Frank Jones Plays Best Game of His Career. Trumbull's Mack is Aggie Light.

The jinx that the Connecticut Aggies have held over Trinity this last year was working overtime in the baseball game, played at Trinity Field, Wednesday, May 23. Trinity, who had been hit by a foul ball out of Newshole's hands, and the Aggies scored three. Trinity fought back until the end and the seventh inning, with one run in and two men on the paths, Jones' had knee buckled under him and left him helpless on the ground between third and home and the last hope went out. Then , the last hope went out and the game was Frank Jones, Trinity left-hander for the full route. He played the best baseball of his career.

In the seventh his right knee, which had been tender, finally went out, and the third set which his opponent took him helpless on the ground between third and home.

The Mistress of Love, whose mysterious disappearance from the lawn of Mr. Fred Hagond of 5 Vernon Street on Tuesday April 23, caused such a sensation in the police circles of the city, is still in the hands of her abductors. Mr. Hagond surmised that the statue had been stolen by members of the college body because he had heard somewhere that it is the habit of college students to cut ridiculous capsers over statues. The local papers ventured that some Trinity men might have made away with the work of art with the intention of instituting an interclass scrap for it, similar to the Sabrina Valley at Amherst.

The Goddess of Love has appeared once since its abduction. Three Sundays after it had vanished from its pedestal on the Hagond lawn, it suddenly put in its appearance in the college chapel, high above the speaker's stall at the left of the chapel entrance, the goddess was perched. There she remained till the conclusion of the service (the prophecy of a certain student of astrology that she would appear "amicus music and song" came true to the letter). When two members of the class of 1922 decided to return the statue to its pedestal on the Hagond lawn, the foundation of which they had laid, they intended to present the statue to the class of 1892 as a reparation, and it has shone throughout the year.

Appears in Chapel for Short Time.

Worcester Tech. Wins Last Match

Captains Ortgies, Victorious in All but One of His Singles Matches This Spring, Only Man to Win His Letter.

On Friday, May 25, the tennis team was defeated 6 to 2 by Worcester Polytechnic Institute in the last match of the season, played on the Worcester courts. Captain Ortgies, playing number one man as usual, won his singles match, while Mohrken, playing number four man, also made a match. These were the only two matches won by the Trinity team. Ortgies had little difficulty in taking the first set of his singles match from Hawley, 6-3, but in the second set the Worcester captain came back strong and forced the Trinity leader to a deuce set. Ortgies finally winning 7-5. Ortgies has won all but one of his singles matches this season. He is the only man who has won a letter in tennis this year.

Nicol was, defeated by Chow, a member of the Japanese tennis team. The Trinity freshman seemed unable to solve the tactics of the opposing players, and was made easy prey of the mediums of the easterner who took the first set 6-1. In the second set Nicol put up a hard struggle but finally lost 6-4.

Cunningham fell before Wiley after a long struggle in the first two sets. The Trinity player took the first set 6-2. The second set was more of a battle. Deuce games were numerous, and Wiley finally won 6-4. In the third set Cunningham made many outs, and the Trinity man rallied, finally taking the set 6-1.

Mohrken was forced to go three sets to win his match. The first set was extremely close, going to Mohrken 6-4. Mohrken got up in the second set which his opponent took by a score of 6-4, but the Trinity man regained the upper hand in the third set, winning 6-2.

CENTENNIAL FUND RECEIVES

$200,000 FROM YALE COLLEGE

Residuary Bequests of Equal Amount Made to College and to Connecticut Historical Society.

CENTENNIAL FUND NOW HAS COLLECTED $830,000

Benefactor Established Four Scholarships in 1904.

Announcement was made Wednesday, May 25, that Trinity College is to receive $200,000 from the residuary bequest from the late George E. Houd­ ley, of West Hartford.

After bequeathing approximately $340,000 cash to his relatives and friends, and $8,000 to the Connecticut Historical Society of Windsor, the benefactor left the residue of his estate to be divided equally, one between Trinity Col­ lege and the Connecticut Historical Society as a result of the inven­ tory accepted for probate by Judge Walter H. Clark, this residue amounts to $830,000.

The will stipulated that the bequest be given in equal amounts as six per cent of the general endowment fund. This brings the actual amount of money raised thus far to $530,000 from the Centennial Fund to $830,000.

A number of students long interested in the college, and in 1904 founded four scholarships, known as the Houdley Scholarships, in memory of his brother, Charles J. Houdley, LL.D. The nomination of these scholarships is from the public schools of Hartford, in such manner as the Board of Education, and the Superintend­ ents of the town, and their suc­ cessors, may from time to time appoint.

Ten of the scholarships is regarded in the nature of a prize for superior scholarship and good con­ duct. Each of the four has an an­ nual value of $400, and is assigned in competition with that of the Daniel Woolmanship Scholarship, so that the holder receives $60 annually.

THE CHAIR board.

With this issue of THE TRIPPOD, the twenty-fifth, elections are held and the board changes. Men who were on the steering committee of the paper for the past year, have consented to step down and assist in the selection of those that may bring the paper back to the position it held a year ago.

A "vocal cord" was heard in THE TRIPPOD, through the efforts of Byron, '22, in the news and editorial matters, the advertising, and Puels, '22, in the circulation, revenue, and circulation. From the highest point of efficiency it had ever attained the present board has done much to fall short of. Whether it was a multitude of duties, or inadequate help, or simple inadequacy, at one time or another during the year every one of the members was unable to carry his weight. The paper has appeared with consistent irregularity. The trip through illness which has withdrawn most of the Auxiliary Board from circulation. On campus the circulation has been practically nil, and considerable expenditure has been made in the field. The echo of the bell has not been heard with alumni who subscribed, but did not receive copies of the paper. Advertising has not been successful. Where the Editor-in-Chief has failed has been the College Union Regatta at which the students engaged seems of no effect.

In the second, and continued as a weekly this year, the paper was a "vocal organ," which it mainly has been this year, the paper has given all campus news fully. Editorial as our party has been to discuss any questions which have come up, seem to have done the job. The only one letter has been received, and that was a private one of our correspondents. The Editor-in-Chief takes all responsibility for that letter, which has been hammered upon all year, and which was originated by "Keep 'em, William," which is the replacement in Alumni Hall of all the editors who have run this paper as worthy of continuance until the aim is achieved.

As our party's word to the new board, learn from the mistakes, errors and failures of this year, and bring the paper back to its former position. Thirty issues a year, publishing the truth, excellence, and full of news and comment.

the eighth and ninth no runs were scored. Trinity prided itself on the lid of its new fence in the third inning, after the visitors from Stetson, whose pitcher had been well used in the first two innings, put two on the board. O'Brien hit a line drive into the right field, and Blanchard seconded him. O'Brien scored. The second round he cracked this open with a single over took, the scoreless. A quick throw by Blanchard to second, and another first baseman to shortstop. Newsholme went over to beat the ball. Clean with a line drive in the right. O'Brien dashed for the ball. Newsholme had a chance to score. O'Brien throw after his ground pull the ball had been hit. The drive was one deep to left, and O'Brien prorised home. White was on hand to take him. Norman a chance to shine. O'Brien was the one. A long fly by Reilly. One run, no hits, one error.

FIRST POLITICAL ECONOMY COURSE IN U. S.

(Published through Courtesy of the 1932 "Fly")

Although Trinity College will not celebrate her Centennial until 1925, the one hundredth anniversary of the completion of the present college has already passed. Just when the idea of a college in Connecticut, other than Yale, took form is not known, but early in the eighteenth century Fort was made to secure a charter for an Episcopal institution of higher learning. The college was erected at New Haven in 1727. The first degree was conferred in 1749.

The Episcopalians, however, were at first discouraged. The General Assembly of Connecticut was hostile, and in 1822 a group of eighteen clergymen from the Anglican Church petitioned the General Assembly to grant a charter to the college. A petition was granted. The amount of money necessary for the incorporation was raised in a very short time, as well as $50,000 toward the endowment of the college. Before the college had been in operation a few years it was decided to move from New Haven to Hartford. The first commencement was held in 1827 when a class of ten men was graduated. In 1830 the college had conferred its first honorary degree, on Alexander Jollay, a graduate of the college.

Dr. G. W. Smith, a graduate of the College and a former rector of Christ Church, now Church Christ Church Cathedral, was rector of the college. He was elected in the degree of Bachelor of Letters. Elective studies for students in the two highest years were also introduced at this time. In 1872, however, the college now offered a graduate course in science, a course in letters and arts, and a course in theology.

The latter course led to the degree of Bachelor of Letters. Elective studies for students in the two highest years were also introduced at this time. In 1882, however, the college was sold to the city of Hartford for $65,000, the largest individual gift received up to that time.

On the death of President Jackson, the Rev. T. F. Pynchon was elected president, holding office until 1883 when he resigned the presidency, but continued to teach moral philosophy until 1902, when he became professor of divinity. He was succeeded by Rev. W. G. Smith, a graduate of Hobbart. During his administration, the college was sold to the city of Hartford for $65,000, the largest individual gift received up to that time.

The college in 1882 was at a loss for funds. In 1883 the college was sold to the city of Hartford for $65,000, the largest individual gift received up to that time. In 1884, when the college was sold to the city of Hartford for $65,000, the largest individual gift received up to that time, the college now offered a graduate course in science, a course in letters and arts, and a course in theology.

AUGIE GAME

The mystery of the goddess' disappearance is most complex. It involves a blackmail plot. According to Mrs. Hagedorn, on the Sunday night that the effigy appeared in the chapel, two men called on her and offered to produce the statue if they were given the reward of $10. However, when Mr. and Mrs. Hagedorn began to ask embarrassing questions, the two young men hastily made their escape.

The hiding place of the goddess is still unknown. It has been suggested that she might be in Northam Towers, hidden in some secret crypt in that sinister edifice by her abductor. However, as no one has ever ventured into the dismal halls of that mysterious structure, a search there is impossible. Perhaps at the end of the year, when the Kip Van Winkles who inhabit those mysterious towers, come down to see the run for the first time, one or two of their dwellers, in some degree, one of them maybe has shed light on the mystery.
