Title IX’s Strength Endangered
by College Press Service

Hilldale College, a private Michigan school, has become something of a conservative crusade against the federal government’s presence in higher education. In December, Hilldale won its seven-year battle to evade federal requirements to prove it doesn’t discriminate against women. Hilldale’s victory, however, may be contributing to the decline of the rule that prohibited colleges from discriminating on the basis of gender: Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972.

“Hilldale is just one in a series of cases detrimental to the enforcement of Title IX which the Education Department has allowed to pass without so much as an appeal,” complains Margaret Kuhn of the National Women’s Law Center in Washington, D.C.

The current state of Title IX, continued on page 6

TCB Statement Cites Lack Of Black Faculty at Trinity

Editor’s note: The following is the Trinity Coalition of Black’s press release of February 3.

It has been made known to us by well-informed sources that the Trinity College History Department has decided against reappointing Dr. Johnetta Richards, a black female professor. It has been reported that a majority of Dr. Richards’ colleagues feel she should not be reappointed as a professor for reasons ranging from her teaching to an accurate portrayal of the predominantly white male social network of the history department. Thus, traditional American history.

Dr. Richards, now on sabatical leave in Zimbabwe, has been a professor of history at Trinity for almost four years. She made it quite clear at the outset of her tenure as a professor at Trinity that her slant in American history would be toward the contributions of African-Americans, women and other minorities. Dr. Richards believes such a slant is necessary because traditional American history has failed to accurately portray the role of these groups.

The Trinity Coalition of Blacks, a student organization on campus, believes that Dr. Richards warrants reappointment for two primary reasons:

1. Her contribution as a professor of history is an asset to the Department as well as her students. Dr. Richards offers a unique way of looking at the content of her courses. We believe that traditional history has given either a partial or distorted view of the contributions of the unfinished roll call of African-American and world history. Dr. Richard’s mode of instruction sheds a positive light on the significance of Africans in history.

2. Her function as a role model and advisor to black students, especially black women, on Trinity’s campus is priceless. She has been a key source of help and inspiration to a countless number of black students.

Women, on Trinity’s campus, is priceless. She has been a key source of help and inspiration to a countless number of black students.

In addition to her academic pursuits, Dr. Richards has participated in many community functions such as the educational program ABC (A Better Chance) and the Connecticut Women’s Educational Legal Fund. During her tenure at Trinity College, female student enrollment in the history department has increased three times and the number of Afro-American courses offered in history has increased. The continued on page 5

Students Protest “Discriminatory” Actions of College

On Thursday, February 3, about 40 students staged a march urging the reappointment of History Assistant Professor Johnetta Richards. The march was followed by a two hour sit-in in Vice-President Thomas Smith’s office. A four o’clock special morning of the S.G.A. saw the app-

The marches announced their intentions to remain in the office until certain contentions, rumored to have been made against Prof. Richards in the History Department evaluation, were either confirmed or denied (see text).

Prof. Edward Sloan, chairman of the History Department as well as of the Appointments and Promotions Committee, entered the office at about 10:30. Prof. Sloan explained to the group the appointments and promotions procedure. He confirmed the rumored allegations, explaining that he and Prof. Richards had discussed the History Department evaluation in depth, and that he understood it.

The tenor of the discussion moved to the fairness of the allegation that Prof. Richards overemphasized aspects of American History pertaining to blacks and women. Complaints were registered against the predominantly white male membership of the History Department for their biased teaching. Prof. Sloan countered by stating that any professor’s teaching of American History must contain certain fundamental aspects. Furthermore, the History Department found that Prof. Richards’ teaching was overemphasizing the black and women’s aspect to the detriment of these fundamentals.

The multi-faced discussion changed again to address the problem of the small minority presence on campus both within the faculty and in the student body. All present agreed that this situation was a real problem and needed immediate attention.

The sit-in ended at approximately noon, the demands having been met, the marchers left to march once again down the Long Walk. Continued on page 4

Trustees Postpone Action on Fraternities

by Robin L. Fins

According to the Office of the President, the Fraternity Committee of the Board of Trustees has prepared a statement to review among themselves and the other Trustees of the College. It was explained that Dr. Karl E. Scheibe, Chairman of the committee, would have responses from the other Trustees by Monday, February 7. The statement is to be made available for printing today. A copy of the statement will appear in the February 15 issue of the TRIP.

The Fraternity Committee of the Board of Trustees is in the process of planning a schedule to meet with different constituencies concerned with the fraternity issue. They plan on talking with alumni groups throughout the nation as well as meeting with campus-based groups. At this date, the Fraternity Committee hopes to have a recommendation ready for the full Trustee Board meeting in May.

Students Protesting "Discriminatory" Actions of College
Announcements

Awareness Day

Awareness Day will be held on Monday, February 14, 1983. Classes scheduled for Monday were moved to Friday, Monday, February 13, and classes scheduled for Tuesday will be held on Wednesday, February 15, 1983. Open Period will be on Thursday, February 17 and Friday, February 18.

Budget Committee

The Budget Committee will meet at a different time and place this Thursday. Budget Committee will meet at 7 p.m. in Goodwin Lounge on Thursday evening.

Career Discovery

The eleventh annual Career Discovery Week will be held from Monday, February 9 to Thursday, February 12, 1983. This is an intensive introduction to architecture, landscape architecture, and urban design and planning. For more information, write to the Admissions Office, Box 6, Career Discovery, Harvard Graduate School of Design, 4 Quincy Street, Cambridge, MA 02138, or call (617) 495-9344. The application deadline for the program is May 1, 1983.

Carillon Lessons

The Trinity College Guild of Carillonneurs is looking for students interested in playing the bells in the Chapel tower. Free lessons will begin Wednesday, February 9, at 5-6 p.m. The lessons will be offered weekly and interested students should meet at the base of the Chapel tower just prior to the 5 p.m. meeting time, or contact Laura Dyness '84, Senior Carillonneur.

Christian Fellowship

The Trinity College Fellowship will meet every Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. in Goodwin Lounge. Everyone is welcome.

CCAT

CCAT will be holding its first meeting on Wednesday, February 9, at 7 p.m. in the Women's Center. Our ideas so far include an American identity, Silencing, and Cave discussions on social alternatives to fraternities. Are students interested in participating in the decisions that are being made around them at Trinity? Everyone is welcome. If you have any questions, contact Trista at 246-8897, Box 12, or Michael at 246-3008, Box 418. Everyone is welcome.

Dance Club

Tim Martin will be teaching a Contact Improvisation workshop this Wednesday, February 9, at 4:15 p.m., in Seabury 47. No experience necessary. Everyone is welcome.

Exhibits

Afro-American

The paintings of Ms. Michaela Kendall, a black artist from Boston, will be exhibited in the Austin Arts Center from February 9 through March 4. A reception will open the exhibit on February 9 at 4 p.m. at the Austin Arts Center. A lecture on the exhibit by Ms. Kendall will follow at 9 p.m. at the Widener Gallery in the Austin Arts Center. All are invited. The event is to honor Afro-American History month and is sponsored by the Trinity Coalition of Blacks, the Intercollegiate Studies Program, the Women's Center, the Lecture Committee, and the Dean of Student's Office.

St. Hugh's College Oxford

On February 9, at 4 p.m. in the Faculty Club, Assistant Professor of Classics Marianne Colak will present a lecture on "The Classical Past in Yinnon Riesz's Poetry" as part of the Faculty Research Lecture Series.

Newman Club

There will be a very important Newman Club meeting on Tuesday, February 14, at 9 a.m. in the language lab in Seabury. For further information, please contact Professors Katz, Lee or Lloyd-Jones. This meeting is required of all French majors.

French Exam

The French proficiency exam will be given on Saturday, February 12, at 9 a.m. in the language lab in Seabury. For further information, please contact Professors Katz, Lee or Lloyd-Jones. This meeting is required of all French majors.

Studying In Spain

All students interested in studying in Trinity's program of studies in Cordoba, Spain (PRESCOCH) next year are cordially invited to attend an informational meeting on Wednesday, February 9, at 9:30 p.m. in the language laboratory (Seabury 42C). Several students who have studied in the program have been asked to attend in order to supply up-to-date answers to your questions. If you cannot attend, please see Professor Andrew for further information. The applications should be submitted by March 2.

Senior Portraits

The yearbook photographer will be on campus again during the week of February 21-22. If you were dissatisfied with your first set of proofs, you may sit for a new set. If you have not yet had your portrait taken, be sure to make an appointment with Mrs. Sayers in Mather Lobby at dinners during the week of February 14-18.

Scholarships

Engineering and Medical

The Dinsmore Foundation will award a $1,000 scholarship to undergraduate study in engineering, and a $2,500 scholarship to a graduating senior for attendance at medical school. Students must be from Bridgeport, CT and surrounding towns. Contact Kathy Mills in Financial Aid for applications.

NIAF

The National Italian American Foundation offers undergraduate study at institutions in Italy. Information is available in the Financial Aid Office.

Washington Semester

Brochures describing American University's Washington Semester Programs are available in the Registrar's Office. The deadline for applications for the Fall semester is April 3.

The Trinity Tripod

The Trinity Tripod Vol. XXX, Issue 16

The Trinity TRIPOD is published weekly on Thursdays except vacations during the academic year. Student subscriptions are included in the academic year. Student subscriptions are included in tuition; other subscriptions are $5.00 per issue and $25.00 for a semester. The TRIPOD is printed by the Connecticut College Press, New London, CT. Advertising rates are $3.00 per column inch. $30.00 per eighth page and $55.00 per quarter page.

Classics

On February 9, at 4 p.m. in the Faculty Club, Assistant Professor of Classics Marianne Colak will present a lecture on "The Classical Past in Yinnon Riesz's Poetry" as part of the Faculty Research Lecture Series.

Recital

August Hume, of the Brussels Conservatory, Lizzy, and the Mozartean, Salzburg, Austria, will give an organ recital at 8:15 p.m. in the chapel. It is open to the public.

Job-Hunting

Steve Grossman of Arrangement will be giving a talk on "Getting That First Job." He will advise students on how to interview and how to contact potential companies and departments coming on campus to recruit. This will be at the regular T.E.C.S. meeting time and will be held in the language lounge at Registration. We'll send up flares next year.

Departments of Religion

The Department of Religion invites all interested faculty and students to hear the presentations given by the final candidates for the position of Judaic/Islamic. The schedule is as follows: February 7—Professor Tamar Rudavsky February 10—Professor Lawrence Fine, "Spanish Kabalah: The Emergence of Mythology in Medieval Judaism" February 17—Professor Ronald Kline February 21—Professor Arvith Beresin, "Malamadies and Spinolaa on Good and Evil" February 24—Professor John D’Onofrio, "Judaism and Islam: Cooperation and Confrontation in Historical Perspective." Each of these talks will be given at 70 Vernon Street, Religion Philosophy Building, 4 p.m. ed organization,’ appeals more to established order, whatever it intellectuals than capitalism, and they suffer from feelings of might be.

...throw out to cover their real reasons for opposition. It is not capitalism is monopolistic, ex-...sent the fact that industrial en-

...talent is more valuable than the...violated entitlements”; they re-...one that Nozick said. Accusations that Dr. Robert Noz’ick attempted...Dr. Richards, now on sab-

...“WHY DO INTELLECTUALS OPPOSE...sociology. His lecture entitled...Nozick's words, "deprives in-

..."...of the family in which children...build their high expectations of society? Nozick went on to single out the social...He cited the expressive...the...Living in American Society: American Jewry from the First to the...Russian Jews around 1880.

..."..."...that among the reasons..."...Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards' colleagues feel that...Dr. Richards' mode of in-

...in American history. It is not...Dr. Richards' mode of instruc-

...Russell Hall, President

---

SGA Calls For Dr. Richards’ Reappointment

Editor’s note: The following is a statement issued by the SGA concerning the Richards case.

To: The Appointments and Promotions Committee

It has been made known to us by well-informed sources that the Trinity College History Department has decided against reappointing Dr. Johnetta Richards, a black female historian, and has been reported that a majority of Dr. Richards’ colleagues feel that she should not be reappointed as a professor for reasons ranging from; not being an active part of the predominantly white male social network of the History Department to not teaching traditional American History. Dr. Richards, now on sabatical leave in Zimbabwe, has been a professor of history at Trinity for almost four years.

The Student Government Association along with the Trinity Coalition of Blacks, believe that Dr. Richards warrants reappointment for two primary reasons:

1) Her contribution as a professor of history is a asset to the Department, as well as her students. Dr. Richards offers a unique perspective at the content of her courses. We believe that traditional history has given either a partial or distorted view of the contributions of Africans in both American and World history. Dr. Richards’ mode of instruction sheds a positive light on the significance of Africans in history.

2) Her function as a role model and advisor to black students at Trinity’s campus, especially black women, is priceless. She has been a beacon of inspiration and guidance to countless number of black students.

The Student Government Association, in conjunction with the Trinity Coalition of Blacks, with the support of the Hispanic, African American, Latina, The Women’s Center, and members of the DKE fraternity, and at the request of The Student Government Association, hereby demands that the History Department, strongly urge the following: 1) That the History Department’s recommendation be critically reviewed before consideration by the Appointments and Promotions Committee.

2) That if the primary reasons against reappointment are listed above, that Dr. Richards be reappointed.

3) That some form of student input be introduced into the Appointments and Promotions process, preferably on the committee.

Respectfully submitted,

Russell Hall, President

T. B. Chris Sulli, Vice President

S. G. A.

---

Nozick Discusses Anti-Capitalist Sentiments

by Robin L. Fins

_The people of Israel live “Amen Yisrael” was the message delivered by Marshall Sklar in the Fourth and final lecture in the Leonard Greenberg, a trustee of the Colldefinition of Jews who reached the socio-economic levels of the Presty-...the first and second generations feared the continuity of the generational...were not enough mechanisms for...Sklare therefore tried to show...re-created. He cited the expressive...facialization was actually...that the process of acculturation was...Sklare maintained that the strong will and...excllent students will be recognized at the end of every sem-ster. The newly instituted Faculty Honors List will recognize outstanding students who have achieved...criteria the faculty dropped...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards was appointed...Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.

Dr. Richards be reappointed. Dr. Richards be...Dr. Richards be reappointed.
Seniors Struggle With Recruiter Bidding System

by David Sagers

Wednesday morning in the Career Counseling Office a large group of seniors were awaiting the results of the first week of bidding in the annual recruiting season at Trinity, as they will each Wednesday morning until the middle of March.

According to Allison Dillon-Kimmerle, Director of Career Counseling, the beginning of the second semester is the signal for corporate and private institutions to send their recruiters to the Trinity campus and other campuses throughout the United States. Each Monday, seniors bid for an opportunity to have interviews with the recruiters who are coming the following week. Each Wednesday morning, the results of the second bids are revealed, and those students who have succeeded have five hours to sign up for an interview at a time slot convenient for them. If a company has sent one recruiter, there are usually fourteen interview slots available, or, if there are two recruiters from the same company, twenty-eight slots.

Each student is given a total of five hundred points, and if a bid is successful, the amount of points of the lowest qualifying bid is deducted from the total of each winner. In these competitive situations, the students are "indicating their degree of interest." However, if fewer bids are made than the number of interview slots available, no points are deducted from the bidders' totals, and other seniors are able to sign up for the remaining interviews. Finally, if a company makes a last-minute call to sell the Career Counseling Office it will be sending a recruiter, each student is told to add thirty points to his total, in order to stretch his points over the greater selection of companies he then has.

This method of interview bidding was first used at the University of Chicago eight years ago. Other institutions tried several alternatives, including random and first-come, first-served methods. However, the bidding system in considered the fairest system for determining who will get recruiter interviews.

In past years, most individual students have had four to five interviews. After an interview, if the recruiter finds the candidate appropriate, he will usually give the student additional interview opportunities. The amount of good experiences with college recruiters each year.

Kimmerle encourages students "to go on their own." Furthermore, seniors can always contact prospective employers with information from the office in use, Dillon-Kimmerle encourages students "to go on their own."

The advantages of the system, according to Dillon-Kimmerle, are quite numerous. Students can profit on the information they receive on the participating companies, regardless of whether they receive a job offer or not. It also forces students to be selective, and think carefully about their choices. They are not counseled on how to bid, and must make their own decisions entirely. Furthermore, it "gets students into the work-life job hunting." The working world is continued on page 6

Protestors Call For More Blacks on Faculty

continued from page 1

Walk and through the Dining Room, four o'clock, the S.G.A. held an emergency session in the Cave. The subject of discussion was a letter written to the Appointment and Promotions Committee by Russell Hall and Chris Sullivan, Vice-President of the S.G.A. (The text may be found on page 3). The letter, in addition to urging Prof. Richards' resignation, calls for student participation in the appointments and promotions process.

After Russell Hall read the letter aloud to the crowd of approximately 100 people, the floor was opened for discussion. The main motion to accept the letter, Tia Tricharichi, representative at-large, made the motion to amend the second item. After some discussion, the amendment was passed to stand as it now reads (refer to text).

Johnson Named IFC President

continued from page 3

New officers have been elected to lead the IFC this semester. In the position of President in Chadlot Johnson, Chris Brown, Vice President, and Tim

Creative decision-making

It's the rule, not the exception, at Chubb.

The property/casualty insurance business demands an ability to make carefully calculated, creative decisions. Because it's the element of risk that makes insurance necessary—and exciting. Property and casualty insurance involves the highest sort of risk, and is the least predictable form of insurance. Why? It has been said that people die more or less "on schedule." But who can predict when—or if—a bridge will collapse, an ocean liner will sink, a trusted employee will embezzle, or a home will be burglarized?

Creative thinkers make successful property/casualty insurance professionals. And we should know. It's been our business for 100 years.

Chubb's National Recruiting Coordinator William Mougalian ('82) will be on hand Tuesday, February 8, 1983 beginning at 3:00 pm in the Faculty Club. We cordially invite you to stop by and learn more about Chubb, and our innovative way of doing business. If you're a creative thinker, you will be interested to hear what we have to say.

CHUBB
Group of Insurance Companies
51 John F. Kennedy Parkway, Short Hills, NJ 07078
An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F
Lares Tresjan takes the A-Train to the Cave

Lares Tresjan begins her autobiography this way: "Some live subsist in the tomato form, some don't. Mine doesn't. If anything, mine blurs along like a vicious haymaker's jig with the accent always on the wrong beat." She is a farm worker, activist, and musician who sings songs of dignity and freedom. She has worked and sung all over the world, from Moscow to Paris to Montreal to New York City, where, at Grand Central Station, she recorded her first album for Folkways Records.

Tresjan expresses her activism through her music, which she says, "reaches those who are actively struggling for a better world. . .I'd like to reach the living activists, and stir up those who stay alive." There have been 1982 nuclear freeze rallies in New York, she has worked and sung all over the world...I'd like to reach the living activists, and stir up those who stay alive.

She recorded her first album for Folkways Records, where, at Grand Central Station, she recorded her first album for Folkways Records. She has worked and sung all over the world, from Moscow to Paris to Montreal to New York City.

Recently, Tresjan and her lawyer won a case brought against her for singing in the New York City subways. The victory set a precedent that street singing is protected under the first amendment as a form of free speech. The city did, however, confiscate her guitar as a contribution to noise pollution.

In her autobiography Tresjan describes what it is like to be a farm worker today in New York City. Migrant workers live in poverty and work under slave-like conditions. They are unorganized, and are paid next to nothing, so they lack the power to better their conditions.

Tresjan has worked as a convincing and effective organizer despite the difficulties she has had to face. Workers labor under inhuman conditions, and when they try to improve them, often lose their jobs, as Tresjan has. Grape-picking in central New York state licks through much of the year, including the winter, when workers work in temperatures as low as sixty degrees Fahrenheit. For piecework rates that work out to wages as low as thirty cents an hour, they stand in freezing cold, often snow up to their knees, and work at pulling vines down. This work is dangerous and can blind the workers because the frozen vines swing around when they are pulled off the grape frames.

Tresjan believes in music as an "emergency and legendary remedy for agriculture." Through her music and other activity, Tresjan tries to inspire other workers to organize.

Trinity Education Department Professor Bud Schultz met Lares Tresjan when she was singing in New York City. He spoke with her about her music and has kept in touch with her since.

The Women's Center is co-sponsoring a two-day visit to Trinity by Lares Tresjan. She will be on campus February 14, Awareness Day, and on Tuesday, February 15. On Awareness Day, Tresjan will lead a workshop on Migrant Workers during the first afternoon seminar period. Between 9 to 11 pm she will be singing at Mr. Boston's, a local drinking establishment.

On the second floor, there will be a new storage area and serving area. The serving area will be adjacent to the Washington Room and will be equipped to accommodate large catering events such as alumni reunion functions. Also on the second floor will be a student art gallery located beyond the present administrative offices. New to the gallery will be a student lounge complete with cathedral ceiling.

The present administrative offices are moving back downstairs to where they were originally located when Mather was built in 1900. The offices will occupy the space behind the present front desk and will expand to where men's and women's rooms are now located.

Also this past week there was a meeting in regard to the glass wall of Follert's Bookstore. It appears that the wall is in violation of a new fire code requiring a minimum two-hour burn through potential. The current glass wall, when exposed to extreme heat of fire, may shatter before two hours has elapsed. However, the regulation may be waived in this case as the wall was constructed prior to the law taking effect.
continued from page 3

Bidding System Explained

continued from page 4

High-Tech Job Market Bad

by Robin Flins

What happened to the White Room in Mather? Steven Bren- man, Tony Foley, Michael Jacob- son, and Scott Weaver have transformed the wall into a reproduction of the view from Makris Diner located at 1701 Berlin Turnpike, Wethersfield. The diner, open 24 hours, is always a favorite Trinity haunt and the owners Phil and Angelo encouraged the students' project. According to Steven Brennan the mural idea was con- ceived during a casual conversa- tion with friends. They approached Wayne Asmus and BobSieg! with their idea and the wheels started to turn. Countless hours were spent to design the wall, mostly done at Makris Diner. Approximately 20 man-hours were spent on layout and 48 man-hours were actually spent painting. After they completed their night's work at 4 am last Sunday morning, where did the mural artists go? Makris Diner, Berlin Turnpike, Wethersfield. Approximately 20 man- hours were spent on layout and 48

Court Decision Weakens Title IX

by College Press Service

Engineering and computer science graduates, guaranteed a pick of jobs in recent years, may have a harder time landing work this year, according to a new survey of engineering firms' hiring plans by Peterson's Guides. The survey found that three-fourths of the 765 high-tech, engineering firms that responded plan to hire fewer newly-graduated engineers over the next year, and that 65% plan to hire fewer than in previous years. The survey also found that the average starting salary for engineering graduates is expected to decline by an average of 10% over the next three years, from $29,900 to $26,900.

The decline in demand for engineers is expected to be most pronounced in the semiconductor industry, where the average starting salary is expected to decline by 15%, from $31,900 to $27,100. In the computer industry, the average starting salary is expected to decline by 10%, from $30,900 to $27,800. In the aerospace and defense industry, the average starting salary is expected to decline by 15%, from $32,900 to $28,000.

The decline in demand for engineers is expected to be most pronounced in the semiconductor industry, where the average starting salary is expected to decline by 15%, from $31,900 to $27,100. In the computer industry, the average starting salary is expected to decline by 10%, from $30,900 to $27,800. In the aerospace and defense industry, the average starting salary is expected to decline by 15%, from $32,900 to $28,000.

The decline in demand for engineers is expected to be most pronounced in the semiconductor industry, where the average starting salary is expected to decline by 15%, from $31,900 to $27,100. In the computer industry, the average starting salary is expected to decline by 10%, from $30,900 to $27,800. In the aerospace and defense industry, the average starting salary is expected to decline by 15%, from $32,900 to $28,000.

The decline in demand for engineers is expected to be most pronounced in the semiconductor industry, where the average starting salary is expected to decline by 15%, from $31,900 to $27,100. In the computer industry, the average starting salary is expected to decline by 10%, from $30,900 to $27,800. In the aerospace and defense industry, the average starting salary is expected to decline by 15%, from $32,900 to $28,000.

The decline in demand for engineers is expected to be most pronounced in the semiconductor industry, where the average starting salary is expected to decline by 15%, from $31,900 to $27,100. In the computer industry, the average starting salary is expected to decline by 10%, from $30,900 to $27,800. In the aerospace and defense industry, the average starting salary is expected to decline by 15%, from $32,900 to $28,000.

The decline in demand for engineers is expected to be most pronounced in the semiconductor industry, where the average starting salary is expected to decline by 15%, from $31,900 to $27,100. In the computer industry, the average starting salary is expected to decline by 10%, from $30,900 to $27,800. In the aerospace and defense industry, the average starting salary is expected to decline by 15%, from $32,900 to $28,000.
You can have anything under the umbrella.

Anyone who has ever wanted to work for an insurance company, and anyone who hasn’t, should consider The Travelers. Because we offer careers both in insurance and in a variety of other fields which help us service our wide range of financial products.

Under The Travelers umbrella, you’ll find careers in engineering, data processing, finance, marketing. And as an insurance industry leader, we offer rewarding careers in actuarial science, underwriting and sales.

So if you’re wondering who works for an insurance company, over 30,000 people from differing backgrounds are at work for The Travelers right now. They’ve chosen us because we have the resources, variety, benefits, rewards and growth that make up the ingredients for a bright future.

Travelers representatives will be visiting your campus soon. For details, see your Placement Director or write to: Rubin I. Fisher, Assistant Director, The Travelers, Dept. 31, One Tower Square, Hartford, CT 06115

The Travelers

An Equal Opportunity Employer
Features

Beyond The Long Walk

The Ugly American Rears Its Head

by Peter A. Stittson

High Wycombe. "We do not believe in the American occupation of Britain," stated Jane Anderson. She and the other British students were huddled around a blazing fire at Daws Hill Peace Camp. The camp is located fifty yards from the entrance to the U.S. Air Station, the most important installation now at the station is the Department's School, a junior and senior high school for the children of U.S. military personnel stationed in Britain. Approximately 12,000 U.S. military personnel are stationed in Britain. This includes the Air Force's three strike wings and various training units in Britain by training. Her Majesty's Government in fulfillment of a NATO agreement. In the same way that there are American forces in Britain, there are British military in West Germany.

Confusion aside, if that is possible, there remain questions that need to be asked and answered. Firstly, for the occupants of Daws Hill Peace Camp, can the county health department evict them if they do not get a portable sanitary toilet? For how long can they live on tea and soup? And for how long will local residents provide them with wood for a blazing fire?

The placement of U.S. Cruise missiles in England is a real and growing concern: there are plans to place Cruise missiles in England as part of the continuing protection of the West by NATO. If the Americans have questions from the one of who will push "the button", President Reagan recently said, "Our weapons, eh?" Not really--and herein lies a huge problem. Britain has made it known that any launch of nuclear weapons from British soil would have her consent--even if the weapons were protecting the West by NATO. This question is of great concern to us, the citizens of Daws Hill Peace Camp. We own all the missiles--and as such is our decision to send them off to their destinations.

Venessa Cooton, a student at the Peace Camp, said that their protest is also in part "to get Britain to take the first initiatiative disarm nuclear weapons." Agreed her companion Robert Crampton, "We don't believe in nuclear arms." They cite Sweden, Switzerland, Canada, and Australia as countries with no nuclear arms--"demonstrating a real lack of knowledge" about the nuclear arms issue. They're not the only ones.

Jane Anderson of the Peace Camp told me: "The Americans are building a first strike headquarters for their Cruise missiles in a bunker beneath the school." I think I know where she learned that piece of information. Steven, a fourteen-year-old student at the military dependent's school, noted, "Sometimes when we go past the protestors we tell them that they're here." He says, "I don't think the kids here are against the peace movement, but we're not interested in it." When asked about his feelings concerning working at Trinity, Anderson replied, "It's much the same as any other place. Last night my saw-horses were stolen."
Foreign Student Condition Revealed

by Maria Markidou

What is the foreign student situation at Trinity? How do foreign students feel about coming to Trinity? What are their attitudes and impressions of Trinity, their place in the community, and their problems at this school?

My major source of information came from a questionnaire I gave to each foreign student and some RAs.

The eleven students from whom I got answers come from eleven different countries, with different cultures and various exposure to Western education. Secondly, each individual is different in his or her personal ability to adapt to a new situation. Thirdly, the students came here with different goals. Finally, some of these students came to the States a few years before entering college, and therefore had an exposure to American life and people.

Why did you decide to come to the U.S. and why did you choose Trinity? The main reason foreign students come to the U.S. is because they wanted to study abroad. The academic standards in the U.S. are very high. But besides being academically sound, universities in the U.S. offer an exciting social life. Omar Shenib, a sophomore from Libya, said, "I went to universities in the U.S. because they were different- just because she wanted to go to a small college. The advisors feel that it is easier for students to adapt to the change in the culture and that the student is likely to get more attention from the faculty. The fact that foreign students are offered smaller classes in the U.S. should help Trinity compete with larger institutions for foreign students. However, with only thirteen foreign students, one must wonder whether the admissions office is going wrong.

What were your expectations before coming to Trinity, and what did you find? Nathalie Freyser expected to find a pretty campus with a very conscientious student body who are aware of what is going on. She also expected to enjoy the advantages of the "culturally rich Hartford" she was promised in the college bulletin. What she found was a great campus, but also a great deal of partying and a very ugly off-campus. She had no idea that Hartford has such a high crime rate and that she would have to be so concerned with her personal safety. Fernando Camargo expressed the same disappointments with the surrounding area of Hartford.

George Tamakloe from Ghana and Omar Shenib from Libya expressed their disappointments in the lack of student motivation and the limited interests of the students. As Omar said, "I came here hoping to enjoy myself, exchange my experiences with others, and interact with a diverse group of Americans. I now realize that I cannot have any of these because of the lack of communication between me and the other students.

Tamakloe also expected to find a highly motivated, conscientious student body ready to raise relevant issues. He is a senior now and still feels that the students here do not have enough interests, and that they are unwilling to make something happen. Panpuro Phamuchan described the initial greeting to Trinity's campus as a "shock." She thought that the students would be more mature than they are, more considerate of others' feelings and property, and more informed on the outside world.

On the other side of the argument, some foreign students feel that American students are very different. They have gained many friends and feel able to discuss problems with others freely. They enjoy the student life, including athletics. In fact some are having more fun than they thought they would. Claudia from Germany said: "On coming to Trinity, I expected a lot of work and a lot of fun, so my grades are not as high as I expected them to be." Dimitris from Greece also seems to have adjusted well. He wanted to come closer to the American way of living and thinking, and by coming to Trinity his expectations have been fulfilled.

In terms of intellectual stimulation, the feelings were mutual. All of them feel that Trinity is a demanding college, and that most of the students here work very hard. All of them are happy with their professors, whom they find exceptionally supportive.

Another of my questions was how do you as a foreign student fit into Trinity's community, and do you feel you have a role in the community? If yes, is this role accepted by the other students? All but two people said that they adjusted very well and had no problems fitting in. All freshman said that people were very interested to hear about their background and that their foreign accent helped them make many American friends.

Panpuro said that although she got right into activities as soon as she came to Trinity, and although she felt a part of the school after a few months she found out that people were treating her as if she were different, just because she happened to be a foreign student.

Nancy Chira, one of the RAs interviewed, observed that foreign students tend to lose their identity when they come to the States, and try to follow their American friends. Jackie, who has definitely given up a lot of her true self, misses the warmth of her people, the Puerto Rican, Omar too, misses the warmth of his people, the innocence and at times naivety of the Libyans. He also dislikes the American obsession with money. George misses that the student involvement in politics found in his country. How can the foreign student situation be improved at Trinity? What are some specific things Trinity can do for foreign students? One of the RAs said: "Getting more foreign students to attend Trinity would make foreign students feel more secure. It would also add to the diversity of the college..." The second most popular suggestion and request was the organization of more socials for the foreign students, so that they can get to know each other better.

Some other good solutions given by foreign students include: more international courses, additional courses to help foreign students in areas such as language, and more professors who are aware of the students' culture. Also, developing better trained foreign student advisors, especially in the smaller schools like Trinity, who can help foreign students to make smoother adjustments here, was suggested. Other suggestions are: "an International Day", which would include participation of all students.

A & R CAFE
(formerly Red's)
84 Madison Street
Under New Ownership
Regular Hours
9:00 a.m. to 1:00 a.m.
Serving Sandwiches Daily
Beer on Tap
College Students Welcome
Prices You Can Afford
Come in and say "Hi" to Tony and Ann

Phone 547-0263

TRINITY PACKAGE STORE
CHOOSE WINES & LIQUORS
219 New Britain Ave., Hartford, Conn.
(corner Henry St. next to Corner Tap)

Thanks to you it works
... for all of us

United Way of the Capital Area
Diversity Needed, Facts Needed, Too

The March, sit-in and SGA meeting of last Thursday were perhaps the most momentous activities witnessed at Trinity this year. Strong student concern about the hiring, racial and institutional issues being dealt with by the large number of students who attended the special SGA meeting, certainly, the unity of the Trinity Community has never been more pronounced.

Ostensibly, the TCB and SGA are striving for the reappointment of Dr. Johnetta Richards. Deeply entangled with this issue, however, are serious questions regarding student involvement in the appointment and promotions process, as well as the more serious matter of how to increase the deplorably small minority presence on campus.

No socially aware individual will deny the urgency of these issues nor the right of the TCB and SGA to confront them. The presence of the media was uncomfortable and inappropriate, primarily because it was unclear if Dr. Richards had actually been contacted prior to the meeting and sit-in.

Although the events of the past week can be viewed as separate, the actions taken by the TCB and SGA, and especially the statement made by Carmaeleth Smith on minority presence at the SGA meetings, is the 100 percent correct and represent precisely the spirit of awareness.

Some criticism is in order, however. Both the TCB and SGA acted swiftly yet with an embarrassing ignorance of what had been done prior to their actions in this particular situation. The presence of the news media was uncomfortable and inappropriate, primarily because it was unclear if Dr. Richards had actually been contacted prior to the march and sit-in.

The Faculty Committee is responsible for the final approval of all appointments, reappointments, promotions, and tenures which subsequently come before the Joint Committee or the Executive Committee. The Committee cannot of itself initiate actions, its function is to act upon recommendations prepared by the various academic departments in concert with the Dean of the Faculty, who is a full voting member of the Committee. In undertaking its work in the final preparation and submission of these recommendations to the joint committee, the Faculty Committee observes the following guidelines and procedures.

Reappointments

It is the responsibility of the Dean of the Faculty to determine well in advance of any mandatory deadline as specified in the 1969 Statement those faculty upon whose reappointment the Committee must act within a given year. To assure that department chairmen are given ample opportunity to secure appointment elsewhere.

Criteria and Documentation of Evaluation for Reappointment, Promotions, and Tenure

To the Trinity Student Body, especially those that attended the February 3 meeting of the S.G.A.

For those of you who support her as the best professor on campus, save your public show of affection and instead take some very private moments to put down on paper your personal impressions of her as a professor. As a person. Similarly, if you feel that she is one of the worst professors you have been exposed to, then after a careful analysis you want a credit, you should write your! experiences down as well. If your feelings lie somewhere in between, write accordingly. But do write. The issue here, based on my best ability to interpret these actions, is not so much a matter of deciding whether the TCB and SGA are right or wrong, but whether the TCB and SGA, whose reappointment the Committee must act upon any department applications, tenure or whether, because of departmental evaluation and institutional considerations, the individual should be given a terminal appointment so as to have ample opportunity to secure appointment elsewhere.

For those of you who support her as the best professor on campus, save your public show of affection and instead take some very private moments to put down on paper your personal impressions of her as a professor. As a person. Similarly, if you feel that she is one of the worst professors you have been exposed to, then after a careful analysis you want a credit, you should write your! experiences down as well. If your feelings lie somewhere in between, write accordingly. But do write. The issue here, based on my best ability to interpret these actions, is not so much a matter of deciding whether the TCB and SGA are right or wrong, but whether the TCB and SGA, whose reappointment the Committee must act upon any department applications, tenure or whether, because of departmental evaluation and institutional considerations, the individual should be given a terminal appointment so as to have ample opportunity to secure appointment elsewhere.
AWARENESS DAY
1983

Monday, February 14

CARE, BE AWARE

Sponsored by the SGA
General Schedule

9:30 AM
CHECK IN AT FERRIS ATHLETIC CENTER LOBBY; pick up Discussion Group assignments and Seminar listings and descriptions. Coffee and doughnuts will be available.

9:30-10:45
ALL CAMPUS ADDRESS, Unit A Ferris Athletic Center. Introduction by James F. English, President of the College. Address by Deputy Mayor of Hartford, Rudolph Arnold. Concluding remarks by Trinity student James Reed.

11:12:30 PM
DISCUSSION GROUPS, students, faculty and administrators assigned alphabetically, will meet in classrooms and dormitory lounges. The discussions will focus on the rights and valid expectations of members of the Trinity Community. In addition, a fresh look will be taken at the flaws and assets of a Trinity education.

11:30-1:30
LUNCH BREAK. Mather Dining Hall will be serving lunch free to all Awareness Day participants.

12:30-1:30
LUNCH BREAK DISCUSSION in the Women’s Center, Mather Hall; “Working at Trinity: Women’s Perspectives.”

FIRST SEMINAR PERIOD. A variety of seminars are offered dealing with many aspects of institutional and social bigotry and insensitivity. Seminars will be led by students, faculty members, administrators, and members of the Hartford Community.

3:30-5:00
SECOND SEMINAR PERIOD. A variety of panel discussions, issue oriented films and performances, examining issues of institutional, national, and especially local interest.

5:30-6:30
MUSICAL PERFORMANCE BY LARES TRESJAN in the Cave will be followed by discussion.

7:00-9:00
“Who Slew The Dreamer” Multimedia presentation on Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. will be given in Boyer Auditorium.

9:00-11:00
OPEN HOUSE in the Women’s Center. Refreshments will be served.

9:15-12 AM
ALL CAMPUS OPEN FREE SOCIAL EVENT: A variety of entertainment will be provided in Mather Campus Center. The Pub will be open with music provided by Glass Bullet and WRTC disk jockey Chris Champion. A Coffee House featuring Eric Truran and Daniel Taitz will be held in the Cave. TAAP sponsored activities too!
Rudolph Arnold, Politician and Activist, Will Kick Off Awareness Day With Special Address

February 8, 1983, THE TRINITY TRIPOD, Page 13

The Upper Alumni Community Organization, and served as president of the North Hartford Senior Center. In addition, he has been Vice Chairman of the Capitol Regional Council of Government, the Leadership Hartford, the Brotherhood Homes Inc., and a member of the Hartford Board of Zoning Appeals.

At one meeting with Awareness Day coordinators, Mr. Arnold turned down a substantial honorarium for his address on Awareness Day. He was extremely enthused with the purpose and format of Awareness Day, believing that college years are the best time to raise social consciousness. “If you don’t take the time when you are in college to broaden your perspectives and participate in a coherent mix of activities, you won’t have the time later on in life.”

SGA Letter Explains Awareness Day

What is Awareness Day? Awareness Day is on Monday, February 8th, beginning at 9:00 a.m. It is an opportunity for the students, faculty, administration and alumni to relax and have a good time as they learn more about themselves and what is happening in the Trinity Community. There will be informal discussion groups in the morning, led by students and faculty discussing various concerning campus issues such as racism and sexism, problems of academic dishonesty, roommate problems, preppydorm, lack of communications between faculty and students in some classrooms, and any other relevant topics which might arise after the lines of communication begin to open up. It is a time to be creative and to share your ideas about Trinity and what it stands for with others whom you may have never talked to before.

Seminars will be held which will focus on much diverse topics including homophobia, the Third World countries, the pros and cons of the fraternity system (both on this campus and on the national level), the facts about religious intolerance, the thrust of nuclear war, the issue of affirmative action, and many others. There is something for everyone. These seminars are topics which directly affect them in the future. Obviously problems concerning the Trinity campus cannot be solved in one day, but there is a definite need for them to be discussed in the open so that we can begin to think about possible solutions.

We openly welcome all members of the Trinity Community to come and share their ideas and suggestions on the above mentioned subjects. You won’t be sorry that you came. You’ll leave knowing something about yourself that you may have never realized before.
First Seminar Period, Cont.

LEADERS: Prof. Mace, Russell Hall '83, Dr. John Norman '62, former Director of Special Academic and Enrichment program at UCONN, Michael Topp '83, Adrienne White, Dean of Students Assistant, Jean Jabour '85

LOCATION: Mc Cook Auditorium

DESCRIPTION: Along with the more publicized reasons behind the many appeals for more black faculty and administrators on our campuses, this seminar will look into the channels normally used by students to express their needs and ideas to members of the College or as to how to handle an identification, or "sense of belonging" with the institution. Alienation, as it applies to minorities, does not always refer to being emotional- ly hurt. Frequently, it focuses when one perceives himself as an out- sider. The lack of role models of similar backgrounds is one of a number of ways in which Trinity fails to provide reinforcement so its black undergraduates.

Affirmative Action: Can We Legislate Change

LEADERS: Marilyn Denny, Director of Institutional Affairs, Dr. Richard Lee, Admissions Office

LOCATION: Seabury 14

DESCRIPTION: This seminar will focus on the philosophy behind Affirmative Action and then delve into its practical applications. A look will be taken at recent judicial decisions and change in federal policies of the Reagan administration. Particular attention will be given to how Trinity College deals with Affirmative Action.

The Academic Crack-up or How to Help a Friend in Need

LEADERS: Dr. George Higgins, Oriel Brown '83, Dr. Miller Brown, Jane Melvin '83, Paula Chu-Richardson, others

LOCATION: Faculty Club

DESCRIPTION: Most of us probably know a student who is depressed, emotionally unstable, plagued with pressures of academic or home life, "chemically unbalanced," or something else. We recognize a problem but want to help. Recognizing the problem is an important first step, but the crucial difficulty is deciding what to do. In this seminar we will discuss the types of problems and pressures many students face, and the different courses of action we might take to help our friends and ourselves. Come with a question, or come to listen. It will be an interesting seminar for all.

The Threat of Nuclear War

LEADERS: Trinity Coalition for Nuclear Arms Control, Prof. West, Prof. Kirkpatrick

LOCATION: Seabury 9-17

DESCRIPTION: The film "War Games", a 1980 British production will be shown to give a realistic interpretation of events during and following a nuclear explosion over London. The segments showing a breakdown of the social fabric in the wake of such a holocaust are particularly effective. Information will be available for students interested in becoming involved in the campaign against nuclear war.

Second Seminar Period, 3:30-5:00

Alcohol and the Trinity Community

LEADERS: Paula Chu-Richardson, TAAP members

LOCATION: McCook Auditorium

DESCRIPTION: A brief lecture by Paula Chu-Richardson, Assistant Dean of Students, will be followed by a workshop and open panel discussion involving TAAP members and Trinity Administrators.

A Glimpse of Development: Problems and Possibilities for an Underdeveloped World

LEADERS: Jim Bolton, "Wally", Maura McConney, George Tamakloe, Prof. Leach, Prof. Desmangles

LOCATION: Seabury 19

DESCRIPTION: In this seminar, we hope to encourage an interest in some issues that plague the non-industrialized world. We will explore, through our personal experiences in South-East Asia and Africa, the problems of starvation and poverty, and some Gandhi-inspired movements that seek to satisfy the basic needs of the world's poor. We'll also look at how the Trinity and Hartford communities participate in hunger relief, and see a slide show. So don't miss it!

Institutional Racism

LEADERS: Hartford City Councilman Francisco Borges Esq. '74, Dr. Michael Lutz, Donald Jackson '83, Patrick Lyle '83, Chris Sullivan '83

LOCATION: Faculty Club

DESCRIPTION: This seminar shall deal with defining the concept of institutional racism. Preliminary questions will include: how does institutional racism manifest itself? If one is benefiting from certain institutional arrangements, is it possible for one to become conscious and aware of institutional racism? What role does the individual have in combating institutional racism?

Worlds within Hartford: A Look at the City

LEADERS: Geenie Malikahley, Asst. Superintendent of Hartford Public Schools, Mr. Francis Harriman, Mr. Robert Wells and Mr. Joseph Marr- ing of the Hartford Institute of Criminal and Social Justice, Prof. Breuer, Robin Levine '83, Kate York '84, Trinity Tutoring Program

LOCATION: Seabury 4

DESCRIPTION: Two films will be shown, "A Tale of Two Cities" and "A Region of Immigrants," followed by a discussion centering on the various issue such as crime, housing, education, and development which are facing the city of Hartford. In addition, the effects of recent Reagan budget cuts on the Hartford area will be explored.

Long Term Implications of the Fraternity/Sorority System

LEADERS: Jane Evans, Sally Schwager, Hyla Flaks, Cindy Williams

LOCATION: Washington Room

DESCRIPTION: A comic performance of "Varities!" will be given and followed by a serious discussion of the issues.

Religious Intolerance: Myth or Reality?

LEADERS: Margot Blattman, Wendy Gorlin, Professors Cohen and Gitter

LOCATION: Seabury 9-17

DESCRIPTION: Is there only one God? This seminar will examine concepts of God, ritual, religious stereotypes and prejudice pervasive in society. Through an examination of religious differences and similarities and issues such as conversion and the political impact of religion this seminar aims to broaden the participant's awareness and understanding of religion. Participants will exchange viewpoints, ideas and beliefs in an effort to test the validity of religion in our lives today.

What it Means to be a Conscientious Objector

LEADER: Rev. Tull

LOCATION: Clements 105

DESCRIPTION: Are you a conscientious objector? This soul searching question could determine your destiny. If you have never considered this possibility you should begin to think about how you will react in the event of war. This seminar will include a slide show and discussion about what it means to be a conscientious objector.

Women's Studies at Trinity

LEADERS: Members of the Women's Studies Committee

LOCATION: Women's Center

DESCRIPTION: A discussion led by some of the members of the Women's Studies Committee, who will explore briefly the basic tenets of Women's Studies, explain the status of Women's Studies at Trinity, and solicit the opinions from workshop participants on the development of Women's Studies.

Workshop With Special Guest Lares Tresjan

LEADERS: Lores Tresjan, Eric Truran, Dr. Ogden

LOCATION: Women's Center

DESCRIPTION: Lores Tresjan, migrant worker, musician, activist, will be joined by professors and students in a discussion of the experiences of farm workers.

Women At Trinity

LEADERS: Trinity Women's Organization, Trinity Coalition of Blacks Women Organization

LOCATION: Goodwin Lounge

DESCRIPTION: A student led discussion of what it means to be female at Trinity: what really happens in classes, dorms, on the Long Walk? What kinds of pressures do women students experience? How can we work together?

Workshop on Sexual Harassment

LEADERS: Trisha Zengerle, Diane Goldsmith, Dr. George Higgins, Dr. Peter Lyons, Prof. West

LOCATION: Women's Center

DESCRIPTION: This workshop will examine the nature of sexual harassment and explore concrete ways to deal with the problem at Trinity.
Title IX & Dorms Reconsidered

To the Editor:

Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972 reads, "No person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any educational program or activity operated by a recipient of federal funds." The phrase, "Ogilby: Legal and Ethical Considerations," in the February I Triplet was unfortunately obscured by the number of misspellings of Title IX going around this campus. First of all, contrary to the case as presented in the editorial, Title IX does not apply to all students excluded from Ogilby Hall by Delta Psi and Trinity College. The phraseology, "students selected by their tradition, the right to organize in exclusive groups free from interference," means just that. Title IX does not apply to men excluded from the option of living at Ogilby because they do not meet the prerequisites for membership in Delta Psi. Title IX applies to those students kept out of Ogilby Hall because of their sex, i.e., it reads, Title IX amends discrimination, in this case, discrimination against women, in a very serious way. It makes it hard to swallow, but if the Tripod is going to write articles concerning Title IX and Ogilby Hall, it is going to have to grit its teeth and acknowledge that the case is one of sex discrimination.

My second objection to the editorial is that it makes a blatantly false statement. This is, "Undeniably, Trinity's overall housing program is equitable and non-discriminatory." I will do no more than mention the "Crow Room" at the top of Northam—there even a contract signed on that one?—or the fact that there are only four women's rooms in all of Northam, generally considered the first choice of Trinity's dorms (next to Ogilby). Ogilby is a rather plush, all-female dorm into which Trinity pours tens of money every year. It costs a lot to heat, electricly, and so has to clean a dormitory. Per capita, because the rooms at Ogilby are so spacious, it is probably the least efficient expenditure of housing money at Trinity. Blatant sexism exists because Trinity does not put the same amount of money into all-women's housing. There is no comparable dormitory available to women on this campus. No available dorm, even if made all-female (although some people like High Rise a lot), would be comparable in quality to Ogilby. Even if housing was to remain co-ed (except for Ogilby), to make the housing program non-discriminatory, Trinity would have to put the same amount of money into housing reserved exclusively for women students within the co-ed dorms. A lot of people here seem to have the erroneous impression that Delta Psi could somehow locate a Title IX dorm. St. A's is hardly a recipient of federal funds. Yes, they discriminate against women. I doubt that the national organization is co-ed, but not under Title IX. Trinity College, by signing the contract reserving Ogilby Hall and perpetuation the system without offering equal benefits to women students, is, in my opinion, under Title IX, to a sex discrimination suit.

Trinity, by failing to protect and promoting the sex-discriminatory system, could lose its federal funds. To the letter, "the Crow Room, Ogilby, and the fraternity house system constitute a total discrimination system, funding which to a large extent makes our education here possible. Someone who insists on the system at Trinity remaining unchanged is not taking into consideration the reality of what is at stake in this case. By supporting the continuation of the fraternity system unchanged, for just one of the many possible examples, there is a good chance that students can lose their federal grants and loans, if Trinity were brought to court on a Title IX charge. Obviously this does not make changes, this is likely to happen.

Respectfully Submitted,
Tina L. Tricarichi

"Quitting is a snap"

I'm gonna help you big time, and I'm gonna help you big time. The Special Stop Smokin' Wig Snapstaff, Red Pull The dog that surely will come from our American Cancer Society

College Press Service

Letters

Suggests Negotiation in Frat Issue

To the Editor of the Tripod:

One of the unfortunate results of the Faculty Committee's Report and Recommendation has been the lack of effort to establish alternatives or real potential solutions to the fraternity problem. The report was to entrench both the IFC and PTC in opposing positions, and as such, the situation needs negotiation for any hope of a solution.

Opposing parties in negotiation usually become involved in coalition, the coalition establishes a position and the problem. Second, focus on interests, not positions. Third, generate a variety of possibilities before deciding what to do. Four, insist that the result be based on some objective standard. People, in general, have become involved in the positions they take, and conclusions, particularly in this situation, become a morally indefensible sacrifice of principles for both sides. Both sides must come to see themselves as working together to solve the problem, not to attack each other. The fraternity problem can be made independent from the people involved attacking or defending it, as I think Steve Klots is attempting to show.

Fourthly, an objective criteria for solution should be developed, and although guidelines used by other institutions in dealing with similar problems could be used, I would suggest that the criteria be imposed by President English; in his hands the final decision rests, and thus for him a role of mediator has tremendous power. Clearly he could devise objective criteria for the entire community to function under in order to resolve the problem amicably, a definite time period and a forum for proposals of alternatives and reforms would be two such objective criteria.

Fourthly, an objective criteria for solution should be developed, and although guidelines used by other institutions in dealing with similar problems could be used, I would suggest that the criteria be imposed by President English; in his hands the final decision rests, and thus for him a role of mediator has tremendous power. Clearly he could devise objective criteria for the entire community to function under in order to resolve the problem amicably, a definite time period and a forum for proposals of alternatives and reforms would be two such objective criteria.

The Faculty, in their vote to abolish fraternities, ignored their continued on page 16

"Bill's a law student, he does well homework"
Criticals Armchairs Reformers

by Mike Ziskind

Americans have been widely criticized for their "apprehend" ideas rather than those of our own. This is the kind of nonsense that we have been hearing for a long time. However, the first step toward a solution is to begin to cope with issues of great importance. We must assume the task of not only being intelligent and well informed, but we must use our knowledge in an intelligent manner.

When we do not, individuals and groups promoting ideas not beneficial to us and those we care about may greatly affect our lives. If one doubts this, just consider the recent history of our country. By the end of the 19th century, the non-patriotism on issues of great importance was no better than it is today. And then composes how public affairs are affairs! There are those who believe that the Hartford community and the Trinity community are not involved or not involved at all. Contrary to popular belief, Trinity is part of the Hartford community, and it is part of the real world. Neither, can it afford to be an "island".

The question of the day is whether we can begin to cope with issues of great importance. We must assume the task of not only being intelligent and well informed, but we must use our knowledge in an intelligent manner.

Gates Garrity '86

Frats Not Above Law

As an "Alum of Trinity College, I have a strong feeling about the fraternal-sorority system at Trinity. I feel a responsibility to share experiences with any and all concerned.

I never sought anything from a fraternity, or did I work several jobs, serving on S.G.A., and working on joint student-faculty committees. I left me time for fraternity involvement. Aside from a handful of parties I attended at frat houses, I sought no contact with fraternities.

On several occasions, however, fraternities sought me out. They organized and systematic war to invade my privacy, disturb my peace, and demonstrate how weak I was. They did so without being invited. Power to disregard all of the rights of other students. Power to disobey the laws of the college, the laws of the state and the laws of the state with fear of penalties.

I have seen members of fraternities engaged in events sanctified by their houses throw burning highway fences atop occupied dormitories. I have seen them overturn tables and chairs in Mather Hall while chanting, "We are A.D., we are A.D., we are A.D." I have seen pledged forced to parade naked down the Long Walk in bitter cold in order to gain entry.

I have had friends arrested for less. I have had friends carried off to state psychiatric hospitals for less. But somehow, I have never heard of such things being prescribed for the "brothers." I have no doubt that I would have been told that there was something wrong with me but there would be no time to speak up. I say that there is something very, very wrong with the fraternity system at Trinity.

In my senior year at Trinity I decided to rent just how powerful fraternities really are. If you ever wondered what a shock was like, you might want to test it with your ears. It is not a shock to your obviously vivid imagination. It is not a shock to your obviously normal imagination. It is just that you know "less than a mile" of it.

I have never been able to understand how the state police or any police can just walk up to a college dorm and start punching people and ordering them to leave.

We are A.D. The police have no authority to do this. It is just that you know "less than a mile" of it.

The issue is not whether or not we should approach "Awareness Day." The issue is not whether or not we should approach "Awareness Day." The issue is not whether or not we should approach "Awareness Day." The issue is not whether or not we should approach "Awareness Day." The issue is not whether or not we should approach "Awareness Day." The issue is not whether or not we should approach "Awareness Day." The issue is not whether or not we should approach "Awareness Day." The issue is not whether or not we should approach "Awareness Day." The issue is not whether or not we should approach "Awareness Day." The issue is not whether or not we should approach "Awareness Day." The issue is not whether or not we should approach "Awareness Day." The issue is not whether or not we should approach "Awareness Day.

Bob Falk's Memory Well Served

To the Editors of the Tripod:

We, the friends of Bob Falk, would like to thank the Alpha Chi Rho fraternity for making a generous contribution to the Bob Falk Memorial Trophy Fund. This fund was established to raise money to create an endowed lecture series, and would be given every year to the defensive player on the team who best per- sonifies Bob's extraordinary qualities.

Tommy Cleminson

Minority Weekend a Success

Dear Editor:

On behalf of all of us in the Admissions Office, I want to express my sincere appreciation to all members of the community who helped in the annual Minority Admissions Weekend. This year's weekend was a huge success and we certainly appreciate all of the efforts that went into the student panel, the faculty panel, the panel on admissions and, of course, to all of the RA's/RAs.

For your efforts, we do offer our sincere thanks.

Donald N. Dierick, Director of Admissions

Page 16, THE TRINITY TRIPOD, February 8, 1983

Thanks to you it works . . . for all of us

United Way of the Capital Area

Kusiak Gets an Earful

To the Editor:

The jewelry is not as heavy as you might suppose — the ring. The ring! You try ammuni- tion on just to get the idea. But, then, it might blow your image. Take care to try this in private.

As for the shoes — I have yet to find a pair that is more comfortable than the "sneakers." (Could this be a gross exaggeration owing to your Cracker Jack box poetic license?) Would women be better off trudging around in army surplus boots? Hip waders for the deep water, naturally. But even that would look kind of lunk, wouldn't it? Or are you a lover of ballet? Are you more intrigued by a covered leg than by a bare one? Well then, you might want to shop around. Even stockings should be right up your alley. Simply wondering "if there are actually human legs under those things" should delight you to subtle tastes, leaving "human legs" to your obviously vivid imagination.

You scoff at the impracticality of these fashions, yet what could be more practical than short hair? Oh, you of the U.S. Armed Forces (could it be that you know how quick and easy short hair is to take care of? and think of all the sexy bare neck it leaves behind)? You just need a long hair substitute until trends swing back to long hair. Have you got a braid skin rug? (Of course you must) Or would you prefer a wig and breathing substitute? Try a wig. After all, you don't want less than the "latest women's fashions," do you? Because, let's face it — the Hard Rock Cafe in London is filled with students from Trinity College, in Hartford, Connecticut. Then who is to blame? Truly yours

Laura Wilcox

A Trinico Woman

Minority Weekend a Success

Last Saturday the Crow brothers held a party specifically to raise money for this cause, even though Bob himself was not a brother. In the end they were able to raise a large amount of money which they gladly gave to us. We cannot begin to express our gratitude for this generosity, and would be given every year to the defensive player on the team who best personifies Bob's extraordinary qualities.

Tommy Cleminson

Minority Weekend a Success

Dear Editor:

On behalf of all of us in the Admissions Office, I want to express my sincere appreciation to all members of the community who helped in the annual Minority Admissions Weekend. This year's weekend was a huge success and we certainly appreciate all of the efforts that went into the student panel, the faculty panel, the panel on admissions and, of course, to all of the RA's/RAs.
by Steve Kloos

Many of the Greek fraternities, in spite of the fact that they may be a good activity for some people, can be a tremendous source of trouble and can be too much trouble and get away with too much reprehensible acts in order to get away with them. Others counter that the system, despite a few problems, is generally beneficial and that the fraternities provide a certain element which only can be found in fraternities and sororities. This conflict of opinions needs to be examined.

Are the Greeks beneficial to Trinity College considering the particularities of the system here at Trinity and Trinity College itself? The assets and liabilities both have to be considered, along with solutions to ameliorate the problems, if possible.

First, we must consider the benefits that come to the members of the fraternities and sororities. The report stated that these groups are for the benefit of the whole college. If, on the whole, it still benefits Trinity, I feel that all of these problems can be lessened if not eliminated by a variety of measures.

First, let us examine a few of these alleged problems to see if the situation is as bad as sometimes described. There are several students in their own fraternity. Finally, fraternities do provide a point of contact between the alumni and the current college, which is beneficial for all parties involved.

The report states, "There is no reason to believe that whatever benefits accrue to the general community from the fraternity system depend solely on that system for their existence." Except for the last points above, this statement may be true. The fraternity system helps to ensure that students have a good and enjoyable college experience. For example, fraternities provide a place to relax or have a good time. Fraternities are also a source of leadership opportunities, particularly for those who are not involved in other campus activities. In addition, fraternities and sororities provide a certain element which only can be found in fraternities and sororities. This conflict of opinions needs to be examined.

Another problem: The GPA’s of the fraternity members are lower than the college average. Can we say that this is because of a detrimental effect of fraternity life on the student? Assuming that this is true, what is the reason? Is it simply the extra-curricular activities, maybe this participation detracts from their studies. One certain cannot charge that the GPA’s are lower because directly of their membership in fraternities and sororities. There will always be some students with higher grades and some lower ones. Fraternities and sororities do not cause sexual harassment. It is simply a product of our society’s values and culture. Incidents can happen on either side of fraternity events just as they can occur at other social events. It can be argued, however, that there is a single-sex environment of a fraternity or sorority that can contribute to producing such occurrences.

Preventive measures can be taken to reduce these problems, a conclusive element, however. In order to see that these events do not occur, The Fraternity Board of Overseers could be created at Trinity. Alumni, faculty, inductees, and other students who are members would comprise this board. The IFC, as it is composed now, should have representatives that is to be responsible to the board of overseers to give reports on the fraternity and sorority activities.

This Fraternity Board of Overseers could have real power. For starters, it can investigate all charges of sexual harassment and what is related to the fraternities. If it becomes evident that an event occurred, that event could be called into question rather than individually or occasionally, the event could be closed and the fraternity would be imposted on the house for allowing such action to occur on their property, or if there is any effect of discouraging, even eliminating, a frat organization and the Greeks would have to agree to submit to the Board’s measures. Fraternities could also be made to stop cloud disturbances such as “pick-up night.” Fraternity related vandalism, seemingly wrong, could be done by a brother to campus facilities while inebriated from a fraternity event could also be punished in addition to the usual fines from the Office of Residential Services. The Board could even decide to charge these fines separately. If there is a lack of peer pressure would be great enough to eliminate many unfortunates involved with alcohol abuse is an inherent part of our group age’s life style, these measures have been associated with the places. In return for permission to exist on campus, the Greeks would have to agree to submit to the Board’s measures. Fraternities could also be made to stop cloud disturbances such as “pick-up night.” Fraternity related vandalism, seemingly wrong, could be done by a brother to campus facilities while inebriated from a fraternity event could also be punished in addition to the usual fines from the Office of Residential Services. The Board could even decide to charge these fines separately. If there is a lack of peer pressure would be great.

If, on the whole, it still benefits Trinity, many people say that fraternities are not so strong- ened part of fraternity life? Opinion varies on this question. I don’t think that is the case. The fraternity system is a part of the college, however, suffers by having the fraternities integrated into college housing. Furthermore, it is a part of the college in the sense that it is a part of the college’s property. The fraternity is a part of the college in that respect. In addition, the fraternity is a part of the college in the sense that it is a place where students have a good time. Fraternity and sorority life is a part of the college in that sense. It is not a part of the college in the sense that it is a place where students have a good time.

Another problem: The GPA’s of the fraternity members are lower than the college average. Can we say that this is because of a detrimental effect of fraternity life on the student? Assuming that this is true, what is the reason? Is it simply the extra-curricular activities, maybe this participation detracts from their studies. One certain cannot charge that the GPA’s are lower because directly of their membership in fraternities and sororities. There will always be some students with higher grades and some lower ones. Fraternities and sororities do not cause sexual harassment. It is simply a product of our society’s values and culture. Incidents can happen on either side of fraternity events just as they can occur at other social events. It can be argued, however, that there is a single-sex environment of a fraternity or sorority that can contribute to producing such occurrences.

Preventive measures can be taken to reduce these problems, a conclusive element, however. In order to see that these events do not occur, The Fraternity Board of Overseers could be created at Trinity. Alumni, faculty, inductees, and other students who are members would comprise this board. The IFC, as it is composed now, should have representatives that is to be responsible to the board of overseers to give reports on the fraternity and sorority activities.

This Fraternity Board of Overseers could have real power. For starters, it can investigate all charges of sexual harassment and what is related to the fraternities. If it becomes evident that an event occurred, that event could be called into question rather than individually or occasionally, the event could be closed and the fraternity would be imposted on the house for allowing such action to occur on their property, or if there is any effect of discouraging, even eliminating, a frat organization and the Greeks would have to agree to submit to the Board’s measures. Fraternities could also be made to stop cloud disturbances such as “pick-up night.” Fraternity related vandalism, seemingly wrong, could be done by a brother to campus facilities while inebriated from a fraternity event could also be punished in addition to the usually
Dancers Mix Monsters, Music, and Movement

Printmaking is Focal Point of Kershner's Exhibition

Review

Dance Concert

Goodwin, Thurs., Sat.
by Julia Lloyd

This weekend Nusha Maryyun and Ruben McAdams gave a performance of their own choreography. Each piece had its own style, both in choreography and in the musical accompaniment, but all were characterized by a fusion of movement with music. In this concert the two arts complemented each other. The dancers had a wonderful sense of timing in both areas.

Their first piece, "Land Fugue," was choreographed by Carter McAdams, while the "music" was written by Ernest Toch and spoken by Andre Gribou and Linda Laurent. The piece was a synthesis of music and words, experiencing with different ways of saying the same word or movement or both. Sometimes movement and words were repeated by one dancer while the other did something else, or the same movement was shared, but with different words, or vice versa. Sometimes humorous, always rhythmic, the piece combined well both words and movement.

The next piece was a solo excerpt from "Split Solitude," choreographed and performed by McAdams, with music composed and performed by Andre Gribou. There were three types of movement and music: flying with continuous runs on the piano, sharp movement with disjointed rhythms, and, at one point, a slow, floating piece with similar accomplishment. The piece progressed through each section, then returned to the first flowing movement-and-music combination, giving a feeling of moving on into the future.

Following this was a dance in three sections, "Still Falling," choreographed and danced by Maryyun, with music again composed and performed by Gribou. The first "movement" of the piece played on the mixtures of silence with movement, music with stillness, music with movement, and silence with stillness. The result was a melding of movement with music, with dance never ending, although dancer and pianist did.

The next movement had an almost invisible air to it, with Maryyun making energetic leaps and crouching on the stage. The final movement began with the pianist playing never-ending runs and light movements of a dancer never ceasing to move. The dancer moved all over the stage in a frenzy until she was overcome, her hands bearing the air like heartbeats.

Next on the program was "Gribou," a dance based on traditional Ukrainian folk dancing, choreographed by Maryyun. Without actually copying the dance steps, Maryyun and McAdams recreated the spirit of a folk dance. There was partner dancing of sorts, solo spots and a large amount of fun.

After intermission was a short, lyrical piece called "Movement," accompanied by a recording of Cesar Franck's Variation, Opus 24, performed by Thomas Richner and John Rose. The dancers began by circling the stage, then returned to the first flowing movement-and-music combination. They ended with the pianist crouching on the stage. The final movement began with the pianist crouching on the stage, then returned to the first flowing movement-and-music combination.

Menu:

- Chicken and Rice
  - Ingredients:
    - 1 tbs. butter, margarine, or oil
    - 1/4 cup sliced almonds (optional)
    - 1/4 cup sliced mushrooms
    - 1/4 cup sliced almonds (optional)
    - 1/4 cup raisins (optional)
    - 1 tsp. each basil and oregano
    - 1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
    - 1/2 cup sliced almonds (optional)
    - 1/2 cup rice (optional)
    - 1/2 cup cooked rice
    - 1/2 cup cooking wine
  - DIRECTIONS:
    1. Melt butter and add garlic and onion. Cook slowly until soft.
    2. Add mushrooms, rice, meat, the vegies, or the sauce. It makes it a good salad. You can also be frozen for another time.

Recipe

Chickpeas and Rice and Everything Nice

Recipe

by Jennifer Wolfe

I just got a divorce...from SAGA. I have now joined the ranks of all those students who prefer their hot pots and toaster ovens to mass produced whatever-that-stuff-is. So I thought I'd share some of my connections with you.

First of all, do you know you're still shopping at Finnst? Find a friend with a car and go to Heartland Food Warehouse on the Berlin Turnpike. It's much cheaper and it's got all kinds of neat things in it, like barrels filled with five different kinds of granola and souffle strokes and rices. It's all self-service, so naturally the prices are lower and definitely worth the ten minute drive out there.

OK, with that out of the way, here's my recipe for this week. It's a basic chicken and rice dish which can be varied infinitely. All you need is a hot plate and a pot.

Ingredients:

- 1 tbsp. butter, margarine, or oil
- 1/2 cup garlic, chopped small onion, chopped
- 1 cup chopped carrots, broccoli, peas or any other vegetable you like
- 1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
- 1/2 cup sliced almonds (optional)
- 1/4 cup raisins (optional)
- 1/4 tsp. each basil and oregano
- 1/4 cup rice
- 1/4 cup cooked wine
- 1 cup uncooked chicken, cut into bite-size pieces

DIRECTIONS:

1. Melt butter and add garlic and onion. Cook slowly until soft.
2. Add mushrooms, rice, meat, the vegies, or the sauce. It makes it a good salad. You can also be frozen for another time.
3. Add mushrooms, other vegetables and wine, and cook until soft. Stir in the rice, sausage, nuts and seasonings and let cool under a cover for a few minutes. Add chicken, replace lid and allow to cool slowly, stirring occasionally until done. Do not cook too fast or chicken will get tough.
4. That's it! It can be eaten hot or cold. An oil and vinegar dressing makes a great addition. You can add tomato sauce the second time around, or a white sauce (two tbsp. floor and two tbsp. butter cooked together for two minutes, then add one cup milk, stirring constantly until sauce is thickened). The good thing about this recipe is that you can throw in anything you want and have it ready in a few minutes. It can be thrown into the fridge and it still works. You can also freeze it for another time.

At the Writing Center, we don't bite...

We write.

And we help you to write.

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-4 p.m., Tues., Thurs. 6 p.m.-8 p.m.

Trinity Writing Center

Music in Linz, as well as Professor of Organ both there and at, the famed Mozaractum in Salzburg.

Maurice Ravel's works are known for their unique combination of traditional and modern elements. The narrative of his music often explores themes of love, nature, and the human condition. His compositions, such as the "Bolero," are characterized by their repetitive melody and crescendo, creating a powerful and emotionally charged atmosphere.

In Linz, Austria, there is a brilliant concert organist and recording artist, who will perform as part of the Trinity Organ Series on February 11 in the Chapel. The concert features the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 in D major. Bach's concise and simple style, combined with the harpist's mastery of the harp, creates an aesthetic and musical pleasure. The harpsichord section is particularly impressive, demonstrating the harpist's control and clarity which make it a major.
goal was disallowed by another quick whistle. Two bounced back at 17:48 thanks to the swift skating of Corning and Meyer. Playing short-handed, the two speedsters passed back and forth on a 2-on-1 before Meyer backhanded one past Ed DeMild.

Bentley, however, iced it with a wraparound goal at 19:22.

On a positive note, McCarthy continued his steady play on defense, breaking up several rushes and throwing some heavy checks, as well as triggering the power play and playing in man-down situations. McCarthy’s assist gave him 10 for the year, tying for tops on the club with Corning and Meyer.

In addition, Solik continued to sparkle in the twines, making numerous reflex stops on point-blank shots, and raised his save total past the 300 mark this year.

McPheemen

Split Two Meets

continued from page 11

a 2:10.66 first place in the 200 back. Harrington won a thrilling duel in the 200 IM, clocking a 2:20.93 personal best, and returned later to win his specialty, the 200 breaststroke.

Lake, Trinity’s Mr. Quick, was a double winner also, with impressive swims in the 50 and 100 FS. The 1-2 finish of Lake and Dave McGard in the 50 FS early in the meet gave a great emotional lift to the building Bantams surge.

Scott Kelly turned in a nifty diving performance in notching two second places in the diving events, and Booser Bronzino produced some predictable thrills in his first 1983 appearance. Bronzino registered a third place.

Anderson (200 FS) and John Peabody (100 and 500 FS) turned in their best times ever, as did front交流合作s Eddie Kanter and Lavalle. Altogether it was an encouraging afternoon for the Ducks. Their next meet is in square with WPI at home in the Trowbridge natatorium Wednesday night at 7:00.
Ski Team Competes In Separate Divisions

Flying down the slopes and carving their way through the gates, the Trinity men’s and women’s ski team have started their fourth year as a club sport.

On Monday and Thursday nights, the team travels to Mt. Southington; the practice mountain. Coach Margaret Benson accompanies the skiers, giving tips and helping organize courses.

The men’s team is more experienced than the women’s team and has had more racing time this year. For two Thursday nights, and three weekends, the men have competed. Thursday night races are set up by Mt. Southington for the colleges which practice there. Included in these races are Yale, Western Connecticut, U Hartford, U Connecticut, and Hartford College. Only UConn is in the same league as the Bantams—New England Intercollegiate Ski Conference (NEISC), Osborne Division.

The men are more competitive on Thursday nights finishing in the top three. The Osborne division, however, has proven to provide stiffer competition. UMassachusetts, Plymouth State, Boston College, Amherst, Brown, and Army are the remaining schools in the division.

Women’s Squash Splits

continued from page 24
better than last year’s defeat of 6-1.

Saturday, Trinity found a change in the competition at Smith where they came through with easy victories over Smith and Bowdoin. The 7-0 wins were not tough matches but provided the squad with experience.

This week will be light in competition with matches against Wesleyan and Middlebury. Things will take a big turn, however, on Saturday when the Bants travel to Yale for the Howe Cup. The Howe Cup is where team rankings are determined. Despite three early losses, Trinity still has a chance to retain last year’s number three ranking.

Hoopsters Run Record To 15-1

continued from page 24

keeps the brandeis Tuesday and to Maine to take on Bates and Bowdoin over the weekend.

The Bants have something to fall back on when the offense has a bad night. The J.V. is 4-4. The highlight of the season has been a overtime victory at WPI...
The Bantam varsity hockey team's bid to place first in the Division III standings was dealt a setback last Wednesday as visiting Bentley College handed them a 6-3 loss.

The loss dropped Trin's overall record to 6-7-1, while its Division III mark slid to a somewhat clear-cut 6-3-0. Bentley, which has won the Division title the last two years, now stands at 6-4-2 overall and 6-2-1 in Divisional play. The Bants, Wesleyan, and Bentley are all battling for first place honors, with strengths of schedule the determining factor. As Coach John Dunham told his team, the playoffs are there for the picking.

"It's the team that it will determine its own destiny," said Dunham.

Unfortunately, destiny wasn't on Trin's side in the Bentley loss. The Bants have now failed to beat the Blue and White in the past four years. Despite the somewhat clear-cut score, Bentley's offense worked in spurts and started, registering five goals, combined with Trin's four years. The quick goal's effect on Trin attendance was dealt a penalty points. Mike Oxman and Tom Hampton were both pinned, although, according to Coach Mike Darr, "Oxman wrestled his best match of the year." Scott Gowell, a freshman walk-on after vacation, was pinned as well, snubbing for the injured Jeb Head. Joe Adam and Will Thomas both lost decisions, although both were cited by Darr as having wrested good matches. In the last match Al Norris and his WPI opponent competed in the unlimited category as non-heavyweights; Norton was defeated.

The only other Bantam highlight for the night besides Veronis's victory was Tom Bailey's win in an exhibition match. Thursday, on the road against Central Connecticut, the story was much the same. Trinity won just two of ten matches against Division II Central, and was out-pointed 45-9. Waxer, Veronica, Oxman, Hampton and Head were pinned, Adam and Zimmerman lost on points, and the Bantams forfeited the unlimited weight category. Trinity wins were by Howe, 9-6, and Thomas, by pin.

Williams was a team that the Bants felt sure they could beat, but when it was over, the final score looked almost as bad as at those of the two previous meets. Bantam winners included Bailey by forfeit, and Howe and Adent by decision. Thomas felt that "the team did not wrestle to its potential; Oxman, Veronica and I should have won, but didn't." With these three losses, Trinity's record fell to 6-6.

Erik Smith (11) dives for a loose puck in the loss to Bentley.

by Jeffrey Handelman

The Trinity wrestling team had a tough week, losing all three of its meets.

Tuesday and Thursday's meets were rescheduled meets from before Christmas vacation against WPI and Central Connecticut, respectively. Saturday's meet at Williams was especially disappointing, as it was a team the Bants are sure they should have beaten.

On Tuesday the Bants were soundly beaten by WPI, 45-6. This came as little surprise, since WPI had lost only to Western New England, a top-ranked team, in a close meet.

After Pete Zimmerman and Tom Waxer were pinned, the Bantams got their only win of the night when Nick Veronis pinned his WPI opponent. Co-captain Mike Howe then lost 4-3 on two penalty points. Mike Oxman and Tom Hampton were both pinned, although, according to Coach Mike Darr, "Oxman wrestled his best match of the year." Scott Gowell, a freshman walk-on after vacation, was pinned as well, snubbing for the injured Jeb Head. Joe Adam and Will Thomas both lost decisions, although both were cited by Darr as having wrested good matches. In the last match Al Norris and his WPI opponent competed in the unlimited category as non-heavyweights; Norton was defeated.

The only other Bantam highlight for the night besides Veronis's victory was Tom Bailey's win in an exhibition match. Thursday, on the road against Central Connecticut, the story was much the same. Trinity won just two of ten matches against Division II Central, and was out-pointed 45-9. Waxer, Veronica, Oxman, Hampton and Head were pinned, Adam and Zimmerman lost on points, and the Bantams forfeited the unlimited weight category. Trinity wins were by Howe, 9-6, and Thomas, by pin. This was freshman Thomas's fourth win of the season. Dart felt that "Thomas wrestled well; it was a good, aggressive win for him."

Williams was a team that the Bants felt sure they could beat, but when it was over, the final score looked almost as bad as at those of the two previous meets. Bantam winners included Bailey by forfeit, and Howe and Adent by decision. Thomas felt that "the team did not wrestle to its poten- tial; Oxman, Veronica and I should have won, but didn't." With these three losses, Trinity's record fell to 6-6.

Wrestling Loses Three More

Ducks Split Two Meets

Last week the men's swimming team won one and lost one to move their season record to 4-4.

On Tuesday, the Bants found themselves in deep water as powerful Babson lived up to their reputation with a 57-43 victory. Only Ken Dry and John Harrington were able to manage individual wins during a frustrating evening in which the Ducks swam well. Dry was, in fact, a double winner, clinching a nifty 2:10.17 in the 200 individual medley, and trouncing to a 2:15.17 in the 200 back. Freshman breaststroker Harrington provided the other Trinity first, stroking to a 2:27.0 in the 200.

Bob Andre, Jim Prebudy, Andy Larallite and Bob Hornsby ended the evening on a high note, capturing the 400 free relay. It was an encouraging performance by a peppy Trinity team, and a preview to their exciting upset of Bridgewater State.

On Saturday the visitors from Massachusetts encountered a fired up Bantam team that ripped them from the opening gun. In the 400 medley relay Dry, Harrington, Anderson and Chip Lake made it look easy, as Bridgewater was never in the race. From there, the McPhersons were in charge, winning ten of thirteen events.

Tim Raffl was a triple winner. His surprise appearances in the 1000 FS (11:16.0) and the 500 FS (5:15.91) were probably the keys to the Bantam romp, as Bridgewater was heavily favored in these events. He added another victory, going 58.72 in the 100 butterfly.

Dry and Harrington were double winners, Dry subduing Bridgewater's star Greg Cook with a 1:51.22 FS, and breezing to first, stroking to a 2:27.0 in the 200. continued on page 20
Tuesday Afternoon

By Stephen K. Goffman

The drivers of the world's cars are about to enjoy a treat. The indoor track teams began with a bang, as they competed in their first indoor season for a meet at the state-of-the-art facility. Wendy Kershner, who was awarded the top spot, showed the world what she's made of with a time of 1:56 in the 880 to take fourth place. Barry passed two runners in the last lap to take the medal.

The two-mile relay, composed of Steve Klots, Dave Mangialan, Kris Johnsen, and Barry took fourth in the high jump with a leap of 4'10". Although the team was led by the performance of Elizabeth Amoros in the 5000-meter run, the focus was on the men. The team won the competition against Trinity and took the bronze away from Kershner.

Women's B-Ball Rebounds After Defeat At E.C.S.U.

The women had a tough loss to E.C.S.U. but came back strong at the University of Connecticut. Anne Malabre in the 3000, and 800, Liz Esposito in the 100, and 1000, and 800, Liz Esposito in the 1000, 1500, and 3000 met the team's expectations.

Men's Squash Wipes Out At Middletown

The men's team was stopped short in their hopes of defeating Princeton. While the defense was clicking, the offense rolled, scoring 16 points during the same period. The resulting 5-1 defeat put the Bants in fourth and strong legs by the other runners pulled the team well ahead of fifth place Wesleyan. The final point was scored by Matt Harrub in the pole vault. He finished sixth. The team had good performances in several events, but were not able to score.

Track Enjoys Auspicious Start

by Steve Klots

The indoor track teams began their season this past week, and both teams finished fifth in their respective meets. The women travelled to New Haven for the Southern Connecticut Invitational on Friday and did very well considering that it was the first indoor season for a women's team at Trinity and that the sport is considered informal. The men's teams competed against Southern Connecticut and Wagner and won.

The team was led by the performances of Elizabeth Amoros in the 5000-meter run, Steve Klots, Dave Mangialan, Kris Johnsen, and Barry. The team was strong in several events, but were not able to score. The team had good performances in several events, but were not able to score.

The defense shut down CC, the offense rolled, scoring 16 points during the same period. The resulting 5-1 defeat put the Bants in fourth and strong legs by the other runners pulled the team well ahead of fifth place Wesleyan. The final point was scored by Matt Harrub in the pole vault. He finished sixth. The team had good performances in several events, but were not able to score.

Up At Middletown

by Tom Price

What's the difference between the George Washington University squash team and the Hartford senior citizen's bowling association? From a Trinity standpoint, not much; at least in terms of squash ability, that is. Bowling might be another question. Bearing the name of our country's father, G.W. would look mighty nice if it was blessed with his squash talents.

While that perhaps is an exaggeration, it does say something about the overall level of Trinity, experienced in their round-robin tournament at Wesleyan last weekend. George Washington had not only lost to Wesleyan's J.V. team, and Trinity had trounced Wesleyan visibly last weekend, 9-0, in another round-robin.

Not to say the Bants won the tournament, as well as a few laughs. In recent days, Trinity beat Colgate, Stonybrook, G.W., and Franklin and Marshall. The toughest matches, if they can be called that, were against Stonebrook and Franklin and that's when Trinity was without its 8-1 count, Colgate and George Washington did not even manage to win a game.

Williams, whom Trinity play Wednesday, will be far from a laugh. The Ephs were a top ranked team last year and will give the Bants all they can handle this year. If Trinity does win, the Bants will finish number four in the country, behind Harvard, Princeton, and Yale. Trinity lost to Yale two weeks ago in a bitterly fought contest.

After Williams, the Bants will face Princeton on Saturday. Princeton is the toughest opponent left on Trinity's schedule. A victory over the Tigers would be a Christmas present for Trinity, as Princeton figures to battle Harvard for the national top seeds ranking. In the words of one team member, Trinity's chances for beating Princeton are "pretty questionable."

Bring back George Washington!
Defense Key As Men's Basketball Rolls On

Bates, Bracken Lead Way Against Camels

by Stephen K. Gellman

Defense can pull a good team's young guns out of fire. The men's varsity basketball team is a very good team, and defense was the key as the Bants struggled to find their offense for 30 minutes before running Connecticut College out of Ferris Saturday afternoon.

"We have hoped that defense would always be our constant so that we could count on that never giving us an off day," explained Coach Stan Ogrodnik. "When we hit a dry spell when our shooting is off or when we catch an off tempo game like today, the defense is always going to be there to hold our hand."

The first half was no pretty pretty as the Bants jumped to a 21-10 lead after eleven minutes. The Camels rallied and closed to within three at 6:48 when Peter Dorfman drove for two. Turnaround was fair play as two Steve Bracken layups helped give Trinity a seven point lead, 27-20. The Bants shot only 47 percent during the first ten and one-half minutes of the second half.

During the first ten and one-half minutes of the second half, the visitors to three points during the first 11 1/2 minutes. For the entire second half, Conn. College shot 26 percent from the floor.

The second half saw offensive improvement due to Sheila Andrus shooting better. The women's basketball team turned up the defense, outscoring the Camels 15-8 in the second half.

Erlandson noted that the next three games, Connecticut College, Wesleyan, and MIT, were important.

At Ferris, the halftime score stood tied at 31. The Trinity defense was double teaming the Bantams by surpassing the Bantams by 4-3 score. At the 17:36 mark Wynter added 22 percent and score 15 points.

"We have hoped that defense would be number one in the nation this year," Trinity Coach Becky Chase said. "We have nothing negative to say about Princeton. We are playing them again, and it always will be a tough contest."

The final game of the season was against Princeton, Friday. The matches became more heated, Trinity came up with wins from their top three players: Nina Porter, Kat Castle, and Laura Higas. As the final game of the season, the Bants were intimidating. The final match began the contest was tied at 3-3. The spectators were silent while Lea Spruance and her opponent exchanged points. Finally, Spruance fell 15-11, ending the match with a 4-3 score.

Women's Squash Splits Four Matches

by Leslie Pennington and Kathy Rowe

Dropping in rank but not in spirit, the women's squash team persevered through last week's matches, coming out with two wins and two losses. The two matches which had been predicted to be difficult proved to be just that and more. The Bants fell in attempts to average previous losses suffered to rivals Princeton and Yale. The Yale match ended in a 4-3 defeat for Trinity. Princeton followed suit by surpassing the Bantams by a score of 5-2.

The two matches, Yale and Trinity, faced each other at Trinity on Wednesday night. A sand-slicked crowd was present, hoping to see the women of Trinity average their male counterparts' disappointing failure to the Bulldogs the week before. The evening began with a number of disappointing losses for the Bants, but as the night wore on the matches became more heated. Trinity came up with wins from their top three players; Nina Porter, Kat Castle, and Laura Higas. As the final game of the season, the Bants were intimidated. The final match began the contest was tied at 3-3. The spectators were silent while Lea Spruance and her opponent exchanged points. Finally, Spruance fell 15-11, ending the match with a 4-3 score.

Friday, Trinity travelled to Princeton for their most difficult match of the season. The Bants were intimidated by Princeton, which played aggressively and considered Trinity to be an easy pushover. Princeton is expected to be number one in the nation this year. Trinity's Coach Becky Chase had nothing negative to say about the match and was pleased with her team's performance. The final score was 5-2, with victories coming from Porter and Klein, a little