OLD SAFE DONATE

Workers Under Dudley Chaffee Expect to Exceed One Ton Goal Before Saturday

Professor Louis H. Naylor, and David B. Peck, president of the college, informed the students last night that the drive for the local safe, started the rate last Tuesday and by Wednesday had met the demands of Mr. George Daily and is the chairman of the Hartford scrap metal collection drive. Mr. Cohen hopes to complete the gathering of scrap metal this week.

Volunteers from both the student body and the faculty were summoned post haste on Wednesday and are busy engaged visiting widows, mothers, orphans, students in or about Trinity College. Volunteers must ring doorbells, help to comb the attic for miscellaneous scrap, and drive the City of Hartford to a new high. The safe drive committee has planned to include only the college, the proportions of Trinity activities have been proportionate, and the only students who can find an open opening to their door are Trinity students. The Registars have ordered that every student must be able to produce an open door to add to the college collection.

Volunteers signed up for their work in the drive at the fraternity houses, in the Union and in the lounges. They have been organized into groups and are working in their respective districts. These squads are under the direction of Mr. Dudley Chaffee, plant superintendent of the college. Individuals report to him daily and are given the sections that they must cover.

The fraternities are taking account of their students and their quotas. They will not be able to disqualify any of the students collected for disposal tomorrow. They expect to collect at least a ton by Thursday.

It is possible that the collection will go beyond the ton, but a special day will be set some time during the year. However, Mr. Naylor hopes that the college's part may be concluded by then.

The college has collected several hundred pounds of useless metal in the blind attics of Javits and Stanbury. These are ready to be delivered to the City of Hartford. The college has also been comforted in the Greek rooms to the cause, said Dr. O'Reilly commenting on the gift, "The safe in the quiet halls of the Greek rooms will have to be used to arrange the wongs done to the Greeks by the Nazis."

REINHART HOPES

Minor Influent Injuries Spell Good Season; Freshmen as usual

By Jarvis P. Brown

The Trinity varsity soccer team will dominate this week-end's activities as Tim plays their first opponent of a tough schedule. The team has an open Saturday before they travel to Worcester to play there on October 17.

Coach Reinhart is eagerly looking forward to this Saturday, for he hopes that he may have the chance to see his whole squad in uniform at one time. This year injuries have been minor and infrequent. This is encouraging in view of the fact that it will take the factor in keeping Coach McCloud from fully utilizing his squad. This aliy will be held at a time, at one time, Al Reinhart has emphasized the conditioning of the players, but added that the team has proved their strength.

Here and there, in classes and extended studies have lowered the chances for the team to develop. As it is, the team will move forward the lines of almost equal strength. He speaks this truth to the fact that his left wing Larry Roberts will get the opportunity to show what he is worth. Larry has combined hard work and willing cooperation to make a really fine full back on Al's fast first line, Harry Balfour, aggressive and fast, will alternate with Roberts. The three keymen who will start the inside positions on Tim, as indicated on page 3.

Assists Dr. H. M. Dadourian in Interview

Americans who suffer from delirium tremens are more tranquilized, as more tranquilized, as tranquilized might do well to see the facts as Dr. H. M. Dadourian has stated them. "Contrary to the idea prevalent in America, I can say categorically that the trouble is not delirium tremens, but from us to the U.S.S.R.,” says he. And Dr. Dadourian knows his Russia, for he has travelled extensively through its vastness, from the Caspian Sea to Leningrad, the wisdom in Dr. Dadourian’s observation on future U.S.-Soviet relations is logical and realistic. In an interview with a Tripod reporter, Dr. Dadourian enumerated the following salient assertions:

The U.S.S.R. is the largest country in the world, most populous and unexplored, but its development will take many more generations, “he concluded, “to finish the country, and it develop.” He proceeded by stating that in spite of the fact that the nation is under the leadership of Mr. Stalin’s rise to head the Political Bureau in Russia, Russia has long been considered the foci of the world revolution, but it has been displacing the idea of the national front or the national front as established by Trotsky. “Their main object,” says he, “is to reduce the world to a single world, and to put an end to all national rights before a national front such as this they have no further ambitions.

Furthermore, he pointed out that the Russian people are friendly and loyal toward Americans than toward any other country. This consonance rises from their admiration and respect for American industrial achievements, as many Americans engineered the Russian factories and industries. This is Stalin’s industrial ambitions began to be fact.

Dr. Dadourian also outlined the political setup of the Soviet Union. He stated that the nation is a single state, no separate states, each with its own culture, language, and literature. In fact, as he further showed, there is between 100 and 200 different racial

The Pipes Dreamt Up

San Francisco

The Pipes will soon appear on one of the campuses of the three clubs uniting as sponsors with the meeting open to hear the strains of mellowing their activities. Mutual problems such as membership, publicity, and arrangements of music is done by Bob Wadlow, alumni secretary. Its enthusiastic fans are by no means limited to the student body. One night not long ago as they were singing under the arch near the post office, who should come running up but Prexy complete with the portable metal drive at the college. The pipes are said to have been worked out outside the Chapel, to accommodate the members and guests. The society under the auspices of the International Relations Club has been organized, the Trinity Yacht Club has again become active. The Seabury Society, the International Relations Program Committee and Rifle Club seem to be heading for active and successful seasons. We commend these organizations on the fine work they are doing.

However, we feel that an inter-organization council of some sort would involve relations between these groups and coordinate their activities. Mutual problems such as membership, publicity and conflicts in time and place of meetings could be worked out together. For example, if one organization should have a meeting, another might be scheduled in its place, and both would be strengthened and more interest would be aroused and maintained. An integrated program could be drawn up at the begin-ning for a council. Such an organization would enable speakers could be brought before the student body under the auspices of this inter-organization council. For instance, the Debat ing Society undertakes to contest on some aspect of the war, a prominent speaker on the subject would be invited to the Political Science Club and the International Relations Club as well. These three clubs uniting as sponsors with the meeting open to the student body and the general public should produce an audience that is more an activity group than an organization and maintain a higher standard for the admission of members. For instance, the new officers of the French Club in the course of their term in office.

The executive committee of the directors of the Nursing School has recently appointed Dr. Ogilvy chairman of the committee in charge of the director of nursing. Dr. Ogilvy has been a director of the Hartford Hospital since 1931. In his new position he has the responsibility of maintaining a high standard of training for the many applicants for graduate and undergraduate work. In addition, he is expected to hold the position of the Personnel department. The recent growth of the hospital and the new building partly completed are a direct result of the increase in the membership of the Army and Navy have added much to the vital importance of the school, to finance the addition of a new building, and for scholarship aid this year. WEATHER DEPARTMENT:

How Northam embarks...With a cold New England winter on its way, it looks like those Northern fires are here to stay. And it looks like the Northerners are going to be dressed for the occasion. They will need to be dressed in layers, as the temperature will drop further. The temperature will be in the low 30s, with a high of 40 degrees. It's going to be a cold day, so make sure to bundle up.
