Morris Frank Talks On Seeing-Eye Dogs

On Monday evening December 3, the Cook dining hall was the scene of a most interesting and instructive lecture by Mr. Morris S. Frank, President of the Seeing Eye Foundation of America. Mr. Frank's talk was followed by a sound film depicting the training of blind people and their dogs at Morristown, Pa. After Frank answered many questions of the enthusiastic audience.

RADIO CLUB WILL PRESENT LECTURES

The recently received Trinity College Radio Club announces a series of twelve lectures on radio theory. The series is designed to prepare club members for the FCC examinations to be given here in March.

The first two lectures are to be given by Mr. Bradley, technical advisor for the American Radio Relay League. The lectures will be of special interest to all prospective radio amateurs and electronic students. However, invitations are extended to all members of the student body whether or not they wish to join the club. The time and place of all lectures will be posted on the bulletin board.

In addition to the lecture series, the club is planning a code class to be held immediately following each lecture. The purpose of the club is to stimulate and cultivate an active interest in amateur radio on the part of the student body.

Medusa Makes Chapel Rating; Elects Officers

At a recent meeting of the Medusa, Jack Tyler was elected President of the society, and John Fink was elected Secretary-Treasurer. It was also decided that coeds and ties would be compulsory for those in attendance at Wednesday Chapel and that ties should be worn to all Chapel services.

C. D. Salmon Added To Philosophy Dept.

Prof. Salmon is from London, England; Will Arrive in U. S. Dec. 29

Christopher D. Salmon of London, England, the latest addition to the Trinity College philosophy department, Dr. Salmon will arrive in the United States on December 29. He is sailing on the SS Washington from Shanghai.

Dr. Salmon is a graduate of Harrow School and Balliol College, Oxford University. His graduate training included a one-year fellowship at Princeton University in New Jersey, and a position as assistant, which was called the Fellowship of the Seeing Eye Foundation of America. He received his B.A. in philosophy while studying under Edmund Husserl, founder of Aesthetics. He then taught at Queens University, Belfast, Ireland, and, later, at Bristol University in England.

During the war, he was a Director of the British Committee on the Temporary Disposal of American Property Corporation, and, according to Mr. Cooper who knew him quite well in London, he was involved in work on "blood." Mr. Cooper also said that Dr. Salmon was the "center of a very interesting intellectual group in London." Dr. Salmon's interests are not restricted to philosophy, but range over an authority on art and music. His wife is an authority on art and music.

Dr. Salmon will spend the Christmas holidays with friends in New York, after which he will return to tutor at the American Philosophy Association meetings at Yale. He will begin teaching at Trinity next term. The courses he will teach are in aesthetics, Logic, and Soviet Philosophy.

Meet Your Faculty...

The History Department received several additions this past September, including Roger Shaw, formerly an instructor in WNTC, VOW, and WOR.

Dr. Shaw received his A.B. from Johns Hopkins in 1925, A.M. from Columbia U., in 1925, B.L.B. from Rollins College in 1945, and Ph.D. from Fordham U. this year—1946. He is the foreign editor of Review of Reviews, 1932-57. He was a member of United China Relief, 1941; Eastern Aircraft, 1932; National Association of Manufacturers, 1942; Chairman of Hastings War Council; and a member of the Council on Religious Rights and Minorities.

He is also a member of the Society of Military Engineers, S.A.B., and a Texas Centennial Ranger, 1936.

Dr. Shaw, who is one of the many members of the faculty whose name begins with a "W", who is a specialist in the fields of government and foreign policy, is the author of Handbook of Revolution, 1942, 1944, 1954, 1956, 1958, 1977 Bottles, 1979; Marx Machos On, 1941; and many political articles for the New York Times International, European and American magazines.

Dr. Shaw, who is also one of the many members of the history department whose name begins with a "W" and who is a specialist in the fields of government and foreign policy, is the author of Handbook of Revolution, 1942, 1944, 1954, 1960, 1968; Bottles, 1979; Marx Machos On, 1941; and many political articles for the New York Times International, European and American magazines.

The London Naval Conference of 1945, just to be released by the publishers.

Dr. Arthur Adams, Trinity Librarian, came to Trinity in 1906 from the University of Leeds, England, where he was Professor of English. He attained the rank of Professor at Trinity in 1915. Dr. Adams received his A.B. from Rutgers in 1902 and 1903, respectively. He was also a member of the Royal Society of Literature (England) in 1940, a member of the American Philosophical Association, and a member of the Connecticut Historical Society.

Dr. Adams is also a member of the University of London and President of the American Society of Genealogists.

Donald Phelps, who is a member of the British Royal Institute of Chemistry and the Connecticut Historical Society.

Meeting at Chicago

On Dec. 28-30; Plan to Form Student Union

Ted Lockwood has been elected to represent the student body at the Nativar College, which is to be held in Chicago on December 28-30. The meeting of this conference of representatives from nearly every major college and university in the country will have a broad range of interest, and it is expected to be attended by a large number of students. It is expected that some of the topics to be discussed will be the possibility of forming a National Student Union and of the ways in which it might be organized.

The conference will be divided into three sessions. The first session will be devoted to the study of the American Student Organization. The second session will be devoted to the study of the American Student Organization. The third session will be devoted to the study of the American Student Organization.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The constitution of the Trinity College Senate in Article II, Section 2, that "Each fraternity, the campus stores, and the campus newspaper shall nominate two juniors from among their respective groups or, before the first Thursday in December, shall propose other candidates," does not seem to fit the expressed purpose of this section covering several contentious issues, but there is no machinery set up for the nomination of candidates for special elections to fill any vacancies or even for the regular elections.

A vacancy has not been created, but if there is one there have been no offers of campus personnel. For lack of a better method of filling the office a man was appointed by a member of the Senate, and that man could be anyone who did not fit the expressed purpose of the Senate's consulting the student body as a whole. The voting on prepared ballots with a check-off of three candidates and not two is essential in these elections.

This procedure I have outlined has not been studied in its relation to all aspects of college elections. I predict that in the near future the Senate or the campus store or any one of the others will be forced to create a position or to use the machinery for the nomination of candidates for Senate representatives.

Sincerely,

George L. Smith

Trinity Benefits

Trinity benefits have innumerable advantages from the depository privilege. In the document section of the library there can be found the 18,000 volumes of the "Congressional Set", which contain in its classification, any government activity's from its inception to this very day. The files for the Congress, Supreme Court, and the House contain the almost verbatim record of the House and Senate and the United States Code carry the laws of the land as it was validated at the time of the first session of the present Congress and as it is in force today. The detailed federal regulations in the "Federal Register", which contain the most extensive informational publications of the executive branch of the national government, are particularly useful part of the depository advantage. The Library of Congress, Federal Works, and Federal loan agencies and their subdivisions as well as the many governmental agencies, such as the NRIR, RFC, and a host of other publications contain a mass of information.

Trinity Student, which appears daily in similar format to the edition of the Congressional Record, contains the most recent governmental pronouncements and executive orders, and the increasingly important orders, regulations, and decisions of the executive agencies. Much of this material is hard to find elsewhere due to Regulations, also on the Library shelf.

Trinity Library Archive

So extensive is the information made available that a "Congressional Set" is almost essential to any government depository that to cite all the benefits would only force the exclusion of countless others of equal importance. Despite this, however, that government publications are equivalent in scope and coverage to any of your Library and receive very little interest and activities of the Federal Government in all its branches. This makes familiarity with the government itself essential to effective use of its documents.

At Trinity most government publications are available in the public catalog card. The library has a complete one of the few states which the Superintendent of Documents has prepared. These must be used for any desired information. Students are urged to consult with the Student Librarian when need of information to be found in public documents.

Librarians of many books

By Dr. Nellie Sonne

The library here recently announced, with just pride, that it is now again a depository library for publications of the United States government. A depository library, however, has had this distinction for more than a century.

A "depository" library receives from the Superintendent of Documents on free and automatic distribution, one copy (with a few exceptions) of all government publications. This is an act of the federal government. This system has been in existence since 1860 and has taken its present form in 1956. Some libraries, like Trinity, choose to "wear the crown" and receive only the publications of interest to their students.

Trinity College, with its age and its ability to draw in the publications that its students are interested in, excellent choice for a depository library.

Question: What Type of Programs Do You Want to Hear on Trinity Broadcasts?

Harold Bernstein, recently appointed Director of the Division of educational problems affecting the present generation of educational trends here and in other schools.

Bert Zeraa: "So far they've been politics." - Bob Wilson. "I like drama and musical programs. but there's not enough time to cover forum, politics, and the like in one day."

Dick Allerter:"I want a nice student program—one they want to do it. No quiz shows, no soap operas. Also it would be nice to hear a five-minute sports summary round Trinity team."

Ed Schwartz: "Just one thing. they're going to have speakers let's have good ones."

Trenton Telecaster: "I like the Pipe, and the discussion programs are pretty good, too."

Karl Bredero: "I think the Pipe is about as good as anything we have. I'd like to hear a forum of faculty members discuss current events."

Pete Stokes: "I think one or two students should be invited to important extra-curricular events at the College, especially lecturers and a readers."

Chuck Wiltinburg: "I like current event discussions by both faculty and students. Some kind of a regular and dependable table style would be beneficial to the discussion people and the body of Hartford."

Ed Anton: "I like the kind they're giving now but I would like to hear more from the Pipes and more from faculty members."

John Gannon: "I think the Pipe should definitely be included in the program. Also talk more of the faculty members on various interests."

Charlie Riley: "I like the Pipes but I would like to have talks of current interest given by members of the College faculty."

MUSICAL NOTES

By George Stover

The second event of the Bushnell Concert Series took place last week when the National Symphony Orchestra under Hans Knieder played in this city. The main feature was Schubert's "Oberon," which should be sponsored by an authoritarian stamp. Dr. Knieder is a business-like leader who indubitably in his flamboyant displays of showmanship.

The soloist was Sascha Gordonlinski, who played Rachmaninoff's Concerto No. 2, that composition which has so recently been "glorified" by the Hollywood treatment. It was good to hear it the proper context without the cinema flourish. Gordonlinski played it with the proper dynamic treatment throughout and encompassed its technical difficulties. The entire program was distinctly popular in accent. Included were the Symphony No. 88 of Haydn, the Concerto Grosso in D Minor of Bach (arranged for horn), the first movement of Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 2, and the Prelude to Die Meisteringer by Wagner. It was a very popular concert. In short, the Second Act of Tristan, "Truama," which was the individual highlight of the evening. It was performed with such expressiveness of tone shading that a succeeding number would have been absolute climax. It was orchestra playing of the highest order.

Squash Squash Faces Stiff Competition

The Swimming Pool building has really been buzzing with activity. The Trinity tennis team has been put on by Joe Clarke's human fish. The Trinity squash team has been put for about three months now with more than twenty top-flight competitors out for the squad, and Curt Jaros expects to have a well-balanced side when the time of the first match (Jan. 11, with Williams) arrives around.

Some of the outstanding players are: P. Borden, last year's champ, K. Ealey, R. Tolland, D. Makel, and L. Hillyer. There are also some unknowns, but J. Griger, perhaps the most promising candidate of all, is a freshman. In this year's intra-squad tournament, Borden is again on top, but Hillyer is giving him a run for his money. Weissfuss, another standout who is just recovering from an appendectomy, are seriously challenging his lead.

Squash, a game somewhat similar to handball, but much faster and played with raquets, has been a great success. In Williams, this season's schedule includes Wesleyan, Yale, Taft, Amherst, and Army.

Nick Nelson Plays on All-Star Soccer Team

Nick Nelson, who was outstanding fullback for the Yale team in the early part of the season, was selected to play against the Jayvees against Williams, without the presence of any other bunch of all-star material. On this day Nelson's program was to be posted soon.

Before the final whistle was blown, a ball shot made it two. At this stage the visitors were in control of the game, although the home team were in the lead 28 to 17, but the with a 23-to-17 halftime advantage.
