Yale 2, Trinity 0. That, in a word, tells better than resumés of description could, how the Blue and White won on Memorial Day. The steady improvement that has been manifested during the last month of the season proved to be of great assistance when the team reached its climax when the big Blue team from New Haven was held to a scoreless game in eight of the nine innings.

Intra-mural Sports.

In another column of this issue there appears the tentative draft of a report from the committee appointed by the president of the Senate to consider the adoption of complete intra-mural sports at Trinity. The committee is very anxious to have the tentativeness of the draft made clear to the student body. However, the basic idea is the only one upon which such a scheme could be worked out.

The first question that arises is as to the preference of such a plan over the competitive athletic affiliation of this university. The training side of college life. The unorganized activities of the intercollege basketball league, the baseball league, and the competitive track sports hold the greatest promise for this year, removes all reasonable doubt that a spirit of sport is being developed and carried on in the lives of young men, when coupled with the competitive idea, recreates physical training from the list of tasks and places it among the pleasures. Such a plan as this has been within the immediate future for some time, but organization and cooperation has been lacking. The idea embraced in the student committee's report is an experiment to work out such a scheme, without which such a plan would be impossible.

The value to athletes is not quite as apparent on the surface as it is to the brothers, at a lower rate of work during the winter months for those men who are properly developed and are putting in their best work. However, the small beginnings of this year have furnished one concrete illustration. In the track competition conducted this spring—Coach Tuck's delivery, pounded Princeton was not the first college to everyday are developed and broadened for both men and women. The understanding and united teamwork, Trinity should think, would be a good game for Trinity to adopt. It is the oldest and greatest game, and possibly the best form of exercise for the physical training of the men. It was played by the Indians hundreds and maybe thousands of years ago. It seems to be taking on new life and popularity in many parts of the country. As an exercise are described as excellent. The agility and skill required to handle the ball combined with the physical stamina and endurance need- ed will develop and broaden the mental and physical faculties. The advantage to the brother is the opportunity to get acquainted with conditions and require both individual and united teamwork. MEDUSA TAPS FIVE JUNIORS

Annual Tap Day Ceremony Held Friday, June 2.

BRILL FIRST TO BE TAPPED.

Canner, Hartt, Miller, Webster, and Alfaro.

Five men from the Junior class, William G. Brillis, Walter W. Canner, Robert T. Hartt, Stevenson W. Webster, and Stanley J. Alfaro, were tapped by Medusa, the Senior honorary society, at the annual tap day ceremony held on the campus last Friday evening, June 2. At 7:30 four active members of Medusa, J. Bayard Cunningham, Frederick T. Tansill, McAllister R. Mohrland, and Robert G. Reynolds, issued from the first section of Jarvis Hall clad in black student gowns. Upon arriving in front of the place where the Juniors were seated on the fence between Williams and Alumni Hall, these four senior members halted and formed a circle. J. Bayard Cunningham, 22, of Baltimore, Maryland, then walked to the fence, passed down the line of seated Juniors, tapping into the face of each as he went by. After having reached the last man he retraced his steps, finally stopping in front of William G. Brilli, "23, of Bloomburg, Pa., who was then the first man to be tapped. Cunningham was followed by Mohrland who repeated the procedure and tapped Walter W. Canner, '23, of Cheshire, Conn. Robert G. Reynolds then touched Robert T. Hartt, '23, of Hartford, Conn., while Stanley P. Miller, of Point Marion, Pa., was tapped by Frederick T. Tansill, '22, of Springfield, Va. Webster was tapped by Bel Air, Maryland, was the last man to be tapped, by Cunningham. While the newly elected members were being escorted back to the first section, remaining members of the class sang the college song, "Near the Elms."

BRILL has played center on the football squad since his freshman year, and is next year's captain. He is editor of THE TRIPOD, and also editor of the 1923 Ivy, the Junior class year book. Brilli has also been on the basketball and track squads. He is a member of the Sophomore Dining Club, and the Delta Phi Fraternity.

Canner is captain of basketball for next year, having played on the team for three years at either center or forward. He is one of the "highest point getters" on the team because of his ability to shoot free throws. Canner has been his president class twice, and has served on several committees. He is a member of the Sophomore Dining Club, and the Sigma Nu Fraternity.

Hartt is president-elect of the College Senate. He is chairman of the committee considering the Mass Association, and has been on many other committees. Hartt is a regular end on the football team. He is a member of the Delta Phi Fraternity.

Webster was manager of the freshman football team last fall. He has been a member of the track team for two years, and has served on many college and class committees. Webster is a member of the Delta Phi Fraternity.

AGGIES WIN TRACK MEET

Nash Gets Highest Individual Score With Three First Places and One Second.

On Saturday the Trinity track team lost to the Connecticut Aggies by a score of 71 to 55. The greatest individual score was that of Carl Nash (Trinity), who took first place in the 220-yard dash, high hurdles, high jump, and took second in the running broad jump. "Best Paid Hard Work in the World"

I f the way a Jones Hancock salesman described his work, he is a college graduate and in five years has put himself at the very top of his business.

However, he has called upon a prospect without a previous appointment. The best life insurance salesman today works on that plan, making it a business of dignity, such as any worthy and ambitious college graduate can find satisfying to his mental needs, and highly remunerative as well.

The man above quoted is the John Hancock's youngest general agent. This shows what college graduates of the right type can do in this business, how they can build up earning power and at the same time provide for an accumulated competence for the years to come.

Graduation is a vital period in your life and you are liable to hold the business you start in. It would be well before making a definite decision to inquire into life insurance as a career. Address, Agency Department.

Alumni Recall That Annual Physics Joke

DEFINE electricity said the Prof. The class was mown down, one by one, like so many whiskers. And then—"no one has ever been able properly to define electricity since its discovery." And the smile dried on your face.

Since 1840 Williams' Shaving Soap has been defined by hundreds of thousands of college men with one word—perfection. And it doesn't dry on your face.

Example—Williams' Shaving Cream. At 7:50 you can whip up a creamy mallet that softens the heart of the toughest stubble. Your snickersnee slips along to a slick job and a glovesmooth face—in time to catch chapel at 8.

And the satisfaction afterwards is almost indefinable at that.

Try it—before chapel.
