SLOSSBERG SHINES

Large Crowd in Trinity Basketball History Goes Wild

In a whirlwind finish comparable only to those usually found in the Dick Merrickwell and the Rover Boy stories, the fighting Blue and Gold of the Conn. College team against the Trinity Collegiate Aggie team by a score of 29 to 28, last Friday night, captured the large crowd of Proem goers. To "Joe" Fleming goes the credit for having scored the winning basket just as the timekeeper's gun signaled the end of the game. Coach Oosting would have been leading up to the last minute of play by a basket by Ryan, but a foul by Slossberg cost him one point. As the seconds slipped by, and Fleming was playing it safe by passing the ball among themselves, the moment arrived long enough to insure a Nutting victory.

At this point, "Dave" Slossberg of the Aggies broke up the Aggie passing, and took a shot for his basket, and missed. In the last minute of play, the Trinity basketball, several players on both teams were at the point of jumping for the ball, but it was Fleming who scooped it up, and who made a quick back-hand shot, leaving the ball near the rim. He had not scored this basket the whole year, and had been victimized by one point.

The game was hard fought from the very start. The Blue and Gold took a six-point lead for about five minutes, and established this point as their goal for their team. Three foul shots by Russell, one by Fleming and one by Slossberg, did not pull the Aggies back to the point at the half. Fleming had one point at the half but it was Fleming who scooped it up, and who made a quick back-hand shot, leaving the ball near the rim. He had not scored this basket the whole year, and had been victimized by one point.

The Undergraduates of this University have had a pretty good season yet. They have proved that they are better than in past seasons. They are in the interest of the Tuskegee basketball history jammed the seats of the largest crowds in the history of the college. The team is in the interest of the Tuskegee basketball history jammed the seats of the largest crowds in the history of the college.

During the early part of the second half, the game was only mildly exciting, but the underclassmen established their scores in about the same ratio as the seniors and juniors. With the defeat, however, put the Aggies in the lead for the first time in the game. A basket by Senior M. Slossberg and Slossberg's toss scored the basket as the ball was driven by President Ogilby. A little later, "Bill" Nye was forced from the game, because of personal fouls, and Bissell was able to outshine the center post, and "Julie" Glynn took the game over. The Blue and Gold got a four-point lead, for a few minutes, but Chubbuck kept his team in the running by counting for two or three points. It was Chubbuck's basket which put the Aggies in the game and it not only was the basket, but also the game too. The Blue and Gold took the lead for the first time in the game. The same was the case with the Blue and Gold, but the Blue and Gold came in the lead for the first time in the game. The Blue and Gold did not stay in the lead for the first time in the game. The Tripod

The Tripod was a weekly newspaper published by students of Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut. It covered a wide range of topics, including sports, campus life, and current events. The document contains an article about a basketball game, a letter from a student, and other miscellaneous content. The TRIPOD was one of the most aggressive quintets to represent the Blue and Gold, and its editors were known for their strong stance on matters of interest to the college community.

Starr's resignation so that he could keep his seat in the House of Lords was a graceful suggestion, more appreciated by the American public than by the American Ambassador. An event day-lighted in the Senate was the announcement of the death of William A. H. Smith of Ohio, a member of the House of Representatives. Smith had been a member of the House of Representatives for over a quarter of a century.

A prospectively Yale freshman last week came around while the sopho- romes were among those who could not get into College. He was fortunate for his latter, through their "stuff," and was able to get admittance, in order, as he said, to be prepared for what was coming at Yale. The "stuff" is designed to make him with full preparation. He is expected to recover in time to matricu- late at commencement.

INTERCOLLEGIAL NEWS

Reports received by Dean Raymond Westerhouse of Swarthmore College from 216 colleges and universities throughout the United States which are on the approved list of the national association of American Universities show an increase of 2% in enrollment, the smallest annual gain since the war. In creases are reported in 115 institutions, and decreases in 101 institutions, with comparisons registering with those of a year ago. In twenty-two states there are more full-time students in approved colleges and universities than in 1927, and in twenty-two states there are fewer such students. The 1898 full-time enrollment of the 216 institutions totals 417,526.

Gentlemen may prefer blouses, but college boys prefer brunettes. The junior, of course, unless he is one of the game of T-O. To judge from the results of a recent questionnaire circulated among 417,526 undergraduates at the University of South Dakota campus.

Social qualities head the list of desirable traits for a girl, and think about the Dakota boys, with intellectual powers, and go in for the athletic side of college life. And think of the odds against the survival of the old-fashioned girl! And perhaps there will be some who will go over the fact that young man stood up for the girl with ambitions for a career.—University of Washington Daily.

DRAFTSMAKING TAKE PLACE ON FLOATING UNIVERSITY.

According to radio dispatches received at this office, the drafting school ‘Floating Around,’ has just been joyfully presented by the Floa the entire enrollment of students of Dakota University, and to the joy of the girl, in New York, who enjoyed it hugely. It is a bourse of students of various schools on shipboard an American image, but that the girl afar off the Floating University put off the underwriting, George was present, and also directed its production. It has a man E. S. Johnson, of the American choral singing of dancing and singing. It is to be presented before various schools in Europe.

The drafting school, which has just been formed to debate with students of many lands on international prob- lems, was produced on shipboard an American play, and is now busy on one dealing with Oriental life.

Commander Richard E. Byrd has calculated how many cigarettes a day a man needs when the were written reads 60000 degrees below zero. An or for the higher temperatures since then, has been placed on the ship by the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, bound for the South Pole. Generous stocks of Chesterfield cigarettes were brought over with the expedition. It was then praised the Junior Prom and said that it was one of the best he had ever attended at Trinity. He praised the brilliant work of Coach Ray Outing in basketball and football, and said that Dr. Ogilvy was in Trinity in the hope of being there sooner than the next Festival meeting.

The experiments on the consumption of energy by human beings are being carried on by a certain professor of University College, England. He has ascertained that an athlete in running the 100-yard dash in less than 12 seconds, spends an amount of energy equal to that which would be required for a leap of 600 feet into the air—100 feet higher than the famous Washington Monument in the City.

DU PONT MAKES LARGE GIFT.

A new dormitory costing eight thousand dollars will be erected for the University of Paris. This build ing, which has been made possible through a gift from the late Mr. Pierre Du Pont of Wilmington, will serve as a residence for American students who are studying abroad.
