since there are only three pledges, there is more self-alienation going on tonight than anything else."
Big Brother Program
The Big Brother Program will have an organizational meeting for all those interested on Tuesday, February 2 at 7:00 in the Library Conference Room #134. If you are interested in being a Big Brother but unable to attend this meeting, please contact Mark Thibault, Box 929, 204-7109 or Scott Taylor, Box 906, 246-1249.

Biography Seminar
For those interested in Anatomy and Physiology, Prof. Stephen Hinner will conduct a seminar and the Biology Department at Emory University will be on campus Wednesday February 3rd from 1:30 to 2:00 p.m. This will meet with undergraduates interested in studying anatomy and physiology at Emory from 3:00 to 3:30 p.m. in LSC, Rm. 213. He will also be making several presentations on the course entitled “Cellular Control of Gastro Secrets.” The presentation will be held at 3:00 p.m. in the LSC Library following both the meeting and the presentation. There are any questions, call ext. 228 in the Career Counseling Office or Lorie Miller at 246-6605.

Campus Jobs
Financial Aid students seeking campus employment second Financial Aid bulletin board located for part-time, off-campus jobs, etc. If you cannot find a job, contact Kathy Mills in the Financial Aid Office BEFORE FEB. 25

Casino Night
Las Vegas comes to Trinity! The Heartford Campaign is hosting a Casino Night in Mother on Friday February 19 from 9 to 1. Gamble the night away for big, big prizes. Dress semi-formal. Bar open. All proceeds to the Heartford Campaign.

East Anglia Exchange
Trinity and the University of East Anglia in Great Britain have developed new procedures for the exchange between our two institutions. A sheet listing application procedures will be ready in the Office of Foreign Study Advising on Monday, February 8. Students interested in attending this program should consult the coordinator on matters with regard to the University of East Anglia in the Office of Foreign Study Advising. Applications must be submitted by 26 February 1982 for the academic year 1982-83, or for the period January through June 1983.

Good Humor Happy Hour
Help kick off the heartford Campaign. On Friday February 5 from 4 to 6 p.m. there will be a Good Humor Happy Hour in Hamlin. The get-together is sponsored by the Quad, Tri-Delta, and Pitt U. Price: cheap. All proceeds to the Heartford Campaign. Absences will not be excused. Come enjoy your Friday Happy Hour.

The Heartford Campaign
Meeting Wednesday February 3 at 7 p.m. in Wein Lounge. Everyone must attend.

I.E.E.E.
TriU is now in the process of introducing its own chapter of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers. We hope to arrange lectures, by faculty and student members of I.E.E.E., and students interested, on the many different areas of interest that the members may have. Once in this club you may find this a much more oriented area of support. We welcome all engineers, and/or computer students to attend our next meeting on February 3 at 7:00 in Halden 110 or to write to Box 32767

Imperial College
The Imperial College of Science and Technology in the Office of Foreign Study Advising and speak with Mr. Winslow, Professor DePhillips, or Professor Rich Lee.

IVY 1982
Contribute to Your Yearbook! The 1982 IVY staff invites Seniors to submit their photographs to be published in the yearbook. Your Yearbook is your yearbook. It is your responsibility to contribute the photograph to the yearbook. All photographs must be submitted by Wednesday, February 3. The 1982 IVY staff visits Seniors and will be available to answer any of your questions about the yearbook. The staff is available in the LSC Library between 10:00 and 12:00. Your Yearbook is your yearbook! Your photograph is your photograph! Remember, You will also be able to see your photograph in the yearbook. The staff is available in the LSC Library between 10:00 and 12:00. Your Yearbook is your yearbook! Your photograph is your photograph! Remember, You will also be able to see your photograph in the yearbook.

Outing Club
Slagle Ride
Circle Feb. 13 on your calendar to remember to attend the Ouling Club Slugle ride in western Connecticut.

Planning an Internship?
Make an appointment at the Internship Office (Jackson 4th floor) to discuss positions available in your field of interest. The office will be open from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The office is located in the Office of Career Development.

Women's Support Group
Support group for women who would like to talk about sexual identity or personal preference. Conferences—7:45 p.m. Meetings—Fridays 12:30-3:00 p.m. in the Women's Center. Bring your own lunch and/or a friend!

VOTE!!!
Election for Off-Campus Representative; Junior Class Representative; and Dorm Representatives for 1982-83. Ballots are available in the Office of Student Affairs February 1st through February 3rd. All ballots are to be cast on campus in the Office of Student Affairs between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. Monday-Friday. The election will be announced on the public address system.

Voting Deadline
Ballots must be cast in the Office of Student Affairs by 3:00 p.m. Thursday, February 4th.

Study Abroad
For those interested in studying abroad or are considering the possibility of this option, be sure to sign-up for the information programs offered by the office of International Relations and Student Life. The deadline for filing an RCA/ Application is February 26th.

Advertising

The TRINITY TRIPOD
Volume 8, Issue 4
The TRIPOD is published weekly on Tuesday, except vacations, each fall and spring semester. Student subscriptions are included in your tuition and fees; other subscriptions are $12.00 per year. The TRIPOD is located in Emory Hall, Room 419. Telephone: 246-6868. The TRIPOD is published by the I.E.E.E., the Student Government Association, and the I.E.E.E., the Student Government Association. The TRIPOD is published weekly on Tuesday, except vacations, each fall and spring semester. Student subscriptions are included in your tuition and fees; other subscriptions are $12.00 per year. The TRIPOD is located in Emory Hall, Room 419. Telephone: 246-6868. The TRIPOD is published by the I.E.E.E., the Student Government Association, and the I.E.E.E., the Student Government Association.
Sparks: Future Fear

My lev, and conversereetings will have to wait until after five. So will my use of colorful language and precise adjectives. I wonder if I'll feel older or simply dress the part. I think the latter is more likely and I know that I'll never be allowed to walk in heels without looking like I'm in pain or having someone ask me what's wrong with my leg.

I can already envision parties where the men wear jackets and loaders and carry their business cards while the women dress themselves in perfume and hide behind their make-up. There will be normal hours and drinks, nice cups of tea, or cheese plucks instead of the usual bowl of pretzels and dixie cups full of peanuts. The music won't be loud rock and roll and I'll be able to hear what people are saying.

Unfortunately, they're saying that they just bought such and such a car for such and such a price and they expect a raise of such and such an amount within the next three months. They won't talk about summer anywhere because summer is no longer a separate entity; it's like the rest of the year, only hotter.

*

If this sounds cynical, it's because I'm scared and unsure about my ability to play grown up or if I even want to. In a few months, the Senior Class will gather again, this time for our farewell dinner with President English. Until then, we can enjoy being down our road names because chances are, after the pomp and circumstance, we will have to live up to them.

To the Trinity Community:

I find it rather sad that a highlynoparticipation. You have to laugh. Sure, it seems absurd to ever look at the other way, doesn't it? But isn't it true that the college is no longer a separate entity; it's just another part of our lives?

To the future students:

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

To the future students:

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.

Now, these prospects know that Trinity has a minority student population (I stand corrected on this figure if it has gone down), involving students of Mexican, Polynesian, Ghanaian, Japanese, etc., (sorry, not all are listed due to limited space) and we do share our cultures with each other. Surely, there is a need to be equal just ourselves in our own culture as others, but college recruitment is not the appropriate time for this.
by Maura McInerney
In his State of the Union address last Tuesday night, President Reagan vaguely outlined his ambitious plan for restructuring Federal responsibility for running almost all major domestic programs presently controlled by the federal government.

"As a single stroke," the President said, "we will be accomplishing a realignment that will end cumbersome administration and spiraling costs at a Federal level while we ensure these programs will be more responsive to both the people they are meant to help and the people who pay for them.

State and local governments are simply not equipped to adequately fund social programs. This is evidenced by the way states and local levels have responded to this administration's continuing budget cuts. Last year, state and local aid, comprising fifteen percent of the federal budget, accounted for one-third of all Federal aid to states in 1982 will decline by twenty-six percent from 1981, thirty-six percent from 1980. Many states have responded to this by cutting local taxes. In 1981, receipts for state sales taxes (as compared with seventeen in the previous year) increased only one percent. Although state sales taxes have increased by 186 percent since 1973, state aid to local governments, as a percent of municipal bonds to fourteen percent—more than double the 1979 average.

And now it is these states which should shoulder the responsibility for most social programs. Following the Reagan budget cuts, states are to assist in the provision of social services. States are to absorb the responsibility for the welfare of children, the aged, the infirm, and the unemployed.

Without even taking account of the economic condition of states and localities is fast degrading. The current recession has produced what appears to be insurable national financial deficits for many cities. Also, most of the state's aid will be focused on the state's fiscal year with deficits, despite laws which require states to end their budget periods with at least a balanced budget. Many states have been forced to cut spending in an attempt to avoid deficits. States are experiencing credit problems as well. The tight money supply of the Federal Reserve has had beneficial effects on the ability of state governments to borrow money.

The effect of the federal government's the most difficult tasks to accomplish. It will not give us more than the "noble savage" the current budget cuts. We, of course, are not privy to the budget figures, however, which appears to be insurable national financial deficits for many cities. Also, most of the state's aid will be focused on the state's fiscal year with deficits, despite laws which require states to end their budget periods with at least a balanced budget. Many states have been forced to cut spending in an attempt to avoid deficits. States are experiencing credit problems as well. The tight money supply of the Federal Reserve has had beneficial effects on the ability of state governments to borrow money.

The feeling behind the second motion was that everyone, as a part of the "enhanced radiation area to the Mather grand plan; earmarking the save $1,000,000 for financial aid through its placement in a special endowment fund.

As we thought that the result of this budgeting figures would appear to be much more of a challenge. We, as usual, are not privy to the budget figures, however, which appears to be insurable national financial deficits for many cities. Also, most of the state's aid will be focused on the state's fiscal year with deficits, despite laws which require states to end their budget periods with at least a balanced budget. Many states have been forced to cut spending in an attempt to avoid deficits. States are experiencing credit problems as well. The tight money supply of the Federal Reserve has had beneficial effects on the ability of state governments to borrow money.

"Student Activities Center" was the suggestion of the main budget plan; earmarking the safe $1,000,000 for financial aid through its placement in a special endowment fund.

"Student Activities Center" was the suggestion of the main budget plan; earmarking the safe $1,000,000 for financial aid through its placement in a special endowment fund.

"Student Activities Center" was the suggestion of the main budget plan; earmarking the save $1,000,000 for financial aid through its placement in a special endowment fund.

The SGA, by a vote of 15-3, passed the following motion: "The SGA does not favor inclusions in tuition costs dedicated to the purpose of providing aid to all or almost all who need it. Our decision was unanimous.

In light of our past conversations with you we felt that the issue which we could be of most help to you in considering the issue of financial aid. I believe that you once remarked to us that financial aid comprised the most discretionary element of the budget. Thus, we considered the issue of whether or not financial aid as a part of tuition-payers, would be willing to suffer increases in tuition. We, as usual, are not privy to the budget figures, however, which appears to be insurable national financial deficits for many cities. Also, most of the state's aid will be focused on the state's fiscal year with deficits, despite laws which require states to end their budget periods with at least a balanced budget. Many states have been forced to cut spending in an attempt to avoid deficits. States are experiencing credit problems as well. The tight money supply of the Federal Reserve has had beneficial effects on the ability of state governments to borrow money.

The idea of the "enhanced radiation area to the Mather grand plan; earmarking the save $1,000,000 for financial aid through its placement in a special endowment fund."

Dear Mr. English,

The Student Government Association at its meeting on January 26 discussed a matter which is at the very heart of student interests, college costs. In light of the current budget preparation being done by the officers of the college, we thought that the result of our deliberations would be of interest to you.

In light of our past conversations with you we felt that the issue which we could be of most help to you in considering the issue of financial aid. I believe that you once remarked to us that financial aid comprised the most discretionary element of the budget. Thus, we considered the issue of whether or not financial aid as a part of tuition-payers, would be willing to suffer increases in tuition costs. We, as usual, are not privy to the budget figures, however, which appears to be insurable national financial deficits for many cities. Also, most of the state's aid will be focused on the state's fiscal year with deficits, despite laws which require states to end their budget periods with at least a balanced budget. Many states have been forced to cut spending in an attempt to avoid deficits. States are experiencing credit problems as well. The tight money supply of the Federal Reserve has had beneficial effects on the ability of state governments to borrow money.

The SGA Discusses Budget

Editor's Note: This is a letter from the SGA to President English.

Dear Mr. English,

The Student Government Association at its meeting on January 26 discussed a matter which is at the very heart of student interests, college costs. In light of the current budget preparation being done by the officers of the college, we thought that the result of our deliberations would be of interest to you.

In light of our past conversations with you we felt that the issue which we could be of most help to you in considering the issue of financial aid. I believe that you once remarked to us that financial aid comprised the most discretionary element of the budget. Thus, we considered the issue of whether or not financial aid as a part of tuition-payers, would be willing to suffer increases in tuition costs. We, as usual, are not privy to the budget figures, however, which appears to be insurable national financial deficits for many cities. Also, most of the state's aid will be focused on the state's fiscal year with deficits, despite laws which require states to end their budget periods with at least a balanced budget. Many states have been forced to cut spending in an attempt to avoid deficits. States are experiencing credit problems as well. The tight money supply of the Federal Reserve has had beneficial effects on the ability of state governments to borrow money.

The SGA, by a vote of 15-3, passed the following motion: "The SGA does not favor inclusions in tuition costs dedicated to the purpose of providing aid to all or almost all who need it. Our decision was unanimous.

In light of our past conversations with you we felt that the issue which we could be of most help to you in considering the issue of financial aid. I believe that you once remarked to us that financial aid comprised the most discretionary element of the budget. Thus, we considered the issue of whether or not financial aid as a part of tuition-payers, would be willing to suffer increases in tuition costs. We, as usual, are not privy to the budget figures, however, which appears to be insurable national financial deficits for many cities. Also, most of the state's aid will be focused on the state's fiscal year with deficits, despite laws which require states to end their budget periods with at least a balanced budget. Many states have been forced to cut spending in an attempt to avoid deficits. States are experiencing credit problems as well. The tight money supply of the Federal Reserve has had beneficial effects on the ability of state governments to borrow money.

The idea of the "enhanced radiation area to the Mather grand plan; earmarking the save $1,000,000 for financial aid through its placement in a special endowment fund."

Dear Mr. English,

The Student Government Association at its meeting on January 26 discussed a matter which is at the very heart of student interests, college costs. In light of the current budget preparation being done by the officers of the college, we thought that the result of our deliberations would be of interest to you.

In light of our past conversations with you we felt that the issue which we could be of most help to you in considering the issue of financial aid. I believe that you once remarked to us that financial aid comprised the most discretionary element of the budget. Thus, we considered the issue of whether or not financial aid as a part of tuition-payers, would be willing to suffer increases in tuition costs. We, as usual, are not privy to the budget figures, however, which appears to be insurable national financial deficits for many cities. Also, most of the state's aid will be focused on the state's fiscal year with deficits, despite laws which require states to end their budget periods with at least a balanced budget. Many states have been forced to cut spending in an attempt to avoid deficits. States are experiencing credit problems as well. The tight money supply of the Federal Reserve has had beneficial effects on the ability of state governments to borrow money.

The SGA, by a vote of 15-3, passed the following motion: "The SGA does not favor inclusions in tuition costs dedicated to the purpose of providing aid to all or almost all who need it. Our decision was unanimous.

In light of our past conversations with you we felt that the issue which we could be of most help to you in considering the issue of financial aid. I believe that you once remarked to us that financial aid comprised the most discretionary element of the budget. Thus, we considered the issue of whether or not financial aid as a part of tuition-payers, would be willing to suffer increases in tuition costs. We, as usual, are not privy to the budget figures, however, which appears to be insurable national financial deficits for many cities. Also, most of the state's aid will be focused on the state's fiscal year with deficits, despite laws which require states to end their budget periods with at least a balanced budget. Many states have been forced to cut spending in an attempt to avoid deficits. States are experiencing credit problems as well. The tight money supply of the Federal Reserve has had beneficial effects on the ability of state governments to borrow money.
Freedom Is a Victory

giving of gifts to the children from Santa Claus, games, food and drink. All those who attended had a great time and we hope that our program will continue in the future as it has been given by the Trinity Community.

Thanks again, Scott Taylor
Mark Thibault

The United States, with its present arsenal of nuclear weapons can destroy the entire Soviet Union thirty-five times. The Soviet Union can destroy all major American cities twice over. If the fleet of thirty-one Poseidon submarines contains more explosive power than was detonated in all of Europe and Japan in World War II; and enough fire power to destroy every major city in the U.S.S.R. yet the super-power plans on building more nuclear weapons in the next ten years.

The Hartford Courant recently reported that T.K. Jones, Deputy Undersecretary of Defense for Strategic Arms, said that with proper civil defense it would require only two to four hours for the United States to completely recover from an all-out war with the Soviet Union. "The Americans are better prepared than we are," he added. They could meet and overcome all the hazards of attack environment," but he admitted "it would be a succession of problems, a series of hurdles to surmount."

Dr. Howard Hiatt, Dean of the Hartford Emergency Planning Children's Action Committee, told a senate committee last year: "We will take place in Hamlin Hall and the dance will be $2.00 admission. The proceeds of the dance will benefit the Elizabeth House, a non-profit number one of the most important institutions in the United States, do you envision the neutron bomb as it par- phrases the fact that, despite the talk of limiting nuclear weapons to the South African Blacks who make the South African Crisis or not. The challenges of the post attack en- vironment are more than what a good employer can do for his employees. They are making Apartheid more com- promising and not changes. They are more than what a good employer can do for his employees.

The Name is "Gretsky"

The United States, with its present arsenal of nuclear weapons can destroy the entire Soviet Union thirty-five times. The Soviet Union can destroy all major American cities twice over. If the fleet of thirty-one Poseidon submarines contains more explosive power than was detonated in all of Europe and Japan in World War II; and enough fire power to destroy every major city in the U.S.S.R. yet the super-power plans on building more nuclear weapons in the next ten years.

The Hartford Courant recently reported that T.K. Jones, Deputy Undersecretary of Defense for Strategic Arms, said that with proper civil defense it would require only two to four hours for the United States to completely recover from an all-out war with the Soviet Union. "The Americans are better prepared than we are," he added. They could meet and overcome all the hazards of attack environment," but he admitted "it would be a succession of problems, a series of hurdles to surmount."

Dr. Howard Hiatt, Dean of the Hartford Emergency Planning Children's Action Committee, told a senate committee last year: "We will take place in Hamlin Hall and the dance will be $2.00 admission. The proceeds of the dance will benefit the Elizabeth House, a non-profit number one of the most important institutions in the United States, do you envision the neutron bomb as it par- phrases the fact that, despite the talk of limiting nuclear weapons to the South African Blacks who make the South African Crisis or not. The challenges of the post attack environment are more than what a good employer can do for his employees. They are making Apartheid more compromising and not changes. They are more than what a good employer can do for his employees.

The Name is "Gretsky"

The United States, with its present arsenal of nuclear weapons can destroy the entire Soviet Union thirty-five times. The Soviet Union can destroy all major American cities twice over. If the fleet of thirty-one Poseidon submarines contains more explosive power than was detonated in all of Europe and Japan in World War II; and enough fire power to destroy every major city in the U.S.S.R. yet the super-power plans on building more nuclear weapons in the next ten years.

The Hartford Courant recently reported that T.K. Jones, Deputy Undersecretary of Defense for Strategic Arms, said that with proper civil defense it would require only two to four hours for the United States to completely recover from an all-out war with the Soviet Union. "The Americans are better prepared than we are," he added. They could meet and overcome all the hazards of attack environment," but he admitted "it would be a succession of problems, a series of hurdles to surmount."

Dr. Howard Hiatt, Dean of the Hartford Emergency Planning Children's Action Committee, told a senate committee last year: "We will take place in Hamlin Hall and the dance will be $2.00 admission. The proceeds of the dance will benefit the Elizabeth House, a non-profit number one of the most important institutions in the United States, do you envision the neutron bomb as it par- phrases the fact that, despite the talk of limiting nuclear weapons to the South African Blacks who make the South African Crisis or not. The challenges of the post attack environment are more than what a good employer can do for his employees. They are making Apartheid more compromising and not changes. They are more than what a good employer can do for his employees.
Neighborhood Heads Fear Loss Of Social Services

By W.N. Gregg

Joseph Dagrosa, a Social Work Supervisor for Youth, and Gordon Tweten, an educator at the Mitchell House, are persons affiliated with the Hartford Neighborhood Centers, which is a non-profit tax exempt social work organization originally chartered by the Connecticut General Assembly in 1873 and incorporated in 1968. These people, along with others, are trying to reach out to the Hartford community in order to raise funds and recruit volunteers.

A major problem which has confronted this organization is the effect of the budget cutbacks proposed by the Reagan Administration. President Reagan is proposing to complete the dismantlement of what was a giant program under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). Consequently, service agencies such as the Hartford Neighborhood Centers are financially hindered.

One of the more interesting personalities to arise in some years in Connecticut politics will be running against Lowell P. Weicker, Jr. for the Republican nomination for United States Senator. Until this year, this man, Prescott Bush, Jr., was, and still is, a virtual unknown. Who is Bush? What does he stand for? Why is he running against Weicker?

"Pres" Bush is the brother of Vice-President George Bush and is the son of a former Senator from Connecticut, Prescott Bush, Sr. (who held his seat from 1952 to 1963). He has held only one political office, that of chairman of the Representative Town Meeting of the town of Greenwich in the mid-1960s. However, Bush boasts experience in campaign management, and has worked for his father, brother, and other Republicans in Connecticut. This is unusual in Senate candidates. For example, George McGovern's 1972 campaign manager is now a two-term Senator from Colorado (Gary Hart).

Most of Prescott Bush's experience comes from the business world. He is a high-powered insurance executive in New York City, and manages family holdings worth millions of dollars.

Why does Bush want Lowell Weicker's job so badly? For one thing, he feels Weicker, a maverick liberal Republican, is ill-serving Connecticut and his party. In comments he made during an interview conducted by The Hartford Advocate, Bush put it this way, "... You know the balance of power has shifted. It's gone from the East, the Northeast, and the Midwest to the South, the Southeast, the Southwest, and the West. Now that means, with a Republican Senate and a Republican Administration, Connecticut cannot afford to have two big anti-administration Senators down there representing them. Chris Dodd has voted against Reagan at every turn since he's been there. Now, if Connecticut wants to get its share of federal programs, federal assistance, and everything else, we've got to have somebody down there— with a Republican Administration, and a Republican Senator—who can work with those senators and negotiate when you have differences of opinion."

Bush, Weicker feels, is incapable of dealing and negotiation, and prefers to "slash away" at the President and his colleagues.

"Slash away" is not a conserva-tive in the best of Ronald Reagan, Alfons D'Amato, or Jesse Helms. Bush subscribes to a middle-of-the road, moderate philosophy that in-cludes support for the Equal Rights Amendment and opposition to a constitutional amendment banning abortions. He is, however, a strong supporter of the Economic Recovery Program recently passed by Congress. Bush feels that social programs can only be adequately funded if the economy is sound.

The position of Hartford Editor is now vacant due to the resignation of David R. Lindquist who is leaving the office to devote more time to his studies. All interested applicants should contact either William N. Gregg or Martha Townes.

Good Television Is Less Than A Block Away

By Larry Feldman

Since its first broadcast from Trinity Library's basement in 1962, Connecticut Public Television (CPTV) maintains a studio containing a major fundraising event, the Hartford Campaign Auction, a major fundraising event each year. This year, the auction was easy to make.

Despite the reductions, President Paul Taff says "we just have to work harder in our other areas." CPTV must solicit more money from individual contributors, corporations, and the state, which together make up 60% of CPTV's income, according to Taff.

Despite the reductions, President Paul Taff remarks as the national organization for non-commercial broadcasting, the national reduction in what used to be 20% of the network's budget, President Paul Taff says "we just have to work harder in our other areas." CPTV must solicit more money from individual contributors, corporations, and the state, which together make up 60% of CPTV's income, according to Taff.

Taff says that teamwork is better when the station has used its facilities to help Fairfield County residents testify at state legislature public hearings. CPTV can serve its statewide area, no matter how television scenes are put together. Pohl plans to take his lighting class to CPTV as a project like the Hartford Campaign Auction. Auc-}

Neighborhood Heads Fear Loss Of Social Services

By W.N. Gregg

Joseph Dagrosa, a Social Work Supervisor for Youth, and Gordon Tweten, an educator at the Mitchell House, are persons affiliated with the Hartford Neighborhood Centers, which is a non-profit tax exempt social work organization originally chartered by the Connecticut General Assembly in 1873 and incorporated in 1968. These people, along with others, are trying to reach out to the Hartford community in order to raise funds and recruit volunteers.

A major problem which has confronted this organization is the effect of the budget cutbacks proposed by the Reagan Administration. President Reagan is proposing to complete the dismantlement of what was a giant program under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). Consequently, service agencies such as the Hartford Neighborhood Centers are financially hindered.

One of the more interesting personalities to arise in some years in Connecticut politics will be running against Lowell P. Weicker, Jr. for the Republican nomination for United States Senator. Until this year, this man, Prescott Bush, Jr., was, and still is, a virtual unknown. Who is Bush? What does he stand for? Why is he running against Weicker?

"Pres" Bush is the brother of Vice-President George Bush and is the son of a former Senator from Connecticut, Prescott Bush, Sr. (who held his seat from 1952 to 1963). He has held only one political office, that of chairman of the Representative Town Meeting of the town of Greenwich in the mid-1960s. However, Bush boasts experience in campaign management, and has worked for his father, brother, and other Republicans in Connecticut. This is unusual in Senate candidates. For example, George McGovern's 1972 campaign manager is now a two-term Senator from Colorado (Gary Hart).

Most of Prescott Bush's experience comes from the business world. He is a high-powered insurance executive in New York City, and manages family holdings worth millions of dollars.

Why does Bush want Lowell Weicker's job so badly? For one thing, he feels Weicker, a maverick liberal Republican, is ill-serving Connecticut and his party. In comments he made during an interview conducted by The Hartford Advocate, Bush put it this way, "... You know the balance of power has shifted. It's gone from the East, the Northeast, and the Midwest to the South, the Southeast, the Southwest, and the West. Now that means, with a Republican Senate and a Republican Administration, Connecticut cannot afford to have two big anti-administration Senators down there representing them. Chris Dodd has voted against Reagan at every turn since he's been there. Now, if Connecticut wants to get its share of federal programs, federal assistance, and everything else, we've got to have somebody down there— with a Republican Administration, and a Republican Senator—who can work with those senators and negotiate when you have differences of opinion."

Bush, Weicker feels, is incapable of dealing and negotiation, and prefers to "slash away" at the President and his colleagues.

"Slash away" is not a conservative in the best of Ronald Reagan, Alfons D'Amato, or Jesse Helms. Bush subscribes to a middle-of-the road, moderate philosophy that includes support for the Equal Rights Amendment and opposition to a constitutional amendment banning abortions. He is, however, a strong supporter of the Economic Recovery Program recently passed by Congress. Bush feels that social programs can only be adequately funded if the economy is sound.

The position of Hartford Editor is now vacant due to the resignation of David R. Lindquist who is leaving the office to devote more time to his studies. All interested applicants should contact either William N. Gregg or Martha Townes.

Good Television Is Less Than A Block Away

By Larry Feldman

Since its first broadcast from Trinity Library's basement in 1962, Connecticut Public Television (CPTV) has grown into a five station network. The second largest public television outlet in New England, CPTV maintains a studio in Bridgeport in addition to the main studio on New Britain Avenue.

Trinity still has a limited connection to a southwest neighbor. One or two students usually spend a semester as interns at CPTV, according to Betty Ann Cox, coordinator of the internship office. They join interns from other Connecticut colleges working on specific projects. Tenor Daryl Froelich is working this semester on a publicity director setting up advertising for this April's CPTV Auction, a major fundraising event for the network.

Jim Pohl, a set design teacher in the Theater Arts Department has taken past classes to CPTV to "see how television scenes are put together." Pohl plans to take his present lighting class to CPTV as a project like the Hartford Campaign Auction. Auc-
Trinity College was established as an academy for the training of Episcopalian clergyman in the style of its Congregationalist rival Yale in New Haven. Hartford at the time was a simple Yankee river town which was, through one of the two capital cities of the State of Connecticut (the other was New Haven until 1875). Hartford, feeling equally important, made a concerted effort for bringing the State's second college into its borders, and soon Trinity found itself part of the Hartford community.

"...Trinity found itself part of the Hartford community..."

In those days the Episcopal College became a self-contained entity which had "become more English, possibly more "Academic", and certainly more Episcopalian...", a very different sort of place than downtown Hartford itself. In that time, as Professor Weaver noted, "the relationship with the Hartford community was new in several ways. Clearly, there was student participation in social and cultural events, but more striking was a sort of intramural athletic competition with local residents from rowing to baseball. There were competitions with Trinity and other colleges (Amherst, Bard, Vassar, Yale, etc.), but the most stimulating matches often occurred on playing football against local Hartford schools.

This active participation of Trinity students in the activities of their foster parent city reached a culmination during the presidential tenure of Flavel Sweeten Luther, a sort of collegiate Theodore Roosevelt, through his effervescent character. Luther had grand design for Trinity College, and interested students got more involved than they had ever been before in one classic case, Luther got 84% of the student body to work for his campaign for the State Senate in 1906.

President Luther's catchword was "Progressivism", and it was infectious. Not only did it attract students to his political ideas, but it attracted sympathisers to his cause of bringing Trinity out of the ecclesiastical world and into the secular. Although Luther was an ordained Episcopalian clergyman, he had no misgivings whatever about directing the College's energies into serving Hartford and its people. In a very great sense, he succeeded in this goal (although he didn't get to Trinity technical school building). He succeeded in bringing Trinity's attentions from "training gentlemen" to being of service.

Ironically, Trinity never again saw that much fervent dynamism applied to participating in Hartford life. The last of the major obstacles to a full partnership had been thrown off, and with that, the college lapse into a habitation of spirit.

For Delicious Pizza and Hot Oven Grinders

Call when you leave — it will be ready upon your arrival.

Come in and Eat in our NEWLY EXPANDED Dining Room

Phone 247-0234

287 New Britain Ave., Hartford
Across from South Campus

Richard Staron, prop.
Faculty Dance Concert Crushes the Conventional

by Karen Webber

Times and Places, an evening of dance presented by the Trinity Dance and Evening Workshop Faculty this weekend suspended time, rearranged the stage and creation, all of which proved inspiring as well as entertaining.

“Airs,” choreographed and performed by Connie Kreemer, was lucid and filling as it was evocative. Kreemer used this piece to express her love of nature, and whether picking a flower or catching a coin, the piece was clean and direct in its movement. Rampal’s flowing flute melody accompanied her offerings. Falling, dancing, and rolling, and just as she was enveloped by the air, so too was her audience.

“Here Today, Gone Tomorrow,” choreographed by Katherine Power and danced by Dworin, Karin Whitley, Evan Williams and Power, was an angry piece that surprised its unsuspecting audience. Succes-sive-in structure, it consisted of several segments of varied quality.

Particularly effective sections included “Here Comes the Sun,” in which Power and Dworin develop a slyer relationship, and “Let It Be,” a strong solo performed by Evan Williams, whose quasi-mechanical movements were almost frightening. Karin Whitley displayed her fine and jazzy technique in “Evolution,” providing her dance with sparkle and comic flair. The performers were well-spaced and symmetrically balanced by the choreographer, but the very different styles of the performers somehow clashed when they danced together in a union movement.

Dance at the Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford on Monday, Feb. 8 at 11 a.m. Call 278-2670 for more info.

The Gallery

An exhibition of 17th- and early 18th-century American chests and boxes, loaned from the Nutting and Goodwin Collection. On view throughout the month of February. Admission free to all guests.

A Chorus Line kicks up its heels at Bushnell Memorial February 9-14. This show is currently Brownway's longest running musical hit, and won the Pulitzer Prize for Drama. Curtain time is 8 p.m., with matinees Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at 3 p.m. Call the Bushnell for more info.

Drink Tea But Don’t Talk!

Judy Dworin, recently tenured director of the Trinity Dance Department, choreographed and danced in many of the pieces of the Faculty Dance Concert last weekend.

A program of weekend film matinees designed to evoke the movie-going experience of Hollywood's golden age will be shown at the Athenaeum Theater Saturdays and Sundays at 2 p.m. between Jan. 16 and April 11. A different program will be presented each weekend. General admission will be $2; tickets will be available at the theater box office 30 minutes before show time. Feb. 6 and 11 — "National Velvet" (1944), directed by Clarence Brown and starring Elizabeth Taylor and Mickey Rooney.

The opening weekend of Real Art Ways spring film series takes place February 5, 6, and 7 featuring a festival of films by Stan Brakhage. For further information call 525-3521.

Fashion

Pauline Trijger, designer of some of the most elegant, practical, timeless and impeccably-cut women's clothes made in America, will be the guest speaker at a lecture-lunchbox

An exhibition about tea and some of the many ceremonies associated with the drinking of it will be presented at the Wadsworth Atheneum's Lions Gallery between Jan. 15 and May 9, 1982. The title of the exhibition is "Storied Away: Philbrick Century Chests and Boxes from the Nutting and Goodwin Collections."

A program of weekend film matinees designed to evoke the movie-going experience of Hollywood's golden age will be shown at the Athenaeum Theater Saturdays and Sundays at 2 p.m. between Jan. 16 and April 11. A different program will be presented each weekend. General admission will be $2; tickets will be available at the theater box office 30 minutes before show time. Feb. 6 and 11 — "National Velvet" (1944), directed by Clarence Brown and starring Elizabeth Taylor and Mickey Rooney.

The opening weekend of Real Art Ways spring film series takes place February 5, 6, and 7 featuring a festival of films by Stan Brakhage. For further information call 525-3521.

Fashion

Pauline Trijger, designer of some of the most elegant, practical, timeless and impeccably-cut women's clothes made in America, will be the guest speaker at a lecture-lunchbox

An exhibition about tea and some of the many ceremonies associated with the drinking of it will be presented at the Wadsworth Atheneum's Lions Gallery between Jan. 15 and May 9, 1982. The title of the exhibition is "Storied Away: Philbrick Century Chests and Boxes from the Nutting and Goodwin Collections."

A program of weekend film matinees designed to evoke the movie-going experience of Hollywood's golden age will be shown at the Athenaeum Theater Saturdays and Sundays at 2 p.m. between Jan. 16 and April 11. A different program will be presented each weekend. General admission will be $2; tickets will be available at the theater box office 30 minutes before show time. Feb. 6 and 11 — "National Velvet" (1944), directed by Clarence Brown and starring Elizabeth Taylor and Mickey Rooney.

The opening weekend of Real Art Ways spring film series takes place February 5, 6, and 7 featuring a festival of films by Stan Brakhage. For further information call 525-3521.

Fashion

Pauline Trijger, designer of some of the most elegant, practical, timeless and impeccably-cut women's clothes made in America, will be the guest speaker at a lecture-lunchbox

An exhibition about tea and some of the many ceremonies associated with the drinking of it will be presented at the Wadsworth Atheneum's Lions Gallery between Jan. 15 and May 9, 1982. The title of the exhibition is "Storied Away: Philbrick Century Chests and Boxes from the Nutting and Goodwin Collections."

A program of weekend film matinees designed to evoke the movie-going experience of Hollywood's golden age will be shown at the Athenaeum Theater Saturdays and Sundays at 2 p.m. between Jan. 16 and April 11. A different program will be presented each weekend. General admission will be $2; tickets will be available at the theater box office 30 minutes before show time. Feb. 6 and 11 — "National Velvet" (1944), directed by Clarence Brown and starring Elizabeth Taylor and Mickey Rooney.

The opening weekend of Real Art Ways spring film series takes place February 5, 6, and 7 featuring a festival of films by Stan Brakhage. For further information call 525-3521.

Fashion

Pauline Trijger, designer of some of the most elegant, practical, timeless and impeccably-cut women's clothes made in America, will be the guest speaker at a lecture-lunchbox

An exhibition about tea and some of the many ceremonies associated with the drinking of it will be presented at the Wadsworth Atheneum's Lions Gallery between Jan. 15 and May 9, 1982. The title of the exhibition is "Storied Away: Philbrick Century Chests and Boxes from the Nutting and Goodwin Collections."

A program of weekend film matinees designed to evoke the movie-going experience of Hollywood's golden age will be shown at the Athenaeum Theater Saturdays and Sundays at 2 p.m. between Jan. 16 and April 11. A different program will be presented each weekend. General admission will be $2; tickets will be available at the theater box office 30 minutes before show time. Feb. 6 and 11 — "National Velvet" (1944), directed by Clarence Brown and starring Elizabeth Taylor and Mickey Rooney.

The opening weekend of Real Art Ways spring film series takes place February 5, 6, and 7 featuring a festival of films by Stan Brakhage. For further information call 525-3521.
By Laurie Anderson

Twenty years ago curiosity took Louise Jefferson to the continent of Africa. Excited by her first taste of African culture and anxious to extend her experiences on that continent, Jefferson returned to Africa four times over the course of the next ten years. Her later voyages were financed by two Ford Foundation fellowships and her intention was to create a book which demonstrated the richness and diversity of African art forms. The Decorative Arts of Africa is a catalogue of Jefferson's observations in Africa. Research, written and illustrated with her photographs and drawings, the work emerged as a visual sampling of the spirit and tempo of African art.

In her photographs and drawings Jefferson captured not only the great skill of the African artists but the innovative art forms which represent the Book of Hours. The Decorative Arts of Africa is a catalogue of Jefferson's observations in Africa. Research, written and illustrated with her photographs and drawings, the work emerged as a visual sampling of the spirit and tempo of African art.

Recently Jefferson visited Trinity College. Following a work-in-progress exhibit of some of her photographs and illustrations in the lobby of Austin Arts Center, Jefferson presented a slide show entitled "Some of Africa's People and Their Artistry." "It's not a lecture," she explained, "it's just showing glimpses...a glimpse here, a glimpse there..." To Louise Jefferson, photography is as much of an art as painting, illuminating and writing, and she uses her photographic talents to capture such delightful scenes as a man repairing the engine in a moving truck. "This is the African manner," Jefferson remarked. "They think they can do it and then they try. Now, he just calls in that track while its running—it will probably run for the next twenty years..."

A native of Washington, D.C., Jefferson attended Hunter College before entering upon a career in New York publishing. She has done art and photographic work for most of the major publishing houses in New York including Doubleday and company, Viking, Revue, Rutgers University Press Bookcraftsmen Avoco, and the African American Institute, designing that group's logo.

Now retired and doing only fine work, Jefferson seems to be busier than ever. Her new publications include a book on New England painters, another on African rituals and a third on the underground railroad stations during the Civil War. In between these projects she plans to work on a book illustrating and writing, and she uses her photographic talents to capture such delightful scenes as a man repairing the engine in a moving truck. "This is the African manner," Jefferson remarked. "They think they can do it and then they try. Now, he just calls in that track while its running—it will probably run for the next twenty years..."

A native of Washington, D.C., Jefferson attended Hunter College before entering upon a career in New York publishing. She has done art and photographic work for most of the major publishing houses in New York including Doubleday and company, Viking, Revue, Rutgers University Press Bookcraftsmen Avoco, and the African American Institute, designing that group's logo.

Now retired and doing only fine work, Jefferson seems to be busier than ever. Her new publications include a book on New England painters, another on African rituals and a third on the underground railroad stations during the Civil War. In between these projects she plans to work on a book illustrating and writing, and she uses her photographic talents to capture such delightful scenes as a man repairing the engine in a moving truck. "This is the African manner," Jefferson remarked. "They think they can do it and then they try. Now, he just calls in that track while its running—it will probably run for the next twenty years...

A native of Washington, D.C., Jefferson attended Hunter College before entering upon a career in New York publishing. She has done art and photographic work for most of the major publishing houses in New York including Doubleday and company, Viking, Revue, Rutgers University Press Bookcraftsmen Avoco, and the African American Institute, designing that group's logo.
Hockey Rips Suffolk: Falls At Amherst

Paced by five first period goals, Coach John Dunham's Bantams ousted and outscored Suffolk University Saturday by a score of 9-3. Mike McCarthy and Mike Bedard netted two goals apiece, leading the team's 40 shot bombardment. The game, played at the Boston University Arena, was the second between these teams this season. The two game totals show Trinity well on top by a 19-4 scoring margin. Dunham was pleased with his team's performance, although the third period was marked by unnecessary penalties and sloppy play. Nevertheless, the Bants were able to make the Tigers' three third period goals. Brian Clarke played well in goal, turning aside 17 shots. He was replaced late in the final period by freshman Craig Dobbs who likewise performed well. The victory upped Trinity's Division III record to 6-3 and their overall mark 6-5. More importantly, the win increased the Bantams' momentum as they face difficult teams this coming week and strengthened their confidence after last week's difficult loss to Amherst.

On Wednesday, Trinity traveled to Amherst, Mass., only to lose to the Lord Jeffs on a two fluke third period goals. The Bants dominated the opening period, out-scoring their rivals 19-9, but finished the period behind 2-1. In the second period Trinity's effective fore checking and puck control overpowered their opponents. At 19:01, while the teams were serving matching penalties, Bob Ferguson spun down center ice, pulled the goal out of the net, and slid a backhand shot into the lower right hand corner. The goal seemed to shift the momentum around, as it broke the 3-3 deadlock. The teams' uncharacteristic ledown in the third period proved fatal as the Lord Jeffs scored back-to-back goals, and then held off the Trinity attack for the final five minutes.

Trinity will face New Haven Monday, Bentley Wednesday and Williams Saturday. The Bentley game is the only Division III match-up, so it is still too early to positively assess the Bant's chances of a playoff berth. It is certain that Trinity cannot afford to lose another Division III game, because the top contenders have only one or two losses.

Tribute To Kurth, Slaughter

continued from page 15

your capabie assistants, he has expanded and improved the Trinity program. This position has been full of headaches and pressures. Trinity has seen the freshman and JV programs phased out in the full of headaches and pressures. Karl has had to name of saving money. We have stand this second person while make "both popular and unpopular riding up to football games. Bob or time as athletic director is up. The program. This position has been expanded and improved the Trinity Rab Slaughter would spin tales transcend the greatness of the man.

He was always well received and set by my friends. I may have been to state that I have mentioned not-go unnoticed. I do not pretend you saw at the worst time, when you were hurt. He has filled many a whirlpool.- I highly recommend his backrubs. He has contributed where there is a baseball, Rab can be found. I could not name all the contributions and all the programs he had aided in some way. His position will be filled. The person will never be replaced. The college and myself are losing another good friend.

These three individuals' involvement in Trinity sports should not go unnoticed. I do not pretend to state that I have mentioned everything these people have done at this college. I can only tell you about the major accomplishments and my feelings about these people. When they all leave the campus, those who attempt to replace them, will be judged by the high standards set by my friends. I may have been here a long time, but it has had its advantages:

Rodger Coutu scores an easy two against New England.

by Sandy Monaghan

On Wednesday the Men's Squash team traveled to New Haven to take on the Yale Bulldogs. The home court advantage seemed to help the Bulldogs as they pulled out five game victories and thrashed the Bantams 8-1.

Friday the Bantams played Hobart in the first match of the Trinity round-robin tourney. The Bants won easily 9-0. Michael Georgy, Sandy Monaghan, Rick Gelin and Johnny Holmren all gave up less than six points per game. Later that afternoon the Bants advanced with a victory over Wesleyan, 9-0. Every player won easily and Georgy lost only five points in his entire match.

On Saturday Trinity played Colby and Bowdoin. First, the Bants defeated Colby 9-0. The second match was against Bowdoin, Bowdoin, being the second best team in the tourney, played well but fell short to the Bants, losing 9-0.

Senior captain Peter Derose played with experience winning all his matches without giving up a single game. Other players who followed Derose's fine leadership were Doug Burband and Rick Gelin, both of whom won 3-0. Amazingly the Bants won 108 games while losing only 10, as Trinity swept to the championship.

IN THE ARENA

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Sport</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Score</th>
<th>Record</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Men's Basketball</td>
<td>vs. U Hartford</td>
<td>92-61</td>
<td>7-5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>vs. Wesleyan</td>
<td>76-60</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>vs. Tufts</td>
<td>60-62</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Women's Basketball</td>
<td>vs. Vassar</td>
<td>65-48</td>
<td>8-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>vs. WPI</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hockey</td>
<td>vs. Amherst</td>
<td>4-5</td>
<td>6-5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>vs. Suffolk</td>
<td>9-5</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Men's Swimming</td>
<td>vs. Wesleyan</td>
<td>49-48</td>
<td>4-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Women's Swimming</td>
<td>vs. Wesleyan</td>
<td>73-49</td>
<td>4-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Women's Squash</td>
<td>vs. Vassar</td>
<td>7-0</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>vs. Yale</td>
<td>3-4</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wrestling</td>
<td>vs. MIT</td>
<td>15-48</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>vs. Harvard</td>
<td>10-42</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Men's Fencing</td>
<td>vs. Yale</td>
<td>1-26</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>vs. Maine</td>
<td>10-17</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Men's Squash</td>
<td>vs. Colby</td>
<td>1-8</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>vs. Hobart</td>
<td>9-0</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>vs. Wesleyan</td>
<td>9-0</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>vs. Colby</td>
<td>9-0</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

More Sports

Scott Fuller winds up in the recent Trinity Round-robin.
More Sports

Women’s B-Ball Win Streak Ends

by Anne Mahoney

The Trinity Women’s Basketball team came away with a split decision in last week’s action. After having scored to yet another victory, Wednesday against Vassar, which extended their record to 8-0, the Trinity women hoopspers fell eleven points shy in their game at WPI Friday night.

Before losing their first game of the season, the Bantams had dominated Vassar by a 65-48 count. A pressure defense and strong offensive rebounding allowed Trinity to control the tempo of the game. Taking the early lead, the Lady Bantams never looked back and at one time led by as many as 19 points. Snakc by Karen Orczyk, Chris Lofgren, and Karen Rodgers sparked a flurry of offensive activity as Trinity scored 16 unanswered points in less than ten minutes. Vassar failed to capitalize on their offensive opportunities, while Trinity cruised most chances by rebounding effectively and scoring on the second shot. Lofgren and Rodgers exploited these opportunities and led the scoring with 22 points each. Trinity continued to dominate in the second half with each team member contributing to the victory.

Vassar was not be for the Bantams Friday night. During pregame warmups, starter Karen Orczyk injured her back while stretching out and went to the hospital. Plagued by turnovers and fouls, the Bantams quietly found themselves at the short end of a 33-22 halftime score. Although neither team had a high shooting percentage, WPI out rebounded Trinity 39 to 29, as a result, managed fifteen more shots at the basket.

Outscored in all but the final ten minutes, Trinity had trouble sustaining a run at WPI. Kathleen Seyle and Leslie Wicks picked up the scoring slack at the end of the game with seven and six points respectively. Unfortunately, the effort fell short. Trinity’s scoring was spread out among several players, however, the offense was basically stemmed as for the first time this year only one player scored in double figures. Karen Rodgers with 11 Sty did finish the game with nine.

In the loss, the Lady Bantams fell victim to the very things that had given them an undefeated record; a stout defense and well executed offense. Whether or not the team will bounce back and regain form remains to be seen. Above all, this group of players is a unified team and in all likelihood this aspect of the game will continue. The pressure of an undefeated season has ended, now they only have to focus on finishing what has been an outstanding season.

Ducks Paddle Past Wesleyan

Women Roll On

by Tony Annow

The Women’s Swim Team upped their record to 4-1 with a pretty 73-49 win over Wesleylan last Wednesday night. The Cardinals have been subject to Trinity’s domination in the past two years, enabling Coach Carl McPhee to give his little stars a chance to shine by varying the lineup throughout the meet.

Although the Wesleyan women were quite fast from their water training in Florida, the Trinity women were able to show depth and quality from the cold New England double sessions.

The quartet of Martha Belcher, Laura Couch, Laura Gill and Linda Gillett easily swam past their opponents in the medley relay to begin the meet. In the 50 freestyle, Tim Raftis was the event while dropping his time by a second. Peiser, regaling her junior year form in the 100 yards, proved ready to break the six-minute barrier soon.

Michelle Parsons, a.k.a. “Lung Women”, won the 100 free by taking just one breath the entire race. With Lake winning at distances of 100 and 200 yards, Trinity had swept every freestyle event.

In the 50 butterfly, freshman Edith Harris, making a comeback after a pre-Christmas bout with mono, looked strong with a time of 23.5 while teammate Laura Gill won the race. Gray, who touched out her Wesleyan opponent with a 1:08.2, placed second to sophomore Cass in the 100 fly.

Linda Gillett and Laura Couch paced each other to a first and second in the 100 IM with times of 1:10.5 and 1:11.8 respectively.

In the back and breaststroke events Trinity dominated with sheer depth. Backstroker Martha Belcher teamed with Sue Culler to easily sweep the 50. In the 100, Belcher joined with Tree Peters to do the damage to Wesleyan. Breaststokers Couch and Debbie Cronin placed first and third in the 50, while Tony Annow and Nancy Meade acquitted themselves well at the distance of 100 yards placing second and third.

There was no diving as the Wesleyan team has removed the diving board from their home pool and dropped their diving program. Look for Trinity’s divers to show depth and improvement from the cold New England winter training in Florida, the Trinity women were able to show that they remained strong and ready to edge the Cardinals.

Men Come From Behind To Edge Cardinals

In 48-47 Thriller

Last Wednesday evening the men’s swim team battled a fired up Wesleyan contingent in a contest that settled a large and noisy crowd at the home pool. Heroic performances were the rule as the Bantams trailed early but finished with a rush to nip the Cardinals 46-47 at the final. It was the second one-point upset in a row for the young Trinity swimmers who left their coach and their fans ecstatic.

The medley relay of Bowden, Gray, Raftis, and Lake flashed to a win in the first event with a 3:35.71, but it was the last time the Ducks were ahead until the final event. Rex Dyer powered to a first place in the 200 freestyle (FS) with a 1:53.46, but it was the only bright spot early in the meet as Chip Lake was upset in the 50S, and Scott Bowden suffered his first defeat in memory in the 200 IM. Both Lake and Bowden were extratant races and were outpaced by brilliant Cardinal performances.

The relay medley 바워드, Gray, Raftis, and Lake flashed to a win in the first event with a 3:35.71, but it was the last time the Ducks were ahead until the final event. Rex Dyer powered to a first place in the 200 freestyle (FS) with a 1:53.46, but it was the only bright spot early in the meet as Chip Lake was upset in the 50FS, and Scott Bowden suffered his first defeat in memory in the 200 IM. Both Lake and Bowden were excellent races and were outpaced by brilliant Cardinal performances.

In the 100FS, freshman Tim Raftis brought the house down with a convincing win over Wesleyan’s great sprinter Stu, turning in a season’s best effort of 58.45. Fired by Raftis’ effort, Bowden and Dyer swept the 200 Back going 1-2 over Rob Smith, one of the premier swimmers in New England. Bowden’s 2:17.1 and Dyer’s 2:06.6 were unexpected at this point in the season.

Wesleyan tried to close out the meet in the 200 breast, entering Shea against Trinity’s Doug Gray. Gray responded to the challenge however with his best effort of the season (2:26.13) and touched out the Cardinal star. Bill Huffer also registered his best ever swim in this race with a 2:19.3.

Gray’s win put Tim in a position to win it all with a victory in the 400 FS Relay. The team of Bob Anderson, Lample, and Dyer led all the way and clinched an emotional win with a 3:29.42 checkpoint.

Cardiac Kids is an overworked nickname in sports perhaps, but it certainly is appropriate for this exciting and gutsy group who were justifiably ecstatic.
Tuesday Afternoon

by Stephen K. Gelman

they have had the best start of any women’s basketball team in Trinity history, and at season’s end lies the Northeast Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Tournament which will offer an opportunity for the squad to establish their Division III superiority beyond a season of new heights.

Two years ago talk of unbeaten strings and championships was ludicrous. That was, in fact, the year that Karen Orczyk, the team’s leading scorer, reinjured her back in warm-ups, then the refs were 45 minutes late, and when they finally arrived, his whistle was inaudible. The Trinity program flourished and diversified. The team made good use of their ad-

Battamban Sports In Brief

Trinity’s women’s squash team dropped six points from a McLellan pin at the 5:30 mark, and three points from a McLellan pin at the 15:30 weight. (Sean Darby was out due to a shoulder injury incurred during this match with MIT.) McLellan won a 15-4 majority decision to give Trinity its only other points. The seniors in their second meet of the day Wednesday night in Unit-D. The Trinity Men’s Fencing Team won all of the men. It was a losing battle all along. Only one victory, a well-deserved one, won by Vladimir Dimanshteyen, and Andy Paine, and Steve Dynan, Andy Paine, Tim Pichichelli, playing number six, led the way by easily handling her opponent, winning easily while barely breaking a sweat. Lee Spruance and Charlotte Burbank also ran up a 26-18 win in Trinity’s 65-48 loss.

continued from page 16

Parzych

Tufts Holds Off Late Trin Rally

The Trinity Men’s Fencing Team lost their past three meets against Yale, 26-1, University of Maine, 17-10, and SMU, 15-12. The women’s team beat University of Maine, 10-6, and were defeated by SMU, 12-3.

The Yale meet was a disaster for the Trinity men. It was a losing battle all along. Only one victory, a well-deserved one, won by Vladimir Dimanshteyen, and Andy Paine, and Steve Dynan, Andy Paine, Tim Pichichelli, playing number six, led the way by easily handling her opponent, winning easily while barely breaking a sweat. Lee Spruance and Charlotte Burbank also ran up a 26-18 win in Trinity’s 65-48 loss.

continued from page 16

Fencing Struggles

The Trinity Men’s Fencing Team lost their past three meets against Yale, 26-1, University of Maine, 17-10, and SMU, 15-12. The women’s team beat University of Maine, 10-6, and were defeated by SMU, 12-3.

The Yale meet was a disaster for the Trinity men. It was a losing battle all along. Only one victory, a well-deserved one, won by Vladimir Dimanshteyen, and Andy Paine, and Steve Dynan, Andy Paine, Tim Pichichelli, playing number six, led the way by easily handling her opponent, winning easily while barely breaking a sweat. Lee Spruance and Charlotte Burbank also ran up a 26-18 win in Trinity’s 65-48 loss.

continued from page 16

The pressure is mounting as we continue our winning streak, but the only thing that matters is that an 8-0 record was enough untarnished success for one team. Now the winning streak is over. WPI ended the eight game unbeaten string on a night when it almost seemed as if fate had decided that an 8-0 record was enough untarnished success for one team. First, Karen Orczyk, the team’s leading scorer, reinjured her back in warm-ups, then the refs were 45 minutes late, and when they finally arrived, his whistle was inaudible. The Trinity program flourished and diversified. The result is that players like Rodgers, Orczyk, Debbie Presley, Chris Lofgren, and others come to Trinity as multi-sport specialists. Of even more importance is the fact that a majority of the team carries a winning tradition from high school to Trinity. The women were “foiled” by SMU, 12-3. Although Lisa Anastasi did nicely, winning two of four bouts, Trinity was set back when the number one follicul was on both teams, Vladimir Dimanshteyen and Cathy Waller, were injured on the strip.

The poor performances of the Squash Team can be attributed to the large number of first year fencers on the squad. This season is serving as on the job training for these rookies who will hopefully lead Trinity Fencing in victory in future seasons.

by Bob Parzych

Maybe I’ve been around this game too long to be staying around much longer! Many people have contributed to the success of Trinity’s sports program in extremely successful high school programs. Rodgers starred on a

Battamban Sports In Brief

Trinity’s women’s squash team dropped two dual meets last week, leaving their record at 2-1.

During their solid victory over Bates, Trinity entered the locker-room on the long end of a 26-18 count. After suffering through a cold spell in the opening moments of the first half of play, the Bantams got their act together and finished off their weaker opponents. The Bantams made good use of their advantage from the foul line, as the walk-up shooters failed to hit three of the four opponents’ subs. The fast break was working to perfection, as the forwards would clear the boards and initiate the running attack that more often than not ended up with an uncontested layup or an open jumper. Rapp led the way for the winners, recording 19 points and 10 rebounds, followed by Dave Wynter, Costi, and Barnes, who each contributed 12 points in the team effort.

The sole loss of the week was administered by talented-bred Tufts Saturday night in Medford, as Trinity fell behind early and was forced to cash in for most of the game.

Down 65-52, the Bantams battled back to within two points on the shooting Courto and Bates, only to be forced to foul in order to stop the clock with 10 seconds left to play. Two Tufts free throws put an end to Trinity’s comeback hopes, and sealed the defeat.

continued from page 16

The shooting of Courto and Bates entered the locker-room on the long end of a 26-18 count. After suffering through a cold spell in the opening moments of the first half of play, the Bantams got their act together and finished off their weaker opponents. The Bantams made good use of their advantage from the foul line, as the walk-up shooters failed to hit three of the four opponents’ subs. The fast break was working to perfection, as the forwards would clear the boards and initiate the running attack that more often than not ended up with an uncontested layup or an open jumper. Rapp led the way for the winners, recording 19 points and 10 rebounds, followed by Dave Wynter, Costi, and Barnes, who each contributed 12 points in the team effort.

The sole loss of the week was administered by talented-bred Tufts Saturday night in Medford, as Trinity fell behind early and was forced to cash in for most of the game.

Down 65-52, the Bantams battled back to within two points on the shooting Courto and Bates, only to be forced to foul in order to stop the clock with 10 seconds left to play. Two Tufts free throws put an end to Trinity’s comeback hopes, and sealed the defeat.

continued from page 16

The shooting of Courto and Bates entered the locker-room on the long end of a 26-18 count. After suffering through a cold spell in the opening moments of the first half of play, the Bantams got their act together and finished off their weaker opponents. The Bantams made good use of their advantage from the foul line, as the walk-up shooters failed to hit three of the four opponents’ subs. The fast break was working to perfection, as the forwards would clear the boards and initiate the running attack that more often than not ended up with an uncontested layup or an open jumper. Rapp led the way for the winners, recording 19 points and 10 rebounds, followed by Dave Wynter, Costi, and Barnes, who each contributed 12 points in the team effort.

The sole loss of the week was administered by talented-bred Tufts Saturday night in Medford, as Trinity fell behind early and was forced to cash in for most of the game.

Down 65-52, the Bantams battled back to within two points on the shooting Courto and Bates, only to be forced to foul in order to stop the clock with 10 seconds left to play. Two Tufts free throws put an end to Trinity’s comeback hopes, and sealed the defeat.

continued from page 16

The shooting of Courto and Bates entered the locker-room on the long end of a 26-18 count. After suffering through a cold spell in the opening moments of the first half of play, the Bantams got their act together and finished off their weaker opponents. The Bantams made good use of their advantage from the foul line, as the walk-up shooters failed to hit three of the four opponents’ subs. The fast break was working to perfection, as the forwards would clear the boards and initiate the running attack that more often than not ended up with an uncontested layup or an open jumper. Rapp led the way for the winners, recording 19 points and 10 rebounds, followed by Dave Wynter, Costi, and Barnes, who each contributed 12 points in the team effort.

The sole loss of the week was administered by talented-bred Tufts Saturday night in Medford, as Trinity fell behind early and was forced to cash in for most of the game.
Hoopsters Win At Home, Fall On the Road

Tufts Edges Bantams, 62-60

by Anthony Fischetti

Tremendous rebounding and hot perimeter shooting enabled the Men's Varsity Basketball Team to emerge victorious in two of its three contests last week, leaving it with a 7-5 overall win-loss record. The two victories were blowout affairs while the lone loss was a two point heartbreaker on the road.

The opening victory came at the expense of the Wesleyan Cardinals at Ferris on Tuesday evening, as the Bantams broke out on top and never relinquished their lead, counting to a 76-60 triumph. Jim Sasse was the scoring star for Trinity, connecting on a dazzling array of twisting layups and jaw-dropping excuses to a 25 point performance.

Senior Roger Coutu also impressed with the return of his deadly side jumps and rebounding muscle on the inside, as the power forward tallied 21 points for the game. The chairman of the board, however, was center and Co-captain Carl Rapp, who pulled down 14 rebounds in addition to scoring 17.

The hosts assumed a quick 7-0 lead after four minutes had elapsed, and remained on top the rest of the game. Rapp was particularly ferocious off the boards, grabbing numerous rebounds and setting off the outlet passes to John Menney of Bars to start the break. Behind Rapp's rebounding (12 in the half) continued on page 15

Scroggs Turns Blue Heaven Into Tarheel Lacrosse Heaven

by Stephen Gellman

"How are things in heaven?" is a very old opening to a telephone conversation, intended to spice up the conversation and begin with the truth that the University of North Carolina is a very old place for a NCAA lacrosse championship team.

Willie Scroggs uttered the old phrase (Chapel Hill is known as blue heaven), and he is the architect of the mislabeled national championship. The state of North Carolina is most definitely not known for its lacrosse. In fact absolutely no high school lacrosse exists in the Tar Heel state.

When Scroggs arrived in Chapel Hill, two years ago, lacrosse was going through a period of extreme belt tightening. The team shared a practice area with the track and soccer teams, and was limited to nine scholarships a year, down from twelve. Further, to raise money the lacrosse team cleaned up Kenan Stadium after football games. Finally, Scroggs's job was considered no part time, and he was put in charge of game operations for football and basketball.

While on the surface this appears as a terrible series of hardships, Scroggs says many of the limits appear much more imposing that they are. The shared area for practice includes a grass field and artificial turf field, certainly far from a horrible situation. Scroggs is now an assistant athletic director and is still in charge of game operations. He does, however, have assistants which enable him to visit clinics such as Trinity's when the basketball team has a home game. The team still cleans up Kenan Stadium "because we want to, not because we have to," Scroggs insists.

As with shared practice area, the limiting of scholarships was a burden shared by many teams. The decision had been made before Scroggs arrived at UNC. Cutting available scholarships for lacrosse was part of an effort "to take some of the money and shift it around so every team was treated just about the same." The situation remains as it was two years ago, and Scroggs feels that it will not change. Nevertheless he feels "we'll still be able to recruit good kids to our program, because we've been able to each year with less and less money."

Without the money to offer to attract his recruits, Scroggs has had to sell the school to the top high school players. He explains "because we do have an outstanding school, because we've been here to each year with less and less money."

As with shared practice area, the limiting of scholarships was a burden shared by many teams. The decision had been made before Scroggs arrived at UNC. Cutting available scholarships for lacrosse was part of an effort "to take some of the money and shift it around so every team was treated just about the same." The situation remains as it was two years ago, and Scroggs feels that it will not change. Nevertheless he feels "we'll still be able to recruit good kids to our program, because we've been able to each year with less and less money."

The comparison is however limited. Defensively lacrosse is different in lacrosse there is one set way to stop the offensive player from moving, unlike in basketball where an offensive player can be forced to pick up his dribble. On the other hand a lacrosse defender can hit the offensive player, a luxury a basketball player most certainly does not enjoy. In general, Scroggs advises the new fan "to feel insinuated because they don't know the rules or understand the game. One team is trying to score, and the other team is trying to prevent it."

In the hot beds of lacrosse, Baltimore and Long Island, the game is viewed with a little more ineight. Lacrosse however, for the first time is beginning to spread out of its traditional strongholds. Update New York leads a group of areas that are starting to produce a steady flow of division one talent. One of these areas is New England. In the last few years Scroggs has "talked to a number of kids from the New England area."

It is conceivable that a major New England university could burst into the lacrosse elite like North Carolina has, but it is very hard to get a recruit who has been offered four years in heaven.