President Says That Chief Sin of College Days Is Abuse of Time and Duties

Last Wednesday morning, at the usual service in the college chapel, President Ogilby spoke on the survival value of Lent. His text was Hebrews XII: 4: "Ye have not yet resisted unto blood, circled against sin", and was especially appropriate for Ash Wednesday.

The President first asked the question: "What end does the Lenten season have?" He said that the Lenten season should serve three purposes: to do something that would assist in the survival of the individual student; to assist in the survival of the college; and to assist in the survival of the world as we know it.

The last of these three purposes, said President Ogilby, would be the most difficult. The college's purpose should be to assist in the survival of his students. If a student is unable to meet the demands of the college, it is the college's responsibility to help him survive, said President Ogilby.

The President then described Lent as being "the time of the year when the college community must come to grips with the problem of chief sin. Chief sin is the sin of college days, the sin of old, and the bygone practices of the past. The sin of college days is abuse of physical abstinence and show yourself your capacity to show a principle.

The President said that Lent is a time for all college men to come to grips with their chief sin. He said that Lent is a time to think about the reasons for giving up candy, and to consider the meaning of the word "sin." The President said that the college community should think about the meaning of the word "sin." He said that the college community should think about the meaning of the word "sin." To the Editor of the Tripod:

I want to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of your paper and your Editorial Writer, "J. S. McC.", on the editorial in this week's Tripod entitled "Hail Week".

On many college campuses, including Trinity, an upheaval has been in progress, and, I believe, it is one to be encouraged, and I am in keeping with the traditions of Trinity College.

With all good wishes, I am,

Sincerely,

Diving Rules Claim Another Life

Another diver was killed this past week in an effort to improve his ability to compile a high point score under the system of judging now in vogue in intercollegiate circles. He was Augie McKinney, '35, of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, Tufts University, who suffered a broken neck while "warming up" previous to a meet in the Princeton pool.

According to the Tufts reports, the considerable part of the point allowance depends on just how close the diver can come to the end of the board. The execution of the dive, many of the collegiate contestants to conform to the practice of "shaving the board" simply to impress the judges. More often than not, there are fliers and sometimes fatalities in this way of life, as the ultimate reward for these efforts. Some of the dives must be more than six feet in length from the board and these are extremely dangerous when the performer tries his best to come as close to the board as is within his power.

After the small and other preliminary steps recently eliminate dangers to life and limbs, Swimming officials seem to be lagging behind the pace set by the Board of Education.

WE MUST HELP

Last Saturday, a little less than four hundred miles to the south of Trinity College, a few words, by the will of the people, made a reality the dream of "Delegate Dodd". Today, the eyes of the whole world are upon him, for this is his first week of office. Four years ago, this country entered the game of survival. Today, the students of the nation are still struggling and fighting for the fundamental freedoms of the world.

The Democratic Party has promised us a "New Deal", the hope is functional and seem likely to succeed, for we now have new blood in the Democratic party. There are those who think that our present government has yet to be made in politics—men who have not had the misfortune to experience a crisis of this kind, but who have been elected to guide this country further out of the mire which the people, and their leaders who are the intelligentsia, have yet to be made in politics—men who have not had the advantage of a college education behind them.

The Jesters Hold Their First Tryouts for "Hail Fever" Cast

The Jesters held their first tryouts for parts in the production "Hail Fever" on Friday evening, March 3, in the Foss Room. A tentative casting of men for the various parts was made, with the announcement that an extra casting will be held on Sunday afternoon. The Sunday casting will be completed and the result of the extra casting will be announced then. We are unable to give the cast at this time.

The invitation has been accepted by the graduate students of Trinity, who have organized, and are planning to participate in the meeting this spring. Information concerning this organization may be obtained by any student interested from any of the graduate students.

ILLUSION:
The Oriental girl reclines on a sheet of plate glass supported by two slaves. The magician wavers a white sheet in front of the pretty matelot. He pronounces a few magic words...Presto! She has disappeared in thin air.

EXPLANATION:
"Disappearing" acts are among the most popular in the repertory of the magician. Dogs, horses, girls, whole rooms disappear—washed into wings, dropped through trapdoors, hidden by mirrors. But this "disappearance" is a bit less easy. When the magician holds up the sheet the little lady disappears completely—into the convenient figure of the dummy.

It's fun to be fooled...it's more fun to know

There is also a trick of cigarette advertising, whereby a few magic words are used to create the illusion of "Coolness." By means of advertising, whereby a few magic words are used to create the illusion of "Coolness." Fresh cigarettes, retaining their full moisture, burn more slowly...smoke cooler. Purchased, dry cigarettes burn fast. This makes the method of wrapping very important.

Improperly wrapped cigarettes begin to dry out as soon as packed. Camels are cooler because they come in the famous Humidor Pack of welded, three-ply, MOISTURE-PROOF cellophane...and because they contain better tobaccos.

A cigarette that is fresh, full of natural moisture, and blended from choice, ripe tobaccos tastes cooler than one that is harsh and acrid. For coolness, choose a fresh cigarette, made from costlier tobaccos.

Try Camels...give your taste a chance to sense the difference. You'll appreciate it!
