Trio of Juniors Replaces Seniors that Medusa Chooses Beidler, Viering, Will TORCHLIGHT TAPPING
Conway, Crockett, and Ryan chose Beidler and Viering. Beidler, a member of Sigma Nu fraternity, has maintained a high scholastic standing, and has been the main reason for Trinity's success on the varsity basketball team. Viering, a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity, was a vital part of the team in a victory over New York College.

All members of the Medusa have been for three years outstanding students at Trinity College. They have shown strength of character, their scholastic ability, their athletic prowess, and their scholastic spirit.

Joseph Beidler has maintained a high scholastic standing, and has been the main reason for Trinity's success on the varsity basketball team. Viering, a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity, was a vital part of the team in a victory over New York College.

Abbott Will, for three years presi­ dent of the college, was chosen to be captain of the football for two years, and was cap­ tain of his freshman team. He is a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity.

Untried Crew Decrated by M. I. T., Dartmouth Shells
May 10 — Trinity's crew lined up with that of M.I.T. on the Charles River course at Boston today. Both shells left the starting point at 5.15. Trinity's boys attempted to jump the other shell with a 15-stroke start. But Trinity's lads attempted to jump the other shell with a 15-stroke start. But they got away at 5.15; 3.30; 1.45; 0.50. Bill Ryan ran a 160-yard dash in 10.2 seconds but was second to Moore who ran a 15.6 second. Cunningham Annexes Only First; Ryan, Emery, and Hodgkins Do Well for Ousting

Winning a first in only one event, the Trinity team has a better showing. However, at that time England was thinking that it was merely a repetition of the first question (it caused by the question, many difficulty was shown that student opinion is divided in war? Here the opinion was over­whelming in the affirmative and 72 in the negative. Approximately one-fourth of the student body answered "yes.""

Carrier and Moore of Wesleyan each scored 10 points. Carriers won the shot and discus while Moore was victor in the 100- and 220-yard dashes. However, they had made as much as 23 points in the field. They had to satisfy himself with a first, second, and third in the broad jump, javelin and discus, re­spectively, to win 10 points for his team. Ryan, Emery and Hodgkins won the double winners for Trinity. Their score was 201. In the broad jump, Ryan led with 6 feet, 3 inches, just ahead of his colleague, who was touched with lunch in the Commons for play­ers and visitors at 1 o'clock. The game will be temporarily halted at 4:30 and tea will be served on the field. Occasional explanatory com­ment will be offered over the public address system for the benefit of those unfamiliar with the game, and programs with a description of cricket and the personnel of the team will be an­nounced after the match. Following the afternoon, it will be repro­duced on the field by station WBTB. After the match a brief chapel service will be held, at which prayer will be asked for the welfare of England. General admission will be fifteen cents and reserved seats at one dollar. The entire proceeds will be donated to British War Relief.

ENGLISH SAILOR, ON DESTROYER, WRITES OF BRITAIN'S STRUGGLE
By L. R. Day, '41
I have received a letter from a friend of mine, a sailor in a British vessel. It was a letter from a boy in England, a boy now living in the United States. This English boy at one time went to school in this country. When the British ship again arrived, the boy was there to sail for home to join the navy. However, at that time England was turning into a fortress, and the boy was signed to a sailor in the British navy. He sailed with his trawler for five months, the target of all German air and sea power, with the military and naval units. Following the British deal with the United States for destroyers, he was assigned to a trawler working as a gunner, the position he still holds. The gunners have been a step ahead of all those who had boats to go to France, bringing back all that until there wasn't a British sol­dier left on the continent. The boy has been in the service since last year, and it was ten months sailed back and forth across the channel, not stopping while there was a Tommy left to be saved.

The plan was the British idea, that war was the German idea, and that the German idea was the idea of the war, and the war, and the war. Therefore all those who had boats to go to France, bringing back all that until there wasn't a British sol­dier left on the continent. The boy has been in the service since last year, and it was ten months sailed back and forth across the channel, not stopping while there was a Tommy left to be saved.

AND NOW THE FUTURE

The last Tripod of the season! No more hectic moments on Sunday evening and fun and games to paste. Another year has passed by as we watched flying an eagle's eyesight over the events of the past eight months. It has been an exciting and a terrible year. We feel at times that we have failed to realize just how fortunate we students and faculty have in America. We have read of the active part in world history that college students in other countries have played and we wonder what we shall do when the time comes. During the year the usual round of studies, outside activities and social gatherings have been deeply invaded by the forces of the Axis. Nationalist Programs have been held at the College. Rumors of fantastic opportunities in the airplane factories in East Hartford, the lure of the fighting forces have sniffed and grasped at the hands of our friends. An idea in some way, or other have been affected by the struggles of the time.

We men of the Tripod have attempted to keep pace with student opinion. We have tried to make this paper a lively publication in a live time. We have tried to broaden the scope of its material and to open its columns to all. We have printed matter conflicting with our beliefs and have reserved our opinions for the editorial column. Some of us may not return next fall. But in spite of the fact that we will not be able to express our wishes as we want, we will remember the happy, serious times we had at Trinity—and the Tripod. We will wonder if the men in the new freshman class, the men in Trinity's history, think any differently than we did, we will try to visualize the new dormitory. Most fervently we will hope that the reactionary elements among the faculty and trustees will see that the students are men, for even now we fear some feel that Trinity students should be treated as children.

Well then, we will see you at Commencement, and then, next fall, in

RETROSPECT

In a recent issue the Tripod printed a letter condemning the programs for Trinity's Senior Banquet. It has been brought to our attention that this letter was an untrue accusation directed against the printer. The letter was printed in the editorial column of this paper, but the Editors wished to attack the Senate rather than the firm which printed the programs—and printed them well. We ask no reason for our correction. We wish to point very clearly that the Senate should have employed more expensive and more decorative paper.

had men to organize a fifth column in the fiery depths of the College. The Board believes the material presented in this issue to be the best selection of material available, and not only to the large number of manuscripts from which selection was made; but also to a fair distribution on the part of the Board of the type of reading material desired by the students.

The "Review" is honored in having an excellent professor of English, Mr. Stanley Moore, '42, elected to the Board.

Department. A cut of the chapel was made recently by Mr. Howard Greenley as the frontispiece to the Commencement program. Every student and faculty member will have the opportunity to buy a copy of the program at the places of sale will be announced on posters throughout the building.

Elections for next year’s Board were held at a recent meeting. H. Stanley Knowles, '41, was elected Editor-in-Chief, and Raymond Cunningham, Jr., '41, was elected Associate Editor. The following were elected to the Board:

Interfraternity Sing

Sunday, May 19—A large portion of the student body assembled at the Bishop this evening to participate in the Interfraternity Singing Contest. Using its own renditions of two or three popular melodies, Sigma Nu won first place, followed closely by Alpha Delta Phi and Psi U. The ceremony closed with mass singing of "neath the Elms."

I know the Propaganda Ministry says 'business as usual,' but it's not true. England for the first time in its history is fighting for its existence. We don't have a moment of respite; we dare not take our eyes off the enemy for one instant, or he will be at our throats. We will never give up. If we have to go down, we'll go down fighting, but we'll never give up. "Mother opened the house in Sussex after our town house was bombed, and is running it for a hospital. Sister is working terribly hard with a mobile kitchen, and the last time I saw her she said she would write you the first chance she got. Give my best to all the boys at school and tell old 'Grump.' I hope he's changed his opinion of England in the past year.

stupid. The Germans are good, too, and they fight wisely and bravely; but Chuck, always remember, win as the Germans are and well as they fight, we're better, and in the end we'll win. We will win if it takes ten years, twenty years, or a hundred years; but to win we must have help. The United States must help, Chuck. It must help far more than it now. I've lived over there, and I think I know a little of how the people feel. We're fighting for everything Americans believe in, and we're fighting with everything we have, our homes, our children, our women and our lives.

I used to listen and even half agree when the masters at school would tell us of the underhanded pressure policies England has followed throughout her diplomatic history, and I know a lot of people in America feel that way about England and call her 'perfidious Albion.' But this is different. Chuck, this is bigger. We've got our back to the wall. Yes, and a half. Tell him in the same breath, too, and never forget, old chap, that "There will always be an England." Need more be said?
Gastroliths Shown
In Geology Museum

Of singular interest to many Trinity men is the recent discovery by Mark Rainford, '41, and his father of several gastroliths (stomach-stones) in Wyoming. These stones were found bunched together among the fossiliferous remains of a dinosaur in the vicinity of the spot where the animal's gizzard would have been.

The stones, soon to be placed on exhibition in the geological museum, are from two to three inches in diameter, varying in shape, reddish brown or gray in color, and are extremely smooth and well-polished. As many birds now eat meat or gravel, the ancient pleiosaurs swallowed these stones for the purpose of grinding up their food within the gizzard. These gastroliths are the first to be exhibited at Trinity, and although not rare, are of singular interest to many Trinity men.

Gastroliths

There is a case on record which indicates that in one specimen a half diameter to four inches was found. Many of these gastroliths (stomach-stones) were found bunched together among fossiliferous stones varying in diameter to four inches was found.

SPORTS Sidelights

Spring sports here this year have been fairly successful. The freshman baseball and track teams have kept up the unusually strong record which has been compiled by the first-year men. Varsity baseball has had its ups and downs, mostly ups, we are happy to say. Tennis has broken about even and varsity track is still weak. However, we are still looking for a varsity victory over Wesleyan for this year and it looks like the ball team will have the last crack Saturday.

TUTTLE PRIZE

The subject for the competition for the Tuttle Prize of $45 is "Definitions for Democracy." Only one essay was handed in. The subject is very important and as many students may not have known about the competition, the time for handing in essays has been extended to June 1. Students wishing to compete should hand in their essays at the President's Office on or before that date.

Trinity Men in CAA

Near End of Course

At the end of the present college year, Trinity will close its first season of co-operation with the Civilian Pilot Training Program.

Of the twelve students who enrolled in the fall program, ten have completed the course. One of these is going to Pennsylvania as soon as he completes his training in the secondary course, and their intentions are to continue training this summer.

Upon completion of the fall program, the College inaugurated a spring session. Owing to publicity and favorable reports from former cadets, the quota was soon oversubscribed. Dr. Downs is at present handling the ground school in place of Dr. Doolittle, who was called to an important post in the research laboratories of M. I. T. The present schedule demands that the spring program be completed by June 15, and if the weather is favorable, that deadline be late enough.

spread by the sword to all parts of the earth. If they beat England they will have almost the whole world, and then we cannot hope to last for long. Cannot you see that the issue at stake is not England or Germany? Democracy or dictatorship, capitalism or socialism, but that it is freedom or slavery? Do not be led into wishful thinking of revolution in Germany; of peace between America and Hitler after England is beaten, or of an American victory when she is all alone, for none of these things can easily happen. It is freedom now, or never.

TRIPOD ELECTIONS

The Executive Board of the Trinity Tripod has elected Charles J. Harriman, '44, and Samuel H. Corliss, '44, to the Business Board. Both men live in Philadelphia. Harriman is a member of the Beta Chapter of Psi Upsilon, while Corliss belongs to the Phi Psi Chapter of Alpha Chi Rho.

DENTISTRY

The field of dentistry offers to college students an attractive career. It provides a worthy intellectual challenge, a necessary response to the growing need for improved dental care, and an opportunity for money, health, and happiness in the division of professions.

The School of Dentistry of Pennsylvania has become the center of a movement for the control and improvement of dental education.

Dr. Margaret McManus, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania is the Dean of the School of Dentistry.
