Forum Examines Sexual Harassment

by Kirsten Hertz

Editor’s note: This is the second installment of a two-part series on sexual harassment.

If you are the victim of sexual harassment, what forum do you have for your complaints? Trinity has a grievance procedure, a slight modification of the Yale procedure which appears on pp. 76-81 of the sexual harassment handbook. In this article I will like to discuss Trinity’s grievance procedure in hopes of providing information on the proper steps for filling a complaint. I will briefly refer to sexual harassment and the law, as well as the positive steps that individuals can take to educate the community about sexual harassment.

Sexual harassment cases were not brought to the courts until 1974, forming a new body of the law which has yet to be clearly defined. Most of the cases dealt with sexual harassment in the workplace. However, a case was brought against Yale University in 1974, which is the law is now being tested.

The sexual harassment grievance committee at Trinity must consist of seven members: Two students, two administrators, two faculty members, and one person who has experience in clinical psychology. This year’s committee members are: George Doten (chairperson, professor of psychology); Marilyn Denny (Director of Institutional Affairs); J. Ronald Spencer (Associate Academic Dean); Milla Ripp (Associate Provost of English); George Higgins (College Counselor); Pam Voss (Professor of Psychology); and Gary Charity.’ A student can approach any of these members with questions, requests for procedural information, or presentation of a complaint. A signed, written complaint is required, regardless of the early stages of the procedure; however, a formal complaint (signed and written) must be presented to the committee before it can begin its investigation. A formal complaint can be presented at any time within one year of an incident of sexual harassment. If the committee believes that the incident was not sexual harassment, the complainant will receive a written explanation.

Please turn to page 3

Frat is Coming Back

BOSTON, MA. (CPS)—Fraternities will enjoy "dramatic" increases in membership over the next several years as more students reach for "stability and structure" during their time in college, two Northeastern University researchers predict.

"Fraternities are coming back for the same reason that the junior prom is coming back," says sociology Professor Jack Lee, who co-authored a study of fraternities with Northeastern criminal justice instructor James Fox. Fraternity membership hit its peak in the early and middle sixties, and then dropped sharply during the campus protests of the late sixties and early seventies.

In the ten years between 1966 and 1976, for instance, the proportion of college students in Greek organization plummeted from 19 percent to 19 percent. The average fraternity chapter membership dropped from 50 to only 34 during that same period, according to the National Interfraternity Conference.

"During the late sixties and early seventies, fraternities lost the support of students, particularly at elite, private institutions where they were the strongest," Lee explains.

"Fraternity members became stigmatized as members of the Establishment," he says.

But today students are looking for the security and structure that fraternity membership offers, and a "dramatic reversal" of decline in frat membership is taking place, Lee asserts.

Based on the study of fraternities at over 160 colleges, membership in fraternities has climbed from 19 to 29 percent of the student population.

That trend is even stronger at influential schools on the east and west coasts, he adds, where social patterns typically are more rigid. But with an increased membership on campuses, fraternities are also garnering more attention, often of a disciplinary nature, from college administrators and police.

"Fraternities were less problematic a few years ago because they didn't have many members, but now, just by legal requirement, membership in some fraternities sinks to zero. Now, just by legal requirement, membership in some fraternities sinks to zero.

Please turn to page 3

Computers Required

by College Press Service

Potsdam, NY—Three months ago freshman accounting major Jackie Poslun "wasn't sure she'd be using the new Xerox Z-100 and the over 800 other freshmen were required to purchase as they entered Clarkson College.

Now, "I'm using it at least three-to-five hours a week and don't know how I'd get along without it," she says.

"The first paper I had due I did on the typewriter I brought to school with me," she recalls. "But it's just too much work and too slow after using the computer's word processing system. I do all my papers on computers now."

Poslun's experience isn't uncommon at Clarkson, which, along with the Stevens Institute of Technology in New Jersey, was the first school to require all entering freshmen to buy microcomputers.

Three months later, despite unfinished wiring and coursework that's not yet integrated into a fully electronic campus, students are in fact not letting their machines gather dust.

A leading factor in the pioneer schools' initial experiences, the personal computer's entry into the classroom in the multi-million dollar white elephant some observers feared it would be. Among the expensive language labs and "curricular relevancy" fads that have seized administrators in recent times, this one actually seems to be working.

"A few years ago there was a lot of protesting regarding the personal computer's impact on higher education, and a lot of people were wondering if it was just a passing fad," notes Kim Wiley, research coordinator for

Please turn to page 4

FEATURE FOCUS

Follett's: Rip Off?

by Gregory O. Davis Features Editor

It seems that every few years voices of criticism concerning Follett's find their way to the Tripod. Complaints range from those of employee personality to questions concerning the price of books. This week Bill Scharnweber, manager of the Trinity College Bookstore (Follett's) answers questions concerning Follett's policies and the costs of books.

Two main questions always sur-round the bookstore controversy. At the start of every semester students gripe about the pricing of books. After the add/drop date the commodification circles around the check cashing policy and the personali-ty of Follett's employees.

In the spring of 1982 the Tripod featured many letters to the Editor denouncing the bookstore and even a few in support of Follett's. According to Scharnweber "every three years or so such complaints arise," not just at Trinity. He doesn't believe that student's criteria-ter for whether or not students are pleased with Follett's is a "pass or fail test."

Please turn to page 3

"You're pleased to meet me."

—Dr. Ron Duke
Announcements

Twelve-College Exchange

Students interested in the Twelve-College Exchange program should contact Dean John S. Waggett's office (Williams 232) for applications and additional information. Applications are due by the start of the Christmas vacation.

Dorm Closings

Please remember that the dormitories close at noon on Wednesday, December 21. Dormitories will not reopen until noon on January 15; therefore, please be certain to remember to take all belongings that you will need during the vacation period.

Book Exchange

Tired of spending hundreds of dollars on textbooks each year? You can drastically reduce the cost by selling your used books at the Trinity College Book Exchange. The exchange is a non-profit activity sponsored by the Student Government Association. It will be held on January 16th and 17th in Wean Lounge from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Residence Selection

Those who will be on-leave in the Spring should leave their vacations addresses with the Office of Residential Services so that Spring Residence Selection Process packets can be mailed over the vacation break.

Trinity Papers

Submit now to the Trinity Papers...term papers, analytical essays, reports of scientific research, fiction works. Deadline: January 27, 1984. Box 1996.

Personals

Mitzi -- From Russia w/love -- Tacky but true -- I miss you! K. P.S. -- Creamy garlic

Classified

It is true you can buy Jeeps for $44 through the U.S. Government? Get the facts today! Call (312)742-1142 ext. 5403-A.

TRINITY PACKAGE STORE

CHOICE WINES & LIQUORS

10% Discount on Case Purchases

219 New Britain Ave., Hartford, Conn.

(courtesy Henry St. next the the Tap Cafe)

Phone 457-0263

Career Counseling

SENIORS: Do something productive during your January break! The following organizations are sponsoring "Open Houses" for December and upcoming graduates.

December 20: Lehman Brothers
Kuhn Loeb, New York -- Introduction to Loan Officer Development Program. Attendance is by invitation only. Contact Career Counseling.

January 4: Bank of Boston
Boston -- Introduction to Loan Officer Development Program. Attendance is by invitation only. Contact Career Counseling.

Course Evaluations

Be sure and fill out your SGA course evaluations. We need everyone's response in order to publish a book of the results next semester. Place return in the box by the Post Office. Your support is kindly appreciated and needed.

The TRINITY TRIPOD

Vol.LXXII, Issue 13
December 13, 1983

The TRINITY TRIPOD is published weekly on Tuesday, except vacations, during the academic year. Student subscriptions are included in the student activities fee; other subscriptions are $15.00 per year. The TRINITY TRIPOD is printed by Imprint, Inc., West Hartford, CT, and published at Trinity College, Hartford, CT. Advertising rates are $3.00 per column inch, $30.00 per eighth page and $55.00 per quarter page.

Thanks to you it works for all of us. United Way
Harassment: Part II

Continued from page 1

the Committee deems the incident to fall under its jurisdiction, all participants in the complaint will be identified to the Committee.

A student may challenge the participation of individual Committee members, and the President would then appoint a temporary member to the respondent—the individual against whom the action is brought—has the right to be present with both parties present. The complainant and the respondent may have an advisor during the discussion, but the advisor may not have legal training. If it seems necessary for the Committee to consult with individuals other than the complainant and the respondent, they will be notified by the Committee.

The Committee will only investigate the substance of the complaint, and, after privately reviewing the complaint, will take one of these actions:

1. Decide there is no basis for the complaint; or
2. Attempt to resolve the complaint between the parties involved as complainant and respondent to their mutual satisfaction; or
3. Refer the complaint with its conclusions and/or its recommendations to the appropriate senior officer.

The senior officer (Vice President of the College, Dean of Faculty, Provost, Director of Athletics, Director of Development, or Director of Alumni and College Relations) may accept, modify, or reject the Committee's decisions (i.e. a classroom where a professor makes one sex uncomfortable by telling sexist jokes, encouraging an individual's decision because of his/her sex, etc.) and by explaining the unactionability.

This may be difficult or tiresome, but if an individual ignores someone's complaints it would not be because s/he was not forewarned. Any disregard for a person's request to cease certain actions is sexual harassment, and disciplinary actions can be taken. But awareness of what constitutes sexual harassment is vital to any effort to thwart sexual harassment on the job or in the academic setting. Concerted efforts between employers and employees, or, in the college setting, the institution and the students, are necessary to realize that goal.

Any person who feels s/he has been sexually harassed should take note of the following checklist:

1. Familiarize yourself with Trinity's position on sexual harassment;
2. Confront the harasser if possible; otherwise, consult a member of the Sexual Harassment Grievance Committee;
3. Keep a written and dated record of incidents and any witnesses;
4. Talk to friends, counselors, and colleagues in order to avoid isolation and self-blame. (Trinity College Handbook, page 76.)

The senior officer may accept, modify, or reject the Committee's decisions (i.e. a classroom where a professor makes one sex uncomfortable by telling sexist jokes, encouraging an individual's decision because of his/her sex, etc.) and by explaining the unactionability.

This may be difficult or tiresome, but if an individual ignores someone's complaints it would not be because s/he was not forewarned. Any disregard for a person's request to cease certain actions is sexual harassment, and disciplinary actions can be taken. But awareness of what constitutes sexual harassment is vital to any effort to thwart sexual harassment on the job or in the academic setting. Concerted efforts between employers and employees, or, in the college setting, the institution and the students, are necessary to realize that goal.

Any person who feels s/he has been sexually harassed should take note of the following checklist:

1. Familiarize yourself with Trinity's position on sexual harassment;
2. Confront the harasser if possible; otherwise, consult a member of the Sexual Harassment Grievance Committee;
3. Keep a written and dated record of incidents and any witnesses;
4. Talk to friends, counselors, and colleagues in order to avoid isolation and self-blame. (Trinity College Handbook, page 76.)

Scharnweber believes that much of the negative feelings toward the bookstore concern the two matters of students' dislike for spending a lot of money on textbooks and Follett's banking business. Judging by the textbooks prices most students feel that the bookstore is making a lot of money, says Scharnweber. This just isn't the case. He explains the pricing process for textbooks, which differs from non-text books. Textbooks are bought by Follett's at 20% off the retail price. From 20% to 25% must be subtracted transportation costs equaling roughly 3–4%, the costs for running the store itself (an average of 25%), plus a 15% discount. So Trinity (4% of their gross earnings for the first $500,000 earned and 2% thereafter) must be making even more. Scharnweber believes if he gets the money put out for textbooks. Most of the profit comes from textbooks sales. Overall Follett's is not making much of a profit at all. Last year a profit of $179, says Scharnweber. When purchasing books the at the start of each semester students are amazed at the money put out for textbooks. "Students view textbooks in terms of cost while professors do not," says Scharnweber. The policy of Follett's is to check a check before 1:00 p.m. on weekdays if a student has 10, there is a 15 cent charge if it is 1:00 p.m. or later. Scharnweber says was initiated to protect against the losses he takes from bounced checks. Furthermore, he loses eight cents per check to the bank for each bounced check. He also must pay for a bookkeeper's fee to handle the checks and for the lost profit. With all these charges he still lost $50 last year. The bookseller's profit was $15,000 in bounced checks. Follett's has a three year lease which on alternate years has an automatic two year renewal. Scharnweber doesn't remember the last time Trinity accepted bids for the bookstore franchises. However, changes can be made in the contract whenever the lease is expired.

Frat Problems Increase

Continued from page 1

the increase in sheer numbers of fraternity members, they're having more problems on campus.

Indeed, last year a College Press Service survey of administrators and campus police officials indicated a new, "get tough" attitude with fraternities nationwide.

Many states have now enacted anti-hazing statutes which forbid fraternal activities.

Colleges, along with national chapters for many fraternities, have also clamped down on drinking, hazings and discriminatory policies which have plagued Greek organizations in the past.

"As fraternities return, their character is changing quite a bit," Levin points out. "They're doing more philanthropic work, they're less elitist and discriminatory, and they are controlling hazing activities."

But, he adds, the fraternities are cleaning up their acts "not necessarily because they want to, but because of pressure from legislators, administrators, and other organizations."

Hazing still exists, but has become "more subtle and more psychological," like telling pledges they've flunked an important exam, or telling them they're not one likes them and they can't be in the fraternity.

Despite the problems, which have led a handful of schools to consider banning fraternities this fall, Levin found "some schools like fraternities because they can focus responsibility on a group of students rather than on individuals. And besides, fraternities attract the loyalty — and financial support — of alumni."

Some photos featured in the Sociological Eye exhibit in Austin Arts Center this past week.
Tripod Chooses Contest Winners

The Tripod staff has elected the writer- and photographer-of-the-semester for the past semester. The awards are based on consistent involvement, dedication, and quality of work.

The writer-of-the-semester is Marc Esterman '86. Esterman is from Greenwich, Connecticut, and has written for the Sports section since last year.

The photographer-of-the-semester is John Kail '87. Kail, from Hackensack, Delaware, has taken photographs for the News, Sports and Arts section during the fall semester.

Honorable mentions in both categories included Joe Scorsese, Ross Lemmon, Scott Poon, Christina Gonzalez, John Shiffman and John Dahlheim.

Esterman and Kail will be awarded a free dinner. For more information, contact Elaine Stampul, editor.

Tripod: The Student Voice of Trinity College

Do you want to be writer- or photographer-of-the-semester? There's only way to do it, and that's to come down to the Tripod on Tuesday nights (not tonight; finish, you know) at 7:15, get an assignment, and get involved.

Sincerely,
Your Friendly Tripod Editorial Board

Colleges Require Micro Purchases

Continued from page 1

the EDU/COM Computer Literacy Project, a consortium of colleges studying the campus computing revolution.

Now, she observes, "Computers have become academically respectable and accepted."

The question most colleges are asking today isn't "if" the computer will become a vital part of campus life, but "when" and "how," she adds.

Colleges' computer ambitions ran the gamut from Carnegie Mellon's multi-million dollar joint venture with IBM to set up an entire campus computer network by 1985, to Iowa State's modest plans to offer students microcomputers at special discount prices.

Brown University, MIT, Drew, the Rochester Institute of Technology, Vassar, Dartmouth, Pepperdine, and many others have announced plans to require students to purchase microcomputers.

Drexel University will be the next school to require students to come with personal computers under their arms when they return to classes this winter.

"We have well over 750 institutions participating in the Computer Literacy Project, and each is already offering some sort of program on computers," says Wiley. "And I don't think that 750 is anywhere near the total number of schools offering such programs."

At Stevens, where over 700 students are now using new DEC Professional 325 microcomputers, "freshman paid a one-time $1800 fee for the machines in addition to this year's $7400 tuition—"things so far are going very well," reports Joseph Medler, dean of educational development.

But among other things, he says, "the amount of time devoted to coordinating things is very substantial. It's not the kind of thing that you isolate and five days later it's done."

"Students have initial trepidations and, once you've got the system in place and students familiarized with it, they have constant questions about software, additional equipment, and so on." Students can get answers from Medler's new Personal Computer Assistance Program on campus.

Teams of computer science majors make regular visits to dorms to make sure students are comfortable with their machines. And frustrated students can even dial a hotline to talk to other specialists about their machines.

Clarkson officials, too, have been besieged by questions and "a few technical problems" regarding students' microcomputers.

But all in all, it's going better than we expected," says Helen Chappel, Clarkson's public relations director.

In fact, she adds, some of the problems administrators and faculty worried about the most haven't even occurred.

"We were rather concerned that the computers would make the kids isolated, but instead, it has given all the freshman something in common. They all got together at their machines and assist and learn from one another, " Chappel adds, although in liberal arts courses they're used "pretty much for word processing and for short quizzes."

"In one case, a humanities instructor is actually requiring students to turn in diskettes instead of printout papers," says Stevens' Medler. "He looks over their work, inserts comments and grades it, and then gives the diskettes back to the students."

Thanks to a lot of generous people in your town, the United Way supports a wide range of human services for people who really need them.

A lot of ordinary people with extraordinary dedication devote long hours looking at budgets and community needs to determine how the money you give can be used to your community's best advantage.

That's how United Way works. And why.

Thanks to you, it works. For all of us, United Way.
The Grinch Stops Study

It’s exam time and no one wants to think about anything serious, so the Tripod has decided to give you all a treat and write an editorial you won’t have to think you’re going to be up for the next 48 hours. The following terries of this stressful period.

It’s the first snowfall of the season? I bet you had hot chocolate, too. Wasn’t it neat? Such a college thing to do. Really. When you were home you were always an adult for the freedom of childhood pleasures? But one day you had to grow up. Obviously. Obviously. Obviously.

Psychological studies have found pizza and donuts (not necessarily together) to have certain healing powers. Of course, that is not too much of a surprise confirmed this, but it is known that the sound of a donut man yelling will crowd in front of a 12" black and white TV to watch another hour.

There were those, of whom I was one, that chose to run for the position of at-large representative from the start. Petitions and essays were submitted and the populist deadline came and went while the deadline was extended.

We will start this editorial with the T.C.A.C. While I have no question about the integrity of Rob Hopkins, I believe that the election process was mishandled. Instead of being a legitimate election, it turned out to be a contest of the two who for months had been working for the position. There were those, of whom I was one, that chose to run for the position of at-large representative from the start. Petitions and essays were submitted and the populist deadline came and went while the deadline was extended.

I would like to express my disappointment with the handling of the recent election and express my opposition to the T.C.A.C.

The letters section on any publication should not be a forum for the expression of personal animosity. In the case of John Arbolino v. Peter Limnios, The Tripod v. The Trident and the fraternity situation, a lot of backslapping is going on where responsible thought is lacking. I have tried to write a letter to criticize (in a constructive way) an idea. Your board reacted by threatening that just the person who may believe in it because it certainly doesn’t set a good example for underclassmen or reflect well on the College.

Sincerely, Kevin McKaig ’87

Letters

Let’s Replace Mudslinging Letters With Criticism

By Martin Bial

To The Editor

In the last few months I have been reading a lot of literature, especially letters to the editor, arguing over points of interest to the Trinity community. Many of these arguments have been gotten up with good intentions and then degenerated to mudslinging. Although the letters are personal opinion and not news items, they stick to their intended points do not suit the attitude of an opposing viewpoint. The letters section on any publication should not be a forum for the expression of personal animosity. In the case of John Arbolino v. Peter Limnios, The Tripod v. The Trident and the fraternity situation, a lot of backslapping is going on where responsible thought is lacking. I have tried to write a letter to criticize (in a constructive way) an idea. Your board reacted by threatening that just the person who may believe in it because it certainly doesn’t set a good example for underclassmen or reflect well on the College.

Sincerely, Kevin McKaig ’87

TCAC Elections Were Poorly Run

It was a surprise to me, however, that the SGA accepted petitions for the position, and I do not even believe the T.C.A.C. was necessary, up until the actual time of voting, I believed that with these actions the SGA has dealt a blow to its credibility.

Though I feel the election was poorly run, my attitudes towards the T.C.A.C. has not changed. I still believe it to be an excellent idea and will be a great success. I wish the best to the T.C.A.C.; they are to be supported of my assurance.

Sincerely,

Charles W. Caspari, Jr.
The Primary English Class by Israhel Webster

"The Primary English Class", directed by Karen Webster, was simply a delight to watch. Five foreign-born students were cast in the roles of children. The performance was well done - the "Ideo-o-6" was spoken fluently.

The play itself is rather odd - a brother and sister are married and the sister is pregnant. Both children are in the child's mentality. Yet, we are reminded that they are adults living in the contemporary world of contemporary nursery, drawing pictures, building ferris wheels, and talking to imaginary friends.

Mark Glancy and Martha Lewis did a fine job of portraying these roles. They are not really successful in striking this amazing paradox in my mind. I sometimes had trouble believing in the imaginary children that the two characters constantly addressed, but I was rather impressed by their characterization of children, which is not always an easy thing to do.

The set of "Home Free" was very well done, marking a decided departure from Garmav's stage and giving us a sense of the confined nature of the play's setting. "Seasame Street", played before the play began, added a nice touch to the Prelude.

It is not easy to know how to review "A Festival Service of Lessons and Carols," perhaps because it is a little like criticizing Christmas itself. "Lessons and Carols" fails sometimes because of the division between a religious service and a musical performance. It is both a joyful participatory event and a somber ceremony. The fact that it took place in the Trinity College Chapel serves to place it beyond the realm of the art critic's do-

The choir really began to perform as they joined the Chapel Singers for the Christmas Season. He told us that the Word is made flesh. Various members of the Trinity community read the les-

Lessons and Carols Service Entertaining and A Moving Spectacle For The Season

It is not easy to know how to review "A Festival Service of Lessons and Carols," perhaps because it is a little like criticizing Christmas itself. "Lessons and Carols" fails sometimes because of the division between a religious service and a musical performance. It is both a joyful participatory event and a somber ceremony. The fact that it took place in the Trinity College Chapel serves to place it beyond the realm of the art critic's do-

The choir really began to perform as they joined the Chapel Singers for the Christmas Season. He told us that the Word is made flesh. Various members of the Trinity community read the lessons, ranging from students through faculty, a member of the Center City Churches, "The Governor's Lady" by David Mayer, "The Duck Variations" by Robert Silverman, "The Governor's Lady" by David Mayer, "The Duck Variations" by Robert Silverman,

"Cougars" took its theme from "The Duck Variations" by Robert Silverman, "The Governor's Lady" by David Mayer, and "The Duck Variations" by Robert Silverman.

"Cougars" took its theme from "The Duck Variations" by Robert Silverman, "The Governor's Lady" by David Mayer, and "The Duck Variations" by Robert Silverman. The play was well done - the "Ideo-o-6" was spoken fluently.

The play itself is rather odd - a brother and sister are married and the sister is pregnant. Both children are in the child's mentality. Yet, we are reminded that they are adults living in the contemporary world of contemporary nursery, drawing pictures, building ferris wheels, and talking to imaginary friends.

Mark Glancy and Martha Lewis did a fine job of portraying these roles. They are not really successful in striking this amazing paradox in my mind. I sometimes had trouble believing in the imaginary children that the two characters constantly addressed, but I was rather impressed by their characterization of children, which is not always an easy thing to do.

The set of "Home Free" was very well done, marking a decided departure from Garmav's stage and giving us a sense of the confined nature of the play's setting. "Seasame Street", played before the play began, added a nice touch to the Prelude.

It is not easy to know how to review "A Festival Service of Lessons and Carols," perhaps because it is a little like criticizing Christmas itself. "Lessons and Carols" fails sometimes because of the division between a religious service and a musical performance. It is both a joyful participatory event and a somber ceremony. The fact that it took place in the Trinity College Chapel serves to place it beyond the realm of the art critic's do-

The choir really began to perform as they joined the Chapel Singers for the Christmas Season. He told us that the Word is made flesh. Various members of the Trinity community read the lessons, ranging from students through faculty, a member of the Center City Churches, "The Governor's Lady" by David Mayer, "The Duck Variations" by Robert Silverman, and "A Festival Service of Lessons and Carols" by Robert Silverman.

"Cougars" took its theme from "The Duck Variations" by Robert Silverman, "The Governor's Lady" by David Mayer, and "The Duck Variations" by Robert Silverman.
The spirit of the holidays encompasses extravagance and childlike wonder.

Mantautas Named A Circuit Poet
by Michele D. Sensale
Staff Writer
Idalia Mantautas has been chosen for the Connecticut Poetry Circuit. Only five students from all Connecticut colleges achieve this distinction each year. She and the other students will conduct a series of readings on a tour of the Circuit which will begin in January. Accompanying the students on the Circuit are George Starbucks, who read at Trinity in November, and David Perry, who is scheduled to read here in mid-April.

According to Milli Silliestri, Director of Trinity College Poetry Center, the selection process is both involved and competitive. It begins at the level of individual colleges. At Trinity, the nomination process works through the Poetry Center itself, which is the school's affiliate with the Circuit. Students submit a number of works anonymously to be read and judged by a faculty committee headed by Hugh Ogden, professor of English. This selection determines which Trinity student will be chosen to represent the school in the actual Circuit selection. While each college in the state is invited to choose one poet, not all colleges are represented each year.

Trinity has had Connecticut Student Poets in the past. Last year, Ted Lord toured the Circuit. This year, the faculty committee chose Mantautas. After being nominated as Trinity's student poet, Mantautas was then required to submit four pages of verse again to be read anonymously and judged by the Circuit's Selection Committee. The Committee, comprised of recognized poets, then chooses the best four of five students to take part in the Poetry reading programs on the Circuit. Among other colleges which have been involved in the Circuit are Yale, Wesleyan, and Connecticut College.

WHAT TO TELL YOUR BROTHER-IN-LAW WHO INSISTS THE MONEY YOU GIVE TO UNITED WAY NEVER GETS TO THE PEOPLE WHO NEED IT.

You've heard them before. You'll hear them again. The people who complain that "the trouble with the United Way is the money never gets to the people!" That, quite honestly, is hogwash. That's because the United Way is run by volunteers who give their time and talent without pay. So that an amazing 89¢ of every dollar you give goes to agencies that help people in need. Like those kids you help at the Boys' Club, 40% of whom come from single parent homes. Like the Salvation Army's day care centers and homes for abused children.

So the next time your brother-in-law or the guy at the office water cooler tells you why he doesn't give to United Way, tell him why you do.
Military feud may split Uruguayan Administration

MONTEVIDEO, (IPS)- The atmosphere in Uruguay is tense following reports that navy and air force commanders are demanding immediate action from the army on growing domestic problems.

Officials of the military government that has ruled Uruguay for ten years confirmed that the navy and air force intend to pull out of the administration unless it modifies its policies to ease the country's political and social tension.

The domestic unrest that the navy and air force want to alleviate stems from the military government's continuing restrictions on civil rights and press freedoms, as well as from public discontent with Uruguay's dire economic situation.

Ninety percent of Uruguayans now oppose the military government, according to a recent public opinion poll.

The cost of living has risen 7,500 percent in the ten years of military rule, and price rises this year have outstripped salary increases two to one. Unemployment is running at more than 30 percent.

Leaders from the country's political parties, which have been at odds with the military over domestic policies, are calling for a return to civilian rule, said today that the current split in the deepest conflict within the armed forces since the military took power in 1973.

The split is also a blow to President Lt. Gen. Gregorio Alvarez' hard-line camp, which includes Interior Minister Gen. Hugo Linare, and Montevideo police chief Col. Washington Varela.

It was reported that the army administration unless the army and air force commanders have their way by Nov. 10 followed by a 90-minute conference of the Joint Chiefs with Alvarez.

It was reported that the army agreed to remove bans on some political party members.

A government spokesman said that many members of the two main political parties who have been prohibited from taking part in political activities will be informed privately that the restrictions will be lifted.

The restrictions will not be lifted for those facing pending court charges.

One source said that these are "decisive hours on the command level for Uruguay's immediate political future" and added that the military commanders will meet very again soon.

But the officials apparently agreed to suspend the debate in the hopes that the hard-line army and naval-air force groups can reach a compromise.

The legal political parties --the Blanco, Colorado and small Civic Union Party-- walked out of talks with government officials in early July, when the military tried to include national security powers in a new constitution being drafted.

A source said that national security powers would have allowed the armed forces to rule with the civilian administration scheduled to be elected in March 1985.

The Alvarez government responded to the political parties' suspension of talks by banning all political activity, shutting controls on the press and stepping up repression on antigovernment protests, with widespread arrests of protesters.

Since Aug. 25, opponents of the military regime --including labor unions, student groups, business owners, industrial leaders and farmers-- have staged monthly protests against the armed forces.

The demonstration Nov. 9 was not part of the series of monthly protests.

Military sources predict that the government's Commission on Political Affairs will resume contact with leaders of the three legal political parties next week to discuss wages, to defer the current tension.
Season's Greetings from the STROH MAN

PICK UP PLENTY OF Stroh's AND STROH LIGHT FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Look for the familiar STROHMAN Wherever you buy Stroh's.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS FROM THE STROHMAN!

1983 The Stroh Brewery Company, Detroit, Mi.
Harvard Too Much For Men’s Squash

continued from page 12

Number eight Andrew Emery won 3-1 and number nine, Paul Stauf-fer, continued to play well, win-ning with room to spare, 3-0.

Captain Bill Doyle had no com-plaints about the team’s play against Harvard.

“Overall, we are pretty happy with the way things went. We gave them the closest match they have had in a long time. We were beat by them pretty badly last year (9-0) so I think our performance shows that we’re moving in the right direction.”

Doyle lost 3-0 to his Crimson opponent, who is ranked at the number two collegiate player in the country.

Doug Burbank, number four, lost his match 2-1 as did Tom Monaghan, playing number five. Six and seven, Bill Volere and Jerome Kapelus also lost 3-1.

It appears as though it will be a case of “wait till next year” for the Bantams who must now pro-tect their third ranking.

Probably the weakest challenge to the ranking came from MIT who lost to the Bantams 9-0 last Friday in Hartford. The Bantams had an easy time with the other men from Cambridge, as they rolled to victory without their top three players.

Burbank played number one for Trinity, winning 3-1 in what was the closest match of the day. Number two Monaghan and number three Volere both breezed to 3-0 victories. Scott Faller, making a rare appearance in a varsity match, also won 3-0.

The Bantams, now 2-2, will set-tle down to a long winter’s nap before returning to take on Dartmouth, Williams, Yale, and Navy. Trinity has not beaten Yale in some years, but expects to change that this year. Yale ripped the Bants 5-4 last year in a match that went down to the final game.

Hockey Crushes Stonehill With Ease

continued from page 12

Chip Farnham paid back some of the Owls’ aggressive play with a perfectly timed, legal, hip check that opened Matt Bette. Bette had his head down trying to receive a long lead pass, allowing Farnham to apply his linebacking talents.

And goalie FitzGerald made sure the debt was paid in full when he tripped up Rich Williams in front of the cage.

Trinity made the week into a Dempolished home-standing Ni-cholls 7-1, sparked by Mike Stoad’s and Meyer’s three-point perform-ances. The Bantos out shot Nichols 27-17 earning goalie Vinnie Lau-renzino the victory.

The Bantams, trailing 4-1, had a chance to get back in the game with a four minute power play but failed to score against an Owl team that put up as much offens-ive pressure shorthanded as some teams fully powered.

“The younger players weren’t used to playing under such pres-sure on the power play and they lost their edge a little,” said Dun-ham.

As a result, the Owls scored their second short-handed goal of the game. Staffieri and Paul Goodwin added goals to put the game out of reach. Farnham the victory.

Earlier in the week the Bants destroyed the Owls 8-3 on Saturday. The Bantams had an easy time with the other men from Cambridge, as they rolled to victory without their top three players.

Burbank played number one for Trinity, winning 3-1 in what was the closest match of the day. Number two Monaghan and number three Volere both breezed to 3-0 victories. Scott Faller, making a rare appearance in a varsity match, also won 3-0.

The Bantams, now 2-2, will set-tle down to a long winter’s nap before returning to take on Dartmouth, Williams, Yale, and Navy. Trinity has not beaten Yale in some years, but expects to change that this year. Yale ripped the Bants 5-4 last year in a match that went down to the final game.

Debbie Priestly pulls up to shoot in the women’s basketball team’s loss at Wellesley. photo by Elizabeth Saladin

Men’s B-Ball Whips Nichols

continued from page 12

Debbie Priestly leads the charge in the women’s basketball team’s loss at Wellesley.

12 rebounds.

Trinity moved steadily away from Nichols in the second half and led 67-45 with nine minutes to go. Nichols then got hot, scor-ing the next eleven points to pull within 67-56 at 6:06 remaining. However, Jim Bates and Mike Gary both hit lay ups to put Triin back in front by 15 with 5:36 to play and Ogrodzik could smile in disagreement moments later.

Monday night, Trinity had a 30-67 rout of Queens College. The Bantams repeatedly broke Queen's full-court press and for much of the game shot nothing but lay ups.

The result was 60.5% shooting from the floor and a relaxed eve-ning. Abere led Trinity with 24 points while Bates added 20. Bates also scored his 1,000 career point early in the second half.

BASKETBALL NOTES- Bates continues to lead Trinity scorers with 88 points in the five wins. Abere is second with 71 and King is third with 68....King (37) and Sullivan (16) lead the Ban-tams in rebounding....Bates has 30 assists and 21 steals, both team highs....

BLOOM COUNTY

by Berke Breathed

The hockey team opened the week by defeating Nichols 7-1 but fell to Westfield State later in the week. On Saturday, the Bantams defeated Stonehill 8-3. Here, goalie Vinnie Laurentino watches a loose puck in front of the Bantam net. photo by Whitney Rogers

photo by Whitney Rogers
A Few Holiday Sports Thoughts

Soon we will all complete exams and head home for a month. At home we'll find family, food, friends, and, for sports fans, football, basketball, and hockey with abundance. With that in mind, here are a few predictions for the holiday sports season.

At some point you will read a column in your favorite sports section blaming Howard Cosell for the drop in football ratings, the failure of the Soviets to negotiate an arms-control agreement, and the shortage of cabbage patch dolls.

You will wonder where Dick Enberg gets the audacity to call the Rose Bowl, featuring 6-4-1 UCLA, the grand-daddy of 'em all. It seems like an awfully harsh insult to the grandfathers out there.

After the Rose Bowl, or dinner if you are smart, you'll sit down and watch Miami defeat the greatest football team of all times.

Other winners on January 2nd will be Texas, Auburn, Ohio State, and Illinois.

Tuesday Afternoon

When you return to Hartford, the media will have descended on Tampa Bay (?) to cover the Super Bowl match-up between the Washington Redskins (did you think I was going to pick anyone else?) and the Oakland, oh, I mean Los Angeles Raiders.

During the playoffs you will wish that Dick Vermeil would suffer announcer's burn-out and go back to coaching.

And maybe a pro game will appear on CBS, reminding us that the Owl-wingers while a tenacious checking effort kept Trin bogged down offensively.

On defense, Bantam forwards sometimes character isn't enough. The hockey team played 60 minutes of bustling, aggressive hockey last Thursday but came up on the short end of a 7-2 score to a more talented but chippy Westfield State team at Trin's Kingwood-Oxford rink.

"They're a well-drilled, well-coached state school," remarked Bantam coach John Dunham. "We hung in there the best we could against some great talent."

The Bants had all they could handle with the swift-skating vistors; the Owls, a Division II club, swarmed around the Trin net all night, peppering freshman goalie Andy Wessel with 34 shots. The Owls used their blazing team speed to pounce on every loose puck; the Owls moved quickly out of their zone, didn't overstay the puck, and executed the transition from defense to offense very smoothly.

On defense, Bantam forwards had trouble picking up the speedy Owl wings while a tenacious backchecking effort kept Trin boggled down offensively.

However, with a commanding 4-1 lead midway through the second period, the Owls began to rob it in both figuratively and literally; the Owls poured it on to increase their lead and reasserted a lot of cheap stickwork and name-calling.

After some initial Bantam pressure, the Owls broke the ice at 9:52. Trin's Barony Carpenter tried to keep the puck in at the left point but failed; the puck rolled past him to center ice where Bill Pappas grabbed it and fed a 2-on-1 with Pete Laviolette, who put in his own rebound.

After a 44-second break at 14:53 from a tough angle, Trin cut the deficit in half as Vern Meyer converted Chris Downs' pass at 15:36, beating goalie Gary Maudis.

In the 50th minute, freshmen scored a 50th goal at 50:44 and Mike Travis raised one in just as Downs left the penalty box to make it 4-1.

At this point, the Owls looked to add insult to injury with some late hits and hard sticks. The refers let a lot go unpenalized and often made arbitrary "pay-back" calls, leading to several temper-mental outbursts in the third period. continued on page 13

The hockey team defeated Stonehill 6-3 Saturday night for their second win of the week. (From Whitney Rogers)

Hockey Wins Two Of Three

by Marc Esterman
Senior Sports Staff

Women Swimmers Victorious

continued from page 12

improved over recent years, they were no match for the Chicks who were no match for the Chicks who

Emma Cutler, Cronin, Gill, and Hubbard served notice of what was to come with a convincing win in the opening 200 medley relay.

When Fredrick followed with a cruising win in the 100 free, the opposition crowd quieted for a long night.

Trinity swept four events; Gary Lyford and Cutler going one-two in the 50 back, Cronin and Couch ditto in the 50 breast, Brennan and Hubbard in the 50 free, and Cronin and Couch again in the 200 breast.

Brennan won the 200 FS with a 2:24.7 and breasto to a first in the 500 FS as well. Couch squeezed out an exciting victory in the 200 individual medley, and the stage was set for the final 200 free relay.

With the issue no longer in doubt, Trin's quartette of Hubbard, Gill, Brennan, and Fredrick administered a 89-51 pasting of Westfield State at Trin's

Susie Cutler, Cronin, Gill, and Hubbard in the 50 free, and and executed the transition from defense to offense very smoothly.

At this point, the Owls looked to add insult to injury with some bogged down offensively.

However, with a commanding 4-1 lead midway through the second period, the Owls began to rob it in both figuratively and literally; the Owls poured it on to increase their lead and reasserted a lot of cheap stickwork and name-

handed goal at 5:04 and Mike

Pappas grabbed it and led a 2-on-and no longer has a second chance the normally strong efforts of trading places once again, the Trinity men came back to take first place in the 400 freestyle. Both Trinity relay teams beat SMU in a good perform-

continued on page 10

Men Swimmers Fall Softly To SMU

by Thomas Swiers
Sports Staff Writer

The men's swimming team was defeated last Saturday by a very strong Northeastern Massachusetts men's program, 58-36. It was Trinity's second meet, and second loss, of the season.

SMU opened up quickly to lead 12-4 after two events, but in the third event SMU's two swimmers were disqualification due to a false start.

According to this year's new rules, a swimmer who has a false start is immediately disqualified and no longer has a second chance as in the past. Thanks to the new rule, Trinity was able to tie the meet at 12-12, but SMU pulled back ahead in the fourth event to bring the score to 20-13 despite the normally strong efforts of Trinity's Jim Longhini who took third.

Freshman Cannon Moir took second in the diving competition against SMU's exceptional Eric Carpenter. Moir had the best dive of the day, gaining scores of eight, eight, and seven from the three judges. Moir's total score was to be 85.0 less than the Trinity College record held by Dave Garver.

SMU went on after the diving to dominate the next three events and established a 48-21 lead. Tim Rathl, against strong competition, took second from SMU in the 100 freestyle with a quick time of 51.7.

In the 500 freestyle, the third event, Longhini came back to claim second to SMU- including a swimmer who had beaten Longhini in the 100 free- with a time of 5:16.82, eleven seconds ahead of the nearest SMU swimmer.

SMU came back to take first place in the next event to maintain its lead at 58-29. Trading places once again, the Trinity men came back to take first place in the 400 freestyle. Both Trinity relay teams beat SMU in a good perform-the final score read 58-36 in SMU's favor.

by Stephen K. Gellman

December 13, 1983, THE TRINITY TRIPOD, Page 11
Women's Swimming Rallies To Edge SMU

by Thomas Switers
Sports Staff Writer

Women's Swimming Rallies To Edge SMU

by Stephen K. Gellman
Assistant Sports Editor

Sports

Men's B-Ball 5-0

by Stephen K. Gellman
Sports Editor

With 3:05 left in Saturday's victory over Nicholas College, men's basketball coach Stan Ogrodnik stood in front of his bench wearing a red shirt that expressed anger at a referee's call. Ogrodnik said, "The injury came when sophomore forward Ken Abery was cut just above the eye late in the first half of the game."

The foul took care of the remainder of Ogrodnik's front line. The Bantams were leading 71-57, but throughout the 60-62 win at Feltis he had much to be perplexed about.

"A lot of crazy things happened tonight," commented Ogrodnik who was understating.

"It better be a seven, eight, or nine man point guard hit three straight free throws. But playing number three, lost his focus on game one and never looked back."

"It was just one of those weeks where you have to win the game, but the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

Donovan helped the Bants extend their margin to 10 midway through the first half. The freshman forward scored three straight jumpers from the top of the key to give Trinity a 24-14 lead. The Bants continued to dominate the game until the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

"It better be a seven, eight, or nine man point guard hit three straight free throws. But playing number three, lost his focus on game one and never looked back."

"It was just one of those weeks where you have to win the game, but the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

Donovan helped the Bants extend their margin to 10 midway through the first half. The freshman forward scored three straight jumpers from the top of the key to give Trinity a 24-14 lead. The Bants continued to dominate the game until the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

"It better be a seven, eight, or nine man point guard hit three straight free throws. But playing number three, lost his focus on game one and never looked back."

"It was just one of those weeks where you have to win the game, but the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

Donovan helped the Bants extend their margin to 10 midway through the first half. The freshman forward scored three straight jumpers from the top of the key to give Trinity a 24-14 lead. The Bants continued to dominate the game until the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

"It better be a seven, eight, or nine man point guard hit three straight free throws. But playing number three, lost his focus on game one and never looked back."

"It was just one of those weeks where you have to win the game, but the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

Donovan helped the Bants extend their margin to 10 midway through the first half. The freshman forward scored three straight jumpers from the top of the key to give Trinity a 24-14 lead. The Bants continued to dominate the game until the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

"It better be a seven, eight, or nine man point guard hit three straight free throws. But playing number three, lost his focus on game one and never looked back."

"It was just one of those weeks where you have to win the game, but the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

Donovan helped the Bants extend their margin to 10 midway through the first half. The freshman forward scored three straight jumpers from the top of the key to give Trinity a 24-14 lead. The Bants continued to dominate the game until the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

"It better be a seven, eight, or nine man point guard hit three straight free throws. But playing number three, lost his focus on game one and never looked back."

"It was just one of those weeks where you have to win the game, but the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

Donovan helped the Bants extend their margin to 10 midway through the first half. The freshman forward scored three straight jumpers from the top of the key to give Trinity a 24-14 lead. The Bants continued to dominate the game until the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

"It better be a seven, eight, or nine man point guard hit three straight free throws. But playing number three, lost his focus on game one and never looked back."

"It was just one of those weeks where you have to win the game, but the foul trouble along the front line, Mike Donovan and Bill Piholz have been cut on the bench and contributed significantly to the Bantam victory."

Women's Basketball Falls Three Times

by Elizabeth Sobek
Assistant Sports Editor

It was just one of those weeks for the women's basketball team, but why? Were the Bants outclassed? Was it because of academic pressure? Was it a lack of concentration for the full game? Was it the ever-present ankle injury (to Shella Andruss)? Was it the officiating? Probably it was a combination of all of the above that resulted in a wireless week and a four game losing streak.

The Mt. Holyoke Lions handed the Bants their first loss of the week on Tuesday. This was also the Bants' only home game of the 1983 portion of the season.

With 7:27 left in the first half, the score was tied at 17-17. The game turned against the Bants with three minutes left in the half. Holyoke scored back-to-back three-point plays. Trinity only scored three points of the half.

The teams left the court at half time with Mt. Holyoke leading 33-20.

The second half was a continuation of the final minutes of the first half.

Forwards and the Lions led 13, 48-35. Mt. Holyoke continued to dominate the remainder of the game. However, with 3:30 left in the game, the Bants were able to pull within ten points of the visitors.

It was too little too late and at the final whistle the scoreboard read: Home 54, Visitors 69.

Senior Jeana Monn and freshman Sara Mayo led the Bants' scoring with 12 points apiece.

Keene State, a Division II team, dealt the Bants their second loss of the week and their third in a row on Thursday.

Triton was ahead for the first few minutes, but Keene State came back and took a one point lead. The hosts continued their hot play and were up by 20, 42-22, at half. The second half was more of the same: Keene State won 78-50. Freshman Betsy Jones and senior Debbie Priestly led the Bants with 11 and 10 points respectively.

Saturday was even more of the same. Wellesley (6-1) went into the game with one victory over Mt. Holyoke and a one-point loss to the Lions.

At the half, Wellesley was ahead 12, 31-19, but ahead they stayed to win, 69-52.

A new team had entered into foul trouble throughout the season; thus, opponents have gone into each game situation early in each half. The Bants have been victimized by the inability of its opponents to capitalize on this one-sided situation.

The team breeds for the vacation and will not return until January 12. When the squad returns they will face a 1-4 record and a number of away games.

Harvard Defeats Squash

by Tom Price
Senior Sports Staff

The men's squash team turned in what perhaps its finest performance of the year Wednesday at Harvard. The Crimson defeated second ranked Princeton last year by the score of 7-2. The Tigers should have a good shot at the number one spot this season.

Outscoring, from a strong match against Princeton, number two player Mike Georgy put in another stellar performance against Harvard. He upset Rich-ard Jackson, 3-0, giving Jackson his first defeat of the season.

Georgy is undefeated this season. The performance of all four individuals was outstanding, because he is a sprinter and has never won distance events. The sweep made the score 43-36.

It was the second straight week on Tuesday. This was also the Bants' only home game of the 1983 portion of the season.

With the win in diving, SMU pulled even farther ahead. SMU went on to take first place in the 100 butterfly, making the score 31-21, but another Brennan win narrowed the margin to 34-27. In the next event, the 100 breaststroke, SMU took first and second place and the score stood heavily in their favor, 42-28.

McPhee had expected SMU to still be ahead at the end of the backstroke. The day was far from over for the Chicks as McPhee called out four All-American swimmers for the next two events.

In the 200 freestyle, Brennan took first place for the third time by finishing one-half length ahead of the nearest SMU swimmer. Fredrick was to take second place, a half-second ahead of a SMU swimmer. Fredrick's performance was outstanding, because she is a sprinter and has never won distance events. The sweep made the score 43-36.

It was the second straight week on Tuesday. This was also the Bants' only home game of the 1983 portion of the season.

Women's Swimming Rallies To Edge SMU

by Thomas Switers
Sports Staff Writer

Ogrodnik, who was understating...