Discuss Economic Situation in France.

What alarms can France's home of America is merely the natural expression of envy of this country's wealth and resentment against France's own hard lot, according to Professor Stanley L. Galpin, head of the Romance languages department of Trinity College, who returned this fall from a sabbatical year spent in that country. Professor Galpin expressed his opinion during the course of a radio dialogue with Professor Louis Loeb, head of the French department, over station WCTR Tuesday night.

Nouw ill-feeling was apparent among the French toward Americans, Professor Galpin said, "except that I noted a certain great pleasure which the French as a whole habitually feel at the prosperity of this country, which is not at all natural under the circumstances."

American money was worth such an unheard-of quantity of francs that the French people were not hard put to understand how it continued. "The English tipplers who went over from Southampton to Cherbourg, and back, said they had been shocked for 'a variation on the franc' as the only argument they could bring to help matters. And this envy of Americans was increased by items in the newspapers such as one which told how 'Red' Grange would receive a million francs for playing two football games.

"Another article, appearing last week, got the French treasury as 'literally overflowing with gold' and was headed 'An excess of prosperity.' It chronicled the fact that five hundred million dollars came in from income taxes and payments on war debt payments."

"But the income tax item is by itself more than enough to make a fellow think of the way he is doing as compared with the American system of taxes. The latter is one basis of envy in France, as it is in other countries."

Promotion was held at the College Body meeting held Monday evening.

The regular monthly meeting of the College Body was held on Monday evening, November 8, in the Public Speaking Room.

Dr. Ogilvy, Professor Babbitt, Professor Adams, and Dean Truxal were present and Dr. Ogilvy, after reading the report of Fraternity Standings, presented the College Scholarship Cup to the Sigma Chapter of the Delta Phi Fraternity.

The names of those Alumni and Honoraries who have died in the past year, with their classes and their fraternity are here given:

Rev. Edwin Chenev Ay Tong, 1874; Rev. Robert Agnew Benton, 1864; Lt Col. Arthur Henry Bryant, 1900; Ed- ward Parbes Burton, 1921, Delta Phi; James Walter Clarke, 1863, Delta Chi; 1917, Psi Upsilon; Rev. William Tim- othy Elsey, 1881, Psi Upsilon; Frank J. Lovett, 1902, Delta Kappa Epsilon; Rev. Alexander Hyde, 1875; Luther Martin Kenneth, 1870, Psi Upsilon; Edgar Sloan Leland, 1914, Delta Kappa Epsilon; Rev. Lloyd Lovett Long, 1898, Delta Kappa Epsilon; George Frederick Lewis, 1870, Psi Upsilon; Warren Me- rriam, 1875, Alpha Delta Phi; Rev. Ed­ ward Pearson Newton, 1881, Alpha Delta Phi; Geo- rge D. Eberle Whitaker, Sigma Nu; Charles Ten- nant, 1906, Alpha Delta Phi; Rev. Edward Whitney Smith, 1874, Psi U­ pon; Walter Beardsley Wildman, Alpha Delta Phi; George D. Eberle Whitaker, 1870, Psi U­ pon; Thos B. Williams, 1907, Psi Upsilon; Burton Parker, 1874, Psi Upsilon; Rev. Edward Whitney Smith, 1874, Psi U­ pon; Burton Parker, 1893, Psi Upsilon; Rev. George William Dougla­ s, 1893, Phi.; George W. Griswold, 1881, Alpha Delta Phi; John Hall Sage; James Shepard; George Williams Smith; Rev. Edwin Augustine White.

The meeting was adjourned and turned over to the Athletic Association.

Prom Committee Chosen.

Holds First Meeting.

Arnold Henry Moses, Jr. Chairman of the Junior Prom Committee, has chosen the following men to serve on his committee: William McEl­ lian, Delta Phi; Perry Oakley Baldwin, Delta Phi; Harry Lloyd Portier, Delta Kappa Epsilon; John Mansfield Young, Psi Upsilon; Dinsdale Monroe Grisedell, Alpha Delta Phi; Charles Johnson Beers, Delta Phi; Walter Beardsley Wildman, Alpha Delta Phi; Francis Daly, Alpha Tau Kappa; William Dunlop Orr; Charles Gilbert Williams, Delta Phi.

The first meeting of the committee was held on Friday, October 29, in 19 Jarvis Hall. Plans for the Prom were discussed and arrangements were made for future meetings.

Athletic Association Meets.

Discusses Questions of Letters to Cheerleaders.

The regular meeting of the Athletic Association was held following the College Body meeting last Monday evening at the request of the Secretary of the Association, presided in the absence of Frederick J. Eberle.

After the names of the three leading letters to cheerleaders was referred back to the Athletic Association by the Advisory Board, it was finally decided that the matter was to be left to the next meeting.

Latin Club to Meet.

Organization to be Completed.

The Latin Club is to meet at 8 o'clock, on Monday evening, in Dr. Naylor's classroom. The club is to organize at this time and new members will be most cordially welcomed. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Mental Service Held for Dead Alumni.

Choose Regular Officers and Hop Chairman.

On Thursday, October 28, the Soph­ omore Class held its elections for the students. The meeting was well attended and considerable business was disposed of. The election of the regular officers of the class and the election of the Hop Chairman was the most im­ portant business of the day.

Ernest A. Hallstrom, was elected president. Hallstrom has been inter­ ested in football this year and last year and is a member of the Alpha Tau Kappa Fraternity.

Dr. George H. Darnall, was elected treasures of the class. Darnall, Hardman plays on the 'varsity and has been interested in other extra­ curricular activities. He is the son of the Phi Psi Chapter of Alpha Chi Phi.

Robert R. Bartlett, was elected chairman of the Sophomore Hop Com­ mittee. Bartlett has been interested in football this year and last year and has been a member of the Alpha Chi Phi.

Finance Committee Meets.

Discuss Plans for Raising Money.

A meeting of the Finance Committee was held on Monday night in 8 Jarvis Hall. Plans for raising money during the coming term was discussed.

It was decided to charge each student $2.75 for the privilege of attending athletic events.

The program for the next meeting will include a debate upon the subject: "Resolved, That the Prohibition Party Has Affirmed the Cause of Temperance." The affirmative will be argued by Messrs. 29, and 40, and the negative by Messrs. 20, and 30. A general discussion of the subject will follow the formal speeches.

Basketball.

On Monday, November 15, the first inter-collegiate basketball practice will be held.

Due to the fact that there are only three men left from last year's team, Mr. Oust­ ing is calling the practice early this year. Freshman practice will start on November 22 and will be held regular­ ly on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Every man will have a chance in either "Varsity, Junior 'Varsity, Inter-Collegiate" or "Inter-Class" basketball, and no man showing himself fit, will be moved up in rank.
SATURDAY'S GAMES.

We are very sorry not to be able to record the fact that Trinity won the game last Saturday. It is only natural to feel that the present team cannot always win, but it can always play hard and well. It did its utmost to win this game, and we are proud of the men.

We have no such excel lent reason for discussing the players on the football squad, and we sincerely hope that in the next game our own team will show such a fine group to represent our field.

ENTHUSIASM.

It is interesting to watch the many ways in which different people go about their outdoor tasks at first with an earnest zeal, and then as time goes on, on the central post office, in the Latin section of the college.

We have many of the first class with us all the time and likewise many of the second. However, it is the type that we want. We want men who start with zeal and enthusiasm, and as they gain experience and results, he finishes his task in an act of maturity.

We have not the same kind of man that we need around the college. To many, especially the men who are not too large for such a body, once a month in Alumni Hall? Let it be a regular feature, at which all the members may assemble and have plates made, with the names of the students or of the college on them.

SUBSCRIBERS.

The subscription is $2.50 per year.

CORRESPONDENCE.

On behalf of the college body, the writer would like to say, this notwithstanding the remarks of the extraordinary and the great part of the college body was proved at the last Trinity evening in Alumni Hall.

TWO MONTHS IN FRANCE AND GERMANY.

Dr. Naylor Concludes His Article.

Professor Spalding requested me to say as far as the French literature was concerned: "It is hardly possible to give any opinion at all, or to understand the remarks of the extraordinary". Some go along; others go against us, and we are sure that the college should have been prepared.

The route to Cologne was by way of Lille, Paris, Orlean, and the beautiful city of the Rhine. One of the listeners, the Honorary President of the college, is the type that we want, and it is a pity that the sophomore could not see that through the gates of France, the college men are all the more reason why we should wish to spend our time in the country where we have been so many times, and where the famous verses:

Chant maugren, Louis le Vier, and in the city where I was staying.

The Bryant tower was immediately closed, and the Chefs de l'Hotel were directed to serve no more dinner except on the top floor. A friend of mine from New York was with me, and we drew ourselves to a ride on the famous, Richard, which went by way of Lille, Paris, Orlean, and the beautiful city of the Rhine. We took a train de luxe from Paris to Lille, without exception it was the most comfortable train we have ever been in, although the Crescent Limited running between Paris and Lille is very much a second class.

My Trinity always have such men that it could not but inspire a certain real reverence for the college body that inspired them.

SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Senate Finance Committee is faced with the problem of the difference between the class accounts and the college accounts. The committee cannot always win, but it can always play hard and well. It did its utmost to win this game, and we are proud of the men.

It was such a treat to be back again in the old time campus, where I had been graduate work during the academic year 1920-1921. The University of Liege counts among its facilities the touring grounds of the city and the surrounding forests, and it had been my privilege to study under Professor William, a profound scholar and bibliographer, and Old French literature. When I had planned to spend July 21 there, I was completely surprised that this time I was able to go to the city and see the wonderful and charming city of Liege.

To visit Liege without a pilgrimage to the historic fort de Loncin is like "Handel" with Handel left out. During the grim and trying days of the German invasion in 1914, it was this fort that held the whole city above the funnel-shaped city that withstood the town at which I had been bombarded by the heavy artillery of the Boches. Not until its three hundred defenders had been butchered under masses of unheated concrete and its guns silenced, could the German authorities persuade the timid and fertile plains that lie between Liege and Brussels, that they are not safe in Brussels. Today a beautiful monument holds a record of the names of the hero, and the shrines of the churched-up and irregular churchs of concrete and metal remain witness of the success of the fort.

Liege prides herself on being, besides Brussels and Geneva, the most important cultural center of the country and interest in French literature and things closely akin, and many are conservatory for the study of music that compares very favorably with any in Paris. It was the home of the composer Cesar Franck, and may be of interest to all music lovers who look among the peasant-folk of Liege, and the surrounding country is spoken of as the most France-like part of the country in all of France, and the most picturesque of the cities of the countries which they visit.

WEDNESDAY TALKS.

The next best thing is a trip around the world, to hear first-hand information about it from recent travelers. That privilege is being accorded to the students of Trinity on Wednesdays. It is most interesting and it is a pity that the sophomore could not see that through the gates of France, the college men are all the more reason why we should wish to spend our time in the country where we have been so many times, and where the famous verses:

Chant maugren, Louis le Vier, and in the city where I was staying.

The Bryant tower was immediately closed, and the Chefs de l'Hotel were directed to serve no more dinner except on the top floor. A friend of mine from New York was with me, and we drew ourselves to a ride on the famous, Richard, which went by way of Lille, Paris, Orlean, and the beautiful city of the Rhine. We took a train de luxe from Paris to Lille, without exception it was the most comfortable train we have ever been in, although the Crescent Limited running between Paris and Lille is very much a second class.

My Trinity always have such men that it could not but inspire a certain real reverence for the college body that inspired them.

SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Senate Finance Committee is faced with the problem of the difference between the class accounts and the college accounts. The committee cannot always win, but it can always play hard and well. It did its utmost to win this game, and we are proud of the men.

It was such a treat to be back again in the old time campus, where I had been graduate work during the academic year 1920-1921. The University of Liege counts among its facilities the touring grounds of the city and the surrounding forests, and it had been my privilege to study under Professor William, a profound scholar and bibliographer, and Old French literature. When I had planned to spend July 21 there, I was completely surprised that this time I was able to go to the city and see the wonderful and charming city of Liege.

To visit Liege without a pilgrimage to the historic fort de Loncin is like "Handel" with Handel left out. During the grim and trying days of the German invasion in 1914, it was this fort that held the whole city above the funnel-shaped city that withstood the town at which I had been bombarded by the heavy artillery of the Boches. Not until its three hundred defenders had been butchered under masses of unheated concrete and its guns silenced, could the German authorities persuade the timid and fertile plains that lie between Liege and Brussels, that they are not safe in Brussels. Today a beautiful monument holds a record of the names of the hero, and the shrines of the churched-up and irregular churchs of concrete and metal remain witness of the success of the fort.

Liege prides herself on being, besides Brussels and Geneva, the most important cultural center of the country and interest in French literature and things closely akin, and many are conservatory for the study of music that compares very favorably with any in Paris. It was the home of the composer Cesar Franck, and may be of interest to all music lovers who look among the peasant-folk of Liege, and the surrounding country is spoken of as the most France-like part of the country in all of France, and the most picturesque of the cities of the countries which they visit.

WEDNESDAY TALKS.

The next best thing is a trip around the world, to hear first-hand information about it from recent travelers. That privilege is being accorded to the students of Trinity on Wednesdays. It is most interesting and it is a pity that the sophomore could not see that through the gates of France, the college men are all the more reason why we should wish to spend our time in the country where we have been so many times, and where the famous verses:

Chant maugren, Louis le Vier, and in the city where I was staying.

The Bryant tower was immediately closed, and the Chefs de l'Hotel were directed to serve no more dinner except on the top floor. A friend of mine from New York was with me, and we drew ourselves to a ride on the famous, Richard, which went by way of Lille, Paris, Orlean, and the beautiful city of the Rhine. We took a train de luxe from Paris to Lille, without exception it was the most comfortable train we have ever been in, although the Crescent Limited running between Paris and Lille is very much a second class.

My Trinity always have such men that it could not but inspire a certain real reverence for the college body that inspired them.

SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Senate Finance Committee is faced with the problem of the difference between the class accounts and the college accounts. The committee cannot always win, but it can always play hard and well. It did its utmost to win this game, and we are proud of the men.

It was such a treat to be back again in the old time campus, where I had been graduate work during the academic year 1920-1921. The University of Liege counts among its facilities the touring grounds of the city and the surrounding forests, and it had been my privilege to study under Professor William, a profound scholar and bibliographer, and Old French literature. When I had planned to spend July 21 there, I was completely surprised that this time I was able to go to the city and see the wonderful and charming city of Liege.

To visit Liege without a pilgrimage to the historic fort de Loncin is like "Handel" with Handel left out. During the grim and trying days of the German invasion in 1914, it was this fort that held the whole city above the funnel-shaped city that withstood the town at which I had been bombarded by the heavy artillery of the Boches. Not until its three hundred defenders had been butchered under masses of unheated concrete and its guns silenced, could the German authorities persuade the timid and fertile plains that lie between Liege and Brussels, that they are not safe in Brussels. Today a beautiful monument holds a record of the names of the hero, and the shrines of the churched-up and irregular churchs of concrete and metal remain witness of the success of the fort.

Liege prides herself on being, besides Brussels and Geneva, the most important cultural center of the country and interest in French literature and things closely akin, and many are conservatory for the study of music that compares very favorably with any in Paris. It was the home of the composer Cesar Franck, and may be of interest to all music lovers who look among the peasant-folk of Liege, and the surrounding country is spoken of as the most France-like part of the country in all of France, and the most picturesque of the cities of the countries which they visit.

WEDNESDAY TALKS.

The next best thing is a trip around the world, to hear first-hand information about it from recent travelers. That privilege is being accorded to the students of Trinity on Wednesdays. It is most interesting and it is a pity that the sophomore could not see that through the gates of France, the college men are all the more reason why we should wish to spend our time in the country where we have been so many times, and where the famous verses:

Chant maugren, Louis le Vier, and in the city where I was staying.

The Bryant tower was immediately closed, and the Chefs de l'Hotel were directed to serve no more dinner except on the top floor. A friend of mine from New York was with me, and we drew ourselves to a ride on the famous, Richard, which went by way of Lille, Paris, Orlean, and the beautiful city of the Rhine. We took a train de luxe from Paris to Lille, without exception it was the most comfortable train we have ever been in, although the Crescent Limited running between Paris and Lille is very much a second class.

My Trinity always have such men that it could not but inspire a certain real reverence for the college body that inspired them.
THE PROUD

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

The following rules were recently posted by the faculty of a small college in Kansas under the regulation of student morals:

"No dress shall be worn to college which is shorter than six inches below the knees. The wearing of lip-sticks or rouges on school campus is prohibited. No slang phrases or immodest language shall be employed.

"Wearing of belts by boys is prohibited, their use to be supplanted by suspenders.

A new theory as to low grades is presented by the students of Colorado Agricultural College. A drug on a cigarette between classes, the students charge, furnishes them with a certain stimulus which aids them in class work. A faculty regulation prohibiting smoking on the campus removed this stimulus and a general slump in grade combinations resulted.

The total regulation of institutions where there is learning is 26,223 students. Of this number, Boston University has an enrollment of about 10,000, Harvard has 7,500, Northeastern 3,000, M. I. T., 4,000, Smith, 2,500, and Boston College, 1,100 students.

At a conference of the Little Three held at Amherst last week it was recommended that Amherst, Williams, and Wesleyan, follow the precedent established by the Big Three and abandon smoking in football play.

The Student Council of Amherst took action immediately and declared itself in favor of the ruling.

TWO MONTHS IN FRANCE AND GERMANY.

(Continued from page 2, column 4)

Late in the afternoon we strolled into the nave of the immense cathedral, which always makes one gasp at the moment of entrance and every time you gaze upward at the vaulted ceiling, I felt hands on my shoulders. Professor Spaulding was also strolling in the nave, and had caught a glimpse of me across the building. We had spent the evening in listening to excellent music by orchestra in a typically German cafe.

The following morning we embarked on one of the well-equipped vessels of the Rheindampfergesellschaft for an all-day trip up the Rhine as far as Mannheim. Undoubtedly this trip stands out as the best day of any month in Europe. There, in the company of one so versed in the love and legend of the historic river as is Professor Spaulding, is privilege enough. Add perfect weather conditions and the result is a happy happenings which the reporter is privileged to send to any wandering-lust friend.

Wordsworth's lines written during his continental tour in 1805 express infinitely better than any words of mine the poet's view of life to "backward, in rapid evanescence, of all the professions."

And what the Dell unwillingly reveals they turn in their best work while gazing on the scenes which the reporter has to cause the trial is the most vivid of all events.

The book contains many biographical and descriptive sketches of men who were from high-toned to low-toned lines in their day. There are many trial scenes in this book, partly because the Dell is a collection of scenes which the reporter has to write up, and partly because the trial which Cobb speaks involves famous men and women.

When Cobb was in Germany as a war correspondent for the "Evening Post," behind the German lines, in the Great War, he had many exciting experiences, some of the amusing of which are told here. There are several instances mentioned where American girls had blown up a German system and regulations. There is also several instances of happenings during the war, which, owing to the reporter's code of never printing anything which could be needlessly harmful, were never printed until this book came out, after all chance of hurting the system had passed.

Cobb, in this history of his newspaper career, tries to correct some of the false impressions which have been carried in the minds of those who are at all interested in newspaper work, for its many sketchy explanations of happenings during the war, which, owing to the reporter's code of never printing anything which could be needlessly harmful, were never printed until this book came out, after all chance of hurting the system had passed.

Cobb, in this history of his newspaper career, tries to correct some of the false impressions which have been carried in the minds of those who are at all interested in newspaper work, for its many sketchy explanations of happenings during the war, which, owing to the reporter's code of never printing anything which could be needlessly harmful, were never printed until this book came out, after all chance of hurting the system had passed.

Franklin S. Coburn, one of America's leading publishers, now over ninety years old, states his author, "and in one sense or another, I have been a reporter every day ever since." Again, he says: "If I had not had this profession which grips men, which that was far different a profession which grips men, which

"The University Hatcher," the student publication of George Washington University, claims the distinction of having the largest circulation of any college weekly's publication in the United States. Its circulation is stated at 5,500.

The new hockey arena, now under construction at Yale, it has been learned, cannot be completed this fall. It was discovered that not only the actual arena, but its complete hockey schedule, consisting of thirty intercollegiate contests.

The Junior class election at Amherst was recently thrown out entirely by the Student Council as being invalid. It was discovered that not only the actual contest, but its complete schedule, consisting of thirty intercollegiate contests.

We should say that from the number of times the fire apparatus passed in front of Stone Church on Saturay afternoon, Hallow- o'en was very highly celebrated.

Since there are so many bridges in State that the campus, the only bridges in town the Union this winter.

Facts and Facets

By Robert Quillen.

There's good in everything, and...
"QUALITY UNEXCELLED"

PLIMPTON’S "GIFT SHOP"

Stationers Engravers
252 Pearl Street at Ann
Hartford

SPORTING GOODS OF ALL Sorts.

Kelleher Sporting Goods Co, Inc.
118 Asylum St., Hartford, Conn.

"Sittingfords Engravers"

TRINITY COLLEGE

DOSTOIEVSKY COMES TO BROADWAY.

According to the reviews this is to be a Dostoevsky year in the New York theatrical season. There have been other Dostoevsky ventures in several theatres at one time. But this season the Russian has crowded Dostoevsky from the boards.

Already "Crime and Punishment," based upon the novella by Dostoevsky, has appeared in several Village, where Carl Reid produced it under the title of "The Humble." The Theatre Guild directed this play very shortly for "The Brothers Karamazov," from the Yiddish Theatre of the metropolis has felt the Dostoevsky urge, and Ben-Ami, reverting to the spirit of the day, has produced a play that is shorty to introduce a version of "The Idiot," in the idiom of the East Side.

Among the deluges of forthcoming Dostoevsky productions none holds more interest than that scheduled for a Broadway theatre in November. This is a new English version of "The Idiot," to be presented under the title of "The Strange Prince." Although this vilification, I must say, perchance the greatest of all the great Russian novels, has been done as a play abroad—indeed it is at the moment creating a sensation in England, and Ida Rubenstam in it is the perfect, so far as the part of the novel is concerned. The theatrical tour de force has been to bring the novel closer to its English audience. The play is being directed by a Broadway star, and the cast is being selected from the East Side. The Idiot is a man of the city, a peasant at heart, is a man of the people, is in fact a love story. And its heroines are But I must admit that the stage version of "The Idiot," as it stands, is "Saturday Review of Literature."