FOUR ADDRESSES MADE
Pass Resolutions Against R. O. T. C. and Academic Suppression; Fifty Attended

Fifty Trinity students and three faculty members participated in an Anti-War mass meeting in the Public Relations Building on campus from 4 to 5:30 p.m., November 9. The meeting was conducted by James E. Metz, senior and nationalistic. Mr. Metz briefly commented upon the students' duties as citizens, and pointed out the necessity of their joining in active opposition to the war.

The next speakers were Ira D. Ayres, Professor of Social Ethics at Smith College; Charles O. Goodwin, Class of '66, of the National Student Union League in America; and Edward C. Hale, Professor of Social Science at the Brookwood Labor College, and former director of the Student League for Industrial Democracy; and (Joseph. Gehrts, head of the National Student Union League in America.

TED EED — AN INFIRARY

It seems strange that Trinity, an up-to-date college in many respects, should be so primitive in one feature, namely: there is no adequate provision for a medical department or infirmary. It is an almost unheard of thing these days for even the smallest college or preparatory school not to have a first aid room or, if not, to have at least a nurse always in charge. Even if they contained only three or four cots, there would be a vast improvement over conditions as they exist at Trinity. Theoretically, this provision would seem sufficient, but in practice it falls short of its purpose. Therefore, even if it is assumed that which, although not seriously in themselves, require treatment in order to offset later complications. It stands to reason that even if a sick-slip may be handed in at the college office early in the morning, advising the student is ill in his room. Now, it is a fact that the lack of medical attention is the fault of the one doctor and nurse. For the first place, his duties as instructor take too much time; in the second place, he simply is unable to take charge of the health of a college as large as Trinity is unprepared.

Some will at once point out that it is only a matter of several blocks to the Hartford Hospital, where provence is made in one of the w. #### THE ANTI-WAR ISSUE

We regret that more students did not attend last Friday's anti-war meeting. No matter what the student's attitude may be about war, he can gain a great deal by hearing all sides of the question. If the anti-war meeting is necessarily misused, but there was much in Friday's meeting to stimulate the mind. Capable speakers from Smith College, the National Student League, the Students' League of the American Democratic Party gave forceful talks. There was nothing to brand the meeting as radical, although two of the speakers represented Communism and Socialism.

Perhaps the most interesting part of the meeting was the presentation of the constructive program for the prevention of war. Instead of the old exhortation to offer a passive refusal to bear arms with the army, all present were declared, the speakers have proceeded to what seem to them the fundamental causes for war and have offered the following program to remedy the evil:

1. Complete government control of the manufacture of armaments and munitions to eliminate international arms races.
2. Draastic reduction of military and naval forces to a very minimum.
3. Volunteer service of compulsory military training in the secondary schools, colleges and universities of the country.
4. A general strike in the event of a declaration of war to prevent the continuation of hostilities.

Everyone concerned with the anti-war movement seems to feel that the causes of war have their roots in the outworn Capitalist system, which attempts to flood already saturated markets with an over-production of goods and to create artificially new foreign markets with the aid of armed forces, eventually leading to war when the competitive pressure becomes too great. As a substitute for Capitalism, some offer us Communism, others Socialism, or a more moderate system of government control of public utilities and the manufacture of armaments. These statements were based on the spreading sentiment against war. The author must in every case be anonymous, but not unless we know the name, but not unless the name appears in print. The author must in every case be anonymous, but not unless we know the name, but not unless the name appears in print.

We are not advocating Communism, Socialism, or any economic system, but we are feeding theCommunity College syndrome, which is the rapidly spreading sentiment against war. Some people resign themselves to the belief that Nations are still barbaric in the field of athletics as it has been on the football field throughout the season just completed. Seven clean-cut and impressive victories in as many games, and that dream of all sports enthusiasts, an unainted and untied record, has become a wonderful reality. We cannot speak too highly in praise of Coach Jessoe, Jack Mahser, and a group of men who have given Trinity supporters a team that ranks with the great.

To them we say: Trinity will never forget you. You have made history. The thanks of every undergraduate and alumnus who can appreciate what you have done are yours. You have earned them well.

Trinity Team Upset Predictions by Holding Wesleyan to 3-3 Score

On Friday, November 2, at midnight, the Trinity soccer team closed its season with something of a triumph by tying Wesleyan 3-3. Wesleyan was doped to win by aoned-sided score. This was a notable achievement in view of the fact that Wesleyan had won every previous game.

The past season has not been otherwise successful for the Blue and Gold. They tied Wetherfield High School in the opening game of the season; then lost to Bard College 3-2. The Hilltoppers' next game with Massasauga State was a 2-1 loss. For the third straight game the Blue and Gold would acquit itself of the expectations of its fans and the record shows that this team has not been able to win in as many games that the Blue and Gold would acquit itself of the expectations of its fans and the record shows that this team has not been able to win.

When the game was over a few minutes old the Blue and Gold showed a new team to perfect a pass defense. Jessee and the team worked hard to score early in the fray. Wesleyan came of the annual classic? Trinity steam-roller scored 25 points to her opponents' 0.

During the following week Dan Jessee and the team worked vigorously to perfect a pass defense. Wesleyan, the arch-rival, was to present itself on the Trinity field the next Saturday. When game time arrived the stands were filled to capacity; the crowds expected to see a hard-fought battle. Who had the strength? What would be the outcome? What would be the result of the game? The Jesseemen proved their worth once more by scoring in the first few minutes and running rampant over the Green Mountain boys to a 21 to 7 victory.

Every man who played in any game for Trinity this fall deserves credit for his fine work. We appreciate their work, and the campus is theirs. Captain Jack Mahler played a stellas game throughout the year. Alexander, Lindell, and Roach distinguished themselves at the end positions. Mar- quet proved himself capable at the signal point, and ran back punts with speed and shiftiness. Kobrosky, who led the scoring in the East for several weeks, is a delight to the eyes. He is to be congratulated, as the heat of early years to come bring anything like this year's record. Trinity won the 43, Trinity 35, B owdoin 27, Princeton 35, Dartmouth 9, Brown 65, Williams 57, University of Vermont 56, Hamilton 14, Union 60, Trinity 82, Bowdoin 80.
TRINITY REPRESENTED AT ANTI-WAR MEETING IN WORCESTER FRIDAY

"Attitude of Youth Toward War" is Topic of Discussion
by Four Speakers

OPEN DISCUSSION HELD

Rulnick, Davis, Hamilton, Flynn and Alpert Attend for athenaeum

Trinity College was represented at the anti-war meeting held at the A. O. H. Hall on Trumbull Street, Worcester, Mass., November 9, 10, and 11, by Milton Rulnick, Harry Davis, Alexander Hamilton, John Flynn, and Dan Alpert of the Athenaeum Society. They left immediately after the Anti-War Program at Trinity College on Friday afternoon, and arrived in Worcester in time for Political Pharmacy, the subject of which was "The Attitude of Youth Toward War," with speakers representing Republican, Democratic, Socialist, and Communist parties.

The Symposium was opened by a Clark student, who introduced the chairman, Milton Miller of Amherst, elected by last year's conference.

The first speaker was the Reverend Elliott White, Socialist, who was rector of an Episcopal Church in Worcester from 1897 to 1907. He described the conditions of the Steel Corporation in Worcester which led, in part, to his being driven from the church. He showed by actual example in the Steel Corporation how the war of industry led to the actual wars of imperialism. He stressed the impossibility of simply preaching merely upholding the anti-war beliefs, and he described a Greek game, Lampsadothere, in which he likened the youth of America, carrying on the burning torch of anti-war sentiment, to the Greek youth who raced around the Greek amphitheater with a burning torch, losing the game if the torch was dropped. The password of the other speakers was emphatically action, all four speakers being united on this sentiment.

On Saturday morning at 9:30, Brian Head brought greetings from the British Anti-War League, and in his speech he expanded the password of the Conference, "United Front." He said that hope has no place in such a situation because students, as political workers, must be forced into it with our eyes shut—if we are to be kept out of it, if we are to win the war. He stated that the function of a conference is to put out the grasses are no good. After this the five men or women from a group were elected, and Milton Miller of Amherst was the chairman of the Resolutions Committee.

At 11 a.m., a speaker from the Athenaeum Society against War and Fascism brought out the relation of war to Fascism. He stated that even though the foes and the proponents of war predict war in the near future, we cannot accept the horror of a modern war to its full extent, because the last war was the first with modern inventions and that the way to peace is through peace, just as the way to war is through war. He said that when the enemy is near your home, in the simplicity of your home, you have no weapons capable to fight with him, so that the only thing to do is to make peace by giving the enemy what he wants.

Rulnick was representing the War and Fascism and the people of Granger Rough Cut Pipe Tobacco the Wellman Process is used.

The Wellman Process is different from any other process or method and we believe it gives more enjoyment to pipe smokers.

United Front Advocated by Anti-War Speakers in Trinity Meeting Friday

Professor Seidman, the third speaker, explained that the root of our economic chaos and the breeder of war is Capitalism. He maintained that in the event of a war, young men would not be fighting to save their own interests or the interests of their country as a whole, but simply to save the interests of big business profiteers. He said that in Capital's bitter competition over new markets to exploit, the last resort is war; and that Capitalism is now doomed because its limit of expansion means of their country as a whole, but the only way to do that is by casting away our present economic system. Professor Seidman agreed with Professor Cohen, the last speaker, that the Capitalist system by fighting any force); by helping the working class developments of Fascism (the is making a definite stand against Stationers Engravers League in colleges and universities from many nations. "The necessity for organized resistance to war and its causes," he said, "cannot be over-stressed; for it is only by such organization that we are able to combat the powerful force that threatens us." He showed how student action might be confronted by strong opposition from the press and from school administrations, and pointed out the exact significance of such opposition. He cited the example in the City College of New York where twenty-one students were expelled for participation in a protest against compulsory military training in schools in the United Nations and Fascism, and was supported by the Columbia University Anti-War Committee. Some of the colleges represented were Columbia University, New York University, City College of New York, and Beth Law College.

Mr. Cohen told of the co-operation between student groups in this country and abroad, and that Capitalism is now doomed because its limit of expansion means of their country as a whole, but the only way to do that is by casting away our present economic system. He said that in Capital's bitter competition over new markets to exploit, the last resort is war; and that Capitalism is now doomed because its limit of expansion means of their country as a whole, but the only way to do that is by casting away our present economic system. Professor Seidman pointed out, however, that such means do not get to the fundamental cause of war, and the only way to do that is by casting away our present economic system.

Joseph Cohen, the last speaker, agreed with Professor Seidman that Capitalism is the real cause of our war. He explained that the National Student League in colleges and high schools throughout the country is making a definite stand against the Capitalist system by fighting any developments of Fascism (the maintenance of the Capitalist system by force); by helping the working class in its struggles; by opposing B. O. T. C. educational retribution, and the suppression of racial minorities.

Other colleges, and well recommended business men with no college degree will be eligible for business courses opening at mid-years.

There is also to be a new course in Public Administration, designed primarily to prepare students for the business aspects of public service, yet supplying a necessary background for men entering a private business by training them to deal with questions concerning the relationship of government to business.
