College Body Parley Planned at Wesleyan

Many Noted Speakers to Attend Symposium on Marriage at Middletown

"Marriage" is the subject of the college body parley to be held this year, and a committee of four, selected at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., invitations to attend the program offered by the committee in this college, has extended to nearly fifty colleges and universities in the East, through the presidents of their student body organizations.

Sister Francis Sanger is the leading speaker on this year's program. She is widely known for her efforts to arouse public interest in birth control information, and will probably face during her coming tour the same kind of opposition he has encountered whenever he has appeared.

Charles M. Bullock, young Princeton professor, whose book "Twenty-one" has received a great deal of attention during the past year, was also signed for the symposium. It is one of the most interesting and timely of the half dozen of the weighty problem of marriage relations. On the other hand, the views of the venerable Gladys H. Groves will present the "Feminine Side of It." Mrs. Groves is the co-author of the "Mrs. Groves' Book," a book on marriage which has been translated into the foreign.

Sixty Candidates Turn Out for Swimming Team

Large Squad Reports to Coach Clark at First Practice of Season

Sixty candidates reported for the first meeting of the swimming squad Tuesday, November 15. The prospective candidates reported to Coach Clark at 2:30 p.m. in the main hall of the athletic building. Thirty were selected and will train in the pool at field house, under the supervision of Coach Clark.

Last year's men appear to be in good condition. Mortimer Lessing, a junior, and Walt Adams, backstroke star, are taking serious workouts every day. Tucker and Ellsworth, distance men, are training hard, while Brooks Paige, veteran swimmer, appears to be getting into good shape. The junior varsity, which, with the exception of the above mentioned men, have an excellent chance to repeat victories of last season, and he will undoubtedly find them even stronger in the 330 and 410-yard events this year.

Director of the meet is Coach Clark who has been more intensive than the Thanksgiving vacation. Preliminary time trials will be scheduled two weeks after Thanksgiving, and from then the new schedule will be followed. The last week of events, Coach Clark has arranged a practice meet with the Hartford College and Yale. An informal meet at the end of the season, beginning with Anaheim on January 18.

"The Trinity College Senate and Medusa in joint session on November 14, 1932, as representatives of the student body, hereby present to the faculty that this is the only punishment inflicted.

"All members of the Senate and Medusa were present at this meeting.

"The Senate and Medusa were summoned to discuss the situation with the Committee on Administration. No announcement has yet been made concerning the decision of the faculty.

Poetry Selections Are Read by Prof. Shepard

Work of Late Vachly Lindsay Chosen as Subject for Weekly Gathering

On Tuesday evening, November 15, Professor Oddell Shepard read selections from the Muses of Heaven, by Sir David Lindsay, under the title of "Vachly Lindsay: A Study in Youth, Poetry and College Life." In the fall of 1928, the President of the freshmen class, said Professor Shepard, was "stirred to do something better. He accomplished this by writing "Jazz" poems. Examinations were held in the fall of 1928, and "The Devil's Man" would be presented at the annual meeting of the freshman class, in behalf of his work. SOFt LIGHTS AND SWEET MUSIC

For the first time since we have been in college, Trinity has a place to give dances in what is said of as being the "Tripod" at mid-years; but, for the past three years there was evidence, to those who did not attend, that they could be easily surmounted.

However, the main reason for the success of the Senate dance was the difference in spirit which was shown. For the first time, it was apparent that all present were enjoying themselves. Gone are the confines, the creasing stairway, and the wavy floor; in their place were new rooms of which we could be justly proud. It was a pleasure to see various faculty members and their wives present, and an incomparable pleasure in Alumni Hall.

Consequently, if the rumor is true that the Senate dance was an experiment to determine the advisability of using the new dancing hall for dances, the hope that the authorities will consider it a success one.-J. H.

BOOK REVIEW

WANTON MALLY, By Booth Tarkington, Published by Doubleday, Doran and Company, $2.50.

"Monsieur Beaucaire" was for Mr. Tarkington a youthful sword-thrust on the field of literature. It was action, swift and sure and edged with satire and wit. "Wanton Mally," written after more than thirty years, is that "Monsieur Beaucaire" of a more mature man. The style is as clear and sharp and a bit more humorous. The writer's hand is no less sure, but his eyes see more clearly than actors and so provides more humor in proportion to the wit.

As in the previous novel, the hero is a young nobleman exiled from France to be educated in Spain. His name is the Chevalier d'Champasplon, and he might very well be M. Beaucaire all over again—little older perhaps, a little colder, more calculating, but capable of gallant and generous action. The heroine is the pride of noble blood, but later was entrusted to the Dean of Men. It was discovered to be a 'wishing wishy-washy rag'.

Of course, one of the advantages of this novel is that it provides an opportunity to look at the different characters and so provides more humor in proportion to the wit.

Wanton Mally," the heartless hero, is a man who has been too much to save three lives, but it is his pride and his willfulness that endangered them. And when no youthful romantic likes to admit that a happily married heroine is as insipid as a cup of cumin tea.

INTER COLLEGIUM

Michigan State has a very thoughtful faculty! It has been decided that all students attending the spring dances may cut classes from 3 o'clock on the day of the dance and all classes the day after.

While at the University of Maryland, we authorized $3 for every class they cut.

"A cat, recently admitted to Bryn Mawr as a member of the class of 1936, was for Mr. Tarkington a delightful encounter of the sort which has enriched Mr. Tarkington's humor. In "Monsieur Beaucaire" appears no such Shakespearean bumpkin as Mr. Braggins.

When he would be comfortable at home he released from his spurs heavy boots and his flowing curling periwig, which was subject to nits, but later was entrusted to the Dean of Men. It was discovered to be a "wishing wishy-washy rag".

Perhaps our editorial effort, "Going Backwards in Tennis," caught the eyes of those who so generously furnished us with refinished courts a short time after. Whether we had any right to do this is a matter for discussion.

CHAPEL NOTES

The speaker at the regular Wednesday morning chapel service, November 25, will be the Reverend David McKeith, recently appointed minister of the Asylum Hill Congregational Church in Hartford. This will be the usual Thanksgiving service of the college.

There will also be a short Thanksgiving service in the North Chapel Monday morning on Thanksgiving day at 9 o'clock. There will be no services on Friday and Saturday, and no 11 o'clock service on Sunday, November 27. There will be, however, the usual Communion service and the Vespers at 5 p.m.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

On November 23 of last year, Martin Horan, a grazier working on the chapel tower, had just set one of the windows and was changing the staging outside with a helper, when he lost his balance and fell. He died in the Hartford Hospital the next day. Tomorrow morning the workmen on the chapel tower will hold a special memorial service in the Crypt Chapel at 9 o'clock. On the indicated day, the junior, in the lower, in the fan room, under the window which was Horan's last work, there is a brass plaque placed in his memory, commemorating in Latin the accident and his death.

Without a little deeper into his character, the hero never would have come out of the Tripod. Nothing would be worse than for the Tripod to become a "washed-up rag". If students would do less muddling at the editors on the campus, if they would put their lively, well-composed letters to the Tripod instead of expecting the Editor to do all the thinking, the Tripod would become a proportionately more valuable student sheet. "THE GREEN PASTURES" PLAYS TO FULL HOUSE

Pulitzer Prize Play Being Given at Parsons Every Night
This Week

MATINEE ON HOLIDAY

Original New York Cast With One Exception Appearing in Hartford

The Pulitzer prize play, "The Green Pastures", by Marc Connelly, which played for 800 performances in New York and Chicago, had its Hartford premiere at Parsons Theater on Monday evening, November 21. Based on Roark Bradford's book, "0! Man Adam and His Children", the remarkable play is generally conceded to be the outstanding dramatic presentation of a decade. With one exception the original cast is intact as of opening night at the Mansfield Theater, New York, February 26, 1930. It will be given here every night this week with matinees Thanksgiving day and Saturday.

Mr. Connelly prefaced his play with the following note:

"The Green Pastures" is an attempt to present certain aspects of a living religion in the terms of its believers. The religion is that of thousands of Negroes in the deep south. With terrible spiritual hunger and the greatest humility there untutored black Christians—many of whom cannot even read the book which is the treasure of their faith—have adapted the contents of the Bible to the necessities of their every-day lives.

"Undetected by the differences of nation and theology, they accept the Old Testament as a chronicle of wonders which happened to people like themselves in vagues but actual places and of rules of conduct, true acceptance of which will lead them to a tangible, three-dimensional Heaven. In this Heaven, if one has been born in a district where fish fry are popular, the angels do have magnificent fish through an ethernet somewhat resembling a series of empty sidewalks. The Lord Jehovah will be the promised comfortor, a just but compassionate patriarch, the summation of the virtues His follower has observed in the human beings about him. The Lord may look like the Rev. Mr. D. B. O., or he may resemble another believer's grandfather. In any event His face will have an earthly familiarity to the one who has come for his reward.

More than one hundred Negroes constitute the cast, headed by Richard B. Harrison, a patriarchal personage of Quaker aspect, who was a church and Chautauqua lecturer and reader when he made his stage debut at the age of 66 in the role of "the Law." He is one of the few men of the race who has enjoyed a long, intimate, friendly relationship with the English speaking world.

day, December 8, and Saturday, December 10. A dance will follow the performance. Tickets are $1 for students of Trinity and $1.50 for the general public.

At the meeting, a committee consisting of Mr. Helmbold, of the Greek Department, and Mr. Ullmer, of the German Department, both coaching and lecturing, will speak in the afternoon. Round Table discussions will be led by Dr. William B. Tschure, world-famed psychiatrist of the Riggs Clinic in Stockbridge, Massachusetts, who will undoubtedly treat the medical aspects of marriage in detail; and by Roy B. Chamberlain, Chapel Director at Dartmouth College, who will speak of the problem from the point of view of the layman, as opposed to the expert opinions most of the other speakers will give.

The Parley will conclude with an address by Dr. Clarence G. Campbell, president of the Eugenics Research Association, who for the last thirty years has been traveling to study social conditions throughout the world. He will summarize the remarks of preceding speakers, and drawing on his wide personal knowledge of the field, will be able to give a broad view of the entire subject as a conclusion.

The Parley is not intended to reach a definite conclusion, but merely to present a symposium of the opinions that are attainable on the subject.

Chesterfield's are Milder

As smokers become more experienced, they demand milder cigarettes. Chesterfield are milder. Their mildness is just as much a feature as the beauty of their package.

The tobaccos are mild to begin with. Patient ageing and curing make them milder still. And Chesterfields contain just the right amount of Turkish—not too much—carefully blended and cross-blended with ripe, sweet Domestic tobaccos.

Chesterfield's are milder. They taste better. That's why "They Satisfy."
