TRIPOLI ELECTIONS

The annual election of the members of the Executive Board of the Tripol, held last Thursday evening, April 19, 1961, at the Hotel Franklin, New York, N. Y., was promoted to the Editorial Staff.

At the meeting, the following were elected:

President: William J. Clapp.
Vice-President: Donald L. Burroughs.
Secretary: John W. Hand.
Treasurer: William J. Clapp.

The new officers will begin their work immediately.

TRIPOLI NETMEN LOSE 5-4 MATCH WITH STATE

The Tripoli netmen lost out to the Connecticut netmen last Thursday, May 20, at the North Haven Yacht Club. The final score was 5 to 4. The match between the two teams was the first in which Connecticut State was the most hearty contender. The Connecticut State showed a great deal of the sets going to 12 games, Trinity lost out in the singles 4-2, but came back to tie in the doubles. The third set was won by Connecticut State.

New members of the Board include: L. H. Boster, D. L. Weisberger, and A. Van Dusen, '68, of Beachwood, N. J.

FOUR JUNIORS CHOSEN BY HONORARY SOCIETY

Medusa Taps Motton, O'Malley, Armstrong, and O’Toole for Reception in Annual Ceremony

At the forty-fifth annual "tapping" of the Meconian an impressive cere­mony was held on the campus of Connecticut on Thursday evening in which four men attained the highest honor which can be conferred upon an undergraduate in the college career. Circling about the campus the members of the Class of 1961, accompanied by the last members of the Junior class stood silently in the flickering lights of flaming torches. The duties of the Torch Club congratulate the class members who have reached a high standing in the academic work as well as in athletic competition. The awards and the reception ceremony will be held at the residence of the president of the college later in the afternoon which saved Patton no possible harm.

O’Toole, a native of Manchester, was graduated in 1962, and is now on the same junior honorary society. O’Toole, a native of Norwich, is in his senior year and was graduated from Middletown, and is in the senior honorary society.

The procession, headed by President Ogilby, and members of the faculty, formed at 2:30 p.m. on the east side of the campus, where a short service had just been concluded. The faculty and students followed the procession to the State Capitol now stands. Movement of the procession was very slow until everything was ready.

The procession passed through the streets of Middletown, and the students and faculty followed its progress with great enthusiasm. The procession was led by the Meconian, who carried the flag, and was followed by the members of the Student Nobles' Society, and the Connecticut State University Marching Band. The procession was attended by the Governor of Connecticut, who was the guest of honor, and the Governor of New York, who was the other guest of honor.

LACROSSE ORGANIZATION

For a number of years there has been on the campus an enthusiastic but minority group interested in the formation of a lacrosse team, however informal the competition might be. Each spring has brought the appearance of the game’s devotees, and to act as mentor to the group of Hartford players in a game with a Boston club.

It is unfortunately true that during the early years of this century, it was necessary for a competitor to stay up to speed in order to compete in lacrosse. There is a good chance of his being able to understand the rules of the game if he would take the time to read the rule book. The rules are rather complicated, and it is necessary for a competitor to know them thoroughly in order to make a successful game of the game. A lacrosse player must be able to understand the rules and be able to apply them correctly in order to be successful in the game.

THE TRINITY TRIPOD

Page Three
Original Plans Drawn by Burges Not Followed in Architecture of College

By G. A. Roncette, Jr.

Although a great many of the colleges and universities in America are so old that their origin has been "lost in the twilight of fabulous," Trinity is of comparatively recent date, and it is for this reason that the records of its first days are still fairly complete.

Trinity College was founded in the year 1823 under the name of Washington College. It owed its origin to the perseverance and zeal of Bishop Bowen and was founded as an "organ of the denomination of Christians called the Protestant Episcopal Church." In 1845, probably with the idea of a church in mind, a commission, in addition to the previous appointment, of Bishop Bowen, the name was changed from Washington College to that by which it bears today.

College Site Moved

The first buildings occupied the best and most conspicuous site in the City of Hartford; they were on the summit of a small hill in the center of the city, and near the New York and Boston road, and the visitors. Despite my opening statement as to the fact that nearly all records of Trinity are quite complete, they do not include much data about the nominal site of the early buildings. When a location for the new buildings was selected, a large cut, then some 80 feet deep, was made and filled with gravel. After the gravel being poured in, it was very necessary to keep the site clear for a period of months. In 1867 the college moved to its present site, which, with the exception of some few original buildings, is all that has been left.

The condition and betterment of the condition and appearance of the college buildings is one of the points that have been under the leadership of its President at that time, Albert G. Bull. He has proved himself a man most conscientious and intense in his efforts to improve Trinity. When a location for the new buildings was selected, a large cut, then some 80 feet deep, was made and filled with gravel. After the gravel being poured in, it was very necessary to keep the site clear for a period of months. In 1867 the college moved to its present site, which, with the exception of some few original buildings, is all that has been left.

Second—As far as state news goes, it is merely a figure of speech, in fact, a few more than there are students. Students present at most of them don't harass in Hartford.

Third—Trinity students know usually about experiments, etc., as soon as the professors want them to.

Fourth—As regards Dr. Schuler, that the long defunct Trinity Tablet be revived.

Very likely the Tablet is only a doing their best, and perhaps a brief resume of its history is in that.

In 1904 by popular demand of the stu­

THE CURTAIN
"Goggy" is Mr. Robert Guggenheim, Jr., whose grandfather and father hold commanding positions in the great American Smelting and Refining Company. The voice of this great mining family gave up his family business to try his hand at pictures. He is an assistant director with "The Prisoner of Zenda" company.

"Brinkie" is Williams von Brincken, former German Consul at San Francisco before the World War. He has a very minor role in the production.

In insisting on being called only by their nicknames they are following the tradition of the Marquis de la Falaise, husband of Constance Bennett, who always insisted on being called "Hank."

The vivid picturization of Eric Maria Remarque's World-War reconstruction novel, "Goggy" is a very minor role in the production.

The vivid picturization of Eric Maria Remarque's World-War reconstruction novel, "The Road Back" became the story deals with the life of soldiers—men living in muddy trenches, with nerves strained by the tension of incessant strife, and with mental rebellion against the fate which had caused them to lose all for which they had fought.

Director James Whale, World War veteran, and one-time lieutenant of the famous Worcester Infantry, points out with emphasis:

"Men in great anger do not swear. Their hate is invariably expressed most succinctly by biting sarcasm. Simple words spoken with biting meaning have far more weight than mere curses."—B. C. Sherriff, famed English playwright, who adapted Remarque's novel to the screen, agreed entirely with Whale that curses should not be used by soldiers in the war drama.

Sheriff wrote "Journey's End," another famed World War story, and managed to convey every emotion without recourse to swearing. He feels, as does Whale, that curses have no place in the intelligent man's emotional makeup.

SIGMA NU VICTORIOUS
IN SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Gains Hold on Alumni Trophy as Alpha Chi Rho Garners Second Place and Psi U Third

Goaded on by the vision of the Alumni Trophy, the Sigma Nu softball team bowed over its mighty opponents, leaving them gasping by the roadside as it marched triumphantly from primaries to finals, carrying off the laurel wreath. These six Gala-bads gave convincing proof of their ability as they defeated in order the Alpha Delta, the Delta Phi's, and the Crowes.

Second in might was the Alpha Chi Rho team, who beat the DKE's, the Commons Club, and the Psi U's, who broke their necks against the Sigma Nu wall. The final match, played Thursday afternoon, May 13, was close until the Sigma's struck a happy inning and ran away with the match, 15-7.

Third place in the competition went to the Psi U team who lost to the Crowes in the semi-finals but rallied to beat the Delta Phi's in the playoff for third, 10-0.

The final results tolled the funeral knell for Psi U's chances on the Alumni trophy, while ringing the wedding bells for the Sigma Nu's. Mainstay of the winning team was Big John Alexander, who occupied the pitching berth and produced all the tricks of the game plus a few more. Second of note among the underhand pitchers was Dan Nevinlands, who pitched the Crow Team to second place.

Left by the way were the Alpha Delta, who lost their first game to Sigma Nu, the DKE's and the Commons Club, which each lost their first game to the Crowes; the ATK's who succeeded to Delta Phi, and Saint Anthony's, who went by the board before the onslaught of the Psi U's.

BASEBALL TEAM TO PLAY THREE GAMES THIS WEEK

Worcester Tech, Williams, and Yale Furnish Opposition in Season's Windup

The Trinity ball team faces a severe test as it successfully meets Worcester on Thursday, Williams, Saturday, and Yale on Monday. The Yale and Williams games have been scheduled away. Williams, possessing a fine pitcher in Fuets, will present the Hilltoppers with some of the toughest opposition they have faced this season. On comparative scores the two teams should however be rated fairly equal, the Trinmen having held Wesleyan 9-3 on Saturday and the Purple having taken the same Carribean by an 8-5 score.

The Yale game twice postponed has definitely been set for the Monday following Decoration Day at the Elis home grounds where two years ago the same Building nine ungraciously wallowed Patton's offerings and took the game by a 16-5. Yale has the opportunity of throwing one of two of the finest pitchers in College ball, both leading hurlers in the Eastern Intercollegiate League against the Blue and Gold. Jessie will probably retaliate with Patton, giving Ray an opportunity to revenge himself.

Kelly will definitely pitch for Tri against Williams, leaving Worcester and Yale to the tried and sturdy arm of Patton. The Worcester Tech game should not present as much trouble to the Hilltoppers as the final two games, but this does not assure victory by any means.

Aroma is half the pleasure of smoking

Chesterfield's aroma is DIFFERENT...more pleasing...you like it better.

That's because of the way we blend and balance Chesterfield's mild ripe home-grown tobaccos and aromatic Turkish tobaccos...and because the Chesterfield paper is PURE and burns without taste or odor.
