HERBERT TO COACH FRESHMAN TEAM

Eighteen Men Report for Practice Which Begins with Conditioning Drill and Outlining of Plays

In answer to Coach Herbert's first call for freshman football candidates, 18 of the best prospects in the class held their practice on Wednesday afternoon, September 16, at Trinity Field. Coach Herbert was busy to the last minute, outlining drills and cutting a few plays which he expects to have his proteges execute subsequently. A new and larger turnout on Thursday swelled the squad to a total of eighteen to twenty.

According to Coach Herbert, the men available for the Freshman team are comparatively inexperienced but with a little work they should be able to hold their own against older and better teams. Assistant Coach Maloney, who has been working hard at the drill, said he believed his charges would look well against the finer schools.

The Friday team held their first practice in the new pool and exhibition games with the Freshman team.

SMALL SQUAD

A more polished line was reported this week in the Freshman squad.

Despite the handicap of having an unusually small squad to work with, Coach William J. Galvin has been sending his Blue and Gold players through fast practice sessions for the past three weeks. The coaching staff is stronger this year than it was ever before, since it is the first time that Coach Herbert and Smith have been able to do any coaching work.

Gun to be Dedicated on Saturday, October 16

On Saturday evening, October 16, the first unit of the new gymnasium will be dedicated. There will be appropriate exercises preceded by the exercises of the afternoon, including exhibition exhibitions in the new pool and exhibition games on the new tennis courts.

The interior is appropriately air-conditioned and heated, and the pool is protected from sun and wind by a substantial roof. A special meeting of the alumni will be held Saturd

The Trowbridge Memorial, which is stronger this year perhaps than it has ever been before at Trinity, is dedicating its new facilities.

Finally, the exterior of the gymnasium is making a striking show on the campus, and the school is proud of its facilities.

In addition to the dedication of the gymnasium, the Trowbridge Memorial will also be recognized for its fine work and its dedication to the school.

PROFESSORS RETURN FROM SABBATICAL LEAVE

Doctors, Bettler, and Hawley Added to Faculty for Coming Year

When classes begin Monday, two Trinity professors will report to the Freshman classes for the first time.

The former Boston College, A. J. McCook, has been appointed instructor in French to fill the vacancy left by Professor H. T. McCook. He is preparing his doctor's thesis at Columbia after having studied for a number of years in Halle, Germany, where he devoted twenty-three years to research in London and Oxford. Following his seignor in England, Professor McCook was associated with the College of the University of Oxford after his sabbatical leave.

BOOK REVIEW

TO THE FRESHMEN

During the past week Trinity College has been entertained by the members of the Class of Nineteen Thirty-Three. For one brief week they have been made to feel that they were the salt of the earth, but with the opening of college they will assume their proper places as members of the Freshman Class and be treated accordingly.

The saying is quite apt that America's favorite indoor sport consists of giving advice. In all probability Freshmen have received their share of it from both fond parents, school teachers and members of the three upper classes in college. Nevertheless, we feel that at least some of this noble advice to the incoming classes. In the past, such studies had been of paramount importance. One cannot enjoy the social side of college unless he receives marks that will insure his staying in college. In the second place, and of almost equal importance with the first mentioned advice, it is quite impossible to select too carefully the right friends. Rushing after the wrong choice is the wrong choice and the loss of the happiest of the college life. In the third place, Trinity needs all the athletically-minded students for her teams. There is an excellent opportunity for men to make a name for themselves in this manner. There is also the chance for team managers. Lastly, the results of the effort put into these clubs and organizations as the Latin, French, Literary and Glee Clubs and Athenaenum Society, as well as the college paper, "The Tripod." Certainly the interests of all should be satisfied.

The editors of the "Tripod" join with the rest of the undergraduate body of Trinity College in expressing their deepest sorrow at the death of Edgerton Parsons, a Trinity alumnus of the Class of 1896.

BOOK REVIEW

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT, by Erich Maria Remarque; Little Brown & Co., Boston, 1929.

"All Quiet on the Western Front" has been so talked about during the summer months that to review it at this time might be considered repetition opinion already expressed. It has been called "the greatest of all war stories," and a "characteristically vivid, compact vividness, and the American edition is expurgated because of too many episodes. (We will furnish paper references to these.)

We read the American edition during the summer and found the key to understanding the novel in an advisory note:

"This book is to be neither an accurate nor a war story, for, in a word, all of an adventure, for death is not an adventure to those who stand face to face with it. It is merely simply to tell of a generation of men who, even though they may have escaped its shells, were destroyed by the war."

Remarque clearly expresses his purpose, and the reader must admit that the destruction of the characters is as real and as complete as those of the second book might have been. The story of his regeneration would be more convincing of the destruction of the characters is convincing evidence of the truth of the novel.

Our enthusiasm for the book is not so great that we would read it twice for amusement, but it should not be missed by anyone who wishes to be informed on the trend of contemporary literature.

RUSHING.

There exists actively at this time of the year a race of people called Fraternity men, whose characteristics differ from those of any other race. Excellent in behavior and temperate in habits, they are known for their benediction, especially toward those who are eligible converts to the modes of their race. These men are about to be moulded into the form of a Greek letter called Freshman. The Freshman must go through many forms, and they must somehow endure all the new diets, especially those choice bits which are sent from the outside. The foreign aperitif which is part of the ash can but the rare meats at the "tripod" to the over-worked student.

The methods of attack of Fraternity men upon the Freshmen are unusual, particularly if the Fraternity men are rushing about, and the more the Freshmen are made to feel that they have not been dropped from the sky and left to swim about in the ocean currents, the more desired effect is obtained. The reader will then deduce, clearly, which tribe they join and live happily ever after.

NEW "TRIPOD" OFFICE.

With the opening of the college year, "The Tripod" has moved from the Scullery Hall room, which it occupied during the past year, between the Physics and the small English Room. Most of the former furnishings of the office have already been moved to it, and some new student furniture is expected next week. This room, in accordance with the present plan, become the permanent office of "The Tripod" for the future. Its tables and furnishings prove inadequate for the work. The circulation board will continue to use as its headquarters the number one Jarvis Hall room where it keeps the records of those of the college. The other two boards, business and editorial, will occupy the new "Tripod" room.

The book is not one to be read by those who expect an optimistic, but Remarque has narrated his war with sprinkle of its scenes.

There is splendid portrayal of the spirit of the group of young men as they struggle to express sentimentality that might cheapen the story.

Many of the events are told with tact and subtlety. The "affair" with the wife of a German soldier demonstrates this. It is very well written, not quite so suggestive. This is good for both the Americans and English editions.

There is no tidling in long introductory passages. The reader is brought to the scene of action with the first words, "Wounded in the face of the Kaiser, and then..."

Head Coach Galvin worked hard last spring to find good talent, and some members of the 1925 football team would prove valuable cogs in the machine to be built this year.

But faculty bans cut down four of the men upon whom he counted heavily and today he is faced with the realization that the Freshman of last fall are going to have to make up for some very important men.

The Sophomores of whom most is expected is Henry Philip, an 185-pounder whom the coaches hope to make into a running back. It appears to have better football sense than the others, he is physically strong, has some fleetness of foot, and he has shown the most klicking ability of the Sophomore class.

Some real help was expected from George Keeney, an 187-pound back who transferred from Canisius. Keeney made a good record as a back as one of the representatives of the Big Two, but he will probably fit into the scheme of things quite nicely. But he has not yet reported for football practice and there seems to be some doubt that he will.

Finally, Tom Kerwin of the Sophomore class played some last year, is another who has not reported, but he is expected to do well this season.

The backfield candidates are Adam Kurek, 143, and Ralph Britton, 189, betters in last year’s running back line of 154 pounds and inexperienced, and Horace Philip, whom the heavily Geiger and Harold Eberle, both Sophomores.

The available men for duty on the wings are “Bill” Nye, regular last year, Alan Breed, Dave Blossom and Gus Nordstrom. Nye is the most experienced and last year was his regular wingback. The problem for Blossom and Nordstrom is to get around 180 and a consistent point maker. This group will average around 170 pounds.

The tackle candidates include two who held down these important posts last year, Frank deMayo and Pat Candy. A third is included in this group who average around 190 pounds.

The single center candidate, Captain Fred Cooper, has had trouble with his knees since last season but it is hoped that he will be able to participate in all the games. The coaches are attempting to have him immediately to groom several men to hold down the important pivot position.

Only five games are booked as follows:

September 28, Williams at Hamilton; October 5, permanent opener; October 12, Worcester Tech; October 19, Harvard; October 25, Hamilton; November 4, at Middlebury; November 11, at Hamilton.

Mentioning his own first experiences with the game, President Ogilby cited his own experiences as a player and the coaches and his hopes for a successful season.

“When I first played football," said Dr. Ogilby, "I was a buy in the group who appeared one day with a nose-guard and a lot of excess weight. That same nose-guard was the only genuine piece of football equipment, we were wearing, and unfortunately, Bill didn’t have his brains. I am glad to see that our coaches are instilling the idea that it is not only with the use of what they have, but they can do to help in the work this year.”

Johnny Smith, former captain of the Notre Dame team, and at grand cornering the Trinity line, spoke of the great difference in the problems of small college and university football.

He mentioned the huge size of the squad that reported for practice at Notre Dame, and said, that small as Trinity is, it should turn out large squads every fall. “I am perfectly well, he said, “that it is impossible to present a quality team. Its game schedule with barely enough men for two teams. Any army’s strength is based on its ‘Bob’ depth and its scarcity of reserves. Harry Herbert closed the evening with a final appeal to all those who cannot actually play football to at least get behind the team, saying that if the coaches, contrary to the contrary, there is a real psychological help in the men that support athletic teams in this way. “I am glad to see that”, he said, “we are not there, the team knows that we are behind them and, accordingly, he said, in concluding.

LITERARY CLUB STARTS MEETINGS IN OCTOBER

The Literary Club of Trinity College, organized last year, is hopeful for continued success. The meetings of the club continued throughout the year and increasing interest in the organization was evidenced by the growth in membership during the spring sessions.

The chief aim of the club this year will be an attempt to revive the "Tablet," the once flourishing literary magazine of the college.

As provided for in the constitution, the meetings are to be held on alternate Tuesday evenings; the first meeting of the year will probably be on October 1. The policy of meeting in No. 37 Jarvis seemed satisfactory, and will be continued this year.

A statement as to the purpose of the club is unnecessary. All new men on the campus who are interested in the growth of a literary group may acquaint themselves with the organization by inquiry from the officers: William D. Guckenbuehler, President; Ezra S. Diman, Vice-President; Jack Trevithick, Secretary-Treasurer.

The members are asked to resume the active part they played last year by interesting any prospective members in the club and by explaining its purpose.

College Organizations and Societies

There are two honorary societies at Trinity College, The Medusa and the Sophomore Dining Club. The Medusa is a sort of student "court of highest resort," being composed of a group of Seniors, the best and most distinguished in the class. Each year near the end of the college session the members of the Junior Class are lined up on the fence by the library wing and from them the new members of next year's Medusa are chosen by a ceremonial tapping done by the graduating members. The members of The Medusa chosen last May were: Cooper, Nye, Lovering, Knurek, Macklins, Deschamps.

The Sophomore Dining Club holds an annual banquet, at which the new members are chosen from the Sophomore class. This year's delegation, headed by Lauriston L. Scalfie, are: James A. Breed, Ralph L. Britton, Harvey Dunn, Eugene A. Durand, Jack Gooding, Ambrose S. Higgens, W. J. Kalasinjsky, Daniel B. Mc. Cook, H. E. Schmalzu, P. H. Twaddle, and W. M. Welivar.

The Sophomore Dining Club is divided into two groups, the Senate, the higher legislative body, and the lower legislative body, composed of all the rest of the students in college.

The meetings of the Club, held on the first Monday of each month, are presided over by the President of the College Body. The President this year is Frederick B. Cooper. He has the power of appointing five other members of the Senior class, who, with himself as chairman, constitute the Senate. The only limitation is that one of these Seniors must be of the Neutral Body.

The Senate holds meetings once a month. This year's members are the following: Cornwall, Deschamps, Macklins, Nye, Strock and Sturm.

The Athletic Association is made up of Mr. William Brill, Graduate Manager, Cooper as President, Jack Gooding, Secretary.

CHANGES IN SCHEDULE COMMENCE ON MONDAY

The change in the time schedule for chapel and classes is important enough to be called the attention of the student body.

Chapel is to begin at 8 o'clock instead of at 8:30 as last year. Wednesday Chapel, however, will begin at 8:30, and attendance of all students is required.

College body meetings will be held immediately after Chapel on the first Wednesday of each month.

The first class begins at 8:30 and ends at 9:20. There is a free time of five minutes between classes. The lunch hour comes between 1 and 2 o'clock, and two afternoon classes will bring the last class to closing at 3:45.

Gym periods for freshmen are to be arranged after that hour, and more definite information about gym classes will be made with individuals.

The first senior class begins at 8:30 and ends at 9:20.
