By Walter E. McCloud, Instructor in Physical Education.

Trinity College organized its first football team in 1878, and has been playing the game ever since with varying degrees of success. Little remains in the record books of the success or failure of the teams, but since 1887 there appears a detailed accounting of each year's schedule. In planning through these sports, one sees an interesting picture of prosperity and poverty; this, transferred into football teams, means that our teams were winning a goodly portion of their games for a few years. This is the condition of the team averaged and outlined this. This brings us down to the present period of football, and now we are ready to turn to the articles as a summary.

A member of the Delta Psi fraternity, he is the brother, William, of the class of ’38 and two nephews, Ida, ’44, and William W. Vibbert, ’16, and Professor Perkins, his quiet house in New Milford, Conn., gave an excellent dinner last week, which included the family. Mr. Vibbert celebrated his ninetieth birthday recently, and stressed the name of the College, outlined plans for last week, will be held after the Christmas vacation.

BUFFINGTONS, FATHER AND SON, PROMINENT

Two Generations Active in Late Life Following Brilliant Careers as Trinity Undergraduates

Among the most prominent of Trinity’s living alumni are the Right Honorable Judge Buffington, of the class of 1875, and his son, Joseph Junior, who graduated with the class of 1920. One of the oldest of Trinity’s sons, Judge Buffington celebrated his eightieth birthday last September.

The venerable judge prepared at the Lambeth School in Pennsylvania and entered Trinity College in the fall of 1871. He distinguished himself in his studies and was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa Honorary Society. In addition to being an honor student, he found time to take part in many outside activities. He was a member of Trinity’s Track and played right field on the ball team in his senior year. He is a member of the Psi Upsilon Fraternity.

U.S. District Judge

Those years after graduation he was admitted to the bar and practiced law for fourteen years until 1902. In that year he was elected judge of the United States District Court of Western Pennsylvania, and he served in that capacity for twelve years. In September, 1906, he was appointed United States Circuit Court Judge, third circuit, by President Theodore Roosevelt and has continued in such position to date. His long and distinguished judicial career has covered a truly remarkable record. Judge Buffington has been awarded no less than eight degrees. The degree of Doctor of Laws has been conferred upon him by Trinity College (1905), Washington and Jefferson (1912).

What Becomes of Trinity Men?

The problem of placing college graduates becomes more serious with the increase of the numbers graduated. The most accurate way to learn what becomes of Trinity men today is to list the occupations of last year’s graduates. 61 are employed (6 of them as teachers); 26 are continuing their studies; 5 are unemployed.

Below are the names and occupations of last year’s graduates.

P. W. Adams, studying at Yale Law School.

R. P. Alexander, working for Pennsylvania Railroad.

J. A. Armstrong, working for General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

A. W. Baskerville, working for Travelers Insurance Co., Hartford.

V. T. Brown, unemployed.

W. G. Buss, working for Metropolitan Water Board at Buchanan, Connecticut.

A. R. Causee, studying at Harvard—Mary A. Terry Fellowship.

H. M. Chapman, studying at Mary’s, New York City.

S. J. Coffner, working at G. Fox & Company, Hartford.

W. R. Cortis, working at Hartford National Insurance Company.

J. Farrar, Jr., teaching at Avon Old Farms School.

G. V. Dickerson, working at Hartford Fire and Accident Insurance Co.

F. C. Duemchen, studying at Trinity College Chemistry Department.

P. J. Kellam, Jr., working for Pennsylvania Railroad.

E. B. Smith, working at Worchester Tech.

D. P. Farrell, working at G. Fox & Company.

R. B. Farrell, teaching bridge at Connecticut College.

J. V. Fay, studying at Hartford College of Laws.

C. G. Field, working for Hartford (Continued on page 6.)

OLAFSON HEADS RECORD PARISH

An important event in the affairs of the Episcopal Church in this country will be the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of St. Paul’s Church, Plattsburg, Brooklyn, N. Y., on June 18th. The Rev. Harold S. Olafson, ’15, is Rector. St. Paul’s is the largest parish in the Diocese of Long Island, with a membership of about 1800, and is one of the outstanding churches of the entire American Church.

Recent Graduate on Way to Excellent Business Career

GEORGE E. PUNSTON, ’31

A. NORTEY JONES MAKES MARK IN FINANCE WORLD

In looking over the records of Trinity Alumni, we can find no one more brilliant than that of A. Nortery Jones, ’11. While at college Mr. Jones took part in nearly all activities, was an athlete, and an exceptional student. He won the Endowment Scholarship, the Goodwin Good Prize, and his Phi Beta Kappa key. He became a member of the Medusa and the Sophomore Dining Club. In athletics he was on the football team and President of the Athletic Association. He was also President of his Class in 1915, Valedictorian, and editor of the Ivy.

Served Overseas

Immediately after his graduation, Mr. Jones joined the army and en­ tered the World War, becoming a Private in the Machine Gun Corps. In 1919, Mr. Jones became assistant to J. P. Morgan & Company, New York. For nearly fifteen years he worked steadily for this company, advancing from time to time. Last year he was made assistant manager of the large New York office.

Mr. Jones is a member of the Board of Trustees and his financial advice has been valuable in the placing of the college’s investments.

A. Nortery Jones is not the only member of his family to have made a record at Trinity. The whole family is “Trinity minded.” Mr. Jones’ father graduated with the class of ’98, and his brother, Theodore, graduated in 1925. Mr. Jones received his Master’s Degree from Trinity in 1909.

Four Especially Honored in Varied Fields of Administration

Clement Prominent

Widely Laundered in Newspapers for National Effect of Accomplishments

The success of Trinity graduates during the past year has been perhaps more striking than it has been during any similar period of time. Although a small college, Trinity has always had its share of distinguished alumni, and recent events indicate that this trend is continuing. The names and titles of some of Trinity’s living alumni will cover pages; there follows, therefore, a list of some of the more meritorious contributions of these men toward maintaining the prestige of the College.

The appointment of Martin W. Clement, ’01, to the presidency of the Pennsylvania Railroad came as no surprise either to Trinity men, who have known Mr. Clement’s work on the railroad circles since his entry as a rookman in 1901, or to the public.

Most of us are acquainted with his fine record here at Trinity in 1901. He has been a member of almost every college club. He was elected to the presidency of the College, and joined the Epsilon Chapter of Delta Psi.

His subsequent career, commencing with his job as a rookman in the office of the New York Central Railroad, and the United Railroads of New Jersey, a Pennsylvania subsidiary, concluding with his rapid promotion through the grades of trainman, assistant engineer, and engineer, and on various zones of operation, reads like the career of a Talisman.

In 1925 he was made assistant vice­ president in charge of operations at Philadelphia, during which year his real career (Continued on page 4.)

SCHEDULE ON CHEM LAB AHEAD BY SEVEN WEEKS

Heating Plant Installed—Air Conditioning System and Piping Ready for Use

With the entire outside of the Chemistry Laboratory completed except for the final touches, which will be added at a later date, and work on the interior beginning to get under way, construction is now seven weeks ahead of schedule. This rapid progress has been possible because of the remarkably mild weather which has prevailed throughout the fall.

The heating plant has been installed and work will continue on the inside and on the outside during the winter months. Radiators, though not permanently in place, have been laid and temporary for the convenience of the 250 men. Partitions are being constructed between the rooms, so that the entire laboratory is being laid and for tilled for operation of the winter wallscells is now in place, preparatory to the installation of the apparatus for air conditioning and forced ventilation has been put in place.

sponsibilities were broadened by giving him the general oversight of the operations on the system. In 1929 he was made a member of the board of directors. He was made vice-president of the road in 1935, succeeding the late Edward W. W. Atterbury. Following the death of Mr. Atterbury in April 24 of this year, he nominated Clement as his successor, sparking the question in the business that Clement was unquestionably the ablest railroad executive in the country. For the positions in service and operations his record shows that Clement has been a capable handler of his business, but Clement has taught us a few things, a matter of fact, in the best business.

RICHARDSON WRIGHT

Long in the public eye as a prominent writer and publisher, E. L. Wright, continued his capable handling of the Daily News and Press. In 1910, when the papers were sold to Mr. Atterbury, he resigned as president of the papers, but the business this executive has taught us a few things, a matter of fact, in the best business.

K. G. FUNKSTON

As assistant to the President of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, to which post his appointment in 1925, he left the Chicago Tribune, to which he was made editor of House and Garden, which he has held since he left the Tribune.

of his home and recall the happy days of his youth.

Presidents Kerfoot and Jackson, and Chancellor Raymond and Wil-William, whose offices coincided with Mr. Vibe's student days, were all familiar figures to him, and he related members well Flavel B. Luther, at that time a student of the College, 1916, who became president of the College in 1944. At the outbreak of the Civil War, St. James College of Maryland became dissolved, and many of its students came north to finish their education. They were given status and their own little families, each with its own social functions, and they, too, derived extreme pleasure from awakening their alumni feeling with loud "Sweet Adelines" in the forecourt.

There were four "secret societies" at that time: Delta Psi, of which Mr. Wright was a member, and Alpha Delta Phi (now Delta Phi), Beta Beta (now Phi Upsilon), and Phi Kappa (now Alpha Delta Phi). There being no fraternity houses, each society had its own room in the dormitories. Athletics were as yet unorganized because of the small number of students. Football teams were put together from time to time to engage with four or five teams in baseball and touch football.

By November 1, 1856, the New England Home for Aged and Infirm Poor, had been opened, and at that time, it consisted of two original buildings and of other additions. The Home was divided into several departments, including the separate residences for the aged and infirm poor, and the boys and girls respectively. There were 1,000 inmates at the opening, and 1,200 on the first day of January, 1857.

The Home was a private institution, and its object was to provide a place of retirement for those who were unable to support themselves. The Home was supported by contributions from the public, and the revenue was applied to the support of the inmates.

CAPTAINS WHO LEAD VICTORIOUS BLUE AND GOLD TEAMS ON EVERY FRONT

By Brooks Roberts, '36.

For some time Trinity has been filled with rumormakers, and they are right. Lima, after the opening game, and a smart passer and ball-handler, and for data on his marksmanship, one has only to glance at the Trinity-Aggies box score. He has a very suitable running mate in Bill ("Butch") O'Byrne, a smart player in anybody's league. Bill made not a single bad pass in the opening game, and came through with two nice sets and five fouls for a total of nine points.

Al Hall clipped a fifth of a second off his best time in the "fifty" in a meet turned over in official minds, and perhaps another Trinity crew will be nipping at the heels of the Yale Bull-dog some day.

The hockey team depends solely on the chance that some ice can be persuaded to remain in our midst for a few weeks this winter. The new ten-<ref>

Derek and Hockey, Drawing Faint Breath of Mythical Glory, may be Revived This Year

By R. T. Stines, '37.

For some time Trinity has been filled with rumors that crew and hockey, sports enjoyed by our pre-decessors of several decades ago, were to be revived in the college. Occasionally a notice would appear on the bulletin board—"All those interested in rowing for a varsity crew sign below." A flurry of interest would agitate the group which gathered around the board after chapel, but nothing definite ever happened and the excitement died of its own inertia. As for hockey, four years ago a section of the campus in front of Seabury was enclosed by boards, and a vailliant attempt was made to flood it and let Hartford's notoriously cold water 'do the rest. The net results, as recalled by a very trenchant memory, was that several members of the student body and another even more august personage almost froze, but that the water disappeared before it had time to become chilly.

The difficulties of having a crew and hockey team at Trinity in this day and age seem to be greater than they were in the past. The athletic department turns pale when it considers the drain, which a crew would make, on its budget. That with shells, a rigger, a boathouse, and a baseball cage. He believes we'll get it in a few years, and from now on we expect the college rumor-mongers to do justice to this, the newest rumor on the campus.

Jesse Revitalizes Trinity Football

Jesse, in this capacity, has an unerring sense of the fundamentals of football. With his strong coaching staff, he has an excellent supporting cast, and he has an experienced and alert team that can be a man's best team. The days when the coach had to ground his men in the fundamentals of football are gone. The Jesters have a coach who is interested in every detail of the game, and the team is playing better than it has in many years.

The Jesters' record for the season is 6-1-1, and they are now ranked fourth in the Eastern Conference. They have played well against some of the best teams in the conference, and they have shown that they are capable of playing at a high level.

The Jesters are ruled by a strict system of discipline, and they have a strong sense of teamwork. The players are all motivated to win, and they have a strong belief in their ability to succeed.

The Jesters' next game is against the University of Pennsylvania, and they are looking forward to the challenge. The Jesters are confident that they can continue to play at a high level and finish the season with a strong record.
