PROFESSOR BORCHARD OF YALE SAYS WORLD WAR AGAIN IMMINENT

Compares Present with 1914 in Talk to Political Science Teachers Here Saturday

Declares Current Peace Plans Will Only Lead to War—Four Others Speaks

"Another World War is Imminent," declared Professor Edwin M. Borchard of Yale, at the Fourth Annual Meeting of the Connecticut Valley Teachers of Political Science, held at Trinity College on Saturday, May 26. Professor Borchard, in an address to the representatives from seven colleges of the area, told them that in his opinion conditions at present are the same as they were from 1914 to 1918.

The World War has never ceased, he declared. It is only a question of interlude and truce, and the disintegration of the Armistice Conference makes plain that we are nearing the final stages of another war. Europe's peace proposals are intended to lead us into the next war. Foremost among these is the plan of collective sanctions; that is, that if one nation is aggressor in a war, the rest of the world will impose sanctions against him. He doubts that these sanctions could preserve the peace, for they will lead to the political debacle of the present, Professor Borchard said. He would decide which country was the aggressor, and to that country to impose sanctions. There is ceaseless propaganda being spread throughout this country at present to generate good will in foreign countries, which will involve us in European entanglements.

There is the danger of a world war, Professor Borchard declared, in an observation of international law and a preservation of strict neutrality with more than the "monkeys" of Washington and Jefferson.

Mr. Rollin B. Pusey, the director of Hartford's new Municipal Research Bureau, gave a short talk on "What Do Municipal Research Bureaus Expect of the College?" The answer, he said, was "Plenty." Municipal research bureaus are the laboratories of political science, run by men who are not working for the usual political rewards. No large groups were organized, and it is the study of political science which, though small in numbers, is growing fast, he declared. Miss Katherine S. Day told the group about Hartford's Civic Summer School. This school was organized last summer, three summers ago and has enjoyed great success from its inception. Miss Day asked for continued support from the colleges to insure the continued increase of civic knowledge.

In the afternoon the group met at the Cook Dormitory and proceeded in cars to various points of historical interest in the city, including the site of the Charter Oak and the Mark Twain House.

SIX MEN TAPPED FOR 1935 MEDUSA THURSDAY

Deke to Play Winner of Delta Psi—Sigma Nu Game for Championship

The intramural baseball tournament, or "Twilight League," started yesterday on its schedule two weeks ago, and is now well on the way to completion. It is running day in and day out, and the winning teams are the ones remaining in the tournament and the losers playing a consolation round.

So far seven games have been played. The rules are the same as in regular baseball, except that the ball must be pitched underhand. The games start at 7.15 o'clock and continue until seven innings have been played, or until darkness mercilessly intervenes.

The game between Alpha Chi Rho and Delta Delta Phi ended in a 9 to 2 victory for the former. The contest was marked by an unusual lack of hitting ability among the losers, despite the easy slants served up to them. The winning team thoroughly deserved the victory, as it fielded almost perfectly for most of the game.

Sigma Nu defeated the Commons Club in a free hitting game by the score of 26 to 10. Although the batting eyes of the contestants were sharpened to a remarkable degree, the fielding was haphazard and the pitching decidedly below par.

The most startling upset in the first round matches was Delta Psi's 24 to 1 victory over Psi Upsilon. The game was much closer, however, than the score seems to indicate. The contest was unique because of the complete lack of any concerted effort to field the ball on the part of Psi U. and to the startling play of Al Mason, Delta Psi first baseman, who fielded flawlessly, belted out three terrific long drives (Continued on page 4.)

FIERCE TWILIGHT LEAGUE COMPETITION NEARS END

Six members of the Junior class were selected for the Medusa, Senior Honorary Society, in the annual "tapping" held last Thursday evening. The following students were tapped: James Alberth Hughes, Lucius J. Keelan, John Heddon McCoik, Territt H. Movreay, and William Henry Warner.

Mr. George Murdoch, '34, was the first speaker for Wesleyan. He opened the affirmative side of the argument. He pointed out that our interests in Cuba were primarily of a selfish nature, that Cuba served as a parlor ground for capitalists who exploited it unscrupulously.

Mr. Donald Dumont, '34, then spoke for Trinity. He went through the history of the Platt Amendment and cited the humanitarian and magnanimous motives in the mind of Senator Ovville Platt of Connecticut when he advocated this amendment.

Mr. Charles Lane, second Wesleyan man, extolled the "attractions" caused by the Platt Bill and went on to say that for the benefit of Cuba, American capitalists should evacuate the island, and the Platt Amendment should be abrogated.

Mr. Frederick Benf then continued the Trinity argument. He carried on a Mr. Dumont's speech, showing that the reason why the Platt Amendment was passed in the first place is still of paramount importance as evidenced by the continued economic and social growth of Cuba. He pointed out that the investment of $1,000,000,000 in Cuba has raised the per capita wealth (Continued on page 4.)

ATHENAEUM DEBATES WITH WESLEYAN ON WAYS TO STABILIZE THE CARIBBEAN

Dumont, Senf Oppose Abrogation of Platt Amendment Against Murdoch and Lane

On Saturday, April 19, over radio station WTCU, the Athenaeum Debating team of Trinity and a Wesleyan team argued from 8 to 8.30 p.m., on the question, "Resolved, That the Platt Amendment to the Cuban Constitution be Abrogated." This amendment to the Cuban Constitution gives the United States the right to intervene in Cuba when asked to do so by Cuba or at the discretion of the United States.

Mr. George Murdoch, '34, was the first speaker for Wesleyan. He opened the affirmative side of the argument. He pointed out that our interests in Cuba were primarily of a selfish nature, that Cuba served as a parlor ground for capitalists who exploited it unscrupulously.

Looking at Hawaii with an Exchange Student

(For the 2nd and last of a series of editorials on the life in Hawaii, written for the Tripod by William H. Boney, an exchange student at the University of Hawaii.—Ed.)

THE UNIVERSITY OF HAWAII

To a mainland college student, accustomed to be to the fairness of uniform and formal behavior, the exotic environment of his own racial group, the University of Hawaii offers an exception. The University is not only a far more expanded human experience, the University is at present attended by some 1000 students, regular and part-time, of many racial and national back-grounds, of many types of students, it retains much of the personal atmosphere of a college half its size, providing many opportunities for the establishment of inter-racial friendships and the acquaintance of those rich inner lives of one who has tasted something of another people.

Students of the University of Hawaii, like those of mainland universities and colleges are actively engaged in their own literary, musical, dramatic, and social organizations, and are evident enough interested in them. (Continued on page 4.)

BOOK REVIEW

HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLO

By Odell Shepard

American Book Company, 1934.

In hoping to hear a new note on Longfellow; to read criticism based on understanding and thorough connaissance of the poet, I was disappointed to find that it is the Professor Shepard, who writes of the poet as though he had no idea of the rise, culmination, and decline of a movement which has been kind to him. His friends were "the best people" and he had plenty of them, as he was satisfied. He never used to have any trouble getting along with people.

Longfellow's limitations were easily, in his well-known overactive imagination. He followed that his scope of experience was limited, and that his remarks were "naive," everything. In his writing, he was, as he felt, superficial, edifying, an expression of something that would be found satisfactory, but much more obtuseness.

If Longfellow comments at length upon the world-wide popularity of Longfellow's work. It is superficially inspired, but it was, in his presentation, a movement...

TRINITY DEFEATED BY WILLIAMS, 4 TO 2

Pitching Duel by Hall and Kroll; Eugenia Burns on First Base, but with a Hit to First.

Score Run: 4-2. Briggs, Hall and Cross.

In the first inning, the Williams' batter, Briggs, hit a double up the middle, but Briggs was out at second when Cross, who was on first base, attempted to score the run. In the second inning, Kroll, who had walked to first base, advanced to second on a single hit to left-center by Lambda for the first run. Briggs followed with a sacrifice fly to right center, scoring Kroll, and Hall, who had walked to first, advanced to second on a hit to center by Burns, scoring Briggs. On the second hit, Burns was out at first, but Briggs, who was out at second, was safe at first on Burns' throw to first. In the third inning, the Williams' defense was improved, and they retired the Trinity batters in order. In the fourth inning, the Trinity team again faced the Williams pitcher, Kroll. The Trinity batters again faced the Williams pitcher, Kroll. Brill, who had walked to first, scored on an error by the Williams catcher, Burns, and Burns advanced to second on a single hit to left-center by Briggs. In the fifth inning, Cross, who had walked to first, was safe at second on a hit to left-center by Burns, scoring Brill. In the sixth inning, Burns, who had walked to first, scored on an error by the Williams catcher, Burns, and Burns advanced to second on a hit to left-center by Briggs. In the seventh inning, the Williams' defense again faced the Trinity batters, but the Trinity team retired the Williams batters in order. In the eighth inning, Burns, who had walked to first, was safe at second on a hit to left-center by Briggs, scoring Brill. In the ninth inning, the Williams' defense again faced the Trinity batters, but the Trinity team retired the Williams batters in order. In the tenth inning, Burns, who had walked to first, was safe at second on a hit to left-center by Briggs, scoring Brill. The final score was 4-2, with Burns, Brill, Cross and Kroll accounting for the runs.

TRINITY RALLY FAILS

Victors Make Three Tallies During Ninth-Inning Rally at Sceneyahad

It was the big eighth inning that spelled defeat for the Trinity baseball team, as they were outscored 3-0 by the Williams team. The Trinity team entered the eighth inning with a 2-0 lead, but the Williams team scored three runs in the inning to take the lead back. The Trinity team was unable to score in the final two innings, and the game ended with the Williams team winning 5-2.
