Krobusky Plays Outstanding Offensive and Defensive Game in 8-0 Victory

THOMPSON BRILLIANT

That long Connecticut State third for football victory again went unbroken yesterday another year, for a doughty Trinity eleven eleven boomed back into the win column and put an 8-0 nail on the Huskies from the hills of Storrs last Saturday before the largest attendance in the past decade. Not even the combined forces of 2000 partisans, numbered among the throng on Trinity Field, and a snappy cheer could hearten the Huskies into taking advantage of their numerous scoring chances. And opportunities they did have, but there were also several lateRAL navalizations, a blue wall that rose to smush the running game of Thompson, Paul, and Backin, and a secondary that broke up a passing attack of the Huskies from the hills on the only hourglass at the touchdown. State roosters saw their representatives ranging all over the Trinity team in the second half, trying to make a break at 2-6 margin secured from a safety in the first half. It was on the beginning of one... (Continued on page 4.)

FROSH FACE WESLEYAN IN FOOTBALL FRIDAY

Unbeaten Wesleyan Freshmen Favored to Keep State Clean in Clash on Trinity Field

Next Friday, the Trinity yearlings head over to New Haven to battle the Wesleyan Freshman football team on the home field. Hopes of a victorious outcome are not too bright, and the Blue and Gold forces will take the field a decided favorite in this contest.

To date, the Trinity frosh have had one taste of real gridiron war. In this contest, therefore, they do not show up very favorably against a better trained and more experienced foe. The rationalized score of this initial set-to showed the hilltoppers with a weak offense and a shabby defense.

At present, Wesleyan has a clean sheet in that department. The yearlings have not shown any consistent form thus far, and the Hilltoppers expect to be presented with a larger score than last year's formidable aggregation. The Cardinals have not had their goal line crossed this season, a feat the more remarkable considering the fact that they have scored against an equal number of opponents in this contest.

Dr. Bowie, '93, Noted Engineer, Receives Degree from University of Edinburgh

Dr. William Bowie, distinguished Trinity graduate of the class of 1893, was recently admitted to the select circle of Trinity men to be recognized abroad when the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon him at the University of Edinburgh on September 17th. Occasion—the meeting of the International Congress of Geologists at Edinburgh, of which Dr. Bowie is president. Over four hundred scientists from more than thirty countries were present at the meeting.

Dr. Bowie was capped by Principal Sir Thomas Holland, Vice Chancellor of the University of Edinburgh, and Degree-conferring Sir Thomas said that Dr. Bowie was the first American to be given a degree by the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey because of his work in Alaska and Canada, and that the degree was the first to be conferred by the University of Edinburgh on a person of American birth. Dr. Bowie was also presented with an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by the University of Edinburgh.

The degree was conferred by the University of Edinburgh in recognition of Dr. Bowie's contributions to the field of geology and geophysics. He is a leading expert in the study of the Earth's magnetic field and its variations, as well as in the study of the Earth's inner core. His research has been instrumental in advancing our understanding of the Earth's structure and composition.

REV. ROGERS SPEAKER AT WEDNESDAY CHAPEL

Famous British Educator and Lecturer Speaks on Conversion

In Wednesday morning chapel on October 21, the Reverend Professor was guest speaker at the University of Edinburgh. He is known for his work in the field of physical oceanography, volcanology, and fisheries.

Ross was invited to speak at the University of Edinburgh by President John. He has been a member of the Board of Visitors of the University of Edinburgh for many years. His research has focused on the oceanography and geology of the North Atlantic Ocean.

Ross's lecture was titled, "The Role of the Physical Sciences in the Study of the Ocean," and he discussed the importance of interdisciplinary approaches in understanding the complex systems of the ocean.

Mrs. Robert E. Riggs, Benefactress, Dies

Was Outstanding in Interest in Chemistry; Wife of Scovill Professor

Mrs. Robert E. Riggs, wife of the late Professor of Chemistry at Trinity, died last Friday, November 1st, at her home in the University of London. She was the outstanding benefactress of the Chemistry Department at Trinity College, and her interest in the affairs of Trinity College and especially in the construction of the Chemistry Laboratory, was well known.

Her contributions to the development of the Chemistry Department date back to 1920, when her husband was head of the Chemistry Department at Trinity College. She is remembered for her leadership in the planning and construction of the chemistry laboratory, and for her efforts to secure funds for the new building.

The Chemistry Department held its last classes on Monday afternoon, the time of Mrs. Riggs's death, as a tribute to Mrs. Riggs.

Fraternity News

St. Anthony Hall

Delta Psi will celebrate the Wassail Friday evening, according to plans announced by the fraternity officers. The dinner will be a formal one, with a buffet supper.

The officers of the fraternity are planning to give a large show of men, but to the geological world he was best known for his work in the development of the theory—one might now call it the established fact—of general equilibrium in the earth's crust. While the theory was not quite sure if there is any basis, or how much, it is the basis for the development of the theory of general equilibrium in the earth's crust. While the theory was not whether the movement of the crust is caused by changes in the material beneath the surface.

Dr. Bowie then gave his address in which he spoke of the importance of science and education. He cited the work of the International Union of Geology and Geophysics. He told the students that the Union's role was to coordinate the efforts of all geologists and geophysicists around the world, to advance the knowledge of the Earth, and to promote the study of the Earth's interior.

Delta Phi

The Phi Kappa Chapter of Alpha Delta Phi announced the pledging of Frederick L. Barratt, '30, of Erie, Pa., George B. McCloud, '30, of Philadelphia, Pa., and George W. F. M. Smith, '30, of Annapolis, Md.

Among the alumni returning for the Connecticut State game were Everett Johnson, '30, of Alton, Ill., Donald Snow, '34, and Harrington Little, '36.

SOMERHOPE CLASS ELECTIONS

At a meeting on Thursday evening, the Sophomore Class in the cafeteria of the College Commons last Tuesday evening the following students were elected to hold offices for the Christmas Term: President, George E. Hamilton, '30; Secretary-Treasurer, Harold L. Johnson, '30; Sergeant-Major, Joseph R. Kelly, '30.

The candidates were elected by the Sophomore Class, and the election was supervised by the Sophomore Class officers.

SUNDAY'S DANCE

Last Saturday night at the Senate dance something quite unprepossessing happened. The college gets not only paid for itself, actually made a small amount of money over the expenses incurred. Many present thought that it was, as they put it, a "good" dance. There seems to be a wave, mild perhaps, of enthusiasm regarding these semi-fair affairs. This existing condition should not be allowed to go flat. We feel that there is one very important reason why attendance at these affairs is beneficial to the college. They serve as a meeting place for the none-too-close acquaintances of the life—necessary familiarity makes friends. The members of the neutral body are to be congratulated for their attendance at last Saturday's dance. The fraternity men are here to say that there were none present, but we do feel that the success of the dance was largely a result of the generous support given it by the neutrals. We do therefore ask that the fraternity members consider the fact that the Senate has no right to demand that the fraternities themselves contribute their efforts, but that the fraternities themselves do cooperate. Past experience has shown that the general interest in Senate dances falls off if the particular interest of the fraternity man is not evidenced by his support.

three touchdowns forays that McCoy Kobrowsky, clasping a day of glory, plugged a Thompson heave from the five yard line. Bob O'Malley then added the extra point to raise the score. These are the sons of Storrs who must have realized it was the end, for a claque of silence fell in anticipation of the Associated Press. The rush, which was held in the breeze, clipped and dropped as it if too seldom defeated. And it was defeated.

That first half might best be characterised as one of swiftly changing fortunes and one of best opportunities for Trinity. Kobrowsky was in and Gold was off to a good start when Steve Truex smashed through to a first down near midfield after an exchange of punts. But Steve was intercepted by a Kobrowsky heave and swept down to Trin's 20 behind good interference. That first attempt failed. But Kobrowsky swept back to punt. With a favoring wind the high spiral sailed from the 20 far over Thompson's head and rolled into the end zone for an 80-yard boot.

The blue shirts were in trouble almost immediately as Bayuk and Posner found holes in the Hilltoppers' line that brought the ball deep into scoring territory, before Trinity snared a pass and ran it back.

For the next few minutes Kobrowsky and "No. 34" struck not once but many times in the same place. It threatened to be a quick day as the Hilltoppers took up about 45 yards by the simple procedure of slaming through his right tackle and cutting back and out to his left side where he backed up leg room.

On the two-yard line the march was abruptly halted when Connecticut State recovered, but not without a struggle. Old Man Hard Luck was even more exasperating the next time the Blue and Gold showed up around the goal posts. Bob O'Malley started a promising rally by scooping to a first down on the visitors' 24 marker. Kobrowsky shot a pass from the three on the next play. After an eight-yard gain the ball was smothered. Steve did a fancy feint to one side and cut around the other side of a Connecticut State defender to receive the ball on the three-yard strip.
The Nutmeg offense was unable to coordinate itself, largely because the passing was ineffective and sloppy. Midway through the final period the embattled Blue and Gold faced the last charge of a fading cause. Pommer and a roughing penalty combined to give the Huskies the ball on Trinity's 25.

A few plays later Kobrosky intercepted a pass and covered the 45 jarring tackle for a five-yard loss. Perhaps, E. H. Goodridge; linesman, J. O'Malley; left end, Benjamin; center, Hamilton; right end, Alexander; backs, Budd, Morris, Driggs; backs, Schublady, Pommer, Scarf, chuk, Lewis, Paul Thompson, Greco.

part—any reasonable part—of the student body exhibited as much enthusiasm as do the leaders, we would make a creditable showing as supporters of our football team. As it is, we do a remarkably poor job all the way through.

This state of affairs has been brought more and more vividly to my attention as each season has rolled around. Personally I can see no particular reason why we should not be as able and as willing to lend support to our teams as the next college. The fact remains, however, that we do not.

Wherein lies the difficulty? Surely our poor cheering cannot be laid to a certain strange sophistication which are not bothered in the same way. Perhaps there is included in the personality of the typical Trinity student certain strange sophistication which makes him rebel at the idea of registering any sort of emotional expression. This, however, scarcely seems reasonable since Yale boasts one of the most vigorous cheering sections I have ever seen (Continued on page 6.)

When Fun and Smoking
Last Way Into the Night
On party nights—or whenever you do a lot of smoking—you'll find that Luckies, a light smoke, are a comfort as well as a joy! For since Luckies are a light smoke, there's no wear and tear on your throat. Luckies wear well...they're the only cigarette that's "Toasted"...your protection against irritation. TRIPOD SNOOPER DIGS UP DELIGHTFUL SNOOOPS

All Sorts of Things from All Over the Place—Mostly from Trinity

DID YOU KNOW THAT?—On the fifth floor south of the stacks is one very dusty model of Trinity some years back. (Up in the beams.)

Famous Last Words—Note: The drunk at Saturday's game passed out with "Is Lou Gehrig up at bat?"

Chris of the Lavallette has invented a cocktail: base rum, etc., $4; Board, the cry urging on the hounds, $4.50. According to a recent issue has since turned out to be a hagioscope. Its principal authority, Dean Hood, boasts one Trinity subscriber.

Etymological Note—Dean Hood claims to have originated "Horse Feathers." c. f. Professor Costello.

Economy Note—College expenses in 1850 at Trinity were per annum: Tuition, $33; Sweeping of rooms, bell ringing, etc., $4; Board, $60; Assessment for public damages, $450.

Prosperity Note—Bracelets made of gold, silver, and jewels are now selling at Krog's for twenty cents.

Vanished Pump Note—In years past, Trinity football teams have competed with Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Holy Cross, Naval Academy, N. Y. U., Penn, West Point, Yale.

Eratosthenian Note—The leper's squat discussed in a recent issue has since turned out to be a hagioscope. (Rejoice from Gk. holy, scope from Gk. "to see." Hence, "holy peep hole." c. f. Skoat: "Concise Etymological Dictionary of the English Language.")

On the door of a Becket, Mass., massed store is a blue and yellow emblazoned sign advertising Dr. Naylor's veterinary medicines. A Tripod reporter is investigating.

Zoological Note—Camull's camel is not a camel. It is a dromedary. Pyramids and palm trees believed to be authentic.

Additional Etymological Note—The Chapter house of Trinity's Phi Gamma Delta is now inhabited by the Proprietor of the College Store. (Free publicity.)

Additional Etymological Note—An etymological dictionary is more fun than you might think. "Tallyho" is the cry urging on the hounds. "Voulez-vous" the noise you make when you see the fox.

What's That Again (?) Note—The old chapel bell is inscribed: "S. PAYL SCHOLAR MAG. FAC. CYR. AN. DOM, MDCCXXI P. S., CXVIII, LAET. SVM."

Irony Note—Trinity once boasted a Royal Egyptian String Octette. Its slogans: "Problem may seem and feature may go—But yet there remains the R. E. S. O."

Velocity Note—Speedometers on some of the Farmington Avenue bus—registration up to 100 m. p. h. Hence, perhaps, the signs "Alert Today, Alive Tomorrow." Watch the Forego by.

Real Estate Note—Somehow on the State Capitol grounds is a piece of land still owned by Trinity. Boundaries, dimensions, and whereabouts completely unknown either by Trinity or Connecticut.

Let's Be Different Note—The New York Daily News is the world's most widely circulated newspaper. It boasts one Trinity subscriber.

Morbidity Note—The only active Hartford fan dancer we know of has recently been performing at the Lobster. Real fans, real thing.

Surveyor's Note (?)—If the chapel were very carefully dismantled and all the stones laid end to end so as to get the maximum length out of each, and no stones of any description were lost or broken, the Trustees and certain others would be very sore.
