

The appointment of Professor Chas. J. Roehr, of the department of history and political science, as research consultant to the Connecticut Com- mittee for the Peace of the World, was announced at a meeting of that committee held at the Connecticut State House, Hartford, last Saturday.

The committee decided that the United States should be the subject of the first report of the committee, and that the report should be submitted to the American people before the general election in November.

Professor Roehr has been engaged in the study of international relations for many years, and is well known as a student of international law.

He is a member of the American Society of International Law, and has written several articles on that subject.

He is also a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, and has been a member of the American Historical Association for many years.

His writings have appeared in numerous journals and periodicals, and he is well known as a public speaker on political and social questions.

The committee is very glad to welcome him to its service, and is confident that his guidance will be of great benefit to the work of the committee.
Little Nell: Ever since Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote her famous novel set in a "Cabin" which contained a brilliant episode concerning a girl crowing some ice on a creek, countless stories, some bad and some good, have been written. In the beginning of each event, the stage and screen have been using the same and similar situations, as a result, the public has been treated to all sorts of lies, but, rather, in the cultural habits formed in college, which are Speech making, is an art that is lost in most of the world; but nobody is ever too old to learn it. As a matter of fact, there are few people who do not make a good deal of it in their daily lives. The art of speech making is, therefore, an important one, and it is well worth while to study it carefully.

ones, fought by isolated tribes. Consequence was the decision in 1986, the Ethiopians are helping the people in Italian Somaliland, but because there is no demarcation line which would set a border. Of many waterholes along this indefinite region has caused much trouble. The missionaries of Nations stated for the reality that there is no moral justification of the war. The Ethiopian people are 2,500,000 in the nation, in Italy, he declared, is a monarchy, and should be run by a king. But it is not; it is ruled by Mussolini. This man has decided that the best way to win the war is by making conquests for them. The Basle Handbook on Somaliland and Eritrea looks good, so he stirs up the people into a state of antagonism with the Ethiopians; he has only to mention the defeat of Adowa, of course. As grounds for his assertions, that Italy is overpopulated and needs an outlet. Yet he has put a premium on all births and has even encouraged marriages. Mussolini gives lists, as a reason, philanthropy, but his country is so poor that hundreds are starving, how can he afford to spend millions in making war on Ethiopia?

John Flynn, second speaker for the affirmative, urged the invasion of Ethiopia from a practical standpoint. Italy has the fifth most populous nation in Europe, but all the others have outlays for their thousands. She needs Ethiopia for oil and other raw materials in order to maintain her position as a world power. In the war, Italy has been allying with the United States and American oil firms. The speaker maintained that if Italy conquered the only country justified in assuming control of these lands. He is the only nation without Ethiopia for oil.

It was given nothing after the Treaty of Versailles to point Italy as aggressor; they do not wish to see her gain more possessions than they have. Flynn advocated for greater markets for Italy, if given Ethiopia.

Harold Lyon stressed the insensitivity of Italy's movement on Africa. Italy has been at war for 11 years, until the defeat of Adowa. This shows that if Ethiopia had been conquered under the rule of Italy, she certainly would not have revolted against that country. Italy has not been working for the peace of the world or the League of Nations. She is not just in the eyes of a world.

INCENSE SEEN IN LAUNDRY

The practice of sending writing home seems to be becoming a popular fad throughout the country, according to a Railway Express report, which organization surveyed over one hundred thousand students located in every state in the Union.

Realizing that many students have a definite improvement in their accomplishments, the committee was developed on a widespread scale. The prompt pick-up and delivery service provided for the laundry, both outbound and inbound, together with the extremely reasonable rates, have been responsible for the popularity of the idea. "Laundry is sent out only in importance to the baggage business which Railway Express handles from colleges and schools," said Mr. J. F. Laughlin, General Agent in Hartford. While laundry shipments are not only in importance to the baggage movements, they are comparatively heavy at vacations like Thanksgiving and Christmas.

(Continued from page 1.) touchdown in the opening minutes of the third quarter when Thompson circled the Trinity right end for a touchdown run of 30 yards. His kick for the extra point was wide. A little later a State punt was returned to the State 35 and then to the 12-yard line by Beck Budd. On the next three plays the ball was advanced to the six where it was lost on downs. The Nutmeggers then marched to the Trinity 40 where, after an exchange of punts, the period ended.

In the early minutes of the fourth quarter Trinity marched to the State 20-yard line where a fourth down pass was incomplete. Connecticut, on runs by Thompson, Schowolsky, and Carey reached the Trinity 10 where they were held for downs. The game runs by Thompson, Schowolsky, and Carey, the Trinity 25-yard line and returned it to the 13.

The speedy State backs, Thompson and Schowolsky, were outstanding while the whole team put on a superb blocking exhibition. Alexander, Weeks, and Hamilton starred in the Blue and Gold line, which distinctly felt the loss of Vickers, who received a severe leg injury early in the first quarter. In the backfield Budd was outstanding with his returns of punts and his field generalship, while Merten, subbing for Wilcox, starred on the defense.

The lineup: circled the Trinity right end for a touchdown in the opening minutes of the defense. A Killian little later a 20-yard line where a fourth down pass to the six where it was lost on downs.

Speaker in Favor of Compulsory Chapel; Says that Americans Pave Way for Orientals

At morning chapel on Wednesday, November 13, Reverend Charles F. Whiston, 70, now connected with Central China College, spoke on conditions in the present-day Chinese College.

Reverend Whiston spoke first in reference to our chapel, and its use. Referring to compulsory chapel, he stated that at his college the students considered it a privilege to worship in a chapel, going three times a day: at seven, for Eucharist; at eight, for regular chapel; and again at six in the evening. The speaker went on to say that if anyone here could worship throughout a year in our beautiful chapel without getting a sense of the beauty of holiness and piety, he would be an extraordinary individual.

In enlivening our discussion of the beauty of holiness and piety, he would be an extraordinary individual. In answering our question, Whiston would be an extraordinary individual. In answering our discussion of the beauty of holiness and piety, he would be an extraordinary individual.
