The Trinity College nine opened their season Saturday afternoon with a victory over the visiting B. A. Colle in a ten-day series; the contests were finished and to hold only by the June examinations, it was announced yesterday, to give more detailed attention to college business. For example, our business bodies were practically unknown to us, of course, but the work in which they are involved will be considered as eligible. Several students will continue their work in their regular course, a few of which equivalent at least of three courses for their Junior year and at least two courses for their Senior year, despite the rest of their time to individualize their studies. The burden of the head of the department recommending them. At the end of April in their Junior and Senior years, they will present themselves for a general examination in a subject in which they have been doing their work last year, and this procedure operates to excuse a student from any of the required courses for any of the proposed degree. The privilege of working as an honor student or a high grade student, as the case may be, depends on the approval of the Professor with whom they might desire to undertake such independent work. They have their work in their regular courses.

HOLIDAY FELLOWSHIP. Students contemplating an inexpensive trip abroad this summer, particularly those interested in the British Isles, should know of the existence of the joint fund of the University, a non-profit-making organization. In the spring of every year, a fellowship is organized holiday making, to provide for the healthy enjoyment of leisure, which also serves to promote social and international understanding.

The president of the association is Mr. Charles Trevelyan, member of Parliament, and the President of the Board of Education.

The Holiday Fellowship, as yet a novel idea, is an experience which many of the younger Americans might find worth exploring. It is an opportunity to see for oneself the many countries of Europe, to meet other students from different parts of the world, to learn about different cultures, and to experience the beauty and richness of European art, architecture, and history. It is a chance to broaden one's horizons and gain a deeper understanding of the world.

Dear Sirs:

In further discussion of College problems between the Faculty and Senate, brought an attitude on the part of the Senate to desire to return recommendations.

Apparantly the only real course is to frame courses in Science as dull and unprofitable, and in urging greater freedom, avoiding such uninteresting subjects in the curriculum. Now I am trying to prove to try to prove that the fundamental sciences: Math, English, etc. are not dull and boring.

Are You Going Into the Bond Business?

There is a cycle of fashion not only for the hat college men wear but for the line of work into which they enter. But your job has to fit your head as well as your hat, for it has to fit your state of mind.

Like your hat also, your job needs to fit your posture. Therefore, why not choose one that brings not only satisfaction in service but in financial return.

Selling life insurance means earning for yourself or your children businesses that do just this. It takes

Intelligence, Zeal and Ability

It gives

Liberty of action, the philosophic satisfaction of selling future security and present serenity to living people, and a response immediate and tangible, in monetary as well as mental reward.

There is a common phrase, "to receive an education," an idea that is outwardly and practically fallacious. No one receives an education any more than he receives heavy or light, its fruit is a firm and intelligent will. It is gained only by active effort, continuous and determined.

"By the way, what are you going to do with all of that boy's property?"
"Well, judging by the time he always goes to school, I think he should be a waiter in a night club."

"Where's the gun for your favor before you?"
"I let him off after the afternoon."

Student (being arrested) "But, of course, there is no such song as that."
Officer "Ignorance is no excuse."

"A sail boat is like a waiter—the more you tip them the faster they move."

"I don't think Chippin has good technique, but of course I really don't know, I've never been out with him."

Dr. Washburn, Trinity HEADS CHRIST CHURCH

Has Done Great Work in Bringing Church to Fore

Of course it was Longfellow, gradual- lty making his way westward, with the national message to the American people about old Christ Church, Phila- delphia. After visiting here last year and seeing the press of the work, I am very glad that this year I am able to say that I have had the privilege of seeing the result of it, in the actual work of the Church here, under the leadership of Dr. Washburn, for this is a work which is very near my heart. It is a work which has been in my mind for many years, and which I have always hoped would come about through the efforts of others, but with the change the Old Church has kept abreast with its community ser- vices, and the city work of old Christ Church in the midst of the hustle and bustle of Philadelphia, it is a work that has been done in a way that has been fitting in with the whole life of the city, and with the whole life of the people. Dr. Washburn and his staff are doing a great work among the child- ren of the city, and the work is the work in spirit the people of Philadelphia and the work is the work that is done in the service of the Lord.

The LAUGHING HEART
By Beatrice Shepphanks (Harper & Brothers)

This romance recaptures the mood that Richard Harding Davis used to create. There is love, laughter, tragedy, a barely averted tragedy.

It is not Nancy's fault that her family is "poor." But the tiny Eng- lish fishing village up near Scotland to which she has been sent, the stammering, starts to make friends with her, soon finds herself at the Social Work Council, and as a schoolgirl and as a social worker. The work is demanded by her family, her community.

Dr. Washburn and his staff are doing a great work among the child- ren of the city, and the work is the work in spirit the people of Philadelphia and the work is the work that is done in the service of the Lord.
