March 4, the Trinity basketball team established a college record of ten out of twelve wins for one season.
The nearest approach to this was in 1929 when the Trinity team won ten out of fourteen games and 1920 when it won ten out of fifteen games.
For the first time in years as many games were played away as were played at home. Of these games played away, only one was lost.
The team this year was a smooth­running unit as evidenced by the scores it ran up. Johnnie Martins at forward was the high scorer for the season with 126 points to his credit. He has averaged a little better than ten points per game.
Martens' floorwork and all-around play has been one of the features of every game. Captain Bob Daut was the second highest scorer, running up a total of 88 points during the season.
Besides his scoring ability, Daut had the unusual distinction of having control of the tap at center in every one of the games played. Kelly and Dukas shared honors about even as defensive men. Both are unusually fine guards and at the same time excellent shots. Of the two games lost during the season, it is worth noting that Liddell was unable to play at all in the Coast Guard game and only for about fifteen minutes of the Wesleyan game. His speed and aggressiveness was an outstanding feature of every game in which he took part. Kemp was a big help to the team for he batted beautifully when Liddell was out with a charlie horse. Sampers was also a valuable utility man. Seven men earned their letters during this season. They are

Delta Kappa Epsilon Takes Second, With Commons Club Third

The finals of the annual intrural swimming meet were held on Friday afternoon, March 10, in Towbridge Memorial. Sigma Nu took first place, with Delta Kappa Epsilon and the Commons Club second and third, respectively. Fifty men, representing seven fraternities, the comons Club, and the Neutral 0's were entered for the seven events.

One intramural record was broken by Cob, of Sigma Nu, in the 100-dyard breaststroke, which he did in 1:18.9, finishing well ahead of five other contestants.

Don Burke, of D. K. E., distinguished himself in the 50-yard dash which he won in 26.7, and in the 100-yard free style, winning with a time of 1:02.2.

The diving event was captured by Brooks Paige, of Alpha Delta Phi, with a rating of 95.7. He was offered close competition, however, by Angus, of D. K. E., and Mowbray, of the Neutral 0's.

The events in order and the first three places of each are as follows:

50-Yard Dash—Won by Burke (D. K. E.); second, Adams (Sigma Nu); third, Dickson (Sigma Nu); time, 22.6.

200-Yard Free Style—Won by Motien (Commons Club); second, Ellinworth (Sigma Nu); third, Day (Sigma Nu); time, 1:44.6.

Dive—Won by Paige (Alpha Delta Phi); second, Angus (D. K. E.); third, Mowbray (Neutral 0); score, 95.7.

100-Yard Backstroke—Won by Adams (Sigma Nu); second, Motien (Commons Club); third, Andrew Ondrerdok (Alpha Delta Phi); time, 1:14.5.

A MESSAGE TO THE ALUMNI
The commonwealth of interest in college affairs is always a helpful spur to the administration.
It is especially helpful when such Alumni interest takes the form of active visits. Both are unusually

FINANCIAL ALLOTMENTS DECIDED BY SENATORS
Reducions Fixed Necessary In Expenditures For Expansion Of Glee Club

The weekly meeting of the Senate was held Monday evening, March 6, in the Cook Hall lounge, at which the final allotments for activities were made and a report was made on the dances
given after the Harvard game.
The difference in the amount on Feb­ uary 25 was $35.00 and $44.50 was taken in at the door, showing a profit of $9,56. Because there was a $4 deficit at the last Senate dance in December, it was agreed that the $4 deficit should be made up by part of the profit from this dance and that the remainder should go to the Jesters for their services at both events.
The allotments for the season were made to the various organizations in college:

The members of the Senate were requested by President Ogilby at his home for lunch last Tuesday noon at 1 o'clock.

THE ETERNAL QUIZ

It is almost unanimously granted that the examination system is not a satisfactory means of education. Most professors could probably be persuaded to admit that they would gladly substitute another method if it were feasible. Students have racked their brains on this point for many a year, and, if they have found none, do not here take upon themselves to propose any revolutionary ideas.

We merely raise our voice in protest against being swamped by the flood of questions, and, in the main, we allow our friends to know when and how and what to study. Our argument does not need to refer to the formal decision of that sort. The main point is that these little examinations prove nothing.

The student who reads his assignments daily, and actually keeps up with his class, is a phenomenon.

To be leaders in the future, to be fitted to assume the responsibilities which concern every college and university club buildings, the finest squash courts in the city. The "D" takes from the space of a week or two. Daily lessons in Physics are no pronounced signs of interest held in the Tufts Medical School.

The president of the organization is the result of a merger of the two banks about three years ago. the event most aptly describes the situation. It was three years ago that the merger of the two banks took place. Many left when it was only a matter of curiosity; it should be rather a matter of interest.

The undergraduates of today are expected to be the leaders of tomorrow and to pay for a college education. More attention to books will not fit us one iota as well as consciousness of what is going on in the world.

Beginning with this issue of the Trinity Tripod, it is our intention to include in the pages of the paper a question to our readers, in the form of either current or topical questions; as well as the answers given by five members of the Student Body, so that our readers may be able to see the difference in the point of view, if any, as the case may be. Our purpose in asking these questions is not to write a political piece, but simply to add some extra interest of our own, and any comments or suggestions that are made upon it will make it greatly more interesting.

Question—What, in your opinion, is the Cause of the Present Financial Crisis?

The causes for the present collapse of the currency of the United States are something of a mystery. We are told that bank runs have been caused by fear, by people who have fled from the gold standard, by the flight of people from the overvalued currency of the United States. But the fact is, that the people who have fled from the gold standard have not been the people who have fled from the overvalued currency. The people who have fled from the gold standard have been the people who have not had any money, and who have not had any confidence in the future. The people who have fled from the overvalued currency have been the people who have been able to buy the gold certificates at par, and who have been able to buy the gold certificates at par. The people who have fled from the gold standard have been the people who have been able to buy the gold certificates at par, and who have been able to buy the gold certificates at par.

A THEATRE BAG BEGINS EXTEMPORE TALKS.

The theatre has held its regular meeting for the season, with a talk about the seating arrangements of the English room. Each member of the audience was supposed to be meeting by another and drawn from the hat. It has been found that such a practice is more effective in order to make an impression of understanding, and is more satisfying.

The possibilities of providing opportunity for audience to participate in a theatre setting have been considered by the theatre committee, and the plan of an after-dinner speaking was seriously considered.

The principal speaker of the evening had been invited to present a talk on "Theatre and Society". The speaker, a member of the Trinity faculty, had given an interesting talk on the subject, and the students had found the talk to be quite enlightening. The speaker had included several anecdotes about the theatre, and had made several suggestions about the role of the theatre in society.

The speaker had suggested that the theatre should be used as a means of bringing people together, and that it should be used as a means of promoting social change. The speaker had also suggested that the theatre should be used as a means of promoting understanding, and that it should be used as a means of promoting cultural exchange.

If you have any questions which you would like to see answered, or any comments which you would like to make, please send them in to the Editor of the Trinity Tripod.

The second annual Intercollegiate Squash Raquets Association Tournament was held in the new Whitney Gymnasium at Yale, March 15-17. First held in 1933, it has become the annual event at which the four major eastern teams, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, and Yale, determine the champion of the major eastern teams.

At the annual meeting of the Association, William G. Brill, the Trinity five-square player, was elected President for 1934-35. The following officers were elected:

W. G. Fouke, Princeton, President; W. H. Benjamin, Trinity, Vice-President; Robert Louis, M. T. E., Secretary; and Robert Grant, Harvard, Treasurer.

The next tournament will be held at the Trinity courts the first week of March, 1934.

Dr. Ogilvy Speaks at Sunday Chapel Service

“The Challenge of the Problem of Evil” Topic of Sermon by President

President Ogilvy spoke in Chapel on Sunday, March 11, taking as his subject “The Challenge of the Problem of Evil.” His text was the 37th Psalm. Andrew Carnegie was born in Scotland, he had been by stressing the importance for college men to come to grips with age-old problems. College education does not offer a solution to the serious problem of human life, but it fulfills its purpose when it introduces the College students to the problem itself. It is the challenge of the 37th Psalm, that of introducing the subject: “I began most inexpensively by choosing an unpopular topic—Aristocracy. Almost every American believes that he hates the word, the idea, and the thing itself. Or at least we may say this much, that aristocracy, although it may be vaguely comfortable, like an onion, when we feel its presence in ourselves, muffing a pleasant glow. But aristocracy in the sense of the aristocracy being, is always, like an onion, deceptively subtle when we suspect its presence in others.”

Going over the charge of the aristocratic tradition is opposite to that of democracy, Professor Ogilvy explained:

“The difficulty is, of course, that there are two very different things. You about what aristocracy has become, by progressive degradation, and I about what it has become, and whether it must be, and must again if any nation so founded and so conceived as ours is not to perish from the earth. Here in America the idea of aristocracy is a bad name, in order to be called, I say, hang the name and ourselves, and destroy the thing that is at your peril. Kill out of American life the passion for excellence and the answering passion for service and you destroy the dignity of our lives, the things that are good for us, the things that are noble. If you do not lead us we shall continue to be lost, as now, be lost, as now, as a nation. Continuing Professor Ogilvy stated: “An aristocrat is one who is eager and able to do the things for which he is good.”

SQUASH TOURNEY IS HELD AT NEW HAVEN

“The Challenge of the Problem of Evil” Topic of Sermon by President

President Ogilvy spoke in Chapel on Sunday, March 11, taking as his subject “The Challenge of the Problem of Evil.” His text was the 37th Psalm. Andrew Carnegie was born in Scotland, he had been by stressing the importance for college men to come to grips with age-old problems. College education does not offer a solution to the serious problem of human life, but it fulfills its purpose when it introduces the College students to the problem itself. It is the challenge of the 37th Psalm, that of introducing the subject: “I began most inexpensively by choosing an unpopular topic—Aristocracy. Almost every American believes that he hates the word, the idea, and the thing itself. Or at least we may say this much, that aristocracy, although it may be vaguely comfortable, like an onion, when we feel its presence in ourselves, muffing a pleasant glow. But aristocracy in the sense of the aristocracy being, is always, like an onion, deceptively subtle when we suspect its presence in others.”

“The difficulty is, of course, that there are two very different things. You about what aristocracy has become, by progressive degradation, and I about what it has become, and whether it must be, and must again if any nation so founded and so conceived as ours is not to perish from the earth. Here in America the idea of aristocracy is a bad name, in order to be called, I say, hang the name and ourselves, and destroy the thing that is at your peril. Kill out of American life the passion for excellence and the answering passion for service and you destroy the dignity of our lives, the things that are good for us, the things that are noble. If you do not lead us we shall continue to be lost, as now, be lost, as now, as a nation. Continuing Professor Ogilvy stated: “An aristocrat is one who is eager and able to do the things for which he is good.”

Cigarettes, like Foods need Seasoning

That's the part Turkish Tobaccos play in making Chesterfields Taste Better

SMOKERS notice a certain "touch" in Chesterfields that comes from having just enough Turkish tobacco in them...a spicy, aromatic flavor that's much the same to a cigarette as seasoning is to food.

For only by blending and cross-blending the right amounts of mild Domestic tobaccos with the right amount of Turkish can we get the flavor and aroma that Chesterfield smokers enjoy.

Next time, ask for "The Cigarette that Satisfies"...you'll get Chesterfields, with Milder, Better Taste.
