MONSIEUR MARCEL DUPRE TO GIVE ORGAN RECITAL IN CHAPEL THIS EVENING

FAMOUS ORGANIST

Classical Compositions To Be Rendered By Foremost Organ Master

Tuesday, October 10—Tonight at 8 o'clock Monsieur Marcel Dupre will render a recital in the Trinity Chapel. No other organist of this generation has been able to rivet the attention of more people than has Marcel Dupre. At the age of ten he played from memory, preludes and fugues of J. S. Bach; at 13 he was appointed titular organist of Saint-Vincent, Rouen. He became the most brilliant pupil of his time at the Paris Conservatory, winning first prizes in piano, organ, and organ at the ages of 19, 21, and 23.

In 1920 M. Dupre played from memory a series of extraordinary concerts in a series of extraordinary concerts at the Paris Conservatory. After the great French composer Camille Saint-Saens died, Marie Widor, famous French organist, asked M. Dupre to perform at the concert in his honor. M. Dupre accepted, and the concert was a great success. The audience was so impressed that they asked him to perform again, and he did, becoming one of the most famous organists in the world.

At his New York debut in the Wanaumaker Auditorium in November, 1920, Marcel Dupre created a sensation by impressing a complete symphony in four movements upon the organ in less than five minutes before the performance began. This performance was tentatively at the request of the music critic of the New York Evening Post, "a musical miracle." Fol- lowing the triumphant New York debut, Dupre played a series of remarkable recitals in Philadelphia and New York to an audience numbering fifty thousand.

Average Freshman Has Strong-Legged Tremors Report of Medical Examination Reveals

By Lee Goodman, '41

"Jocks" were wired for sound—With snapping chells and dimpled shoes!

Once again Dr. Swan played host to the Hartford medical men in Boardman Hall, where they were entertained by the Freshman class in an impromptu program entitled "The Naked Truth." By and large, the entertainers were an assortment of drowsy and slovenly souls, with the occasional caducous, even of the stomachs, which Dr. Hunt's chains were coiled. On the other hand, the Freshmen played a remarkable service role in the pre-Repeal era. Prexy was strangely reticent after paying his annual visit. He did, however, remark to one person in the audience whether, if he had been asked to enter the "chambers of horrors" he would not have been flaky, flaky. Most of the boys who had been being measured for shrouds, in fact they were so unresponsive to the hammer blows on the joints, that the doctor had to enter the stomach in the women's hands were turned. They had every conceivable sort of practitioner there, even an obstetrician, who was doing yeoman service as a stomach photobiologist.

The Fall Term was wired for sound, for the stethoscopes were tuned in to detect such luminous items as "nervous" and "thrills." The Apollos were given a vigorous workout, in order to tone their timbres, and then ordered to "breathe," which was about all they could manage to do. Then they were sent to the long department where they were told not to breathe, to "rest," while they were indubitably jockeyed. A practicing paleontologist took the joints and lined in band, twisted, pulled, stretched, bent, and zoned into fantastic shapes, and usually left the "man" in a "naked" condition.

The spirit of camaraderie was excellent. Anyone could be approached and asked, "where is skin, lungs, heart, and bowels?" and usually he had them, but no one had been spared. Speaking of "throat" recalls to mind how one doctor said that if the gold, and bands in the boys' mouths were collected and made into a chain, it would exceed the value of several average man had stag-line tremors, and bands were gathered into a chain, it would exceed the value of several hundred dollars. Another doctor said, "naked" man had stag-line tremors, and bands were gathered into a chain, it would exceed the value of several hundred dollars.

On Sunday, October 11, Her Excellency, Netherland's Carillon to the New York World's Fair, will give a recital in the Chapel, beginning at 3 p.m. This recital will be dedicated to John J. Flaherty, in memory of whom the Carillon was given. Flaherty died on October 11 of his senior year at Trinity, and is remembered by the following incident, the youth's last, for which he might have written the Carillon to the Chapel. The morning before his death, Jack asked the organist, Allen Flanagan, '41, in the Hartford Hospital. Jack asked him to open the window. His father came. The window was opened by the staffroom. In order to be told about it, he was unable to hear it.

As has been its annual custom, the fraternity of Alpha Delta Phi held its annual "Party Hour" on the campus service on October 16, 1926. The program for the Carillon recital will be as follows:

Pre-chorus.... Praise the Lord, and give thanks to the Lord Who createth the heavens and the earth.

On November 4 a game will be played at Suffield, Conn., and on November 10, Erickson’s freshman will journey to Amherst.

All these opponents are unknown quantities as yet but it is reported that the Class of 1943 is out for a duplication of last year’s undefeated record.

of DEMOCRACY and PEACE in the world.

Hobart (from the Hobart “Herald”) — “The only cause worthy of devotion is the cause of internationalism, which cannot be served by participation in this war. The idealistic tendencies of the American people should be turned to a devotion to this purpose so that there will be no moral vacuum to be filled by propaganda, so that the conviction that we should stay out of war will rest on more solid ground.”

Sarah Lawrence—“We all thank God that we’re living in America,” said the “Campus,” and expressed the idea that the important thing is not to hide from the news of the day, but to study it calmly and to go on with everyday life.

Amherst — Statistics compiled by the Amherst “Student” show that 27% of the college would become draft dodgers if this country entered the war. The students denounced any possible establishment of a R. O. T. C. unit at Amherst; voted 99% against U. S. participation in the war now, and 79% against economic participation with the Allies. To the question, “Should the Neutrality Act remain as it is?” 71% of the voters answered no, 60% of the voters thought that the act should be revised upon a cash-and-carry basis as compared with 49% of the voters who opposed such a revision.

Clark (From the Clark College “News”)—“No one country can be blamed for the apocalyptic catastrophe that is now coming upon the world—nor can any one nation concerned be absolved of all the criticism.

FROSH SOCCER SQUAD STARTS SEASON SOON

Coach McCloud’s call for freshman soccer candidates resulted in the mobilization of some 30 odd freshmen. With their first game over a week away and with two weeks’ practice already under their belts, a claspy squad is expected. According to McCloud the forward wall provides his combination’s major weakness. The defense, he claims, is shaping up very well.

Ed Morrison seems to have a firm grasp on the goalie’s post and potential fullbacks include Tourinson, sharp, Wolfe, and Brown. Headline is to present the only outstand­ ing center. Richards, Fleming, Dexter, Cunningham, and Clark are battling for the halfback positions.

The forward wall is as yet somewhat of a question with experiences at a premium. Ives, Headley, Hodgkins, Hobbs, O’Malley, Casey, Bletter, Tullar, and Mussell are at the promising candidates for forward wall positions.

The Blue and Gold booters are up against a strong schedule this year, opening with Taft School, October 21, and following up with Morse Business College, Westminster High, Kings­ wood, and the Wesleyan freshmen.
