WHO'S WHO AT TRINITY

(We publish the following information for the benefit of freshmen and other new students, so that they may become more readily acquainted with the college and its leading organiz­ations. —Ed.)

The Senate, the student governing body, is composed of ten senators who function together with the faculty in the administration of the college. The Senate is elected annually by the college students, and is in charge of all college elections. The Senate meets regularly on Monday evenings.

Alpha Phi, William H. Garden, '41, treasurer of the Senate.

Alpha Chi Eta, Ethel F. Barnard, secretary of the Senate.

Sigma Nu, John C. Alexander, vice-president of the College.

Delta Phi, Paul Japescher, vice-president of the College.

Alpha Tau Kappa, Henry H. Keane.

Off-Campus Neutral Body, Arthur Campbell.

On-Campus Neutral Body, George Smith.

The Medusa, a Senior honorary society, consists of a few of the men chosen toward the end of their junior year who have given outstanding service to the college life. Its function is mainly disciplinary. The members for this year are W. W. Muir, William H. Garden, Ethel F. Barnard, and Edward L. Smith.

The Trinity Dining Club is an honorary society the members of which are chosen in the middle of their sophomore year because of outstanding performance in college life. Members of this club are assigned the duty of setting as college hosts. Richard Linden is Chairman of the 1940 delegation.

The Interfraternity Council is comprised of the members of the junior and senior fraternities and is presided over by a member of the faculty. Since the College has been founded on the policy of having on campus during the week an official member of the Interfraternity Council, it will be a member of the Interfraternity Council.

The Jesters is the college dramatic society. It is a group of men connected with a production. It is the counterpart of the Junior Jesters.

The Triad is the college student newspaper. It is a publication connected with the college, and is published weekly.

Gale Sweeps College Campus and Wrecks from 30 to 35 Trees

Two Twin Disasters as Hurricane and Flood Disrupt Rush Week

TRENTY MEN ACTIVE

Scores Answer Thursday Night's Emergency Call for Construction Workers on Colt Dikes

By George B. Patterson, '39

A furious hurricane, sweeping up from Cape Hatteras, where it had veered inward, swooped at a sixty-mile-per-hour pace upon Trinity's campus on Wednesday afternoon and for three hours, shredding hours devoured the grounds.

At last the winds had subsided and bewildered students darted venture outside, to blink with amazement at the carnage wreaked by the tempest.

Extravagant orders of men had been issued to the various fraternities for their aid in clearing up the wreckage on the grounds. Some of the trees tossed over at forty-five, others had been bodily uprooted and lay at length on the ground. The lawns were littered with branches and trunk pieces.

Fraternities Suffer

Vernon Street was a shambles. A thousand or so trees lay in fallen trees, and not one fraternity grounds had completely escaped the hurricane.

Thirteen trees had been uprooted on the grounds of Delta Phi, and the slate roof of the building partially blown off. To the Alpha Delta Phi, a storm window and a chimney, and two huge trees had been torn from their roots, one of them leaning against the side of the house with its branches poking through a hole in the roof.

Further down the street similar scenes were to be found. A giant tree, leaning against the Nu porch, and the yards of Psi Upsilon, Alpha Chi Eta, and Delta Phi were chittered with branches.

An initial estimate made by F. W. Wilson, director of the city's, revealed damages to college buildings amounting to over $100,000 and to 35 trees to 35 trees.

RIVER STEADILY RISES

Mountains Tower Over River, Already swollen to alarming propor­tions by a week of almost continual rain, was rapidly rising, and by Wed­nesday night it became evident that the City of Hartford was threatened with flood disaster similar to that of 1936.

Trinity men speedily met the emergency as they had two years previous. Robert M. Muir, '39, College Body President, and Robert Flanders, '40, among the first to volunteer their aid, worked until late that evening preparing shelter for the expected in­rush of refugees.

In the morning saw more students volunteering. By this time the situation had become grave. The flood waters were rising rapidly and it was evident that a flood crest greater than that of 1936 would result.

Many Students Volunteer

All afternoon and evening scores of Trinity students worked at the services of the Missing Persons Bureau, rendered invaluable aid to the harassed officials at the Old State House, Red Cross headquarters.

As in 1936 the worst-hit sections of Hartford were along Front and Cummington Streets where the advance warnings compelled over 1000 peo­ple (Continued on page 2.)

GOOD LUCK, 1942

Annually extending the welcoming hand to a fresh wave of undergraduates has become as stereotyped and laborious as seeing people off on trains—there is much talk and nothing is said. Perhaps it would be just as well if nothing at all were said, for in this way, on the one hand, the process of rushing and relief work caused by the twin disasters of flood and hurricanes in the East will scarcely have enough time to read this far.

To begin with, we must have been apprised of the efficiency and beauty of Trinity's physical equipment, for which there is justifiable pride to those who have seen the college grow from a sleepy little campus with the dorms and the library, the track team, who has been figurine, handling that ball in the backfield in years to come. At the first tryout of the new faces in the first string his responsibilities.

At the June meeting of the Trinity College Program, having been successfully started last fall, the program for the current year has been announced for next year.

Michael Lindsay Hoffman was appointed as Editor-in-Chief. He is a graduate of Oberlin College in 1940. Mr. Hoffman is a graduate of Oberlin College and is also doing graduate work at the University of Chicago.

Edward L. Burnham was appointed Instructor in History. He is a graduate of Harvard where he received his degree in 1936. Mr. Burnham has been a student of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity since 1934 and is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity since 1934.

The Tripsid Club is the first student group to be organized under the direction of Mr. Clarence E. Watters. New members for the Tripsid Club will be chosen by the faculty in June, 1942, and a new executive will be chosen by the students in their work during the junior year.

Friday evening in Alumni Hall the contest for the Whitlock prize in public speaking was held. President Luther presided over the meeting. The contestants were the winners of the Alumni prizes in English composition. The orations were delivered in an admirable manner, and the judges, who were Wilbur F. Good, Rev. George Lindsey, and the Rev. Edward L. Smith, had some difficulty in choosing the winner.

First prize was awarded to E. T. Smith, ‘12, whose subject was “International Relations of the Panama Canal.” H. L. Gibbs, ’12, captured second honors with “Little Citizens and the Juvenile Court.”

Trinity 50 Years Ago

The construction of the short running track just below the campus is an excellent addition to the athletic resources of Trinity. For a long time the only place for practicing has been the trackless running track in the athletic field, usually in too poor condition for any satisfactory work, or Charter Oak Park which is a great distance away. It is unfortunate that the track was not made long enough for a 220-yard course, it is so nearly that length that it may have been extended somewhat. We should then have had a fair straight course for all the shorter runs below the quarter mile.

Trinity’s fine exhibition in the new gymnasium was given in the evening of April 10. A large audience was present and the exhibition was in every way a success.

The programme was as follows:—The exhibitions were on the vaulting horse, on the parallel bars, on the swinging rings, on the horizontal bar, and tumbling. Of these the work done on the parallel bars and swinging rings was remarkably good.

The contests were: Standing high jump, running high jump, rope climbing, bar vault, high kick, and a tug of war between the classes of ’90 and ’91. It was, of course, the most interesting event of the evening, and there was immense excitement over it.
