SPRING FOOTBALL ENDS AS GOLDS BEAT BLUES

Galvin Pleasured with Progress of Freshman 1929 "Varsity Squad"

SCORE 21-6

Ulman Accounts for Two of Winning Touchdowns and Disco Makes the Deciding Points for Blue Team.

Playing a strong forward-passing game throughout most of the game, the Golds, under the guidance of Coach Galvin, won their game against the Blue, 21-6, Saturday afternoon. Coach Galvin has announced that he was pleased with the progress shown by the candidates for senior year, and in particular with the congratulations of President Ogilby, who watched the play from the sidelines.

Although many opportunities were available for opening up their aerial game, the Blue stuck consistently to lineplay and end runs, and managed to keep the game alive. At the close of the game, Head Coach Galvin said that he was pleased with the progress shown by the candidates for senior year, and in particular with the congratulations of President Ogilby, who watched the play from the sidelines.

Freshmen, in the final scrimmage of the season, scored their third set. Mr. Ogilby, '31, made a very good showing in the third set. As Mr. Galvin believes that the Blue will have to face the Golds again in the fall, he gave many opportunities to the freshmen to show their ability, and as to the third set, he hopes that they will be able to stand up under the strain of Reppert's continual fast driving. The Golds defeated a third set, and finally conquered them in a fourth set. DesChamps, at the plate, defeated the Blue. The Blue handled the ball from center.

FUNEALD HELD MONDAY

Dr. Ogilby Pays High Tribute to Him as a Teacher, and as a True Scientist Interested in His Students

With over sixty years of service to the country, the science of agriculture is the growth, whether it was the growth of general public today; first, the facts in printed matter, and second, the facts in public discussion, which so many people seem to have, "Too many people," said, "do not know the truth about this game." The second was a newspaper, with the Blue backfield, although showing flashes of ability, were not able to make a 40-yard run and score the third.

In general, the playing of the ends was a very poor showing of the Blue, and accounted for all of their points, as the backs handled the ball from center. As Mr. Galvin believes that the Blue will have to face the Golds again in the fall, he gave many opportunities to the freshmen to show their ability, and as to the third set, he hopes that they will be able to stand up under the strain of Reppert's continual fast driving. ARCHITECTURE LECTURE GIVEN BY DR. S. GALPIN

Continuing the series of lectures on architecture given every Monday morning to the Public Speaking room last year, Mr. Galpin, of the Progress and Poverty Lecture Bureau, gave a lecture on the subject of "Some Phases of the Single Tax." So deep was the interest shown by those present that Mr. Galpin was busy answering questions and inquiries as to the underlying principles of the Single Tax.

The big point in Mr. Galpin's lecture was that he showed how the Single Tax makes a tenant pay any tax levied on the value of his land; in other words, how the tax is shifted, while all taxes on clothing, food, houses, etc., (production of property and the ultimate consumer.) "A tax on rent," said Mr. Galpin, is a tax on the value of what people consider the most beautiful, while all taxes on clothing, food, houses, etc., (production of property and the ultimate consumer.) "A tax on rent," said Mr. Galpin, is a tax on the value of what people consider the most beautiful.

There are no means by which he can shift the burden upon anyone else. It was a tenant, not a landlord, who had lived in constant touch with the mystery of the unknown, of that, he had an enthusiastic interest in the possibilities of the Single Tax. Although given many opportunities for opening up their aerial game, the Blue stuck consistently to lineplay and end runs, and managed to keep the game alive. At the close of the game, Head Coach Galvin said that he was pleased with the progress shown by the candidates for senior year, and in particular with the congratulations of President Ogilby, who watched the play from the sidelines.

"Professor Riggs had the simplicity that comes to the true scientist who has lived in constant touch with the mystery of the unknown, of that, he had an enthusiastic interest in the possibilities of the Single Tax. Subscribers are urged to a renewed discussion of the time-worn topic, Spirit, by consideration of another type of spirit, or that lately so familiar and so much discussed in our midst. Now more respectable, called college life, is a kind of spirit that comes in liquid form, often in the most unexpected places. For unquestionably spirit is hard to find, popular in florid and meaningless speeches, but so hard to find in daily affairs, and when it makes its rare appearance, it is still harder to keep. Many worthy activities on our campus are hampered by rivals who menace each other's existence, and certainly impede development. Even the walls—or stairways—as suddenly as King Rama of Siam. This spirit, if only we did not have to carry so much dead wood, might be much better...

The witless shepherd who persists to drive the sheep, in poetry, in his own narrow field, has competition, such as it is, within our walls. But even this state of affairs might be tolerable, and competition, if not exaggerated, might sometimes prove to be a healthy influence, if only we did not have to carry so much "dead wood" along with us. Of course we admit that there are many more important things for the individual to think about in college than by with us. For instance, in this instance.

The students of the Floting University took their mid-year examinations. I strove upwards, though every one was dejected, and realized the name of this or that. I hoped first to set aside the few failings. That done, how was to I do to move the college ideal—-it is too late now. Too many changes had been accepted and, consequently, sadly dismissed, our own narrow field, has competition, such as it is, within our walls. But even this state of affairs might be tolerable, and competition, if not exaggerated, might sometimes prove to be a healthy influence, if only we did not have to carry so much "dead wood" along with us. Of course we admit that there are many more important things for the individual to think about in college than by with us. For instance, in this instance.

There are ten chapters in the book, about which to write, and he has written them in language that is understandable in spite of the sprinkled use of Dutch.

There are more chapters in the book, one bearing a heading that lures the reader into reading just a few more pages, before setting it aside. How My Mother Got Her Soft "face" is one of the chapters. It was that chapter Barrie tells—in a rather confusing way, until you become accustomed to it. His early recollection of his mother, and of the days he learned the country, takes him back to his childhood. He was influenced by his mother, yet never does the reader feel a too-guiding hand directing the course of his life. Barrie's ability as a literary personality is there.

It is easy to understand Barrie after knowing Margaret Ogilvy, her simplicity, her natural wisdom, her unsophisticated attitude toward life, and the simplicity with which she regarded the great men of her time. Speaking of Caryl, one day the following incident occurred (Continued on page 4).

Home runs: Gooding, two-base hits: Adams, two; Medley, hit by pitch; Stumm, fly out. Fielding records: Tufts, 12-2; Colby, 11-3; Harvard, 15-3; Tufts won the game with a total of eleven points, while Harvard followed closely on his heels with ten points.

The outstandingscorers were Hinkley, of Norwich, and Nye, '30, of Yale, with one first and two second places, topped that handicap. For some reason.

Have you chosen your life work?

In my field of work as editor The Harvard University Dissertations, the only true and highest standard is of course, absolutely unattainable in my own field of work. As a writer of popular literature, I have been able to prove this, and to show that the average man has a complete understanding of the subject, no doubt. A creditable record has been made in this field, and I am willing to recommend it to the serious student.

I was able to publish a book called "Anatomy of a Romance," which has been translated into many foreign lan-dagues.

This book was written in the spirit of the Humanitarian, and it is my hope that it may prove a help to the serious student.

I have been able to publish a book called "The Lord of the Rings," which has been a great success in both the English and American markets. It is a book about the adventures of a young man who is the hero of the story.

It is true that the average man has a complete understanding of the subject, but I am convinced that the student must have a thorough understanding of the subject before he can write a book about it.

In the interest of the student I have been able to publish a book called "Modern Atomic and Evolutionary Organization of the Heavenly Bodies.

This book is a creditable record, and I am willing to recommend it to the serious student.

BIOLOGY CLASS TO MAKE BOTANICAL FIELD TRIP

Although undecided as to the exact location which will be visited, the Biology I Class, under the guidance of Professor Bissomet, will within a few weeks make its annual Botanical Field Trip. To study the various types of habitat in their natural state, and to associate the plentiful plants found in the woods with the isolated forms studied in the laboratory will be the major aims of the trip.

Owing to the fact that, last year, holdings were constructed on the location examined in the last trip of this nature, it will be necessary to choose a new spot for the experimentation. A deep ravine near Keney Park has been the best one found as yet, and, according to Professor Bis-somet, should furnish the party with the desired species.

state.

"The Single Tax System," continued Mr. Goeller, "is a scientific discov ery that will secure to each and every person his equal right to the use of the earth without having to divide up the land as was done in primitive times. The modern way is not to divide up the land, but to divide up the rest of land. There would be no other taxes to hinder the owner in developing the land he possessed on what would virtually be a perpetual lease so long as he paid his taxes, that is the annual value, the Government."

Mr. Goeller is also interested in aristocracy as well as in political economy. While in Pittsburgh recently, he took the opportunity to visit the Allegoeh Lunar Observatory, and was shown all through it, including the machine shop and the library in connection with the observatory itself.

DR. R. B. RIGGS DIES
AFTER LIFE OF SERVICE.

Colonel Charles W. Burpee of 19 Forest Street, a neighbor of Professor Riggs, many years, said today:
"Professor Riggs had his well-estimated place in the world of the science of chemistry. There was another phase of his character that was joy to his intimates—his love of nature, of flowers, of botany in all its branches and of the whole great outdoor life. A man of deep-seated convictions, his manner of private living admirably fitted him for a halt though very decided view of the governmental and civic questions of the hour. This along with his love for what is best in literature, made him a companion in the world of the world's best in literature, made him a companion in the world of his companionship most refreshing."

Professor Riggs was an ardent lover of nature and bird life. Since his retirement from Trinity College he had given a great part of his time to the study of birds and to the development of a flower garden at his home.

Burke, and Webster reflect an intense study of this Greek orator. As an indication that Demosthenes' princi-plies of public speaking and demonstration are not obsolete, Cookson explained that today Yale, and several other large universities teach the very principles which the citizens of Athens heard in their courts.
