Hilltoppers Win Four Out of Six Singles and Clinch Match in Doubles

The Trinity netmen, under the leadership of Captain Bill O'Bryon, scored a 5-2 victory over the University of Vermont netmen yesterday afternoon, April 27, 1937. It was the eleventh straight win for the Hilltoppers, who have won their last 12 matches, and it clinched the netmen's first trip to the Eastern District tennis tournament. The Hilltoppers are now tied with the Yale Bulldogs for the Eastern District lead.

The netmen were led by Bill O'Bryon, who scored a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Jerry Mears, Vermont's number one singles player. O'Bryon also teamed with Bob Hilltoppers, Vermont's number two doubles team, to win 6-3, 6-2.

The doubles team of Bob Hilltoppers and Bill O'Bryon also scored a 6-3, 6-2 victory over the Vermont doubles team of Bob Hilltoppers and Bill O'Bryon. The other singles matches resulted in a 6-0, 6-0 victory for the Hilltoppers over the Vermont singles team.

The Hilltoppers are now tied with the Yale Bulldogs for the Eastern District lead, and they will face the Bulldogs in the first round of the Eastern District tournament. The Hilltoppers have won their last 12 matches, and they are looking forward to a strong showing in the tournament.

The Hilltoppers are also looking forward to the Eastern District tournament, where they hope to win their first Eastern District title. The Hilltoppers have been successful in recent years, and they are looking forward to a strong showing in the tournament.

CLEAN UP!

We were not at all surprised that one of the resolutions passed at the recent mass meeting was one requesting that the Senate do something about the conditions in the Union. Truly enough, something ought to be done, and something must be done if the Union is to continue.

The fact that the subject of the Union was brought up in the first place speaks for the good sense of the students, and it also shows that conditions are such that one dislikes entering the place. Senators in the past have tried, of course, to do something, but the present Senate is no exception. We all know that very little can be accomplished by a person or a group without the cooperation of the people with whom one works. That perhaps explains why attempts to remedy the situation have been so far without success.

We understand that the Senate is considering plans to better the place and will take definite action sometime in the near future. We trust that a committee will be appointed and employed to make the Union what it was intended to be. A suggestion would be something modeled after Westover’s Canteen. If it could be shown, however, that the men who have taken so much time and money to produce a Union that is not solely for the benefit of the students, that this Union is not solely for the benefit of the students, but also for the faculty and staff, that this Union is not solely for the benefit of the students, but also for the faculty and staff, we feel sure that all efforts are doomed to at least partial failure because of the lack of effort of those who take no pride in it.

TUESDAY, APRIL 27, 1937

We believe, however, that the method of attack of the problem is right. Taking up the subject in turn, they found that some of the reforms they were demanding had already been adopted. This is a sign that the Senate student body interested in something besides wines, women, and song, or more extensive and better publicity is.

The recent mass meeting was one requesting that the lounge be opened for the use of all the students. Some, though they didn’t step off, and whipped the ball to first for a double play. But the umpire didn’t call the ball at the plate.

As we have seen, however, the election and is at present seeking positions to take over the job of publicity. Once again he promises that the campus will be brought under the field holiday, as the little bulletin reads, and continued with its shots of the principal actors in engaging as other than the usual college persons. But the co-authors, McBriarty and McHale, both experienced Jesters, Larry Newhall and the other one, have costumes and make-up situation with the Seniors to the front.

Originally scheduled for three performances, only two will be given since August 27, 28, and 29, in the second, Saturday night, the 29th, after the annual_dirction如何去_吧_2013_03_27, the Seniors will present the Senior Ball.

Trustees Meet

The resignation of Edward Milligan of Williamstown and Dean Walter was accepted with regret. He was valued member of the board for two years and has been chairman of the Advisory Board. The resignations of the Reverend Charles Lyman Bushnell Bradner, ’31, Bradner is a resident of Hartford, Secretary, and is an officer of the Hartford Trust Company.

Notification was given that the Alumni Association has placed as its representative Trustees: Glover Johnson, ’22, Adrian R. Onderdonk, ’39, and Sydney C. Pinney, ’36. The willingness of the candidates by postal announcement of the Board of Trustees at the meeting of Monday, May 1, and the notification of May 4, the candidate will be announced at Commencement time.

suddenly found himself being clawed by the elder Catsamounts. In the seventh frame Rihl, Hallman, McDouugh, Berry, and Kennedy all connected for singles which ran the score to 7-5. Vermont drew up closer in their next inning. Hustling got life on Shelley's bobble, went to second on Rihl's looper, took third on a passed ball, and crossed on an outfield fly. There was still the abbreviating factor. But Morris turned up the heat as the chilly afternoon wore on. The last three of the state's batting order combined to produce six of the team's seven runs.

We agree with Dan. After watching the team commit only one error in each of two games, we wonder if it really is a Blue and Gold aggregation.

BALL GAME WITH YALE RAINED OUT IN THIRD

Bulldogs Leading by 4 to 1 Count When Play is Halted—Trinity Faces Colby Friday

The Yale baseball team made its long-awaited trip to Hartford last Wednesday to cross bats with the local nine, but the cold, steady drizzle that made a marsh of the playing field forced Umpire-in-Chief Orefice to call the game before two and a half innings were completed. At the time, the Elis were leading by a count of 4-1.

Groping around in the gloom, Captain Ray Patton was apparently disturbed by the raw, rainy weather and was not sufficiently warmed up when the tilt started. Although Trinity's ace registered four strikeouts in the abbreviated contest, he yielded four bingles, including a brace of doubles, and three bases on balls. Yale shoved over two tallies in the first inning before Patton was able to settle down and locate the range. Kohlman, Bulldog lead-off man, drew a pass and went to second as Albinger also strode. Eddie Collins, Jr., son of the present business manager of the Boston Red Sox, pushed both runners around with a sacrifice bunt. Captain Larry Kelly's lowering fly to left admitted Kohlman, and Albinger counted a moment later when Doonan, Yale's right fielder, smashed a single to center.

Trinity halved the visitors' lead by denting the pentagon once on a walk, stolen base, and a base hit. Ralph Shelley's patience was rewarded by free transportation to first. After Kelly had floundered, Shelley stole second as O'Malley went down swinging, and splashed home through the mud when Mickey Klobosky rapped out Trinity's lone base blow. Parker ended the frame by swishing the ozone.

Patton breezed through the lower half of Yale's batting order, but ran into trouble when the "big guns" came up at the start of the third. With one out Collins hammered the soggy pellet to center left for a double. "Laughing Larry" walked, and Collins rode home on Doonan's drive over Bill Kelly's head that went for two bases. Kelly of Yale then tallied the final marker as Klobosky was thrown out at first by O'Malley. At this point the game was called and the drenched and chattering spectators and players trooped quickly off the field.

On April 30, the locals will face the Colby ballplayers on Trinity Field. The College Store
