"Means and Ends" Theme of Dr. Ogilvy's Address to Students in Chapell Service

Wednesday, February 7—At the morning Chapel service, Dr. Ogilvy gave a brief address on "Means and Ends." The fact that this is the first day in Lent the speaker added significance.

"Eleven years ago," the speaker began, "I stopped off at Rome in France for a few hours. Jeannne d'Arez was imprisoned there, you remember; I wanted to pay my respects to her memory. I visited the famous Cathedral and was admiring one of its towers. My French companion said, 'That's the butter tower. It was built with the people's butter money.' I replied, 'Oh, did they give up butter during Lent?' 'No,' he said, 'It was butter that was dispensed by the dispensation of butter during Lent.' Dr. Ogilvy then mentioned his approval of this method of Lenten devotion—not so much an actual giving up as a payment for the privilege of enjoying some luxury.

The speaker went on to say that people are always craving techniques in the history of religion. They think that observance is an end in itself, whereas it is actually a means to an end. Is a nation an end or a means to an end? Is an education a means of preparation for a life of service, of leadership? From that standpoint, and I believe that whole devotion is to be valued.

Dr. Ogilvy concluded his challenging speech: 'It is incumbent upon the duty of many young men that you straighten the tie that binds them to reality. When a man faces gal­

COMMUNICATION
To the Editor of the Tri-Phi:

Dear Sir:

It is with great reluctance that I appear to interfere in undergraduate affairs, though I do so with the best of intentions. The fact is, that there is a certain easy road payable for such intimations as mine, and that is a road I would not willingly travel. But they tell me further that the Trinity "Review", Vol. 2, No. 1, is not selling well among the students body, and that, if it can, it shall do anything whatever to remedy, to whatever degree, such undesirable status. And even if it is difficult to do so, it is fighting a word.

The "Review" is not only necessarily superior to its predecessor, it is also given a freer play to publicize the different opinions contained in the work of the "Emersons." It is far from being any.

While all the fuss and ado over winter carnivals in the weeks of snow climax this past week-end by the Dartmouth party, this column is wonder- ing whether Trinity has never dis- patched some of its more ardent skiers to the scenes of slalom and slide. Of all the prominent New Eng- land and small college clubs the Willistowners have not engaged at one time or another in some of these contests. Such colleges as Williams, Hamilton, and Union hold yearly snow gatherings and would be only too happy to receive a Trinity quartet. The colors of the Harvard way. We personally know of several lads in college with bound off to Woodstock and various other re- sorts at the slightest opportunity and who, with the slightest encouragement, would be delighted to enter into interstate competition on behalf of the Blue and White.

Though the squash team has not produced a startling result, still some mention should be made of its number one man, Dave Lutkins. Dave is a freshman and is considered by Coach Fenn to be the outstanding racquet prospect to invade Trinity for a long time. Besides winning the majority of his matches he has shown a good making in the intercollegiate invitation squash tournament held recently in New York City. Although the former St. Mark's boy has not won the first by a complete display of his collegiate ability, the coaches feel that the advantages of the Hilltopper come to him at once. The needed experience which will round him into a player of the highest caliber.

The athletic department has asked that some mention be made of an in- hundreds of Trinity's new back-boarder, after having to be held all through- out, Massachusetts, during the month of March. We understand that the three former boarders, Ed Hodgekins, John Casey, and Hadley scored eight and seven points, respectively, for Kingswood. Tom Moore settled back to watch the aquatic fireworks flared up im- mediately after Tyler, who has made a good showing in the intercollegiate invitation squash tournament held recently in New York City. PURPLE ROUTS TRINITY IN ALL NINE EVENTS

The next event on the program was the 220-yard freestyle, and in this event the records started to fall. When Brown of the Purple flashed the distance in 2:19.2 for a new Williams college record, Brown was closely followed by his teammate Larsen, while Orfittelli of the Blue and Gold could do no better than third. The next two events, the 50-yard freestyle and the dive, ran true to form, with the victors taking first and second in both events. In the diving, Neil continued to show the steady improvement that he has exhibited in recent meets, but was no match for Stetson of Williams who annexed the events with 87 points.

Freestyle-Won by Smith and took his specialty, the 400-yard breaststroke in record time. This event proved of the Purple though they failed to produce the tape by his teammate

of the havoc they had wrought

The last event of the day proved to be the most outstanding, as the Williams 400-yard relay team, not content with the havoc they had wrought individually, plunged into the pool and churned their way to a new New England record in the amazing time of 3:28.8. This final event was a fitting climax to the worst defeat Trinity has suffered in several seasons.

The summary:

200-yard medley relay—Won by Williams (Floyd, Wineman, Kaufman, Morehardt). Time, 2:39.2.

50-yard freestyle—Won by Brown (W) and Lament (W); Orfittelli (T). Time 53.9 (new Williams record).

220-yard freestyle—Won by Brown (W) and Lament (W); Orfittelli (T). Time 2:08.4.

100-yard freestyle—Won by Creede (W), Taylor (W), Smith, D. (T). Time 53.9 (new Williams record).

100-yard breaststroke—Won by Benson (W), Conway (T), Baldwin (W). Time, 1:43.9 (new Williams record).

220-yard breaststroke—Won by Benson (W), Conway (T), Baldwin (W). Time, 2:39.2.
