JESTERS ELECT SHEEN, PRAISE OFFICERS FOR EXCELLENCE

President Eliot's address was well received by all.

“Trinity is fortunate this year in having a group of fourteen wrestlers met in Mr. Oast's office this afternoon to discuss plans for a proposed wrestling team. Included in the group were three of your prep school captains and a fine array of promising freshman talent.

In past years there have been several attempts to bring together a team which could enter unsuccessfully into intercollegiate competition, but for one reason or another all have failed. Several years ago a group of wrestlers decided to form a team, but were forced to give up the plan because the only time they could have coaching was right after supper. This year the Athletic Association has promised to provide a coach for the team.

Perhaps the most important reason is that it has an excellent nucleus for future teams. Some of the best scholastic wrestlers in the East are now attending Trinity and to many of them it was a bitter disappointment that the college had no team. Besides a small group of experienced men there is a considerable number of men who would like to learn to wrestle but have never had the opportunity. Among those present at the open meeting were: John Diming, Of Broome, N.Y., Deekin Ross, William Middlebrook, David Munsell, Robert Ogilby, and several other nearby institutions.

FRATERNALLY YOURS

By Leon G. Goodman, '41

In one of the neighboring Broad Street stores there is a plaque that says "Fraternally Yours." It is covered by a blue and gold, and other hues of the asserted "Phi's", the "Nu's", "Two-K's", the "Epipolos", and "Rho"—and "Psi"—which is sufficient to stir up

That in the Trinity Drug Store there is a spirit of fraternity. It is shown in the names of all the men of the store. More than what actually exists for the preservation of the sign's spirit is offered. To speak much plainly—I must say that the college spirit is scant compared to the spirit galore that exists in that lavish Broad Street store.

With artful taste, Jim Hallaway has arranged the Trinity display that so winsome a fraternity strikes.

Men to feel "Fraternally Yours"—I mean theفة to form the epipolos—"To know Toward AI, and his men, and toward each and every one to promote a spirit of camaraderie and friendship.

To the Editor of the Tripod:

I would like to try to encourage superfluous resolutions.

If the same spirit is not kept, we will not be able to do much.

I hope that next year's Wesleyan team will win the game.

The college spirit, if campus'd, is not always to be made immediate. It would be nice to see wrestling become a more refined sport.

The program for this week promises to be a lively, with several events.

On Friday, January 12, the varsity basketball team will play against Amherst College at Schenectady, and on the following night meet R. E. I. at Troy High School, New York. Both games should be a pretty good show, and no losses, having defeated Boston College in the first meet of the year.

On Friday night the basketball game will be played against Wesleyan in the first of a two-game series. Last year Trinity walked away with a victory over Wesleyan. This year's Wesleyan team seems to be improving with each game.

One advantage that Trinity has is the benefit of having a variety of games. Trinity has lost only to Yale in the first two.

Looking back several months into the past, the following bit of information should be of interest. What happens on the ice with the Dunn's Oppenshining with the words "1940 is a Leap Year," which might suggest many unusual resolutions. Those allergic to dates might make a resolution never to go on a date unless asked, and they will automatically be accommodated. He who is always susceptible, however, may make a resolution to forget it.

Along with Tyler, Amann will find another of his former stars swimming against him this year--the same John Bonee. Bill Fleming, who has also been up and doing, is also counted upon to collect more than just a few points. His specialty is distance swimming, and he may accordingly make a resolution to forget it.

Now the only real, and important "Don't" in the way of making resolutions is illustrated in one other rule. In order to increase your popularity, I was, on New Year's day, solemnly resolved to tell people what to do or what not to do. Alas, I have already failed to hold to that--and you are the only one to make: A resolution never to make any resolutions again—not even this one!

an extraordinary triumph.

"Gutenberg was the printer's mother's family name," the speaker continued. "Not much is actually known about him. Europe is flooded with spurious documents concerning him. Printing was a black art in those days. Gutenberg's partner was a six-inch character whose name closely resembled Faust, and this made people all the more suspicious of the new invention.

"What have I to say to you this morning? Our task must be to preserve what is fine, to rededicate our- selves to truth and beauty, to approach academic life seeking what is true and good in the past and trying to translate it to the present time. I'm not particularly keen about New Year's Day, but it must be a blessing. I give that to you as a problem for you to ponder.

"In any case both will swim in each of these races in the two-day meet period. The freestyle leg goes to either Weeks or Walmers, two first year men, who are improving under fire. Providing Trinity swims its best which includes a victory by Bob Neill in the dives against Richold, the most may go to the final 400-yard relay. The same quartet of Earl, Smith, Orfizelli, and Feldman are ready to try and make it three in a row for Joe Clarke.

"This is one of them.

"If you see one concrete problem for 1940. Let it bite deep." Dr. Ogilby culminated his remarks with ice-cold refreshment recognizing the approach of man to fundamental problems. That includes a victory by Bob Neill in the dives against Richold, the most may go to the final 400-yard relay. The same quartet of Earl, Smith, Orfizelli, and Feldman are ready to try and make it three in a row for Joe Clarke.
